Air Training Camp in Sidney Game Reserve by Order-in-Council

Thousand Acre Camp one Huge Game Reserve

REASON GIVEN

Ranges and Targets Will be Set Up in Camp Shortly

Owing to the Air Training Camp in Sidney Township being owned by the National Defense Department, no shooting with private firearms will be allowed on the 1000 acres, the extent of this training base, according to Irvine J. Lyons, inspector of Game and Fisheries in this district. When instructors and mechanics are moved from Camp Borden to the base in the immediate future, the rifle ranges and targets will be arranged in this land and no one will be allowed on the property unless through permission of the commandant. Morton's Island in the bay, the seaplane base, is included in the reserve.

The Minister of National Defense, who controls the property for the Dominion gft Canada, had to apply to the Provincial Minister of Game and Fisheries, asking that the training base be made a game reserve and that request has been complied with and an order-in-council passed.

MAY LOSE LICENSE

William L. Hanson (above), pilot of the ill-fated Halifax to Boston air liner which ran in to grief off Gloucester, Mass., during a heavy fog, may, despite his heroism in saving the lives of his passengers, lose his flying license. Officials declare that he should not have flown into the dense fog bank that blanketed the coast at the time of the accident.

British Film Preference Progress in Canada

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 5.—(By The Canadian Press)—"I feel that the proposed legislation by Great Britain theatres which refuse to show Empire films would have a salutary effect upon such anti-British exhibitors and that once this Canadian public is given an opportunity to enjoy the many splendid films now being produced in British studios, the success of British films throughout the Dominion is assured," said F. S. Revell, Canadian representative for British International Pictures, commenting upon a resolution passed by the British Empire Service League here. The resolution urged constitution representations to "take such steps as may be possible to persuade all theatres in Canada and parts of the British Empire to give preference to films made within the Empire."

Will Show Jersey at Royal Winter Fair

J. T. Drope of Hastings, owner of Sign's Gay Smile, the fine Jersey heifer which carried off the junior championship at the recent winner of the chief award for best yearling heifer at Belleville Fair, stated before he left the grounds last evening for his home in Hastings that he was going to show this animal at the Royal Winter Fair. Sign's Gay Smile was in the same stall with two other cows of championship class, the three having been bred by Ferndell Jersey Island.

While Sign's Gay were at the Fair for the first time this year, the great beef class, known as Herford.

Tomato Growers Hear Expert on Fertilizer

A tomato growers' meeting was held at the home of Mr. A. E. Thrasher, Belleville, on Thursday afternoon. The attendance was disappointing due to the rush of tomato and corn picking at this time. An instructive programme on tomato experiment observations was conducted by Dr. Hamilton of Guelph. In his remarks he analyzed the fertilizer mixture and stated that the fertilizer influenced the early ripening of the Thrasher crop, and practically all plots where fertilizers were used there was an increased in the weight of the fruit picked tomatoes. Small evidence was shown of increased blossom end as there was an increase of leathercoat on the entire planting and the blights and molds were fairly uniform throughout. Plant diseases were not evidenced to any extent due to the dry weather.

Professor Hamilton has conducted a series of demonstrations throughout the area of the district this season and finds that growers are keenly interested in a thorough knowledge of problems relating to tomato culture.

HAS BREWING LICENCE

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 5 (CP)—His liquor permit cancelled by provincial government, suspended a year ago, Joseph Roswell of Brantford promptly secured a Dominion license for brewing. Plant was raided on a charge of illegal possession of liquor. Roswell admitted he had no beer in his possession, but declared he was within his legal rights. Magistrate Blake reserved judgment until Wednesday.

FAIR IS OVER BUT MEMORY LINGERS ON

Attendance Falls off This Year but Board Satisfied

FINAL DAY'S SHOW

Fairly Large Crowd at Exhibition Friday Evening

Belleville Fair is over for the year 1931. It was a good fair and much credit is due to the officers, directors and all workers who assisted in its pre-ration. Unfortunately the weather was not favorable and prevented the realization of as full success as hoped for. However, progress has been made and everything gained which will serve to assist greatly in bringing future fairs up to the standard of excellence and success; which is the aim of the officials and men and women who give generously of their time and ability in this public service.

The attendance was not what it should have been, thanks to the unruly elements which washed out every afternoon, but on the two days that there was a lower gate for those days the gate had been expected.

But the psychological effect of excellent exhibits was such as to give promise of the best fairs to be held in this district.

Last night the program ended with a bang. The fireworks display and the grandstand for the performance, drawing a large crowd to crowds though lesser than some years ago was fairly large.

Much of the stock was removed from the grounds early last evening.

The Belleville fair is "worth while" institution, it creates a desire to excell in a friendly rivalry and is the line of endeavour to which one is directed. The management of which involves much arduous work and diligence on the part of the exhibitors. All can join with the Intelligencer when they who do not do so, however, do not go unrewarded for they have within themselves a feeling of satisfaction in knowing that they have improved on former efforts—that they have advanced.

This knowledge urges one on—creates a deeper interest and determination to excell—urges one to that pinnacle of perfection where success must be acknowledged and rewarded. All this creates for one's own work and a work one loves brings happiness.

Those who visit a fair should derive from it a measure of amusement. It is quite right and natural that a good time should be had; at the same time, however, some benefit should be obtained. The majority of people saunter aimlessly through the buildings, gaze at the stock, at home and cattle stalls. They remark that this is pretty and that is pretty and attractive and that the five piece band is beautiful, but very few stop to examine and ask questions. If they did a great deal would be surprised how interested they would become and the information obtained would assist them. All the exhibitors are interested and glad to impart information. "Knowledge is power" and you can get a lot of it at any Fall Fair.

KAYE DON AND GAR WOOD TO MAKE RECORD

Don Challenger Hopes to Lift America Cup

WOOD'S RECORD

Don Faces Big Odds in Race for World Speed

By DAVID J. WILKIE,

(International Press Staff Writer)

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 5.—Injury, mechanical trouble, or other mishaps common to such contests, will not daunt Kaye Don and his speed boat racing will be set up late today when Kaye Don and Gar Wood meet in the first heat of the seven-heat series for the Harmsworth Trophy race.

Don, British challenger, and Wood, who has held the trophy for more than a decade, have driven their hydroplanes, Miss England II and Miss America IX, respectively, at more than 100 miles an hour in straightaway trials. The gourd shaped Harmsworth Course, laid out in the Detroit River, probably will not permit a hundred miles pace, but last year's record for the Harmsworth worth of 77.390 miles an hour is considered certain to fall in the first thirty mile heat this afternoon.

Although Don is regarded as the most formidable opponent ever to face Wood in Harmsworth Competition, and has become extremely popular during the fortnight he has been preparing for the race, he faces big odds in his task today. Don has driven his boat 110.232 miles an hour while Wood has attained more than 103 miles with his Miss America IX. Wood claims, however, that a solitude of the war officer toward Mukden had suddenly stiffened and that the Japanese authorities had demanded a more satisfactory explanation. The war office countered that Nakamura was shot by a firing squad of Chinese soldiers, along with another Japanese, a Mongolian and a Russian, as spies. The Japanese assert the three men were engaged in map making expedition and had certificates issued by Chinese authorities permitting them to travel in Manchuria and Mongolia.

Here is a general view of the scene in which the Prime Minister has his official residence, to see what would develop following the downfall of the British Labor Government. When Ramsay Macdonald left No. 10 Downing Street, London, for Buckingham Palace, to confer with King George about the forma tion of the National Emergency Government, he was enthusiastically cheered by the great throng.

Cheerfulness No Cure for Slump Says Woman M. P.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 5.—(By The Canadian Press)—A lack of honesty is the great enemy of public preparedness, declared Agnes MacPhail, M.P., addressing the luncheon of the Citizenship Committee of the National Council of Women at the Canadian National Exhibition. Miss MacPhail made a feeling of responsibility and integrity of citizenship. "The amount of knowledge needed in citizenship at the present day frightens me," she declared. Not only Government servants, but the public expected to get more and give less than was honest in dealing with public organizations.

"We are not going to solve our problems today by new, very new, even startling methods," she said. "Cheerfulness will not cure our present depression."

NAUTILUS IS SAFE IN NORTH

Communication Established With Station at Tromsoe

Oslo, Norway, Sept. 5 (AP)—Somewhere within the Arctic circle the adventurous submarine Nautilus was safe and sound today after five days of anxious silence.

Sir Hubert Wilkin's radio operator in charge of the radio communication station at Tromsoe yesterday and they "talked" for 20 minutes. The Commander of the expedition reported that all aboard were well and sent greetings and assurance to his friends.

The Tromsoe radio station and the sloop Fridtjof Nansen also established communication with the submersible but none received any intimation of its position. It was believed to be laying in Eckmenn Bay off the Island of Spitzbergen.

Edmund R. Tate Dies Of Revolver Wound

Lakefield Business Man, Despondent Ends His Life With Shot

Peterboro, Sept. 5.—With a bullet wound in his head, Edmund R. Tate prominent Lakefield business man, was found dead in his home in that village Friday morning shortly after 9 o'clock. Mr. Tate is reported to have been despondent for some time past, and made a surprise to find his wife that he was ill. The shooting occurred in the bedroom while the rest of the family was downstairs. Dr. J. R. Fraser was summoned, but death was practically instantaneously. The weapon used was a revolver. Coroner Smith stated this afternoon that no inquest would be held. Through his connection with the Lakefield Canoe Company and other business interests, Mr. Tate was well known throughout the district of Lakefield and Peterboro. He was Secretary-Treasurer of the Hydro-Electric System in Lakefield. His widow and two children survive.

COASTGUARDS SEIZE CRAFT

Gunfire Kills One of Crew of Speed-boat

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 5 (AP)—One man was killed, four others were wounded and a 65-foot speedboat carrying four hundred cases of liquor were seized early today by coast guardsmen following a chase just outside Gloucester harbor.

The victim, Joseph Mello, 39, of 70 Bedford street, was in the boat when several shots were fired at the fleeing rum boat, the Laughing Lena, coast guard picket boat No. 2394, commanded by boat swain's mate Roy Fitzgerald.

Coast guardsmen boarded the craft, arrested the crew and landed Mello in a serious condition, set out at once for shore.

Entertain at Waring's Corners for Visitors

A happy party was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Parks, 'Warning's Corners, Monday evening, Aug. 24th in honor of the aunt of the hostess, Mrs. Hannah Sheahan of Wainorth, N.Y. and Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Booth and their sons Harold and Clarence, Mrs. Alma G. Wallace and daughter Dorothy of Tweed, Mrs. Ella Parks, Mrs. Clare Vanskiver, Bloomfield, Mrs. Ernest Parks, Mr. Carman Burr and the Misses Maguerite and Edna Anderson of Picton. The evening was spent in visiting. Instrumental and vocal music was enjoyed and an interesting feature of this gathering was the fact of there being two groups of four generations.

Human Bones Unearthed Under Kingston Church

Kingston, Sept. 5.—While excavating under Bethel Church to make room for the installation of a furnace, W. Lomax and G. Wilson discovered the skeleton of a human being, which apparently had been buried more than fifty years. Two skulls were unearthed close by. Before the church was built the site was used as a burying ground, but it was believed that all bodies had been removed years ago. The skeleton was under about six feet of ground. The men also found a bullet which indicated that a person had been buried 82 years ago. Coroner R. J. Merdther was notified of the discovery.

SAYS JUNGLES ARE MENACE

Vancouver Fears Typhoid Epidemic Among Unemployed

Vancouver, Sept. 5.—The "jungle" centres in Vancouver, where more than 1,000 jobless men live in dilapidated shacks, tents and other shelters, constitute a grave typhoid danger to the city, according to a warning issued today by the commissioner of the city council in a report by Dr. A. E. Macdonald, city health department medical officer. He recommended that the "jungles" be closed immediately.

From one of the city jungles, one man is dead, one has taken to hospital for typhoid observation and an other suffering from an acute ruptured abdominal trouble.

The Vancouver situation was on Thursday night described in a telegram from Adj. W. C. Ambrose, relief committee chairman, to Hon. Gideon Robertson, Federal Labor Minister.

The telegram said: "One thousand men in the city jungles. Demand dead this morning and another new arrival sent to hospital with possible typhoid. Medical officer states epidemic possible. Services of Dominion Government in failing to control transients by not playing decisions (on relief policy) has paralyzed municipalities. Immediate action requested."

On Thursday, Relief Officer H. W. Cooper, with Dr. S. D. Kirkpatrick of the department's medical officer, made a tour of the jungles. Dr. McDonald's report said the "grounds were filthy and covered with decaying garbage. Flies swarm over everything and then on all open food. I consider the danger of disease imminent approaching we are in grave danger of an epidemic of typhoid or some disease."

Relief Officer Cooper says relief arrears "have so piled up that many taxpayers are penalized."

Bruce B. Eastland Stricken in Trenton

Commercial Traveller is Found Dead in His Room

Bruce B. Eastland, traveller for the Canada Starch Company, of Toronto, and son-in-law of Alfred Cuddy, Assistant Commissioner of Canals, Ottawa, died suddenly yesterday at a Trenton hotel, where he had spent the night. He left Toronto on Monday, Ottawa, Ont., for Trenton, and was then in apparent good health. Yesterday morning employees of the hotel sent him word through his room, but he was unwell. Three hours later he was found dead in his room. Assistant Commissioner Cuddy journeyed to Trenton and brought the remains to his home here at 7 Conrad Crescent. Mr. Eastland left Toronto ago to Olive Cuddy. The funeral will be from the residence of Mr. Assistant Commissioner Cuddy, to St. James' Cemetery.

U.S. CONCESSIONS

Dino Grandi Declares No Advantage Must Be Allowed

Geneva, Sept. 5.—Dino Grandi, Foreign Minister of Italy, declared before the Council of the League of Nations Friday, that the principle of economic equality for all nations should prevail when Irak ceases its expected emancipation from British mandatory control.

The Council was considering recommendations that the Permanent Mandates Commission, covering conditions under which mandated territory might gain state-hood.

When Irak becomes a Sovereign State, Signor Grandi said, it must be with full recognition of the principle of reciprocity of treaties and the open door. There must be no special advantage, economically or politically, for the power that has been in control, he declared.

The Italian Foreign Minister's concern was understood to result from petroleum interests in Irak now enjoyed by Great Britain and the United States.

The Council heard Dr. Johann Schober, Austrian Foreign Minister, present his nation's request for financial help and referred the matter to the Council's financial committee, which is now sitting.

The delicate question of Poland's treatment of her German minorities was brought up by the Polish minister in the last two council sessions, was postponed until tomorrow's session, when a report embodying recommendations for economic relief.

F. H. ARMITAGE UNDER ARREST

Will Be Brought to Belleville to Face Charge Here

F. H. Armitage, residing at 286 George Street, Belleville, who has been engaged in the brokerage business here for some time, was arrested by Toronto Police Friday by Inspector Stringer of Criminal Investigation Department on information received from Belleville police. Detective Sergt. Ellis of Toronto Provincial Police, where a warrant is held for his arrest. The charge preferred against Armitage is the alleged theft of bonds and mortgages to the amount of $12 and $312 from a resident of Rawdon Township, which he converted into cash.

This action has been taken under the authority of the Security Frauds Prevention Act, passed at the present session by the Ontario Legislature, which gives a voluntary mobilization of Canada's man-power. It is the present state of affairs and concurs with the opinion of the Federated Canada opposed to revolutionary preachments.

BRICKLAYERS SLASH WAGES TO GIVE JOBS

Labor Chiefs at Ottawa Warn Against Reduction

MOORE'S MESSAGE

"Time for Courageous Spending," Says President

Toronto, Sept. 5.—Accepting the "friendly challenge" of financiers, Toronto bricklayers have agreed to accept a wage cut of 25 cents an hour, effective next week to take effect from September 9, 1931, until December 31, 1932. This means that bricklayers, working full time will sacrifice $15.40 a week.

The decision was announced in a round last night by officers of the Builders' Exchange: "At a well-attended meeting of the members of the Toronto Builders' Exchange and the representatives of the Association of the city of Toronto, and the representative of the International Bricklayers' and Masons' Unions, Nos. 2 and 36, who form the arbitration committee to settle all matters pertaining to the conditions of the trade, it was decided as follows:

"It was mutually agreed after an open discussion that it is an endeavor to stimulate construction work, a reduction in working hours and wages was paramount.

An agreement was therefore entered into that the trade was concerned for a five-day week with wages at $1.10 per hour. This agreement to take effect on Sept. 9, 1931, and to extend to Dec. 31, 1932."

The statement was signed by George Chandler, secretary of the Builders' Exchange, and Bailey Secretary of the Bricklayers'-Union and T. W. Price, secretary of the General Contractors' Association of Toronto.

Previously bricklayers had been working 8 hours a week at $1.20 an hour. On and after September 9th, they will work a 40 hour week at $1.10 an hour. There are approximately 500 bricklayers now at work in Toronto. The new agreement will result in 2,000 more working hours per week available to unemployed bricklayers.

Labor's View

Ottawa, Sept. 5.—On the eve of Canada's annual day of demonstration, three of Canada's foremost leaders in the Trades Union movement, Tom Moore, issued a warning of great moment.

Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, formally declared that the present is a time for "courageous spending" and not "timid retrenchment." Mr. Moore's address is obviously threatens the whole social structure.

F. M. Draper, secretary of the Canadian Labor Congress, launches a measured warning against the machinations of Communists upon Labor organizations.

A. R. Mosher, president of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor, sounds a voluntary mobilization of Canada's man-power. It is the present state of affairs and concurs with the opinion of the Federated Canada opposed to revolutionary preachments.

O.S.D. PUPIL IS INJURED

Brantford, Sept. 5—One boy was instantly killed and another lies in the hospital in a serious condition as a result of being struck by railway trains within a few minutes of each other in different sections of the city. The accidents which occurred less than two hours after seven boys made their appearance in police court for trespassing on railway tracks.

Reginald Raynor, 12, was instantly killed; the other, Stanley Powell, pupil of the Ontario School for the Deaf at Belleville is in a critical condition.

Powell was hit by a freight train while walking on the C.N.R. tracks near St. Paul's Ave., while Raynor was walking on the T. H. and B. tracks in West Brantford. His chums stepped aside to allow a gasoline electric car to go by and the boy attempted to make the level crossing and was instantly killed by the car which carried him 75 yards.

The seven youths who appeared in Paris police court were caught while attempting to board freight trains. They were fined $10 and costs or fifteen days.

Earthquake Shocks Felt in Italian Towns

Florence, Italy, Sept. 5 (AP)—Three earthquake shocks early today toppled chimneys and cracked walls in several villages and drove an alarmed population into the streets between Rome and Bologna thirty-five miles away.

The damage reportedly was slight and no casualties were reported but a feeling of shake was felt in many smaller towns. Neither Florence nor Bologna suffered and few people were aware of the shocks.

Watch Attitude of British Labor

(By Thos. T. Champion)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 3.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The meeting of the Trades Union Congress at Bristol next week may very possibly have a profound effect on the attitude of the official opposition towards the present National Government, when Parliament reassembles.

The first reaction of the crisis were heard when the late Labor Government took contact with the T.U.C., and found it was fruitless to expect him to agree to cuts in unemployment benefits and in kindred social services.

Unknown Man Falls Under Freight Wheels

Woodstock, Ont., Sept. 5— An unidentified man met death sometime during the night, under the wheels of a freight train in the C.P.R. yards at Thamesford.

The remains are those of a young man not more than 25 years of age, the hands are soft and free from indications of hard work. The discovery of the body was made by a trainman.

PURCHASE OF HOME GOODS SEEN AS CURE

President of Manufacturers Addresses C.N.E. Luncheon

HIS CONTENTION

Deals With Relief of Present Situation Of Unemployment

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 5.—(By The Canadian Press)—The important part played in restoring Canadian prosperity by observance of the principle of buying goods made in Canada was emphasized by W. H. Moore, Granby, Quebec, President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, when he addressed the luncheon meeting of directors of the Canadian National Exhibition today. The day was designated as Manufacturers' Day at the great fair.

"I firmly believe," Mr. Miner said, "that if everybody in this country will buy those goods produced in Canada principle a little more carefully in his or her buying for the next few months, Canadian production would receive such a stimulus that the unemployed portion of our population would be considerably reduced.

"It does not simply affect the factories producing the goods. It works back to the supply of raw materials; it stimulates the demand for farm products; it brings more traffic to the transportation companies; it gives work to machine shops and to garages. It stimulates retail trade—it affects all aspects of business life."

Mr. Miner paid tribute to the directors for their efforts to make the 1931 exhibition the biggest and best yet.

"Wherever you turn in these spacious grounds there is constructive thought, a forward look, a progressive outlook. The crowds of this atmosphere is in my opinion one of the most valuable contributions which has yet been made to that effort which we are all trying to put into effect in the entire realm of business around and set it climbing back to full tide.

Returning to the "Produced-in-Canada" question, Mr. Miner said that when the Canadian Manufacturers' Association some years ago first advocated the buying of products of Canadian industries, the movement was regarded as a sentiment to foist inferior goods on the consumer under the guise of patriotism. But Canada now was producing goods as excellent as those made anywhere abroad.

He declared the policy of giving a decided preference in buying to Canadian products had made substantial progress. Governments, federal, Provincial and Municipal, Public Utilities Corporations and many other large institutions had laid definite policies in this direction on the subject. "You will find that very few orders for goods from these sources are placed outside Canada," he concluded. "That is a great achievement and it is largely the result of the persistent hammering away during the long period of years that has been carried on by the advocates of the Produced-in-Canada policy."

DANCES, MUSIC VERY PLEASING

Fair Vaudeville Acts Applauded by Spectators

Belleville fair patrons were entertained by a superior brand of vaudeville during the four days of the fair. Weather conditions mitigated against a full performance on two nights on account of rain falling. Friday evening the grandstand performance was well received by a capacity crowd which jammed the grandstand. The performance this year was of the best that has been seen locally since the new fair grounds have been opened. Each number of the grandstand performance received many rounds of applause last evening by the patrons who enjoyed one of the finest lay-outs of vaudeville that ever was presented in Belleville. The show before the grandstand opened with a valse by Miss Esther Marsh's class. Esther Marsh has spent many hours in preparing the acts that appeared before the stands last evening. She introduced tap, fancy character, national and classical dances during the program, each one being brought many rounds of applause. The "valse" included seven girls and one boy. It was of the classical type and presented a picture that will long remain. Then followed a snappy little tot in the scene billed "snow baby" the smallness of the child brought many rounds of applause from the patrons. A tap dance by Miss Esther Marsh and Bruce May also was well received. A pretty little toe dance by Lorraine Lee followed and the "school days" skit with six of Esther Marsh's and Dalt Gilbert was one of the best seen on the program. This number presented a very pretty picture of a boy and a girl returning from school and was received by the chorus. The Hungarian Gypsy dance was excellent. Miss Constance Gilbert in the classical type and received many rounds of applause. The next scene of "Tip Toe Through the Tulips" with Doris Whitton was a very cute little number. Bruce May followed with a smart tap dance which was thoroughly applauded. The next act was perhaps one of the best seen during the performance. It was that of an acrobatic nature and was led by Georgia Scott and included Jean Whitton, Betty Gilbert and June Deline. The scene was well played and the arranged dancing of little Miss Scott was the best seen in the grandstand revue for a long while.

The final act of Miss Marsh's class was the Miss Belleville Waltz featuring 12 girls with hoops. The costumes included large and small hoops that were carried by the girls. It was a fine finish and on the part of Miss Marsh's pupils and the rounds of applause by the grandstand showed their appreciation.

The Great Lakes Booking Company followed with an aerial act by Billy and Margaret Faust. The act was all performed on the trapeze and was well received. The "Broadway Revivers," with a five piece orchestra, led by Miss Lois Van Dusen, was next in line and included the whole company. The "Four Boys from New York" was another and a comedy skit followed by the dance number entitled "On The Beach with Bill." Each act of the very best quality. Bob and Ecker Brown included large and comedy skit that included harmony singing and dancing. "Ted and Tony" then followed with a smart acrobatic number that also was well received. The "Redskin Indian Dance," by Jennie and a comedy bit carried on the programme and were followed by four girls in a tap dance entitled "Sing a Little Jingle." A musical act by Sullivan and Mack received hearty applause as did a comedy skit that followed. The grand finale that followed included the entire company and brought on the grandstand was brought to an end by a very fine display of fire-works by the Rand Company of Belleville Fair to an end. BAND TO PLAY HERE

The Commanding Officer and Officers of the 15th Argyll Infantry have arranged with the St. Hilda's English Band to visit Belleville and give a concert in the Armouries on the evening of September 24th. This band, which is composed of twenty-eight professional musicians was engaged to visit Canada especially as the leading musical attraction at the Toronto Exhibition.

WON DRAW

The drawing for the baby's crib tickets for which were sold during the fair by the Victorian Order of Nurses' Committee was made last night by Mr. R. E. Colling, a director of the Fair. The lucky number proved to be 126 and was held by Mr. John Bowman of Ontario Institute for the Deaf. The sale of tickets realized a satisfactory sum for Victorian Order work in the city.

ARM DRAWN INTO MACHINE

Mr. Frank Perril an employee at the marble quarry, Bancroft, met with a painful accident. He was engaged in supervising a sand pump when in some manner his right arm was drawn into the machine, with the result that he suffered a compound fracture. After being treated at the Red Cross hospital at Bancroft Mr. Perril was brought to the Belleville Hospital for an X-ray examination. At first it was feared that the arm would have to be amputated but fortunately such is not the case.

306 IDLE IN NORTH TOWNSHIP

Nearly three hundred unemployed were registered in the Townships of Faraday and Dungannon and the Village of Bancroft. In the latter municipality upwards of sixty were registered.

THE MARKET

Today's market was largely attended by the farmers of the local district with the merchandise. Although considerable farm products were offered at low prices, the van den could not seem to dispose of their wares. Eggs were offered at 18c a dozen, while butter sold at from 25 to 27c a pound. Melons both water and musk-melons, were sold at from 5c up according to the size. A fine assortment of green vegetables were shown and the citizens took advantage of the low prices. The fruit market was well represented with all kinds of farm fruit. Squash were likewise on the market for the first time this year and sold from 2c upwards according to the quality. Evergreen corn was in evidence and brought 25c for two dozen ears.

As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he: fortunately he seldom dares to do as he thinks.

RECALL MARNE 17 YEARS AGO

Sunday is Anniversary of France's First Great Victory

Meaux, France, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Seventeen years ago tomorrow Marshal Joffre's blue-clad men drove back the German invaders in what has come to be known as the First Battle of the Marne.

The anniversary of France's first great victory of the war will be celebrated here with full ecclesiastic and military pomp.

As in former years, delegations of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the British Legion and the French Veterans' Associations will be at the ceremonies. They will repair in the afternoon to the little cemetery at Barcy, where lie the first victims of the invasion.

The absence of one figure above all will be regretted by those present—that of "Papa" Joffre, victor of the Marne, who died early this year. At the same time that his triumph is being commemorated here, a delegation of his old comrades-in-arms will lay his country home at Louveciennes, outside Paris, and there lay laurel wreaths on his simple tomb.

Three Mayors to Judge At Deseronto Regatta

All is ready for the big regatta in Deseronto on Labor Day. The program is one of a very lengthy nature and includes twenty classes of in board motor boat races, entries coming from around the Quinte area. The canoe races that are billed have been filled to capacity and the officials expect very keen competition in all races. There are three big swims on the card including a women's, men's and open swim. The open swim over a mile course promises to be a big event as there are at present twelve entries, four of which are women. Charlie Schroeder, who swam in the C.N.E. swim is one of the entries. The officials have spend considerable time and ability in order that a fine programme will be shown to the public.

The officials are:

Commodore—E. C. Metcalfe.

Sec.-Treasurer—A. O. Clark.

Starter—W. D. Perry.

Judges — Mayor Reid, Belleville; Mayor Daley, Napanee; Mayor Boyce, Deseronto.

Race Program, Advertising — H. M. Moore, C. W. Malley, M. Detlor, J. McVicker.

WRESTLER IS BADLY MAULED

Vassel Threw Referee Twice Then Crowd Takes Part

Ottawa, Sept. 5.—Angered when George Vassel, huge Californian, lifted Referee Charlie Bamford high in the air and crashed him to the boards, hundreds of fans stormed the auditorium ring Friday night and tossed the wrestler around for 10 minutes before police rescued him.

The 316-pound Greek was badly mauled by the infuriated crowd. Several husky fans struck him in the face and body repeatedly but he was able to leave the ring protected by a flying wedge of police. He was escorted to his dressing room while the audience hurled invocations at his cauliflower-eared head. Later he was taken from the building.

Vassel's opponent, Count George Zarynoff, 198 pounder, was awarded the bout on a foul by Referee Bamford after the ring had been cleared. Previous to Vassel's outburst the Russian had won one fall, with an arm scissors and reverse wristlock in 17 minutes, and Vassel had taken the second with a body slam in 13 minutes.

Vassel had been warned several times during the bout for using rough tactics on the Russian nobleman, and Bamford, a 194-pound former wrestler, was forced several times to tear the Greek away from Zarynoff. Finally, as Bamford attempted to break them apart at the ropes, Vassel caught the referee by the waist and tossed him across the ring, returning to his attack on the now groggy count. Bamford rushed back to separate them.

Vassel again turned on the referee and, lifting him above his head, tossed him to the mat on his head and shoulders. The ring was filled in a few seconds and police, reinforced by a number of officers witnessing the bout in plain clothes, had to fight their protecting Vassel. Finally the crowd's anger cooled and it was possible to take Vassel away. Bamford, stunned at first, held that to his job, holding Vassel to the ropes after the crowd cleared out and raising Zarynoff's hand in victory.

Three Day Fiesta as Sir Henry's Son Weds German Baroness

Montreal, Que., Sept. 5 — A three day fiesta marked the marriage of James Thornton, son of Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, to the Baroness Elena Von Schwarzenstein, heiress of the Munum champagne millions, in Montreal—Munum, according to messages received here.

James Thornton is a former Montrealer, and has many friends here. Mrs. Thornton, first wife of the railway man and mother of the bridegroom, was present at the wedding.

The civil marriage took place in Frankfort on Thursday and the religious service took place today.

Following the civil ceremony, the bridal pair were led through the streets at the head of a procession flanked by torch bearers. Thousands cheered the pair as they drove through the streets, attended by bands of singers.

The entire town is on holiday for the nuptials. The famed cellars of the Munum family, Johannesberg castle, was the centre of festival scenes. Bands of hired entertainers performed almost continuously while the Frankfort folk danced. The wine cellar containing priceless champagnes and liquors of hoary vintage, were thrown open for the invasion.

WEDDINGS

NAFF—TORRANCE

St. Andrew's Church, lovely with autumn flowers, was the scene of a very pretty September wedding at two-thirty this afternoon when Miss Catharine Torrance, only daughter of Mrs. John T. Clark became the bride of Edwin Thompson Naff, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Naff of Cleveland, Ohio. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. J. A. Seymour, M.A., B.T.D., to the accompaniment of a large number of friends of the bride and groom.

Baskets of gladioli in pastel tones against a background of fern were used in the church decoration and the guest pews were marked with gladioli blossoms tied with white satin ribbons. The bride who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. John T. Clark, entered the church as the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" was played by Prof. H. Wheatley, Mus. Bac., A.R.C.O. She made a charming picture in her bridal gown of ivory satin, cut on long flowing lines, with bolero jacket trying in the back. Her hat of ivory baku was trimmed with a large spray of lilies, the favorite style of the bride having accentuated by a row of tiny pearls fastened at the brim. Her satin shoes and long ivory gloves completed the ensemble with which she wore the gift of the groom, a pearl necklace. The bride's attendant, a bosom of butterfly roses, lilies of the valley with white heather, came from Buffalo, her bridesmaid's mother, Mrs. Robert Duncan, who is visiting here.

Miss Margaret Pratt was maid of honour and she wore a lovely frock of pompire blue organdy chiffon, made with capelet, and full cut skirt, the wide hat of pink straw, pink moire shoes and pink lace mitteus were worn and the bouquets of the bride attendants were of Premier roses and delphiniums.

Miss Janet Duncan of Hamilton was bridesmaid and her frock was in Empress style of pink chiffon. The bows and shoulder straps of the dress were of blue velvet. Her hat was a picture model of pink lacefairs during the past week.

W. H. Clarke, Toledo, Ohio, Mr. Thompson will be accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Reeves.

Archie, Horace and James Daniel Donald Street, are visiting at Toronto Exhibition, Niagara Falls and Buffalo for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jordan of the Canadian National Railway staff left for Saskatoon, Sask., today to spend a holiday.

Mrs. N. Allen, Miss Rita Allen, Mr. A. P. Allen and Mr. Clement V. Allen motored to Stella, Amherst Island, Friday to be present at the funeral of Mrs. Allen's only brother, the late H. W. Preston, who died at Stella on Wednesday of this week. The late Mr. Preston was 76 years old and had resided on the old family homestead on Amherst Island all his life.

Mrs. Hector Grant, 89 Crier street and daughter Violet are leaving today for Montreal to spend the week-end with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harker of Ottawa are spending the holiday with the latter's mother, Mrs. Hurd, Dunbar street.

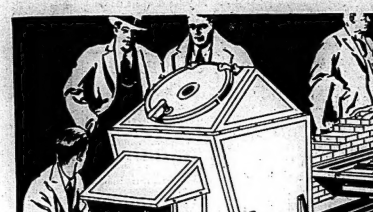
bridesmaid, who wore blue moire shoes and pink lace mitteus.

Mr. Harry LePan, Cleveland, was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. William Gilmour, Cleveland, and Tom Byrne, Camp Borden. Wedding music was rendered by Prof. Wheatley, Mendelssohn's wedding march being played as the bridal party left the church. Mrs. Wheatley sang very sweetly "Because" and "I Love You Truly" as signing of the register.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home Quinte. Mrs. John Clark received with the bride wearing a handsome gown of dove gray crêpe with satin finish, hat of beaut, mother of the groom, smartly arranged in African green and worn with hat of the same shade in linguise style, received with the bride and groom.

Miss Miss Mary Louise Naff, the groom's sister, wore a dainty frock of pale green chiffon over a pink slip, with a green felt hat and green shoes.

The groom's gift to the bride's attendants was a gold bracelet with topaz stones, and to the groomsman and ushers, gold cuff links.



Later, Mr. and Mrs. Naff left on a motoring trip by way of Montreal.

The bride chose for travelling an ensemble of navy blue and gray crepe, the dress was of printed silk and her grey travel tweed coat had scarf collar edged with navy. A small blue felt hat trimmed with feathers, navy gloves, shoes and bag were worn. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Naff will reside in Cleveland.

Out of town guests present at the wedding, besides the bridal attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Horace Marthers and son of Cleveland.

The bride who has been a popular member of Belleville's younger set was the recipient of many handsome gifts and has been the guest of honour at a number of pre-nuptial affairs of age.

THERE IS ONLY ONE Iron Fireman. The pre-eminent success of Iron Fireman is the result of a vast and unduplicated background of engineering research and laboratory studies in combustion.

The Iron Fireman record of performance is being demonstrated every day by thousands of satisfied owners. Their fuel cost records, carefully kept, show Iron Fireman savings of 15 to 50 per cent and more, in fuel costs alone. Their enthusiastic and voluntary testimony is convincing proof that Iron Fireman cuts fuel costs, reduces labor costs, eliminates smoke, maintains steady, even room temperature or boiler pressure, and increases plant and home heating efficiency by supplying steady, unvarying temperatures and pressures.

The Iron Fireman Manufacturing Company is a large national and international organization of known financial standing, with a continuous record of successful operation and steady growth—the pioneer in its field.

The Iron Fireman is manufactured in a plant which is the equal in equipment and workmanship skill of any machine-producing plant in America. The large and constantly increasing volume of sales makes possible continuous laboratory tests and research on a scale which maintains Iron Fireman leadership in the industry.

The finest of engineering talent originates, tests, and perfects the many features that have placed Iron Fireman in its unchallenged position of mechanical supremacy.

Hundreds of Iron Fireman dealers in principal cities of the United States and Canada assure nation-wide service to Iron Fireman owners. CHILEANS WILL ATTACK FLEET

Mutinous Sailors and Reds Ordered Arrested

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 5 (CP)—The Chilean government decided today to attack the mutinous naval fleet at Coquimbo with all the forces at its command and ordered the arrest of all Communist leaders in the nation, charging them with responsibility for the movement.

General Carlos Vergara, minister of war, was put in supreme command of the army, sarshiero and air corps and was directed to prepare plans for battle. Acting President Trucco issued an official communique, signed by Premier Mora and all other ministers, saying the government's forces would move at once to the attack.

Reviewing the vain attempts to draw up a truce ending the mutiny, the communique said, "the government is thus placed in the painful and unavoidable necessity of adopting measures at its disposal to dominate the subversive fires. Those measures will be adopted without vacillation."

THE CANDY BUSINESS

British people consume fifty million pounds sterling in sweets in one year. Eating of sweets in on the increase in the British Isles and the candymakers are prepared to meet any challenge to their superiority.

So candydom and the chocolate stand are prosperous in the days of depression. It is good to hear of one industry which boasts of optimism in trade.

Is the candy-eating the product of depression or of the reputed increased in sobriety? Who knows. Candymakers are alert to trade and are leaving no stone unturned to make the business greater than it ever was.

One thing makes candy eating succeed. No one is compelled to eat candies and so there is such a glorious freedom about it that all people gladly go to the saccarine products with the zest of a fly looking for sugar.

GOOD BUSINESS

Application of real business to a prize list has made the cattle exhibition of Belleville for 1931 the most outstanding in local history and in all fairs up to this date.

Compare this with local conditions some years ago when the awards were puny and fatuous as compared with the tasty prizes today given.

Breeders themselves do not mind contributing to the prize list when they know that remunerative lists bring the greatest producers. There is a sporting instinct in these breeders which makes them delight to enter the best and set their own cattle against the newcomer. That is what ought to be. No man should be afraid to meet the best in the Dominion. If he has good stock he does not fear; fear is a confession of weakness.

SWEEPSTAKES NOT WANTED

The stand of the Canadian Legion against the legalization of sweepstakes shows Canadians what a sturdy organization for the betterment of conditions exists in the legion. Canadian people everywhere cannot but admit that the legion has done the country a national service.

There is too much a feeling about the advantage of gambling even for charity. Better to make gifts direct than to take dollar after dollar from thousands and in the case of sweepstakes from millions to make the promoters rich and leave all but a bare score or so that much poorer.

A NEW GAME FISH

The fish culture of the Dominion Department of Fisheries at Hatfield is carrying on experiments in cross-breeding of fish and have obtained results with the hybrid Brown trout, from the female Brown trout and Atlantic salmon. The hybrids show greater growth than the Brown trout of the same age and it is thought that they will also show greater gameness. The plan is to create a hybrid with seven eighths of Brown trout strain and one eighth of Atlantic salmon blood. The hybrid developed to date resemble the Brown trout in appearance but are more like Atlantic salmon in their characteristics.

Fishermen will watch the progress of the experiments closely.

STALEMATE IN SCIENCE?

A new agnosticism is abroad in science, according to Fred Hoyl, physicist of the National Bureau of Standards, Washington in a recent issue of the Scientific American.

In physics there is, says Mr. Heyl, "an accumulation of undigested facts and theories," and this accumulation "is an ever-increasing drag upon progress which must eventually reduce its space to that at which assimilation is possible." The twenty holiday for science, proposed by the Bishop of Ripon, seems about to be forced upon our scientists. The atom is found to not a substantiality, but a "wave," and the younger physicists are saying that we can know little about it. In the examination of the atom, they find there is an indiscoverable core. Casting about for a simile to express this in popular form, Mr. Heyl uses the moon for illustration. The motion of the moon is affected insignificantly, it is true, by the sunlight falling upon it. We may examine the motion of the moon when it is lighted by the sun's rays, but when it is dark we cannot possibly examine it. So with the atom. In certain phases it can be observed. In others it baffles examination. "We do not know," say the younger physicists; "we cannot know."

The summer 1931 must go down as the hottest in many years. It has also been doubtless the best ice cream cone and soft drink summer on record.

THE POET'S GIFTS

By Aline Michaelis

My mother gave me this life that goes,
Through these pulsing veins of mine,
A part of the tide of the world that flows
In palace and street and shrine.

My father gave me the power that sees
The thoughts that men's hearts would hide
The insight which glimpses their destinies
And the forces that in them abide.

The love of my mother runs, pure and deep,
Through the whole of my life, like a song;
And the love of my father still fresh I keep
Though the years that he sleeps are long.

My life seemed happy and bright and sweet,
All free, without bonds or bars,
And I never guessed it was incomplete
Till a poet gave me the stars;

Till a poet brought me the salt spray's kiss
And the sunset's flags unfurled,
Till a poet gave me the key to bliss
In the beauty of all the world!

JUST LIKE MANNA

The paradox of hunger in a land of plenty has been met and overcome by a minister.

His plan is simple enough—he eliminated the cost of distribution by bringing the source and demand together.

Here is the story as it is told by Qwen L. Scott, correspondent of the Consolidated Press Association. Dr. Johnston Myers, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church in Chicago, who has been feeding the poor of his district for a generation, hit upon the idea of going into the country with his charges and accepting offers from farmers who had more than they needed for their personal use, and who could find no market for their surplus.

Trucks provided by generous owners were driven by unemployed, who also harvest what the farmers have to give. Arrangements were made with local millers to grind the grain into flour, which is distributed among the needy. One concern offered a large storage warehouse in which surplus products can be held.

"Here in the middle of summer, with fields full of things to eat, and farmers thinking it useless to harvest much of the fruits and vegetables because there is no profit in marketing, there is a chance to prepare for winter," says Dr. Myers, as the correspondent quotes him.

"In Michigan there are berries falling to the ground because they are dead ripe, and no one sees any use to harvest portions of the crop," went on Dr. Myers. "Truck gardens in sections where rains have been plentiful are filled with vegetables. Why should a single person go hungry!"

Another preacher, we are told, has taken over a run-down and abandoned farm about fifty miles from Chicago. Here unemployed men, many of whom had held worth-while positions, are put to work providing for themselves and their associates.

It is a thoroughly practical program, says the Chicago Evening Post, and about all that is necessary to make it of value in the early winter are a few lessons on the construction of old-fashioned sand-filled vegetable bin. The Evening Post suggests that the plan "be drawn to the attention of the Chicago fruit growers, who are reported ready to destroy a large part of this season's crop in order to maintain prices in the ordinary commercial markets."

But what about the farmer? What he does, says the Nashville Tennessean, "is nothing more than an enlargement of what takes place when a man who has more peaches on his tree that he can use sends across the fence and invites his neighbor, who has no peaches, to pick a basketfull."

MODERN ETIQUETTE

By Roberta Lee

Q. What is a diplomatic way for a business man or woman to dispose of an unwelcome or wearisome caller?

A. One of the most effective ways is, at an opportune moment, to arise.

Q. Is it ever permissible in good society to use business or office stationery for social purposes?

A. No; neither the man nor the woman of good taste is every guilty of doing this.

Q. Who must be the first to leave the dinner table?

A. The hostess always.

CALL TO DEFLATE

Representatives of 14,000 motion picture exhibitors, meeting in a convention of protest in New York, have declared war on the orgy of extravagance in the industry They declare, among other things, that the "no talent or ability" is worth $30,000 a week, for one star alone, and reported to be paid to Constance Bennett, one of the highly paid queens of the flickering films. This particular actress is merely cited as an outstanding example of the extravagance of the so-called star system. There are actors drawing pay envelopes are stuffed with almost as much collateral and cash in directorial capacities whose weekly colleagues exceed this amount. When Dempsey and Tunney were fighting for million-dollar gates, similar protests were made and the public had lost its sense of values. It was utterly ridiculous and wantonly extravagant to pay more each season than ever before, pummeling each other for a half-hour, it was contended, and attention was drawn to the fact that scientists who were devoting their exceptional talents to increasing the world's knowledge, to effect cures for diseases, were being made cheap and to make this old mud ball a better and more comfortable place on which to live were, for the most part, but getting a living wage. In the entertainment world, however, salaries are based primarily on box office value. The million paid is not always the most talented. Personality is the paramount ingredient. The actor, prize fighter, baseball or hockey player who is a crowd pleaser properly feels that as the public pays its money to see him display his particular brand of stuff, he should get the major portion of the gate. Film producers, particularly in the moving picture industry, have met the demands of the public favorites because in the past they have been able to pay and still make money. But the amusement world has been hard hit by the present economic depression.—Hamilton Spectator.

MAN AND MACHINE

"We are asked to think of a Machine Age," doomed to destruction by the Great Depression. Man having embarked on the invention of machines for the purpose of so getting on perfecting machines that they turn up surplus and swelling the armies of unemployed. What is foreseen by the satirist Samuel Butler here, when men are to be devoured by the tools of his own construction, the answer to the menace is found, it is suggested, in the tools returns themselves. Machine-tool shipments for In France, declined almost 50 per cent. and that behind the fall is the obvious that the use of machines be? comes a source of depression and that the impetus which propelled the industrial revolution, and the production of labor-saving devices will cease when the industrial skies are overcast. The situation will right itself, it is maintained. If it is found that machinery interferes with profits, there will be less machinery. "One hundred and thirty years ago the world was invited to consider the problem of another kind of overproduction—the overproduction of human beings. But the great Malthusian fear has been dissipated, for more of the western nations, at least, by birth restriction. It can hardly be maintained that the impulse to multiply machines is stronger in man than the impulse to multiply his own kind. If he has learned to hold that powerful urge in check under economic pressure, he may learn also how to regulate his machine output"—New York Times.

LIFE IN CANADA IS PRETTY WELL ORGANIZED

Some idea of the development of organization in connection with the manufacturing and commercial life of the Dominion may be gathered from the tenth annual report issued by the Federal Department of Labor.

The volume, which is for the year 1931, divides the organization into manufacturing, building and construction and communication, printing and publishing, laundering, cleaning, repairing, personal service and amusement, financial, insurance, hotel, boarding, horse, live stock, sheep breeders, wholesale merchants, real estate dealers, professional, technical and scientific, insurance, funeral service and labor groups.

The first seven divisions, according to the report, contain the names of 30 main and branch associations, with a combined membership of 48,540, including persons in firms identified with industries employing wage-earners. Some of these employers have working agreements with corresponding organizations of workers governing conditions of employment. In the remaining five groups the employment of labor is for the most part merely incidental, and with no corresponding body of organized workers, save as regards the retail mercantile section.

In the main the associations mentioned are purely Canadian. A number of them, however, are affiliated with organizations having headquarters in the United States. All classes of associations reflect in the report the total combined membership of 967,865 in 1,800 associations, including 227 main bodies and 477 branches.—Toronto Mail & Empire.

COURTESY ON HIGHWAYS

At least one Canadian who has been motoring in England of late has gained many impressions that should be instructive to the people at home. Mr. J. Mercer Denhalme, editor of the Brantford News-Tribune, gave some impressions in a recent address to the Rotary Club. Whereas speed seems essential to "enjoyment" here, and "culinary" in the indulgence of most drivers court disaster, in England every motorist seems to be considering the interests of the other fellow," says Mr. Denhalme. News is commenting on driving conditions in England. "Every driver approaches a car coming from the rear and avoids overtaking, keeps to the front, and realizes that it would be dangerous for a fellow behind to try to pass, he holds out his hand. The man behind recognizes the danger signal and knows he doesn't try to pass—not until the road is clear. Every driver seems to come to a stop at the sign of a policeman's hand, and the policeman's hand is raised in courtesy."—Toronto Globe.

RELIGION IN THE SCHOOLS

Whether or not religion instruction be on the curriculum, moral and spiritual goes on each hour of every school day, through the personality and influence of teaching staffs. At least, it ought to be so and it is to be hoped the reasonableness of this of trustee boards.

This thought, expressed by Rev. A. McLean at Embro school opening last evening, with the reference he considered proper on the part of a newcomer, was not only happily phrased but profoundly founded. The term "godless has been applied to the schools of this province only because religious instruction as a definite subject is not given and the religious denominations are represented thereto, and the difficulty of providing religious instruction without offence to any is obvious. As Inspector Reid of the Department of Huron here on Sunday, agreeable conditions prevail in schools by a series of graded Scripture readings, use of which is optional with municipal school boards in the Bible areal use. It will be a strange community indeed, and it is hoped that the latter will bring them into general accord to its children.

As to religious education in any further degree, Rev. McLean refers to a Scottish parish school sang the Psalms and was drilled in the catechism—it was pregnant to pronounce upon its feasibility in Ontario communities but he added:

"I do know this: that teachers with whom I have had impressions that are lasting, apart from any definite teachings; that if the teachers themselves have a real and intrinsically enlightened they are able to impart that spirit and attitude which they themselves possess.... It is not enough to be moral and godless, but let us see that such a condition cannot obtain because the whole moral weight of the personalities of our land is toward the things that are worth while."—Sentinel Review.

ENTERTAINMENT

Enthusiastically received by the large audience at the Fair Grounds last evening, Arthur Gilbert Marsh's "Novelettes" made a charming part of the entertainment before grand stand. Gilbert Marsh's numbers of appealing variety made a charming picture as he followed the various figures of their dance. The performers ranged from very tiny tots to the more experienced dancers and each number was given with skill and grace. The pretty costumes added to the beauty of the numbers.

The programme follows:

Opening Chorus—Gilbert Marsh Girls.

Chorus—Georgia Scott, Marion Adams, Lois Carter, Eva Adams, Margaret Forster, Joyce Dellow.

Snow Baby—Lois Liddle.

Chinese Princess—Doris Whitten.

Tap—Ruth May, Esther Marsh.

Miss Polka—Helen Salisbury.

Scotch Dance—Betty Scott and Jack Gilbert.

Chorus—Margaret Forster, Eva Adams, Peggy Laroche, Lois Carter.

Hungarian Gypsy — Constance Marsh.

"Ee Tee Thru" the Tulips — Doris Whitten.

Tap—Ruth May.

Acrobatic Chorus— Georgia Scott Marsh Adams, Betty Gilbert, June Delline.

Blue Danube Waltz—Lois Carter, Peggy Laroche, Margaret Forster, Doris Whitten, Vivian Wilson, Betty Morgan, Mary Meagher, Eva Adams; Grace Cooke, Doris Marsh, Constance Mumford and Esther Marsh

The program will be repeated this evening.

The program before the Grand Stand featured a number of interesting features. Belleville Municipal Band gave an unusually fine program and was highly praised by all who had the pleasure of hearing it. The Band Concerts during the Fair have been a marked feature and greatly enjoyed by the visitors.

Miss Lois VanBuren and her Great Lakes Orchestra provided an interesting half hour of music and the other acts on the program were Ted and Tony, acrobatic act; Billy and Margaret, high trapeze; Four Rosebuds; Miss Jennie, acrobatic and Indian dance; Brown and Brown —Bob and Dean Black, harmony singers, Kathryn Purtell and three Ester girls, toe dance; Sullivan and Black, Xylophone and Bells.

The performance came to a close with a flashing display of fireworks.

REFLECTION

Remembering words
We have together
Concerning chance
And woe and weather,

Concerning pathways
Latest lost
And seas uncharted
Or discovered,

Concerning moods
And motorcars,
Atonement
And shooting stars,

I have discovered
Two can chat
As have a dozen
Of this and that

And part assured
And comforted
Well unsaid.

LITTLE BENNY

By LEE PAPE

Pop was smoking and reading things and ma was putting curtains and things strate things crooked, saying, The Senator and Mrs. Tibbits are coming for dinner tomorrow, and I am very particular I want to have for, them, and then an ideer suddenly occurred to me like a bolt of inspiration from the blue. In other words tomorrow is the end of the first week of your vacation, so what could be more suitable than having you choose the menu yourself, Willyum? she said.

I except the nomination, pop said. Without a moments hesitation I choose liver and onions, he said.

Being pops favorite thing, and ma said, Now for land sakes Willyum dont start off by being so utterly rediculous, How can we offer liver and onions to peeple like Senater and Mrs. Tibbitts? she said.

Just the same as we'd offer it to anybody elts, pop said. In other werds bring it in on a warm platter, stick it gracefully under their noses and say in a low and if possible musical voice, Wont you have some liver and onions?

Now Willyum that's not the question, ma said, and pop said, But what other question could you use in inviting somebody to dinner except would you like to, showed them liver and onions, and said, How about a little spagetty? or Please help yourself to some of these terkey crokettes, it would only confuse them and make them feel ill at ease, he said.

Now Willyum there's no deteriorating the discussion into an argewment, ma said .Liver and onions has entirely too common a sound to put before such uncommon guests. Why dont you suggest something with an air, such as chickin? she said.

All rite, how about chickin with an air, in other words chickin blown up with a byckle pump or something, pop said, and ma said, I think chickin is a very good suggestion, Willyum, I bleeve Ill except that suggestion.

Yee gods, its a wimmins weild, pop said.

And he got in back of the sporting page and stayed there.

TRACK RECORD IS SHATTERED BY 'RED HORSE'

Willis Grattan Paces Third Heat in 2.08½ Handily

HELD JOINTLY

Sid Hal and Willis Gratton Held Record Until Yesterday at 2.08

Over a lightning fast track Willis Gratton, amateur, gelded pacer by Gratton Regent, stepped a mile in 2.08½, thereby breaking the track record that has stood since the year. Jointly Sid Hall owned by Dr. Whitney of Cooksville, and Willis Gratton held the record at 2.09 until Friday night. Both records made on the mark in the last heat. E. K. Hodgins, the owner of the "little red horse" has in addition to easily known through Oshawa, was in the plow business in that town, a winning combination. Besides Willis Gratton was the favorite for all class, the feature race of the three day meet. Straight heats, betting is too close threatened by the other entrants. Then in the first heat from the front in the first trip and from then on it was a procession.

The 2.13 class was won by June Time owned by R. Aylesworth of Kingston, and driven by Harold Mc-Cafe, who had such signal success with the Cafe heat year Chevalier this circuit.

Mr. Hodgins Announced

Mr. Hodgins announced to the judges at the third heat he would try for the track record, and was greeted by hearty applause by the patrons, when the announcement was made from the stand. He scored a couple of false starts, but was sent on his way by starter George O. Tice. The Willis horse met with interference in the first turn by Miss Star, who was in the lead. It cost him money if possible, Mr. Hodgins did not wait to see, but went there before he sent the Gratton pacer after the leader so he could have a short course. Down on the rail, the driver went to work and increased the pace. Willis Gratton responded with a will. This was fast considering there was no horse in there carrying him that clip. Around the turn and up the back stretch the Willis Gratton pacer was required of him and he came home "whooping" his way in the finish. In the next heat, June Time was the one to beat, and after the first quarter was reached and she was never headed. Peter Hick, Mack Grattan from away back to be second. Vernon McKinney Jr. supplied the excitement in the third heat, but June Time beat him again, "brush" when it came to the drive. The fourth trip was practically the same although Black Mack again tried for the heat but was not good enough in the stretch long. In the evening before the grandstand crowd, Mr. Hodgins showed his sensational pacer to the crowd on the halter and the horse seemed to appreciate the attention that was lavished on him. He will start in the fast heats in Toronto and there will be many from this city pulling for him on board the summary. The racing of the three days of the fair has been high-class, a superior card, with no boiled racing and the racing at all times forceful. The starting method of all three days, considering that in some classes high strung horses were timed for the word. The results of Friday's racing are as follows:

PIPE TESTED by an ARCHITECT

15c. and 30c. packages —also in ¼-pound screw-top tins

"Old Man Raleigh made a fitting contribution when he gave us tobacco, and he left plenty of work for the blenders to do, to suit the palate of such as I; but, when I had carefully filled that first pipe with Turret pipe tobacco, I found that here was something different; a rose without the thorn — an aroma without the sting. It broods contemplation in its lasting qualities. The packet opens up sweet and fresh and if it be possible for smoke dreams to help you materialize those "castles in the air" then the Turret pipe tobacco, with its Churchwarden coolness and Old World fragrancy, will do it."

PIPE TURRET TOBACCO

A good, cool smoke Pipe tested

Turret fine cut for those who roll their own

This is the Lord Wakefield Challenge Trophy a magnificent creation in solid silver and black cast grey wood. It was presented by the Right Honourable Lord Wakefield of Hythe for annual competition by Outboard Motor Boat. It will be competed for at 7 p.m. on Labor Day and will be for the championship of the British Empire. There is a very handsome list of prizes for this event.

At Lord Wakefield's own request this very costly trophy was wrought by Canadian silversmiths (Ehoden Bros., Toronto) and is regarded as one of the handsomest trophies of its kind in existence.

CHEER PARADE OF PRIZE STOCK

Fancy Horses and Cattle Are Led Before Grand Stand

Live stock, the like of which has been seldom seen in this district, paraded for the edification of a large assembly in the grandstand Friday afternoon at the Belleville fair and more devotees were made. Th stock parade of prize winners is the culmination of a week of hard work for the judges but they can rest on the oars knowing their work has been well done. The palaces this year was better managed than in previous years and the cash customers were kept informed of what was going on. There were a number of prize winning animals not included in the parade, as the owners were given permission to move their stock to another exhibition.

The parade formed up on the back stretch of the racing strip and at the furlong pole in the home stretch was met by the Belleville Citizens Band under the direction of Reg Hinchey. Incidentally a word of praise would not be out of order for this fine musical organization. Throughout the week they have played in the fair ring public the best classical and popular music and their work at all times has been most satisfactory and the cost has not been as heavy as if any outside band was employed. Reg Hinchey is the popular director of this musical organization, has given many hours of his valuable time in increasing the efficiency and the members of the band have co-operated heartily in the work. The band is a community organization and well merits the praise that has been heaped upon it during fair week.

Following the band came the roadster and carriage horse, nine outfits in all and they made a pleasing picture. The horses were perfectly groomed, the harness and burgies immaculately cleaned, while the rubmanship was all that could be desired. The hackney carriage horses were given the premier position by the judge and the society class.

These in turn were followed by the standard and registered bred stock and space will not permit the mentioning of every animal shown. Hereford Cows and Calves attracted considerable attention, when he paraded a handsome standard bred yearling. The heavy tailless followed, which included Belgian, Percheron and Clydesdale and behind were mares with foal at side. Then came the heavy and light draught teams, ten in all and they were groomed to perfection. The harness was spotless and the brass trimmings shined in the golden sun light. First place of honor was given the team of circles owned by Dunham Pooler of Bloomfield, who won the special award.

Of more interest to some were the cattle, that were paraded. Leading the procession was the Herfords owned by Col. Birdsall of Bloomfield. The Colonel exhibited fifteen head in the ring and a better herd no man could wish for. Naturally the Lord Alex was in front. These were followed by the Ayrshires, the Jerseys and the Holsteins. No fewer than five herds of Jerseys were exhibited this year and they looked like pretty deer in the ring. The Holsteins and

JANETTE COLBERT IN "SECRETS OF A SECRETARY"

Fourth Paramount Number Here

Monday night is the appointed night at the Belle, when every lady attending will receive a present with a beautiful Blue Pearl Dresser-Set given away by the compliments of the management. Janette Colbert, of the svelte chic and facile charm, flashes her winning appeal in "Secrets of a Secretary" the fascinating tale of New York society life which comes to the Belle for Monday and Tuesday only.

The story, originally by Charles Brackett, tells of the experiences of a wealthy New York society girl who married Hilary Blake who makes a bad marriage with a young fortune hunter, and later finds true happiness by the death of her father. Her husband turns out to be a despicable fortune hunter, and deserts her when her fortune has been swept away.

The girl then gets a job as a secretary with Sandy Cunningham of the Merritts, who are preparing for the marriage of their young daughter to Sylvia, with Lowell Sherman as Sandy Cunningham. Sylvia gets hopelessly entangled with the philandering Cunningham and when he is killed, Helen finds it necessary to marry her own son-in-law to save that of Sylvia. Lord Dalforth finally straightens the tangle and marries Helen, his secretary.

Miss Colbert plays the part of the secretary. It is her first picture since Lowell Sherman "discovered" with Maurice Chevalier and Miriam Hopkins.

The part of Sylvia is played by Betty Lawford, who was the leading feminine lead opposite Ina Ovenden Arties "Old English."

A VERDANT DRAMA AT THE CAPITOL TODAY

"Suspense," an epic of the rank and file, replete with all the ingredients necessary to make a drama of absorbing interest, is the feature today and Monday at the Capitol theatre.

It is quite a time since a picture of this caliber of "thrills and chills" and "All Quiet on the Western Front" visited Belleville, and when we are told that "Suspense" has the finish of "Journey's End" and the dramatic power of "All Quiet," the combination offers something exceptionally keen and interesting.

Patrick MacGill, author of the story of "Suspense" is a master of comedy, realism and character with a sincerity which will be deeply appealing, and Capt. Walter Summers has gone to work and directed a living creation in a masterly way, and has created a photoplay which will leave a lasting impression.

"Suspense" should not be missed.

At the Capitol Theatre, which Jack Capitol's patrons are now beginning to look for, are two more of the adventures in Africa." This series has more than proved its worth to the public, due to the total lack of the theatrical, and in "Buffalo Stampede" we see the wonderful native modes of life, both animal and human, in Africa. Bobby Vernon, the clever Assop Film Fable cartoon and the Pathe News complete the entire programme to a satisfactory close.

JANET AND CHARLIE IN "MERELY MARY ANN"

Popular Team Re-United

Whatever the reason, Janet Gaynor has the happy faculty of becoming more charming and more effective in every picture she appears in.

Her latest vehicle, "Merely Mary Ann" is no exception to this rule. As the little orphan girl who becomes out into an heiress she gives a genuinely realistic performance and one that contrasts vividly with that of her rendering of the heroine who tells, as the sarcastic and bitter composer who learns, almost too late, what love is.

At the risk of being mobbed by ardent Gaynor-Farrell fans, it must be stated that this famous team has acquired a new lease of popularity. It makes their work even more enjoyable than in their earlier triumphs. Both players, seem more sure of themselves and more sincere in their characterizations and in this popular team appear at the Belle next Wednesday and Thursday, screen fans will manifest approval of their acting in certain terms.

"Merely Mary Ann" is a perfect vehicle for the two stars and is perfectly played. Director Henry King daringly went beyond the usual field to choose the supporting players, which include the inimitable Farl Beryl Mercer, J. M. Kerrigan and Arnold Lucy, among others. The authentic London settings and the sympathetic love theme given "Merely Mary Ann" which is based on Israel Zangwill's play of that name, make the resulting film a sheer delight.

SEPTEMBER STARTS THE SHOW SEASON

As will be found in this issue, the management of the Capitol has announced a schedule of bookings for the month of September. Comedy and drama have a happy blending in the list and such pictures as "Broadminded" with that funny fatfecur, Joe E. Brown; "Caught" with Constance Bennett; Adolphe Menjou as "The Great Lover," and Ina Claire in "Rebound" are outstanding. Olsen and Johnson, of course take first place in comedy team, and their crashing "Hollywood Bound" will be well received. Roscoe Arbuckle has a great number of followers in Canada, and Belleville with its apparent liking for dramas with a moral, will welcome "Bad Sister." This picture is the debut of Sidney Fox, a really remarkable film find, and one who will reach the public by sheer acting ability. Having already been "The Third Alarm" and Mr. Holmes states that the crowds were big to see "Big Timber," we can look forward to seeing "The Fourth Alarm" with a great deal of anticipation. Then, to fall on a Saturday, so that children will make a rush to the Capitol that day!

Last, but by no means least, "Travelling Husband" and "Too Young To Marry." The former stars Evelyn Brent and is labelled, "Superlos Novelty of the Season." Loretta Young and Grant Withers are co-featured in "Too Young to Marry," so something good can be expected here. The schedule is certainly very enticing!

THEIR 13TH. ANNUAL REUNION

21st Battalion Have Held a Reunion Yearly Since Their Demobilization

A Battalion Reunion every year since they were demobilized in Kingston, Ont., in 1918 is the proud record of the 21st Battalion, C.E.F. This year the 13th get together to be held in Belleville, Ont., on Sept. 26th, and constitutes a record inasmuch as it is the 21st Battalion of the line that has hung together without a break since the days of war.

Recruited in Eastern Ontario with Kingston as headquarters in 1914, and proceeding overseas the next year, they took part in all the great actions in which the Canadian corps was called upon to act as their battle honours can testify. Starting with the Somme in 1915. They have the proud honour of not losing an objective once they had taken it, or not failing to take the objective they were ordered to do so. It was the enviable honour for the band of this Battalion to lead the Canadian corps across the bridge at Cologne, where Gen. Sir Arthur Currie took the salute, into the occupied territory of Germany.

It was in Kingston in 1918 on the eve of arriving home that the citizens of the city tendered to this Battalion a welcome never surpassed since. Since then Battalion clubs have been formed in Kingston, Peterboro, Ottawa, Belleville, Toronto and Hamilton, and each year in turn the comrades of the district send out invitations across the province to their Battalion inviting their pals of other days to gather with them to renew acquaintances and to tell over again those experiences which only the returned man can fully appreciate and understand.

Contrary to, as might be supposed these reunions have been getting larger. Instead of falling off until now the hotels in the smaller centres cannot accommodate the crowd that attends, and the armouries have had to be pressed into use, and this year's event is to be no exception, with the large number of unemployed this year it will be bound to be some of this Battalion dropping in to meet their comrades who are fortunate enough to be situated differently will see to it, that none of their pals are left behind. First of all possible.

Brig. Gen. St. Pierre W. Hughes took the Battalion, to France and was later promoted to Brigade Commander, and it is fitting that there was a more popular or better Brigade Commander in France, and to this day that bond of friendship is as strong as it was strongest between the "father" of the Battalion, and his "boys." A very fact that the large body of men who stood together year after year, have kept together to this date, and value their friendship enough to travel from all to see one another each speaks better than words can tell for the ex grit of corps and true fellowship that Gen. Hughes instilled into his men in the early days of the Battalion's existence. The year's reunion are Bg. Sgt. Major "Jock" Jordon, President, and L. G. Madden, Sec. Treas. Belleville, Ont.

THE GAY BANDIT OF THE BORDER

by TOM GILL

PROLOGUE

In a patch of moonlight the masked rider halted.

Just ahead, just beyond the fringe of shadowy mesquite that skirted the desert's edge, two dusty wagon tracks led out over the mesa. They were all that marked the Yuma-Merrill road, those tracks, and for fifty miles of cactus and sand they were all that recorded the turbulent existence of an international boundary line. But now, like faded, discarded ribbons, they stretched, lonely and indistinct, across the desert, then dropped abruptly over the edge of the mesa.

Minutes passed. The tall rider sat motionless—a brooding statue, silhouetted white against the night. Only his eyes moved—eyes that glittered restlessly through the mask, as they searched the velvet darkness ahead. A fitful night, wind crept like a sigh among the cactus and mesquite. Once the horse pawed impatiently at the sand, and once he raised his head to catch some faint, elusive message.

Silence. An endless silence while the twisted shadows of the cactus grew leaner under the sinking moon. Toward the far-off Mexican foothills, a wide howling of silvery, moon-drenched silence, while the hours crept on and on.

Abruptly, in the same startled second, both horse and rider seemed raised their heads. Out of the desert night rose a sound, far off and indistinct. From a formless, pulsating murmur it roiled nearer, until it sat in the center of itself and became the muffled tread of galloping horses.

Only then the quiet figure in the moonlight moved. It took off its sombrero, and the horse stepped forward into the sheltering mesquite, and again they faded into the darkness, lost in that shadowy obscurity. Only the man's head emerged for an instant to the black automatic it held in his hand. The barrel was warm. His knees clasped the horse more tightly. His little figure had taken on a new tenseness, and he leaned forward with coldly eager eyes.

In the moonlight ahead the night had become filled peopled with galloping horsemen, swinging down toward the river's edge. Mexican cavalry on patrol. They rode in loose order, almost asleep in the low tones. Little whirling pools of sand rose beneath their pounding hoofs, then died, and in another minute the sound of their hurried passing faded. As the last sombrero-ed figure melted back into that night of silence, the solitary horseman left the shadows and rode slowly to the mesa's rim. Leaning far out in the saddle, his eyes followed to their steep descent to where, almost directly beneath him, the trail turned and plunged steeply downward. Then the little cavalcade had halted.

In a tight circle they were clustered about a huddled figure that lay face downward in the road. Out of the stillness the angry hum of many voices rose to the solitary rider's ears, and beneath the mask his teeth gleamed in a brief smile. He bent forward, watching. Two men had slipped from their homes and raised the limp form in the road-way. For a moment their leader looked at the face, then formed the word "Lopez!" A shiver ran through the group. The night seemed to grow suddenly chill. Uneasily each man peered into the darkness as if it now loomed suddenly menacing.

Then from above burst a laugh, wild and jeering, and for a brief instant the horsemen below saw outlined against the desert sky the tall form of a masked rider. Leisurely his gloved hand rose in a derisive salute, and again that jeering, mocking laugh floated down.

A rattle of stones as the horse swerved back, the sharp click on edge of the mesa gleamed white and empty beneath the moon.

Aunt Clara lighted another of her interminable cigarettes. "It was pretty low down to let you in for a formal dinner party this first night. There will be twelve of us, Adela and you the only ones who haven't reached second childhood."

"If ever Uncle Peter hears that you are numbering him among the old and toothless, the girl warned, "there will be international complications."

Mrs. Blount turned to her guest. "We're talking about the big man of northern Mexico."

"Paco Morales?"

The woman nodded. "You know him?"

"No." Radcliffe shook his head. "But I saw him once back East. My father told me he holds this border country in the palm of his hand."

"That's true enough. But his greatest claim to immortality lies in being Adela's uncle. He is her guardian and he's finding it a life work." Aunt Clara smiled. "If Paco Morales had his way, Adela would be in a convent or—"

"Or married to Jim," added the girl with a little grimace.

Radcliffe looked quickly up. Again he remembered the vengeful look of that Mexican vaquero and the words Jim. our lawyer, will make his grings regret."

"Morales is really the government of northern Mexico wrapped up in one man," the major was saying. "It does whatever he says, and he controls practically every foot of land south of the Rio Grande west to the mountains. A man of the old Spanish breed."

"What other lords of the earth do men tonight?" said Adela softly.

"The rest," replied Aunt Clara, "are mostly dreams and eyes, except of course, your host, Don Bob."

"Bob Harkness!"

"Yes. And he is he is Don Bob. But you probably know him well."

"No. Not well at all. I should have been more than six years old when I saw him last. I remember a man with black hair and eyes that were gray. Eyes that always seemed smiling, as if at some joke only he knew. And a soft, slow voice. I remember wondering whether he was happy or sad. He took me up once in his arms and talked to me. I don't know what one word he said. I must have been terribly frightened, for I've never forgotten them. Where he and my father first came together I never knew. Is Don Bob raising cattle?"

"Cattle and a few horses," replied the major. "He is also agent for the directte of both banks here. But he comes and goes. Often absent for days out on the range. He has land and livestock on both sides of the border line."

The voices of arriving guests called the major and his wife away, and for the first time since morning Radcliffe found himself alone with the girl. The mask of aloofness and indifference had dropped, and under the friendly, smiling eyes that had looked into his own he felt himself flush.

Already guests were approaching, and the rippling, musical laughter spoke quickly: "If I'm not allowed to sit by you at dinner, I want to warn you here and now I'm coming over to that feudal castle of your uncle's and make him let down the drawbridge some afternoon."

Radcliffe caught the same rippling laugh he had heard that morning. Raising a slender arm she pointed toward Mexico. "My friend," she replied, "there is an imaginary line about two miles south of us. You can't really see it and the country on both sides looks the same, but that imaginary line has certain effects. One of them is to change the land of old-world things, of formal things, and very stiff ordering. Even big, good-looking giants over there can't just drop in, as you Americans say. They must be invited. And when they do come, they're expected to sit and discuss the way they left learnedly with all the rest of the family.

"That must be ghastly."

"Oh no. Not ghastly. One gets used to their pretends in time, and there are times when I think of getting five or six of them together with one of the vaqueros, but I never really do. I just want to. And that's bad, isn't it, Ted Radcliffe?"

Something in the question. "But I may come just the same," he added.

"That's see what Uncle Paco says." One more that impassive mask had returned to the girl's face, and she turned abruptly toward the tall man who approached them.

Paco Morales had probably looked much the same for thirty years. He was slender—almost gaunt. His skin was a kind of pallid white that accented the blackness of his eyes and his thin-lipped mouth. The hands were small and carefully kept, and his infrequent smile held a charm. His eyes, intelligently alert, rested for a moment on the big American's face, then passed to his niece, and when he spoke the voice was deep and rich. "Hiding from me, chi-quita?"

"I've been guarding the lion of the evening for you, my uncle. This is Aunt Clara's guest of honor, Ted Radcliffe."

They ceremoniously the Spaniard bowed. "I have heard of your coming, señor. I knew your father. A great man. Very—how do you say—audacious, very brilliant in the things of finance. He dreamed great dreams." The Spaniard bowed again. "You are most welcome."

"He seems to know that already," laughed the girl. "He is just warning me that he intends to come over to the hacienda."

"But certainly. We shall be charm ed. You must come over next day of fiesta with Don Bob. We will show you how life is lived as our ancestors lived it since the time of the Conquerors."

"Not all our ancestors, uncle," smiled the girl. "Not all of yours, little barbarian, but all of mine." He added in explanation to Radcliffe, "Adela is only part Scotch. The rest, I apologize is Irish and Mexican. That accounts for her gentle's temper."

For a moment his deep-set eyes dwelt affectionately on the girl's face, then, as if dismissing the thought that held him, he asked abruptly, "You are a friend of Don Bob's?"

"I'm still of his friend. My father and Bob Harkness were partners once. And I think father once said you and he had interests together."

The Spaniard nodded. "Once, yes. For a moment his cold eyes flickered, and his lips seemed to pause on a question. But he only said: "A remarkable man, Don Bob. Perhaps the most remarkable in all this border country. He stands for everything I am opposed to—for the illusion of democracy and for the rights of the peon against his master. We hardly ever agree. Yet I have a very real affection for him. No one knows this borderland and its people as well as he."

"No one is so widely loved by the people," added Adela.

The old man nodded impatiently. "True. But I cannot include that among his above virtues. No. They love him, these vermin, because he is generous to them and plays with their brain—an untidy pastime. Which reminds me," he added slightly —"when one is running for your American office—"

A moment later dinner was announced. But the dark eyes of Paco Morales dwelt musingly on Radcliffe long after the younger man had turned away.

CHAPTER III.

"Why are men so obvious!" the girl softly asked as Radcliffe seated her at the long table.

"It's part of our sterling simplicity—that and our splendid lack of guile."

"My husband. He makes me think of all the masculine shortcomings rolled into one. And yet I can't help see he is bursting to break some choice piece of news, he's waiting for a clue to lead naturally up to it, and if it doesn't come soon the dear man will explode one of these new shirt studs. I suspect it has something to do with a new arrival in El Coyote, as they call him."

"I've heard you have an untamed bandit," Radcliffe replied. He looked at Adela. "Has he robbed anyone here?"

The question put a sudden end to the talk. As of one accord the little group about the candlelit table turn ed toward Paco Morales. An air of tenseness seemed to have come upon the party. And the host answered unconcerned, for he nodded toward the newcomer and smiled. "Ask him."

"El Coyote, yes. His chief amusement lies in robbing me. You will hear much of El Coyote, señor. The bandit most famous of the south-west border. Also he does me the honor to be my personal enemy, although I have never seen him. But his raids are almost always against me. Too freely do men speak of him, senor, for no one knows who are his friends."

"He has friends?"

"Friends? Of a surety. Friends and deadly scheming, powerful ones. He would create a legend, this El Coyote, a hero to the poor-ones of the poor and that he steals only from the rich. Bunco! It is an empty gesture to refrain from plundering paupers, no?"

"Is he American or Mexican?"

"We do not surely know, although I am certain he is American."

Blount's laugh boomed from the lower end of the table. "Morales won't ever admit the possibility that this border thief is one of his American countrymen."

The Spaniard raised his hands in a wide gesture. "I am sure he is not. His ways, they are not Latin ways. His hae, if you will pardon me, the sudden brutality of the American bad man."

"Has no one ever seen him?"

"Not without his mask, senor. No one, that is, who has lived. We know he rides a white horse and that he carries two automatics at his belt. He is one of those rare men who shoot equally well with right hand or left. But all that is what you call hearsay."

Radcliffe leaned forward. "Tell me more about him."

Morales made a quiet amusement. "You love adventure, no? Blunto! Perhaps I will tell you what I ed a band, and they live somewhere out toward the foot-hills in Mexico. From there they swoop down on the ranches, plundering them of all they and sometimes of gold. In two years this bandit King has coal me many thousand pesos and has killed six of men. To me it has been an expensive form of entertainment, senor. In end—quite sabed? The Mexican cavalry have hunted him, but they are not fuerte—not vigorous. Almost I think they do not want to catch him. Partly they are afraid, and partly do they sympathize."

"Sometimes I sympathize with him myself," murmured the major's wife. "He has a romantic sense, I think. It is the privilege of your charming sex to have romantic senses, Paco. But it is not a gift that makes good neighbors. I do not have no sympathy. Five thousand pesos per for information alone. Listen. I will tell you one little story that loses the only last night, and then, senor, you can decide whether we have a real bandit or not. Just before dawn this morning has it taken place, and the soldiers are now hunting it secret, but I shall tell you."

ADIUM-BEARING DEPOSIT IS OW UNDER DEVELOPMENT 75 MILES NORTH OF BELLEVILLE

lleville Party Visit ene of Major Development in Canada

MILL UNDER WAY

e in Haliburton Properis in Uraniite, Form of Pitchblende

twenty-five miles, as the air flies, to the north from Belleville, there has been discovered what is probably one of the richest occurrences of radium so far found in the world. The distance is better by railway or highway, for the deposit is located in the town of Cardiff in the County of Haliburton. The little village of Cardiff is 1-3 miles by road from the property. Wilberforce is 25 miles to the west of Haliburton on the line of the Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa branch of the Canadian National Railways; distance from Trenton by road is 108 miles and from Bancroft by the Hastings road via Cardiff 100 miles.

A Belleville Party Visits the Mine

On Friday last a party consisting of Messrs. Clifton and Peter Carter, R. A. Bull, Chas. B Meyers, Homer Evans, and J. C. Herity of Belleville and paid a visit to the mine that has begun to attract the keenest interest among the mining authorities of the United States, though its existence is practically unknown more than a little fraction of our own citizens. That it is really possible to get beneath the rugged surface of the Canadian Cardiff hills and make such camps with their trucks such camps as Cobalt, the Yukon, the Porcupine and Kirkland Lake appear to have no limitations of this radium deposit. The Intelligencer party went that way.

Radium, the Wonder Metal

What is radium? Is it a mineral, a metal, a gas or an impondorable fluid like caloric or electricity? Radium is a metal with properties and qualities unlike any distinctive color and is listed as No. 88 among the chemical elements that make up the physical body of this earth or ours. But as a mineral or metal it is as unlike, as mysterious and eccentric in its nature as is the nauseate, the baby among the forces that we have taken from Mother Nature but which the wisest of us know little.

Radium Has Some Blindness

Radium when isolated and reduced to a metal, is white-grey in color and quickly tarnishes when exposed to the atmosphere. It is bright and dencely it is in a class with gold and platinum and is twenty times heavier than water, bulk for bulk. To look at radium in any considerable quantity or, to touch the metal with unprotected hands, is immediately hurt or paralyse that portion of the body. Extreme caution must therefore be exercised by those who are called upon to refine the minerals or handle the metals and their compounds are penetrated by radium rays and quickly as always in any courses along a copper wire, and along other distances and even before the little tubes of radium or radium salts are transported or stored in lead containers at least an inch in thickness.

Radium Has Many Uses

Strange-like as it sounds, Radium not only has ponderability and physical dimensions but has considerable value in money. At current market prices, if it could sell it for enough cash to buy out the Canadian Pacific Railway or pay off the national debt of Canada, he would still have a margin enough left to make Henry Ford, John D. Rockefeller and the Aga Khan look like paupers by compaNson. One pound of radium would cost you a little matter of thirty-five million dollars if any such amount of the element for the simple reason that in all the world there is now only about two thirds of a pound of radium and that is almost altogether in the form of radium salts and held mainly in hospitals for the treatment of disease.

Although radium was discovered away back in 1898 and the prospectors, geologists, miners and refiners have been feverishly working since that time to obtain an adequate supply by mining and crushing tons of Uraninite and tons of radio-active ore the reward has been only about eleven ounces of the metal.

Radium never occurs by itself but always in association with other minerals. It just naturally lives itself with uranium, thorium or actinium and makes of these what are technically called radio- active minerals. The favorite however is uraninite, a compound of uranium and commonly known as pitchblende. The Cardiff deposit is in the form of pitchblende.

Half a Ton to Produce a Grain

It requires almost half a ton of good quality of pitchblende to produce a single grain of radium. If pitchblende is found in large quantities anywhere the recovery of radium would be fairly easy.

All deposits of pitchblende so far discovered are in small nuggets or in crystals and these nuggets are distributed in veins with Scottish frugality. In the cross-cut to the side of the hill near Wilberforce it is easily possible to detect the little nodules of uraninite or pitchblende by their peculiar gun-metal color but the nuggets are not often over two inches in diameter and dwindle in size from that to the size of a pin-head.

The Discovery Accidental

Like the discovery of anaesthes and other events of major importance in the history of mankind the finding of radium was purely accidental. Prof. Pierre Curie and his talented wife, Madame Curie, two French scientists, were testing and experimenting with uraninite and other radio-active minerals in the year 1898 to try to ascertain the nature of the rays that the metals gave out in such a way as to affect the sensitive plate on a scientific photo paper. Then it was that Madame Curie detected the presence of a disturbing element associated with the uranium and, finally, as the result of many further tests and experiments succeeded in separating the radium from the uranium.

The Wilberforce Discovery

The first discovery of radium ore in the Wilberforce district also came about by accident. The find was made in the year 1923 by Mr. W. M. Richardson, a prospector who in the district many years in the Yukon. He came to Wilberforce partly in search of health and partly to try to discover further deposits of molybdenum which latter ore had been previously been discovered in quantities in the district. Mr. Richardson didn't find much molybdenum but he did discover some heavy, dark spar specimens which were new to him and he sent some of these to Ledoux and Company of New York for identification and analysis. The report came back that the spar was a momentous discovery. The ore was classified as uraninite and it had a content of 147 milligrams of radium to the ton. Mr. Richardson was then took steps to secure for him self the mineral rights on several hundred acres in the neighborhood of his discovery.

Recently a company was organized, known as International Radium and Resources Limited, to develop the property. Associated with the new company are several of the well-known men in the mineralogical world. Among them are Harry Oakes and W. B. Wright, respectively, president and vice-presiding of Lake Shore Mines Limited, and Joseph M. Aitkin, a brother of Lord Beaverbrook, who resides in London. It might be remarked in passing that Lord Beaverbrook, who is now hurrying Canada, expects to pay a visit to the mine next week.

A Handsome Property

The motor drive from Bancroft to Wilberforce passes through a district of unforgettable charm and rare natural beauty. Massive lake and sylvan lakes afford an ever changing panorama of tremendous fascination and the most enthusiastic onlooker to break out in exclamations of wonder and unrestrained delight. Few more impressive landscapes are to be found in all Canada.

After the road from Bancroft to Wilberforce is easily passable all the way for motor cars. The better route is by the road leading to Kamaniskeg Lake which passes along the northern shore of the marvellously beautiful Diamond lake. The wonder is that this latter scenic gem has not been more exploited as a resort for those seeking rest and the recreation of about ten miles of roadway in the central section that needs improvement. The summer residents of Hastings might well look into the needs of the situation here and cooperate with Haliburton in an endeavor to create better facilities for transportation to the picturesque group of lakes and on the radium field. A very important business interest as well as summer vacation traffic, might well be attracted to Bancroft and Hastings county. As it is practically all of this business is now diverted to the Kinmount and Lindsay route and so on to Toronto because of the more favorable highway conditions. Our municipal legislation should get busy.

BRITISH EXPERTS DISCUSS MYSTERY PLANE

This picture shows a conference of British engine experts in the cockpit of the S-6 B, Britain's mystery seaplane, which has been built in an effort to capture the Schneider Cup Races for the third successive occasion. R. L. Ransome, Chief of the British Aeronautical Inspection Department, is sitting on the bonnet of the plane, on the extreme left of the picture.

Development Has Begun

The property containing the uranium deposits consists of 700 acres and is located along the track of the T. H. & B. railway for a mile in successive shelving elevations to a height of 100 feet above the tracks. The summit of the hill is 1500 feet above the sea-level. Fifty feet below the summit the drill operations were begun last April to make a preliminary gain more accurate knowledge of the vein structure. A number of veins were found in large horizontally 430 feet and has intersected six important veins. The veins are all rich in uraninite and radium and vary in width from one foot to twenty feet or more.

The natural contour of the hill lends greatly to the facility of mine operations. Natural drainage is secured and the steep slope on the western side affords a convenient dump for the waste rock.

Mill Being Erected

A 150-ton mill that had been used for the treatment of radium bearing sun mines during the war has been purchased and is now being transferred to the property. It is expected that it will be in place by the end of October.

Business-like Management

Mr. M. D. Kennedy has been mining superintendent. He is a graduate of Toronto University and has had 26 years of Cobalt camp. For 6 years of that time he was manager at the Castle-Trethewey mines. Operations at the new mine are getting carried out in an economical and thoroughly business-like manner. The Belleville party is gratified at the results of the visit and his associates for the courteous reception given them on the occasion of their visit.

A Radium Field Probable

An interesting possibility and probable development that the company has in mind is the establishment of a sanitarium on the shore of one of the several beautiful lakes in the vicinity of the mine. That mineral enlergies is rendered reasonable by several marvellous local phenomena.

Radium Spring and Lake

Towards the base of the hill, on one of the shelves of the mine, there is a spring-fed lakelet about 200 feet across. The waters of the lake are radio-active and affect sensitized photographic paper identically the same manner as does radium ore. The crystals of uraninite are practically covered with showers of sparks that can plainly be seen by the naked eye, especially and will quickly darken photo paper. The water in this remarkable lake and even the sand beneath have that same uncanny radio-activity. A beautiful spring with an ice-cold flow of water, at the northern end of the lake also gives out radio effects.

The Therapeutic Properties of Radium

The therapeutic or curative properties of radium are now universally recognized by the medical profession for the treatment of cancer and other malignant growths. Tremendous possibilities lie ahead as further experimentation and a more generous supply of this wonderworking element give to the sufferer from the so-called "incurable" a have so long and so earnestly sought Therefore the new development in waters of what has been christened "Radium Lake" are to be found in these northern wilds of ours a new health-resort or spa where multitudes may go for treatment and restoration.

Ores That Burn Over 200 Years

Perhaps the greatest marvel about radium is the fact that it is continually discharging sparks or rays for millions of years without any practically no diminution of the volume or power of the outflow. As a matter of fact there is a reduction but as it requires 2280 years to reach the point of extinction of any individual would need to be considered more than a little over during his life-time.

19,000 Miles a Second

The rays given off by radium pass instantly through materials that are impervious to light, as has been stated above. The rays differ in their character and the three varieties have been respectively named "Alpha" "Beta" and "Gamma" rays after the first three letters of the Greek Alphabet. The alpha rays travel at the extraordinary speed of 19,000 miles a second. A piece of radium the size of a bean will give out the inconceivable number of 37 billions of Alpha particles a second. The alpha rays are transformed into helium and and the uraninite radius becomes lead, thus confirming the ancient theory that there is such a thing as the transmutation of metals. Nature is transmuting metals all the time. an ingredient of luminous paint, is in London.

The rate of disintegration of radium ore proceeds according to a fixed plan and cannot be altered by man, by any known process of science.

Although giving out tremendous energy in the form of heat and light and suffering the loss of particles of its original content at the unbelievable rate of 1-3 billionth of the one species of rays every second it requires 2280 years, as stated above ,to exhaust the reservoir. Truly nature is an ever enlarging wonder.

What Government Officials Report

«Authoritative reports have already been made upon the property by H. S. Spence and R. K. Carmichan of the Department of Mines at Otiawa. We cannot do better than conclude this article by some extracts from the statements issued by the Department last year.

"This report deals with the occurrence of radium ore near Wilberforce, Haliburton County, Ontario.

"The total present annual world production of radium is thus practically confined to the Belgium Congo output of grammes and the Bohemian product of Czechoslovakia. Allowing for a further small production from unrecorded sources it would seem that the total world production is under 50 grammes per year.

The Results Summarized

"There exists on the Richardson property near Wilberforce, Cardiff township, Ont., a deposit of radium-bearing ore larger than anything of the kind thitherto known in Canada and on which development work don during 1929 suggests has commercial possibilities.

"The ore is uraninite (the crystallized form of pitchblend), disseminated in the form of large crystals and in the form of lead salts and fluorite, which also carries large crystals of apatite. This deposit is believed to have a height of at least 500 feet, and its width ranges from 5 to 12 feet.

"The deposit is well situated in respect both to ease of mining and to transportation. The ore is soft and easily crushed; and concentration is readily effected by tabling, followed by magnetic separation of the associated magnetite and re-tabling of the uraninite tailing.Much of the contained uraninite, also, can be recovered by hand-picking of the crude ore.

"Test work by the Mines Branch on a carload shipment of ore showed that 1 gramme of radium, worth at the current market price $70,000, would be recovered from the mixed concentrate obtained from 2,432 tons of ore, allowing a loss of 10 per cent. during concentration.

"Uraninite is the richest ore of radium and is the principal material from which the bulk of the world's supply of radium salts has been obtained. Similar ore is being mined at the present time in the Belgium Congo, and Czechoslovakia and is treated chemically for the isolation of the contained radium.

"The present world supply of radium salts is stated to be about 50 grammes.

"Supplementary to the Government report it may now, be stated that the T. H. & B. railway has been traced for a distance 32.500 feet; a mile to the east another deposit is in process of development operations on the Triply farm are reported to be progressing satisfactorily. The Wilberforce radium field is now definitely established over a wide exhaustive of territory.

Meals taste twice as delicious when you have H.P. Sauce with them. How appetizing is the fruity flavor of this rich sauce. How good it is with every sort of dish—steaks, chops, fish, bacon, cheese, sausages, etc. How economical you'll find it in making cold meats and "left-overs" into the most tasty dishes.

Canada Will Provide Lead in Strengthening British Imperial Ties

Britain, Says Earl Jellicoe Will Surmount Crisis

TIE OF BLOOD

Says Canada Played Immense Part in Work of Empire

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 4.—(By The Canadian Press)—Great Britain was looking to Canada to provide a lead in strengthening the British Empire, declared Earl Jellicoe, President of the British Empire Service League, addressing the Empire Club luncheon here yesterday. Coupled with this remark was his confidence that Britain would surmount present difficulties and emerge successfully from the national crisis.

The Admiral of the Fleet recalled feeling which existed in the Dominion in the days when Canada refrained separate from the Empire and throw in her lot with the United States. Then Canada of today was sufficient suffer to the fear that such feeling might ever lead to action.

The observation of Empire Day in Canada, he developed from that feeling, he said. "It is well that our children should realize the community loyalty which binds the Empire; the tie of blood which is the most sacred and honor which we give to our King.

"Canada has played an immense part in the Empire's growth. Canada has fought in the common cause and I have no doubt she would do it again. In the present crisis Country will look to Canada to give a lead in strengthening the ties of Empire.

Challies Defends Prison Work on Markers

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 4 (CP) Hon. George R. Challies, provincial secretary, yesterday defended the Ontario government's policy of having automobile license markers made at the Ontario reformatory at Guelph.

Addressing the Ontario Municipal Association in convention here, he declared: "We are going to make open market and competing against labor because we have nothing to sell. All the work we make is used in the same or another institution under the control of the department. We are doing our best to keep down costs."

Farmers Claim Motorists Rob Fields, Trees

"Gathering where they have not sown," is being, put in very active practice by some motorists who stop stores above the level of the present east block of the parliament buildings here, is rapidly taking shape. The government, it is understood, is planning this year as a memorial to Ontario's youth who fell in the Great War, to have the design of the tower have been kept a fairly secret, but it will probably be all of stone construction.

Von Buelow May Give Up Secretarial Post

Berlin, Sept. 4 (CP)—The Democratic newspaper Volkszeitung said today, it was reliably informed that Secretary of State Bernhard Von Buelow would resign because of the renunciation of the Austro-German customs pact.

Von Buelow, who was once the late Prussian Minister Stresemann's right hand man, was described by the paper as the real author of the customs union idea and Foreign Minister Curtius was said to have been lukewarm when the idea was first broached.

WEATHERMAN TURNS GOOD TO FAIR MEN

Makes Directors Smile at First Break During Fair

BY ATTENDANCE

Today's Crowds Very Satisfactory to Board

Smile of contentment beamed on the countenances of the directors of the Belleville Fair last night, when the gates were closed for the day. It was the first "break" they had received from the weatherman during the week and their smiles responded nobly to the appeal to attend. One of the largest crowds to view the horse races in front of the grandstand was present in the afternoon, and in the evening, there was not a vacant seat when the race was postponed and fireworks displayed. The attendance was kept down on Tuesday and Wednesday due to overcast skies and a tinge of rain, however, the first real "scorcher" on Thursday it was bright and warm and the residents of the district came early and stayed late. It is not too late to put the Belleville fair over the top and if the public will only give as much co-operation as on Thursday, there will be no difficulties to draw.

Not only were the horse races a centre of interest but the cattle building was filled with thousands of visitors all the afternoon Thursday. The agriculturist had his turn in rings and the fine arts exhibit was on hand for him to view. The ladies' building was filled with the fair sex and Belleville district was placed, was also visited by many. There were a few changes in the exhibit from last year and of a better quality in the main. The grandstand, in conjunction with the races was the scene of a big throng of people and registered bred horses in harness. Some smart outfits were noticed, shown by exhibitors, who are making Belleville their port of call on the first week. There have been road horses shown in one class which is a distinctive annual for the smaller type of fair and it looks as if these will continue to be a big draw.

Heavy draught and light draught teams in harness were also shown, and the entries were good in the show was the Clyde team shown by Thomas Foster of Bloomfield. This team could win in Belleville exhibition so clean limbed were they and so handsome in their height and build of horseflesh. Hackneys had their innings for the first time yesterday but more in this class will be shown this afternoon. Saddle horses entered in the saddle horse class but apparently the animals had not been trained for this purpose as the judge poses as the riders could not distinguish between a fine and coarse gait. Shetland ponies under saddle entertained the children and Harry H. Hanna securing but third prize in this class. Another feature of the performance was going on the vaudeville entertained in the hills. Ed and his Rocky Mountain Band, Billy and Margaret entertained with their dancing work.

Large Crowds Expected at Closing of Fair Tonight

This evening will be the last of the 1931 Belleville Exhibition and plans are arranged for the handling of the largest crowds which have yet visited the Fair. Thursday's crowds were large and gratifying but the total of today's is expected to reach the peak of attendance for the week.

Adding to the interest of this program is the double program of the grandstand, which the directorate has arranged.

This is the last opportunity to see the exhibits in the buildings and it is the least that the citizens of Belleville and the district can do, to visit these buildings before the gates are closed.

Although the Fair closes tonight, the grounds and the fair buildings will be open tomorrow afternoon and evening, where the midway of Harry Lockhart will be in full swing until late in the evening. Those who are on the grounds will have the opportunity of enjoying the program from which the city derives a revenue.

BRITAIN THREATENED BY IDEALISM IN NAVAL CUT SAYS JELLICOE

Cruiser Shortage is Lashed by Admiral of Fleet

TORONTO ADDRESS

Britain Sets Example Which Nobody in World Follows

"To my mind we have set an example to the rest of the world which they are not following, but which in time may involve the greatest possible risk to Britain, the will to war has gone. (Applause.) Perhaps it has gone the furthest among the nations, although I am not quite so sure about that myself, but the will seems otherwise has not gone. One has only got to look at the general attitude to realize that sort. That is not the will to peace as it is to war. It is not war. Not, of course, against another nation, but something else, internally. To my mind, that wavers spirit to fight has gone in a way very disappointing. If they are prepared to put their own country first to avoid serious complications and danger, I am certain other nations, if they are not prepared we are, are ready to fight again for anything for which honor is necessary to fight for."

Coming as a climax to a comparison of British naval strength with that of other nations, and the declaration that we have scrapped and destroyer strength was "totally inadequate," this statement yesterday evening with emphasis by Earl Jellicoe, Admiral of the British Fleet, when speaking at the Navy League of Canada luncheon in the Royal York Hotel last night.

Coast Fortification

"We have set an example in disarmament which no other nation has followed," asserted his Lordship. "Before we can discuss any naval forces, we have done nothing with the question of fortification. Every other nation which has coastline, and most of them has spent millions on coast fortifications."

The hero of Jutland recollected the word of David Lloyd George, when opening the 1930 conference—"the sea is us"—and declared the phrases are correct. It is true our politicians realize the importance of the seas, but I do not think governments act up to what is necessary (Cheers and applause).

At another juncture, his Lordship said: "The British naval armament has been to take no account of the naval strength of the United States when arriving at our own naval requirements. The cruiser and destroyer tonnage which the United States were prepared to allow us at Geneva is totally inadequate." The speaker pointed out that the Washington Treaty then and they considered now that they could not exceed that tonnage. He also referred to the industry of the United States at the commencement of the Great War, the strength being 11% which has no higher than one essential to the safety of the Empire.

Starvation Threat

"We are continued Earl Jellicoe in a totally different position to any other nation in the world. Japan is following to a certain extent in our footsteps in their sea communications. But Japan is not so dependent upon the safety of sea communications as we ourselves. She is infinitely more self-supporting than Great Britain."

He stressed the fact that if the sea communications of Great Britain were impaired, it would mean starvation in about a month for the British people. Everyone in the question of the prosperity of both Dominions, continued his Lordship. "Although the Dominions have enormous resources there are imports and exports which are essential if not for life but for prosperity. So that the will to war has entered enough, in the light of the present day."

Nations, British prime ministers and conditions as came in for his uncompromising attack. Prime ministers of the Dominions reached war if not practice. He illustrated by quoting David George: "The navy is Britian's life," and Ramsay MacDonald: "The navy is us."

Japan was allowed to build vessels of war "because his dockyard was no worse, and he suggested that the London conference held good with regard to Japan, but of no validity for Britain.

Britain, he declared, always upheld security as her need, and was building accordingly. Pivotlis leading to the policy of disarmament to 10 years ago was that the London conference held good. Failed to Japan, but of no validity for Britain.

BARCELONA IS WITHOUT MEAT BREAD TODAY

Efforts Made to Put Down Disorders of Strike

TROOPS READY

Present Situation is Compared to "Bloody Week"

Barcelona, Spain, Sept. 4 (AP)—Barcelona, second largest city in Spain, was virtually meatless, breadless and without communications today as authorities fought to suppress disorders growing out of a general strike. Troops were held in barracks in readiness to cope with a repetition of yesterday's outbreaks in which at least one person was killed and several gravely wounded. The situation was compared to the bloody week of 1909 when strikers burned and sacked Catholic property.

Women Oppose Husbands

Barcelona, Spain, Sept. 4 (AP)—The women of Barcelona, rallying under the slogan "Down With Safety Politics," today decided to go on strike against their striking husbands.

Wives gave notice in hundreds of striking homes that they were the breadfast table that there would be no further meals for men who refused to return to work. The ultimatum was caused by the discovery that the general strike was giving out and there was an acute shortage of bread.

Ernie Marks Heads Independent Houses

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 4 (CP) — Ernest C. Marks, K.C., Mr. Justice Nova Scotia, where he had been in charge of the food problem in relation purposes of air pageants held in that district. Mr. Read is the owner of the equipment, this radio man having many contracts of this nature through the Eastern part of the Dominion. When nearing Notre Dame, Mr. Flindall saw two men on the road but paid but little attention to them. They were apparently hailing him for a lift but his help was heavy in the plane and there was no room. As soon as he passed by, the bullets began to whiz and he saw the men in a hurry moving from the scene. Mr. Flindall believes, that the men did not want a lift, but were there for robbery, believing the load to be the par car of a fair held in that district in the afternoon.

SOCIALIST HELD

Paterson, N.J., Sept. 4—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for governor of New Jersey in 1924 and in 1926, spent an hour in jail while awaiting arraignment with 47 others on charges of unlawful assemb ly in the textile strike here. He was released on $500 bail.

Wooden Bench Under Sheet Used by Gandhi

Aboard the S.S. Rajputana, Sept. 4.—Mahatma Gandhi, leader of India's nationalist millions, has spurning first-class stateroom placed at his disposal for his trip to the Round Table Conference in London, and sleeps on a wooden bench in the stern of the liner. Covered by a white sheet, he slept unconcern edly today while deck-patrolling passengers gazed in amazement. "Who is it?" they asked, and an affluent amazed courteously, "That is Mr. Gandhi, but this is his day of silence, and so he is sleeping."

BULLETS FLY THRU SHIELD

Nix Flindall Has Narrow Escape From Thieves Near Notre Dame

Nix Flindall, radio expert, employed by The Carl Read Company, Belleville, probably owes his life to the fact, that those shooting at him were not of good aim. This young man had a strange experience one Tuesday night last and has not yet fully recovered from the shock. While proceeding along the Quebec-Montreal highway, with a car which he was driving also at three times, two of the bullets passing through the windshield not more than two inches from the top of the car.

Mr. Flindall was returning from Charlottetown, P.E.I., and Sydney, Nova Scotia, where he had been in charge of the broadcasting of exhibition purposes of air pageants held in that district. Mr. Read is the owner of the equipment, this radio man having many contracts of this nature through the Eastern part of the Dominion. When nearing Notre Dame, Mr. Flindall saw two men on the road but paid but little attention to them. Britain to Race Alone For Cup

London, Sept. 4—Great Britain is to race herself for the Schneider Cup next year.

The Royal Aero Club has learned that Italy has decided, for reasons summed up as bad weather, bad, to withdraw from the contest, they would be unable to compete in the 1932 race unless the Cup could be postponed for six months.

The race therefore, as an International event is off.

Would Draw on Reserves To Relieve Distress

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 4—A proposal that Ontario municipalities formulated by big corporations should be empowered to draw on their sinking funds to relieve distress among employees, according to a resolution which was sent to Brantford Trades and Labor Council. The resolution was forwarded to Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Premier of Canada, and the Ontario Municipal Association meeting in Toronto.

2 BELMONT BOYS MISSING

Peterboro, Ont., Sept. 4.—Disappearance of two Belmont Township youths has alarmed their parents and Provincial Police have been asked to help investigate. The boys, Gordon Ellis, 16, and Herbert Joseph, 19, have been missing for three weeks. Reports that they were engaged in quarrels and that threats of violence were made have worried the parents.

During about a month in summer the polky regions receive as much rain as does the eastern.

The Netherlands East Indies report a growing trade revival.

Manganese With Lead Used in Cancer Treatment

New York, Sept. 4—Discovery that manganese combined with lead is useful in treatment of cancer, here, is reported in a special supplement of the American Journal of Cancer, out today.

Mixed with lead it prevents the bitter from poisoning the cancer patient. Lead was hailed a few years ago as a possible relief for cancer, but it failed because it killed patients about as rapidly as it destroyed cancer cells.

Manganese is a grayish-white metallic element, recently identified as desirable in human diet in very small quantities. Its lack in the food was reported at Johns Hopkins University last Spring as causing female rodents to bear "mother love."

The manganese cancer experiments are reported by William H. Schraeder, M.D., of the tumor clinic of Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia. His account is brief and indicates that it is "preliminary." He credits Dr. Hamilton Bradshaw, superintendent of the tumor clinic, with suggesting the magnesse.

Canadian Youth Wins World's Marathon Swim

George Young, famous Canadian long-distance swimmer, hero of the 1927 Catalina Marathon swim, made a strong return to the top of the ladder when he won the 15-mile Canadian National Exhibition Marathon Swim after a gruelling race against 170 professional stars in the cold waters of Lake Ontario. The picture shows Young, seated, after completing the distance. In the picture are Johnny Walker, Young's trainer; George himself; Mrs. Young; and Sam Harris, President of the Canadian National Exhibition. In the background are Mayor Stewart and one of Young's stand aids.

Love Letters of Shaw and Ellen Terry Made Public

London, Sept. 4—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw, in the role of an ardent lover of Ellen Terry, using terms of endearment that were fully reciprocated, is revealed in a collection of 300 letters which Miss Terry's daughter, Edith Craig, and which are published today in book form.

Miss Terry opened the correspondence with a business question addressed to Shaw as a dramatic critic. She was then 44 and he 36. The letters soon became intimate and the writers adopted such lovers' terms as "dearest," "Georgy" and "Nelly" and "Duck" "Dearest and Everest" and "My Precious Bernie."

ARMS BROKEN RUNS TO PAL

Quebec Boy Killed in Fall —Five Others Injured

St. Johns, Que., Sept. 4—The inquest of an accident which occurred elapsed here Thursday, carrying with it seven boys who were romping in a haystack.

One of the boys, Jean P. Sabourin 13, died a fractured skull incited in sawdust and smothered. Five others suffered arm breaks when escaped unharmed. The boys were so terrified when they found they could not walk that they crawled, forgetting their injuries, then ran over to a nearby farm for help in house to summon assistance. One of the boys had both arms broken and another a severe cut in the foot. "We didn't notice it, we were so frightened," one of them declared later.

The injured were: Georges Normandin, 14, fractured arm and bruises; Marcel Marchand, 8, cut foot; Lucien Goyette, 11, broken side and possible internal injuries; Jules Aube, 12, both arms fractured; and Ab. Adams at the piano. s3-tf

Cleveland, O., Sept. 4.—British nerve, and an undisputed sense of British humor, are appealing mightily to crowds at the 1931 National air races.

These two human attributes are being displayed in large doses by Flight Commander Thomas L. R. Atcherley, British Royal Flying Corps and a member of the 1929 Schneider Cup team.

Still bandaged about the head as result of a serious crack-up a few days ago, the lanky British speed ace yesterday plowed furrows in the ground with his wing tips before 53,000 wildly shouting spectators.

Major Ernst Udet, German war ace, had been cutting great arcs with his wing tips for a week, but Commander Atcherley put on a display of brilliant stunting that took the crowds off their feet.

The wing tips of his Curtis two-seater plane bobbed and went like the cuffs of trousers frayed by hard wear. He has flown mostly on one wing, and once he climbed about the home pylon on the wheel, teetering precariously.

Before he took off, Commander Atcherley asked a crowd of smile and with aluminum paint drew zigzags and circles on the wheels of his ship.

"This may seem like a foggy idea," he confided to mystified mechanics, "but the folks out there will think it's the hankety hankety contrail off. The folks did.

And as a souvenir of the races, he is taking home the motor of the ship he cracked up when the landing gear washed out. The rest of the plane—little more than debris—he will leave here "as a monument."

"CUTTING IN" CASE

Wm. Thorn, 81 West Bridge St. was fined $25 and costs on the charge of "cutting in" thereby causing a serious accident in which two persons were injured on Monday last, August 31. The accident occurred early in the afternoon, about a half mile west of "Tilley" on the highway between Belleville and Trenton. Mrs. C. Hall, of Ida, Ont., St Catharines, wife of the owner of the car; and a ten-months-old girl, Mary Saddler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Saddler of Whitby were painfully but not seriously injured. The latter car was being driven by Mr. Saddler.

POLICE OVERTAKE CAR

Thursday night about ten-thirty o'clock, Constable Gow noticed a car being driven in an allegedly reckless manner north on Front Street. He overtook the motorists at the upper bridge and on testing the brakes found them, it is said, defective. The driver of the car gave the name of Murray Spencer, of Campbellford and John Ed Brady of Campbellford, an occupant of the car, claimed to be the owner. The constable took both men to the Police Station. No charge was laid against Spencer, but Brady was charged with intoxication and abusive conduct. In police court this Friday morning Brady was fined $15 and $7 costs on the charge of drunkenness and $10 for defective brakes.

BOY COMES TO TOWN

Getting "fed up" with life in the "Big City" Leonard Parker, 16 years old, left his home at 294 Woburn Avenue, Toronto, and came to Belleville, without giving any intimation of his intention to any one. His parents became anxious at his protracted absence and asked the Toronto Police to locate him. Sergeant Booth of the city police, found the boy this Friday visiting at the home of Mr. Forbes, 44 Yeomans Street. To the sergeant the young chap stated that he had no fault to find with his home, only wanted a change. He promised to go home Saturday and the anxiety of his parents has been relieved.

Thursday afternoon the patrons of the Belleville Fair were treated to an unexpected thrill when three aeroplanes and two large bombing machines flew over the Fair grounds. The two monoplanes kept to their flight but the faster aeroplanes circled the grounds and saluted the fair by the use of their usual dipping of wings. The sight was one well worth seeing as the planes flew in formation and gave the fair patrons a small demonstration of feats in the air. Their efforts were so well appreciated by fair management that President Chas. E. Hanna immediately drove his car to the Trenton airport, where the planes landed and personally thanked the officer in charge on behalf of the Belleville fair for their thoughtfulness and courtesy. The planes were from the government air station at Trenton and were travelling homeward again they flew over Belleville.

FEEBLE EFFORTS ON WALL ST.

New York, Sept. 4—The stock market made rather feeble efforts to get on its feet again today, after the wallop received from yesterday's selling wave.

FOUR IN FRONT SEAT

Roy P. Rogers of Bridgeburg, Ont., was fined $10.00 in City Police Court this Friday morning on the charge of driving with four persons in the front seat; this practice comes under the regulations of "reckless driving."

NEW STAMPS ISSUED

Early this week the Stamp Vendor of the local Post Office received the new issue of two cent stamps. The new two cent stamp is of a light brown color. It shows a three quarter profile of the King's head and carries a Maple Leaf in each upper corner. The new three cent stamps were put in issue early this summer and are of a light red hue.

STILL WARMING UP

According to the Government records the temperature is a little lower today than yesterday. The mercury dropped to 54 during the night and only registered 71 at noon. Yesterday's temperatures were 75 high and the mercury only dropped to 57 during the previous night.

ATTENDS MEETING

Major R. D. Ponton, K.C., is attending a meeting of the Canadian Bar Association at Murray Bay, Quebec. He will return Monday.

ILL AT FAIR

While attending the horse races and viewing the fair on Thursday afternoon, Harris Wood of Prince Edward County was stricken with a heart attack and required medical attention. Mr. Wood was taken on to the secretary's office and placed on a cot, not being allowed to leave the grounds until late in the evening so that no further strain would be put on the human organ. Mr. Wood was interested, early watching the races from a grand stand seat, when he reeled over. He was carried to his car at first and after medical attention was given was taken down to the office.

FAILS IN ATTEMPT

Windsor, Ont, Sept. 4 (CP) — When his plane was unable to get higher than 15,000 feet, J. R. McCorkell, Windsor parachute jumper, failed this morning in an attempt to establish a new Canadian jump. McCorkell landed south of Devonshire race track. He made a perfect landing and was uninjured.

CHARLES COBORN DEAD

Toronto, Sept. 3—Word has been received in Toronto of the death at sea of Charles Coborn, born in Chicago, husband of Ida Parker, well known Toronto actress, and of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, Mr Coborn was a nephew of Mrs. Duncanie, was on his way to France in an effort to recuperate after a long illness at his home in London. Mr. Ryan is survived by his wife and one child.

Miss Isabell Adelia Sutherland

An old resident of Belleville passed away at her home in Toronto on Thursday in the person of Miss Isabell Adelia Sutherland. Miss Sutherland had been ailed the very best of health and her death was a distinct shock to her many friends who were shocked to hear of her passing. She was the daughter of the late William and Jane Catherine Frailick Sutherland and was born in Belleville some years ago. She lived the greater part of her life in Belleville before moving to Toronto, where she has resided for the past fifteen years. Miss Sutherland was a member of John Street Church during her residence in Belleville and took considerable interest in church work. The only living relative left to mourn the loss of Miss Sutherland is Mrs. A. J. Tyrrel, Royal Road, Belleville.

MRS. EMILY MARSKELL

After a lengthy illness, one of this communities oldest residents passed away this morning in the person of Mrs. Emily Marskell. Mrs. Marskell was the widow of the late A. J. Marskell who died in Belleville 26 years ago. Mrs. Marskell was born in London, England, and came to this country when but a young girl. She has been a resident of this district for over 81 years and her many friends will sadly miss her and sympathize with the family as she was highly respected in this community. She leaves to mourn her loss, one daughter Mrs. Lewis Miles of Belleville and one son Mr. A. J. Marskell of Watertown, N.Y.

DIED

MARSKELL—At her late residence Herchimer Ave, Thurlow Township, on Friday, September 4th, 1931, Emily Marskell, widow of the late A. J. Marskell, in her 82th year.

The funeral will be held from the Tickell & Browne Funeral Home, 256 Church Street on Monday, September 7, 1931. Service at 3 p.m. Interment Belleville Cemetery. 2d-1t

SWIM WINNERS COMPETE AGAIN
George Young and Margaret Ravior to Appear in Sprints

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 4.—The Mail and Empire says today, George Young, winner of the men's marathon swim at the Canadian National Exhibition and Margaret Ravior, of Philadelphia, Pa., winner of the women's ten-mile swim, will not take part in the eight-mile swim at Pointe Aux Trembles Sunday. The paper says: "Both the champions of the Walker cup" are going to Montreal, but neither will take part. George yesterday was stiff and sore from the grind of his ordeal, on Wednesday, and Miss Ravior was still suffering from an abscess in her ear.

"George Young will swim again for exhibition crowds when he competes in the Pointe-aux-Trembles meet next week from tomorrow, against the fastest natators in professional swimming. It is likely, however, that George's salary in the race was made yesterday by Johnny Walker, the coach," the paper says.

"Both the winners in this year's marathon swims will appear in the short swim," Walker also stating that Margaret Ravior would take part in the women's swim."

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mr. A. E. Baldwin and son, George, have returned home after spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. Alfred Wessels is a patient at Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Norman Wessels is in Toronto, attending the Exhibition.

Mr. George B. VanBlaricom, an old Belleville boy, now editor of "Canada Lumberman," Toronto, was in town today for a short time. Mr. VanBlaricom, accompanied by Mrs. VanBlaricom, his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. S. Robertson of Toronto, and his sister, Miss Stella VanBlaricom, 18 Highland Avenue, Belleville, has been on a very enjoyable motor holiday to Ottawa, Montreal and other Eastern points.

The many friends of Miss Hope Thompson, 37 Galt, formerly of Belleville, will be interested to learn that she has entered the training school for nurses at Hamilton General Hospital.

Miss Anna Culhane, of Rochester, N.Y., who has been visiting friends and relatives in the city, returned to her home today.

Mr. Pat Donovan, 178 Victoria Avenue, is a patient in the Hotel Dieu, Kingston

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Armitage, George Street, are leaving today, for Minaki Lodge where they expect to spend the next ten days. Upon their return, Mr. Armitage will take up his duties with the North American Insurance Co. at Ottawa, but will continue in residence at his home, 388 George Street, Belleville.

Mr. Clarence Thompson, who has been a patient at Belleville General Hospital, owing to injuries in an accident last week, is recovering.

At the tea held at the Bowling Green Thursday afternoon, the Cooper Cup, which was donated by Col. Conger, Ottawa, was presented by the president, Miss Hurley, to Mrs. M. F. Nash, also the accompanying prize which was donated by the club. The runners-up prize, also donated by the club, was won by Mrs. H. A. Singer.

Mrs. Campbell Wallbridge of Madoc was a visitor in the city yesterday.

Mrs. Fred Curry, Madoc, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. Tom Byrne, aircraftsman at Camp Borden, is in the city to attend the Nafi-Torrance wedding at which he will act as usher tomorrow.

Mrs. Homan, Foxboro, who underwent an operation at Belleville General Hospital, is progressing.

Mrs. John T. Clark, 112 College Street, was hostess at a charmingly arranged trousseau tea, yesterday, in honour of her daughter, Miss Kitty Torrance, bride-to-be. The guests were received by Mrs. Clark, Mrs. S. M. Nafi of Cleveland, Ohio. The pretty rooms were profusely decorated with late summer flowers. The tea room was attractively arranged with streamers and the tea table was centred with gladioli, candles of the same tint being used in the candelabra on the table. On Tuesday, the popular bride-elect was guest of honour at a handkerchief shower held at the home of Mrs. F. Byrne, 114 East Moira Street. Three tables of bridge were in play and a dainty lunch was served before the guests left for home.

Mrs. Homan, Foxboro, who underwent an operation at Belleville General Hospital, is progressing.

WEDDINGS

HIPPERN—KNIGHT

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Thursday, September 3rd, at the Salvation Army Citadel when Mary Helen Knight, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Knight of Foxboro was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Hippern, of Belleville. Brigadier Calvert performed the ceremony, after which the bride and groom with some friends journeyed to the home of the bride's parents where a pleasant afternoon and evening were spent. Mr. and Mrs. Hippern will reside in Belleville.

SHERMAN—BALCANQUEL

A very pretty autumn wedding was solemnized on Tuesday, September 1, 1931, at the United Church Parsonage, Camilton, when one of Gilead's popular young ladies, Miss Helena May Balcanquel, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Balcanquel of Gilead, Thurlow Township, was united in marriage to Mr. Franklin Sherman, o. Belleville. Rev. W. R. Merrick officiated at the service. The young couple were unattended. The bride looked charming in a becoming dress of the latest style, and the ceremony took place in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. Immediately following the service the happy couple left on their honeymoon trip while being enthusiastically showered with confetti and good wishes. Upon their return they will make their home in Camilton.

LARGE BEAR IS SHOT

A large female bear was killed last evening at Cooper's Landing near Crowe Lake, by James McGrath and Alphonse Shannon. Immediately on news of the killing the lodgers at the hotel set out to bring in the trophy.

Letters to the Editor

Editor Ontario Intelligencer:

While walking in the Fair Grounds Thursday afternoon Constable John Gow and Fireman Chas. Orestrix came upon a man from Prince Edward County lying on the grass among the cars parked at rear of the Grand Stand.

They immediately rendered all assistance and when he had partly recovered found who had brought him to the fair and got to touch with Mr. Tice, the judge at the races, who called his friend from the Grand Stand and also they called Dr. Tennent who made an examination of the man which showed that he had taken a serious heart attack.

Those two men very modestly slipped away after the doctor arrived and I think a word of praise is due them for their kindness to a stranger and through your columns it would do well to give them a word of praise.

A Friend.

Archduke Leopold Salvator Is Dead

Vienna, Sept. 4 (AP)—Archduke Leopold Salvator, father of Archduke Anton of Hapsburg who recently married Princess Ileana of Rumania, died here today.

He had been ill for some time and last Tuesday underwent the second major operation within a week.

Clocks Soon to Turn Back

Don't forget the clocks in the house before midnight, Monday, September 7th. At this time the clocks will be set back one hour and Daylight Saving Time in Belleville will come to an end for this year. The council adopted Daylight Saving time by by law to take effect from June 15th until midnight of Labor Day, with the understand ing that a vote would be taken at the municipal elections in December as to whether it would continue for another year. The vote will be taken on the municipal list and not on the Provincial list as advocated by those in favor of the measure.

INJURED IN FALL

Mrs. A. Board sustained severe bruises when she fell downstairs yesterday afternoon at the home of her niece, Mr. Parks, Bleecker Avenue. Fortunately no bones were broken in the fall and today the condition of Mrs. Board, who was taken to Belleville General Hospital, is favorable.

THE WRONG MAN

Imprisoned for twenty-two years for another man's crime, a man of forty-eight years is drawing near the end of his incarceration but he does not believe it. Why should he think that the fates which sent him to a life of solitude and isolation should turn in his favor even when he has always been in the right?

Society which protects itself by sending a man to prison for the infraction of the laws and for the protection of itself can never repay this man for the haqm which has been done him. There is and no other solution but to look for redress and compensation in a life to come.

Fortunately for such mistakes of justice do not often happen.

Jesse Lucas, was arrested in 1908 with his mother charged with the murder of Clyde Showalter in October 1905. The mother was acquitted after a second trial and died some years ago. Jesse was convicted and is still in prison. Recently George R. Pound died, after confessing report says, that he murdered Showalter in a holdup and tossed his body into the river. Mrs. Pound and the surviving members of the jury have made appeal for pardon of Lucas and the former has sworn to an affidavit that her husband admitted the killing. Twice the Pardon Board of Illinois promised him, he says, release if he admitted the murder but he could not because he did not do it. Only twice has Lucas broken a prison rule, once by singing a hymn after hours in his cell.

But with all this Lucas has no such load upon his soul as did Pound when he was dying admitting murder and guilty of allowing another man to be shut away from society for his offence.

HAY FEVER

Hay fever is the subject of an editorial in the Hamilton Spectator and the subject of discussion in many a home at this season of the year. The Spectator is humorously inclined in its treatment for it says:

"For many years we have not seen so little attention directed to hay fever in newspapers and magazines. Towards the end of the season an article in the Literary Digest breaks what is almost a silence. How different it was a year or two ago! Up in Sault Ste. Marie the Ca-choo club of America was holding its convention (it would choose the Soo), while Mr. T. A. Edison was standing up for the defense of goldenrod against its traducers. Montreal was boasting of a new clinic for hay fever sufferers in the General hospital there, and in Hamilton the chamber of commerce, the department of health, the works committee and the city council were arguing about weeds and their removal. Mr. William Ainslee introducing a little local color into the topic by appearing before the board of control with samples of ragweed in full bohm. But we must give credit where credit is due. Part of the public apathy about hay fever is to be attributed to the energetic efforts of the chamber of commerce and certain aldermen. They preached a crusade against weeds and the weeds had their heads chopped off. Perhaps if a census was taken there would be less hay fever found in Hamilton this summer, and if so, these pioneers are partly responsible. We do not know if they would be wholly responsible. The article in the Literary Digest says that hay fever is sometimes induced by suggestion. The mere sight of ragweed is enough to send certain people sneezing, and if people have been too busy thinking about other things to catch hay fever through worrying about it, the depression may be credited with one good mark, at least.

THE OLD ONES

Veterans, old athletes, who were the heroes of contests two generations or more ago preserve their interest in sports. "When I was a boy, we could jump as high as these boys," said one patriarch at the fair. The lure of the contest brings these men back to the game in which they recall their boyhood and young manhood.

THE HORSE IS IT

Motors are not for racing. The provincial laws make that clear for the average man and woman. Even a great fair cannot draw out many exhibitors in the car class while the equine classes are larger than they have been in history, and the track events are held with the largest of fields. That engine, the racehorse, still draws the crowds. He has much to do with the making of a fair, while his brothers in the stalls for exhibition purposes are also playing their pair.

A few days of school and the boys and girls who made the streets and the lots resonant with shouts at play have come under the quieting influence of education and "civilization."

GYPSY SONG
By Aline Michaelis

As the wind passes
Swiftly along,
Bending tall grasses,
Singing its song,
So I go roving,
Never at rest,
The wide plain loving
And the hillcrest.

Like water flowing
Down a steep hill,
Leaping, and going
Gaily, at will,
So I pass ever,
Restless unsure,
Knowing joys never
For long endure;
Holding one pleasure
Dearer than all,
The bliss I treasure
In the fast call.

NO IMMIGRANTS NEED APPLY

Migration was a master fact in Western civilization throughout the nineteenth century and until 1914.

But during the past decade it has been drastically limited in the entire world, notes the London New Statesman and Nation, and in 1931 is virtually ceased.

The principal facts of this remarkable reverse movement are gathered by this London weekly from the report of the British Overseas Settlement Committee.

"Not only the Dominions," says the report, "but all countries of immigration, including the United States, have, within the past year, taken special measures with a view to restricting immigration." So long as the world depression continues, no improvement can be expected, adds The New Statesman and Nation, and it proceeds:

"That is the plain fact, but it does not contain half the truth of a most important matter.

"The United States is engaged in the gigantic task of welding its chaotic elements into a national community. Whatever may happen as to a return of prosperity, the close restriction of immigration will continue. Less and less will the emerging American national call upon the people of Europe for new citizens.

"The Austrian democracy, again, is resolved upon the control of its population. Lord Nortcliffe told the Australians that their continent ought to support an additional ten millions. Nothing in the near future is more certain than that Australia will not take one million of Britain's surplus population—or even a quarter of a million.

"As for Canada, there are two main facts to be kep in mind. The first is that, even in good times, the growing industrialization of the Dominion does not mean any material addition to immigration from Britain; and the second is that the rural West is now far advanced in a process of revolutionary change.

"Forty years ago the development of the prairie provinces was entered upon, with unbounded energy and confidence, because it was assumed that the empire of Wheat involved an advancing West in which a population of twenty millions, or thirty, did not seem an extravagant estimate. Wheat today spells something like ruin, while manifestly the huge mechanized farm of tomorrow can not be the unit of a populous prairie region.

"One undeniable conclusion is that the problem of British migration is a problem not for the mother country but for the Dominions. They will decide; they have already decided, and their immigration policy embodies a resolution which will not—at any rate for our generation—be changed."

"Another difference between plants and animals," said the teacher, "is that plants are not susceptible of close attachment to man as animals are."

"How about burrs, teacher?" piped a small boy who had passed his summer in the country.

MODERN ETIQUETTE
By Roberta Lee

Q. Should two persons who are divorced meet each other in friendliness?

A. Etiquette demands that they meet as strangers, for unless there had been some good reason for making friendliness impossible, they would not be divorced.

Q. When are flowers sent for a funeral?

A. Shortly before the services.

Q. What is the order of procedure for men and women when entering a restaurant?

A. The women follow the head waiter, and the men follow the women.

Discipline and authority, which are of the essence of the Fascist scheme of things, are also virtues stressed in Catholic teaching. The greatest enemy to the dictatorship of ides in the modern world is the right of the individual, whether expressing itself in political liberty or in the field of belief and conduct. But on the claim of individualism, particularly the claims of modern individual, "self-expression" the Fascist leader and the Church are in close agreement. Mussolini has spoken out and acted against the ultra fashions in dress, which and amusements which have provoked the censure of the Church. Upon one salient modern question, birth-control, Fascism and the Church are in hearty accord. Mussolini's pleas for a sturdy population and are by way of being realized. On the question of labor in the modern State there is also much in common between the Church's teaching of the mutual responsibility of employer and workingman and the Fascist ideal of the Corporative State imposing its will on capital and labor. If it be recalled that on the question to which Pope Pius has dedicated two recent encyclicals, Christian Marriage and Labor, the position of Church and Fascist State are in accord, it is not difficult to understand why any up-flare of hostilities between the two is apt to pass off without serious consequences.—New York Times.

STREETS THE BRIGHT SPOT

While certain clouds may still overhang the business horizon, many bright spots are now the more readily to be discerned. The present is no time for gloomy forebodings, the dark days are over and we do well to look ahead. That we should exercise caution at all times is, of course, to be understood though not always appreciated as we know well from past experience. Many of us, however, are inclined perhaps to look too scrutinizingly in the wrong direction for recovery, but Mr. Scobell's article should go far in suggesting the right perspective and in remaining in along certain lines.

It seems also pertinent to add that more forward looking and less gloomy talk would do more than anything else at present to bring us back to normal. Sales managers know that there is a sizable reserve of buying power throughout Canada but realize that people are not buying because many of us are still hard pressed—and without always any too much reason. It would certainly seem that business men and women, who do the bulk of retail buying, would do well to reconsider the embargo they seem to have set up against sales outlets and begin some sensible purchasing while it is still to their advantage to do so.—Commerce of the Nation.

BARNUM DESERVES HELP IN HIS FIGHT TO PRESERVE CANADA'S FORESTS

One Canadian who has earned the admiration of thinking Canadians is Frank J. W. Barnum. Year after year he has put up a heroic if losing fight for the preservation of Canada's forests.

Making wilderneeses where once magnificent forests stood results in droughts, floods, forest fires, insects and crushes the lumber from which are encreasing year by year at an appalling rate.

Moreover as Mr. Barnum points out, the prodigality with which pulpwood concessions have been handed out may have helped the promoters, but has resulted in the loss to the public of hundreds of millions of dollars.

It is time the public of Canada rose in their might and gave needed assistance in his campaign to stop this imbecilic waste of the country's resources.—Toronto Telegram.

ANNOUNCING
THE GREATEST FORWARD STEP IN THE HISTORY OF THE COAL INDUSTRY
TRADE-MARKED HARD COAL!

The blue color mark is like the sterling mark on silver. It identifies the finest hard coal that has ever been brought above ground. 'blue coal' is colored at the mine with a harmless coloring that does not affect the coal in any way.

NOW you need not buy coal by guess-work . . . or have to depend on your furnace to tell the truth about the coal you have bought . . . for you can positively identify the finest of all Scranton Anthracite (hard coal). We have branded it unmistakably with a harmless Blue tint.

'blue coal' is not new . . . it is the same famous D. L. & W. Scranton anthracite (hard coal) that has been giving complete satisfaction in Canadian homes for more than 50 years. The color enables you to identify the finest coal that has ever been brought above ground . . . the superior quality fuel you should get for the price you have been paying.

There can be no mistake when you order 'blue coal' for it is colored at the mine and no other coal can be branded in this way. Simply ask or 'phone your dealer for 'blue coal' in the size you require. One glance will tell you whether or not your order has been correctly filled.

'blue coal' breaks square . . . not round or flat . . . this means even burning. No need to force your fire and drive precious heat up the chimney.

Your dealer will deliver 'blue coal' on the clear understanding that if it does not give you complete satisfaction, the remainder will be removed, without cost. 'Phone him now. You pay for 'blue coal' comfort—start getting it today!

Order from your Dealer—NOW!

STUDY MAN'S ORIGIN WITH DEVELOPMENT

Scientific Workshop Opens At Santa Fe, N. Mexico

MEANS OF STUDY

Santa Fe, N.M., Sept. 3 — A quest for an understanding of man's origin and development in the Americas henceforth will be centred in a new scientific workshop to open formally in Santa Fe tonight.

It is the laboratory of anthropology, sponsored by John D. Rocke feller, Jr., from which expeditions in north, south and central America will be directed and where men may delve deeper into the mysteries of vanished races or still existing peoples of ancient origin.

The laboratory is the only institution of its kind in the United States were scientists, regardless of their organization affiliation, may work individually or in collaboration with each other in anthropological research.

First that

The first unit is a massive building of Pueblo architecture recently completed at a cost of $200,000.

Dr. A. V. Kidder, chairman of the board of directors, believes that with the possible exception of Peru, the southwest is the only field in the world where men can study in detail that which is really fundamental in civilization.

This fundamental is portrayed by him as the banding of a people into communal existence through domestication and use of cereal as a human product.

One of the most important new theories to occupy the attention of the laboratory officials is that advanced by Dr. Kidder, holding that the southwestern civilization either antedated or was co-existent with that of Mexico, instead of being descendant from Mexico.

Pottery Origin

Much evidence Dr. Kidder said, has already been assembled to substantiate beliefs that pottery making originated in the southwest instead of Mexico, and that the Indians of this region were the first people in the Americas to practice masonry.

The plastic mosaicture of the field was a dominant factor in the location of the laboratory in the southwest, Dr. Kidder said.

"Here the climate is dry, evidences of the earliest tribes are in a remarkable state of preservation and the Indians live under conditions similar to those of their ancestors."

The purpose of the laboratory is essentially educational. It is not a museum, although there are many displays of Indian crafts interesting to visitors.

Jesse L. Nusbaum, formerly director of Mesa Verde National Park is director of the laboratory. Dr. Kidder is a member of the staff of Phillips Academy Andover, Mass., and is chairman of the division of historical research of Carnegie Institute in Washington.

Forty three scientists from all parts of the United States, Canada and Mexico have made reservations at Santa Fe to attend the opening.

CAR PLUNGES INTO CANAL

Dashes Through Open Barrier, One Man Dies

Montreal, Que., Sept. 4—(By The Canadian Press)—One man was killed and others injured, when a small sedan containing four young people crashed through the barrier at Wellington Street bridge and plunged into the Lachine canal. The dead man was believed to be Thomas J. Hurley, 21 of Montreal. Three rescued were Lillian Holmes, 18, Tony Russell, 18, and William Aldis, 21, said to have been the driver of the car. All three were taken to hospital and a police guard was set over Aldis.

It was reported by police and bridge guards that the car approach ed the canal at such a speed that it could not be stopped at the barrier and crashed through to topple over the canal bank. The bridge had been opened, to allow the passage of a steamer.

Centenary

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Adams, Third Concession of Sidney, on Friday, August 29, when about fifty friends and neighbours gathered to honour Misses Clara and Jean who are leaving their home to take up positions in Toronto.

The following address was read by Miss Helen Hart.

Dear Clara and Jean:—

We have gathered here to-night all your old friends and neighbours to spend another social hour with you in the old home.

We are sorry you are both leaving our community at once, but feel proud to think you are entering into business life of city, with such bright prospects in view and we are sure you will make good where ever your lot may be cast.

We will miss you Clara so much both in the Sunday School, choir and Church. You have always been at your post and no duty was too hard for you to face and always with such a willing and cheerful spirit. In the social life you have always been a good, true friend and we are thankful for the influence on your life has had upon the youth of our community. We wish you every success and happiness in your new surroundings.

Dear Jean:—

You have not been with us so much the past five years, yet we will miss your cheery face and witty saying. We are proud of the success you have had in the business life in the past and hope great things in the future. We sure can say, as a friend, you're constant, honest, true. In fact we think a lot of you as you both go forth to face the world with its joy and sorrow. We hope you will always have kind remembrance for your old friends at Centenary.

May the Giver of gifts, give unto you

That which is good, and that which is true

A heart that sings the whole day through,

Whether the skies be gray or the skies be blue,

May the Giver of gifts, give these gifts to you.

They were presented with a travelling bag and purse.

We kindly ask you to accept these gifts as a slight token of our respect and esteem for you both.

Signed—Miss Helen Hart, D. A. Thrasher, Clayton Eggleton, Harold Thrasher, Ivan Garrison.

After Clara and Jean had thanked these assembled for their kindness, lunch was served and enjoyed by all.

"Pat" Patterson of the CIACO girls softball team, has been declared eligible by the Eastern Association. It is more than likely the "parrot boys" have investigated the case and found the real reason why "Pat" was suspended. His refusal to her release at least three weeks before 18 was forthcoming. (Why all the delay?)

The play-offs in the Eastern Association start in a Belleville on Monday when the Kingston Capitols play here against the CIACO team. These two teams each declare a victory on or before September 19th. They also must be ready to play the winner of Ottawa and Brockville on their home ground on September 25th.

The CIACO club and the Kingston Capitols are going to play on Monday here, Wednesday in Kingston and the third game will be played on Thursday if necessary, Monday's game will start at 6 p.m.

On Monday afternoon the second game of the O.B.A. intermediate semi-finals between Belleville and Toronto Columbus will be played at the Fair Grounds. The local lads made a wonderful showing in Toronto and they think that they have a very fine chance to win the Queen City champions on the holiday. Manager Vern West will no doubt start his ace pitcher, "Dud" Wilkins, on the mound with Thomas McGinn doing the receiving. The same dimmie is improving every day and looks like the best young catcher that has been seen in Belleville in quite some time. Les Calhane at first, "Pee-wee" Murray at second with Cy Barnes at short and Zeek Tobe covering third make a pretty infield for any junior team to beat at the present. Outfield is taken care of by Carter, Graham, Fahrell, Saunders and a couple of others who will shoot alright when they worked out last night.

"Two in a row," seems to be the motto of the Gibbard team from Napanee. They stepped into Trenton and beat the local league winners with ease on Wednesday afternoon, once again Coach Gerow used very shaken judgment by pitching Fred Scottley at the "Americus." Archie Campbell did not have any better luck on hand than he did down in Napanee. The score was 5 to 4.

"Yammie" Jamieson did not look so good on Wednesday afternoon when the Beaches beat the Tecks 8 to 5. Jamieson walked no less than thirteen batters during his sojourn on the mound. The reason for this being that the Beaches did not try to hit the first pitched ball. Any pitcher should win when he continually gets over on innings by not throwing more than half a dozen balls.

Which reminds us of the fact that a public meeting for the Belleville Nationals should be called very soon if they are going to operate next season.

On Labour Day the Bay of Quinte Country Club are having their annual "field day," Starting at 9.30 a.m. they will have the men's driving competition. Ten a.m. approaching contest, tee-shirty, mixed foursome (nine holes), also putting competition, one ball on each green, nine holes. In the afternoon 18 holes match play, against each other only. Those wishing to enter the competition should hand their names to Mr. Little as soon as possible.

24 Firms, Individuals Face Ninety Charges

Toronto, Ont. Sept. 4—(CP) — In police court Thursday 24 firms and individuals were called to answer a total of 90 charges of conspiracy and breaches of the combines act arising out of the recent investigation into alleged unethical combine in Toronto.

None of the accused appeared in person and Donald Gordon, K. C., and J. D. Lucas said he understood they were asking for an enlargement. The cases were then adjourned until Sept. 17.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 4—Crushed between a speeding car and a curb gasoline tank, James Pokorchak received injuries which caused his death in the Western Hospital. The driver of the car is J. E. Stevens is held on a charge of criminal negligence.

According to the police Stevens attempted to get in front of a street car and crashed into a parked car hurling Pokorchak against the gasoline tank. Pokorchak was an attendant at the station.

THE SHETLAND SHAWL

As gray as mist, or white as foam,
Or brown as peats within the creel,
The wool comes through the carding comb,
And then she winds it on her wheel!

For long and long she sits and spins,
Until at last the whole is done,
And then she takes her knitting pins
And casts on stitches one by one.

And there beneath her busy hands
Gossamer-like a pattern grows
Of lovely soft and silken strands
Linked up together, row on row,
Tracing the primitive design,
The plain work of the saint-ground,
The loose stitch of the border line,
And shell-shaped scalloping all round.

Who knows that dreams have helped to form
This web so airy-light and small,
What thoughts have made so cozy-warm
My little fleecy Shetland shawl!

U. S. Engineers Work Out Plans for 2 Dams on River

At Last Agree With Canadian Engineers' Views

USE OF POWER

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP) —United States engineers have worked out plans for the development of the St. Lawrence waterway which call for two dams in the International section.

With the two dam system as a basis for agreement, it was said on high authority today that the United States is ready to proceed immediately on negotiations with Canada to push forward the project.

Canadian and United States engineers heretofore have disagreed on the necessity for two dams, the Canadians holding out for two and the United States maintaining that only one would be necessary.

Financing Problem

The financing of the project is the most important remaining subject for diplomatic negotiation. The two Governments are in practical agreement that power derived from the dams necessary to make the river navigable throughout should pay the costs of the works. It is understood in Washington, however, that Canada has not found a market for her share of the hugo power resources, and is reluctant to allow United States interests to absorb all of it.

An informal suggestion was made to Canada that the surplus of her share be allotted to the United States' side until such a time as Canada could absorb it. This was rejected.

The last important conversations here were those between President Hoover and James Grafton Rogers, Assistant Secretary of State, at the President's Rapidan camp. While all phases of the project were discussed particular attention was directed to the new engineering plans on the basis of which the United States is ready to proceed.

ENGLAND'S BETTY

The British Wightman Cup tennis team is on exhibition in eastern Canada this week, playing matches at Montreal and Toronto. This will be the second visit to Canada of the 1931 captain of the team, Miss Betty Nuthall. For years ago, as a comparative infant, she appeared on Canadian courts, displaying the under hand serve that appeared so unorthodox and yet was so effective. Now, just entering her twenties, she has rounded off her game and her best years are ahead of her, despite the fact that Helen Wills' return to competition this year shaded her efforts to retain the United States women's title she won last year. Betty owns her success to her father, in which respect she is like Suzanne Lenglen, it being his intention she develop her game scientifically and scientifically. Nevertheless she has always remained the child and unspoilt by the ways of older people with whom she is continually in contact. For instance, a couple of years ago, during an interlude at Wimbledon, she pulled out a handkerchief and with it a collection of cigarette pictures fluttered to the court. For the first time in her life, probably, Betty felt she would like the ground to open and swallow her.

Paralytic Hurls Self to Pavement

Toronto Ont., Sept. 4.—(By The Canadian Press)—Slowly hoisting himself to the top of the railing around the veranda of the second floor at the Western Hospital here Thursday, William George Duffin Dawson, a paralytic patient in that institution, threw himself over, landing head first on the ground thirty feet below. He was dead when picked up.

According to officials at the hospital, Mr. Dawson, who it is said, had no relatives in Toronto, was admitted there in April last. Lately it had been decided to remove him to the home for the incurables and thoughts of spending his last days there made him despondent. While paralyzed, it was his habit to move around a little and sit on the verandas every morning. He moved unnoticed to the railing of the veranda, managed to drag himself on top of it and plunged over without a word. His fall was seen by two patients.

TARZAN OF THE APES — No. 23 — (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan of the Apes lived on in his wild jungle existence with little change for several years, growing stronger and wiser. With Tantor the Elephant he made friends. On many moonlight nights Tarzan and Tantor walked together. All else of the jungle were his enemies, except his own tribe.

At eighteen, Tarzan had never seen a human being other than himself. But as he sat one day in a tall tree, trying to solve the mystery of the cabin, the ancient security of his jungle was broken forever. A strange cavalcade strung in single file over a low hill.

In advance were fifty black warriors armed with wooden spears, long bows, and poisoned arrows. Then came several hundred women and children followed by more warriors. They were fleeing from the white man's soldiers, having massacred a white officer. They set to work to build a new village. Tarzan wondered.

A month later it was complete, and they had taken up their old life in their new home. Several moons passed before they ventured far from their safety, for many had fallen prey to the jungle animals. But one day Kulenga, son of their old king, wandered far toward the west.

Warily he stepped—his long shield grasped close to his sleek, ebony body. Night found him far from his father's village. He climbed into the fork of a great tree, fashioned a rude platform, and curled himself for sleep. Three miles to the west of him slept the tribe of Manchak,

GOOD RACING WITNESSED BY LARGE CROWD

Two Fine Contests Raced For Pleasure of Patrons

NO ACCIDENTS

Bud Wenger Won 2.18 Class and Peter Bars the 2.25 Class

Racing over a strip of dirt, that was nearly lightning fast, Bud Wenger, sensational pacer, owned by Walsh of Hastings accounted for the 2.18 class in straight heats, while Peter Barr owned by Charles Blandford of Pegasus took the honors for award in the 2.25 class after five heat battle. The racing was held in connection with the Belleville fair and the largest crowd to witness the harness sport was on hand. The grandstand was comfortably filled and large numbers lined the fence along the rail and were keenly interested in the racing which was run off in good time. Down the back, the light harness horses with hackneys performed and some beautiful stock was exhibited.

Bud Wenger was too good for his field in the 2.18 class and Dr. Kane in the pilot seat had little trouble in the first heat and won handily. Mc-Glade the fancy contender but he did not have enough "brush" to down the veteran pacer. The latter was fast after the pain of Wednesday and Thursday and showed the horses tripped some merry miles. Wenger won the first encounter without they strung a little in the last half. Bless Star raced well but the driver for Dr. Bryan of Consecon was worse breath off by the fast clip.

A Real Horse Race

The real sensation of the afternoon took place in the 2.25 class. Billie the Great, after her sensational victory in the last heat over Irish favorite with Baldwin, a two year old owned and driven by a boy out of Toronto, but when it came to the Peter Barr heats, the real horse men in the midst of the battle. Baldwin was suffering from a heavy cold and a bad throat and neither thought best to draw him after the second heat had been raced. Billie the Great won the first heat handily, the driver letting the mare stretch the last half mile and from her performance it looked all over that the champion was in the money. Walter Hillock teaming Peter Barr to victory in close contests in the first two heats and Archie K. won the third in a buggy ride, the mile being the slowest of the afternoon when the horses were all tired after the previous heats and the driver was content to jog his mount home in the time in this race was second best, two of the heats being a trifle above 2.15. The fields were more unruly than on Tuesday but Starter George Tye had them under good alignment with every horse having an even break at the flag fall. The summary follows:

CATTLE SHOW OF VERY BEST

Judges Praised Superior Quality of Cattle Exhibition

When the prize stock parade moved off along the tract like a centipede at the Belleville Fair patrons had the finest exhibition of cattle ever seen in Belleville, before their eyes. The stock was up to the best in quality ever exhibited in this city. In this the judges were unanimous, stating that the exhibition of the isle of Belleville's fair was phenomenal.

Judging in Ayrshires was completed Thursday evening, Stewart Laurie, of Agincourt, being the judge. Per his Honour, Mr. Marshall of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, was judge. Among the animals to which awarded honors was the best yearling heifer of the show, that owned by W. G. Drope, who with this fine Jersey carried off the junior champion prize at the Ottawa Exhibition that closed. The heifer was admired by hundreds at the local fair. There were over sixty head of Ayrshires in the ring and the local fair has had. The Holstein exhibit was large.

Of interest was the winning of the $20.00 Royal Bank cup for the best bull and three heifers on the grounds, Alex. Hume of Campbellford, being the winning exhibitor with Ayrshires. Garnet Kerr of Campbellford, was in the Eaton Co. prize for the best calf, a Jersey heifer.

The C. A. Cameron prize of $10 for the best exhibit of Ayrshires went to Alex. Hume while the W. G. Drope exhibit had also awarded to Mr. Hume for the best Ayrshire bull.

W. H. Coverdale of Portsmouth, donated the prize for the best three heifer calves, Hector Wood, of Ivanhoe, winning with Ayrshires.

A five dollar gold piece, the gift of Mr. Coverdale for the best two animals, the property of an Ayrshire dam, went to Mr. Hume.

Dr. Reed, P.M. Rutherford and Hector Wood joined in donating prizes for the best Ayrshire cows, the winners being Alex. Hume and second, Mr. Wood.

A. H. Fair of Brighton, presented $10.00 for the best exhibition in this class of cattle, Fred Hubbs of Bloomfield, winning. The latter also won the prize for the best two Holstein calves.

Mr. Laurie said that the cattle he judged were the finest showing he had come across this year, while Mr. McPhail declared that the exhibition at Belleville in cattle was among the outstanding exhibitions in fairs of this size.

Col. Birdsall, of Birdsall Station brought a herd of Herefords to the

LORNE ARDIEL BROKE RECORD

Race Sees Flea 10 Miles at Rate of 49 Miles Per Hour

Toronto, Ont.: Sept. 4.—Lorne Ardiel, of Windsor, equalled the world's record for 10 miles per hour in a five-mile race for Class K and F outboard runabouts at the Canadian International Exhibition here last night. Ardiel, 21-year-old youth who for some years has been ranked as one of the greatest Canadian speed boat drivers ever to take the saddle free-for-all and finished third in the runabout race. Andy Cleland, Hamilton, was second in each of the ten and five mile races.

AT THE FAIR

Thursday evening the Belleville Fair presented a picture that resembled a mid-way gone by. With the return of fine weather the public came out in force, the crowds and enjoy the features of Belleville's Fall Fair.

The Manufacturer's Building seemed to be the haven for most of the fair-goers. Some of the most interesting exhibits are to be seen in this building.

The St. Charles Motors have a very fine display of motor accessories including Sebering tires and tubes, Rogers and Parchment Store, carry a full line of Hoover vacuums and Hoover polishers and cleaners. They also have on display a Canadian gas stove known as the Oshgh. The stove is modern and up to date in every quality. They also are selling the Oyer and Eatonia washing machines that are well worth seeing as they demonstrate each and every operation in the washing of clothes. Electrical appliances and engineering devices that are featured by these machines.

The Belleville Grocers are next in line and they are featuring Quaker Maid Products. Especially their Gold Medal tea and coffee, in order to introduce these articles to the public they are offering attendants at the Belleville Fair, a special offer at the booth during the entire fair.

The Beatty Washing Machine Company have a very fine two-booth display and are carrying an up to date line or washers that they wish to demonstrate to the fair-goers showing them the qualities of the Beatty Washer and Drainer. These few coupled with other attractions are to make one of the finest exhibits and have ever been seen in Belleville.

"GRAF" LEAVES ON RETURN TRIP TO GERMANY

(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin, ending a two day visit in Rhode Island in farewell early today and started on its return to Germany on the ninth crossing of the Atlantic ocean.

Dr Hugo Eckener pulled her away from the airport mooring mast at Lakehurst, N.J., at 2.40 a.m. (12.40 a.m. EST.)

China's tobacco growing area is twenty-third larger than last year.

The while Mr. Blackburn, of Uxbridge, had a fine exhibition of Polled Aberdeen Angus. This splendid herd has been bred from Rivers. Que. to Belleville and late years to Uxbridge, Ont., being a New Brunswick. This fact shows the class in which the cattle exhibition at Belleville has taken its place.

THE GAY BANDIT OF THE BORDER

By TOM GILL

PROLOGUE

In a patch of moonlight the masked rider halted.

Just ahead, just beyond the fringe of shadowy mesquite that marked the desert's edge, two dusty wagon tracks set out over the mesa. They were all that marked the Yuma-Verdi road, those tracks, and for fifty miles of cactus and sand they were all that recorded the turbulent existence of an international boundary line. But now, like faded, discarded ribbons, they stretched, lonely and indistinct, across the desert, then dropped abruptly over the edge of the mesa.

Minutes passed. The tall rider sat motionless, a brooding statue, astride his horse, and the night silvered with moonlight. One after eyes moved—eyes that glittered restlessly through the mask, tirelessly searching that velvet darkness ahead. A fitful night, wind crept like a sigh among the mesquite. Once the horse pawed impatiently at the sand, and once he raised his head to catch some faint, elusive message.

Silence. An endless silence while the twisted shadows of the mesquite lengthened before the sinking moon. Toward the far-off Mexican foothills a coyote howled. Again silvery, moon-drenched silence, while the long minutes passed.

Then, abruptly, in the same startled second, both horse and horseman raised their head. Out of the desert night rose a sound, far off and indistinct. From a rhythmic pulsating murmur it rolled nearer, until at last the rider seemed to lift himself into the muffled tread of galloping horses.

Only then the quiet figure in the moonlight moved. A touch of the reins, and the horse stepped forward into the sheltering mesquite, where again they froze in immobile stillness, lost in that shadowy obscurity. Gently the man's hand dropped for an instant to the black automatic at his side. The barrel was still warm. His knees clasped the horse more tightly. His figure had taken on a new tenseness, and he leaned forward with coldly eager eyes.

In the moonlight ahead the night had become filled with thunder. The galloping horsemen, swinging down toward the road, were a hard-riding cavalry on patrol. They rode in loose ranks, two abreast, trotting in low tones. Little whirling pools of sand rose beneath their pounding feet, then died, and in another minute the sound of their hurried passing faded. As the last sombrero-roofed figure melted back into that night of silence, the solitary horseman left the shadows and rode slowly to the open rim. Leaning far out in the saddle, his eyes followed their stern descent to where, almost directly beneath him, the trail turned sabl plunged steeply downward. Then the little cavalcade had halted.

In a tight circle they were clustered about a huddled figure that lay face downward in the road. Out of the stillness the angry hum of many voices rose to the solitary rider's ears, and beneath the mask his teeth gleamed in a brief smile. He turned forward, watching. Two men had slipped from their horses and raised the limp form in the roadway. For a moment their leader looked at the face, then formed the word "Loper" through the group. The night seemed to grow suddenly chill. Uneasily each man peered into the darkness as if it now loomed suddenly menacing.

Then from above burst a laugh, wild and jeering, and for a brief instant the horsemen below saw outlined against the desert sky the tall form of a masked rider. Leisurely his gloved hand rose in a derisive gesture, and again that jeering, mocking laugh floated down.

A rattle of stones as the horse swerved back, and now the dusty edge of the mesa gleamed white and empty beneath the moon.

Grimly Radcliffe smiled back. "If you would only come a little closer, I might make it two of your orders." He raised the man to his feet and thrust him toward the others. "Get out," he ordered briefly, "before I twist your neck."

Sullenly the Mexicans turned up the hill, and, reaching in his pocket Radcliffe dropped a silver dollar into the peon's hand. But Manuel's face was expressionless as he turned toward the border.

"It is now often, senor, that one touches a herdsman of Jito's band," he said at last. Then, after a moment's silence he chuckled aloud. "Que va, how that carries the wind through the air!" He looked admiringly at the great muscular body of the white horse, and the fellow was right. Jito will try to tear you apart for this."

"Do you think he could?"

Again Manuel took in the big, tightly knit form, the arched chest, the arms like flexible steel. "Now by Our Lady, I do not know." he said slowly. "There is none on the border one-half so strong as Jito, Caramba! It would be a fight to remember."

In silence they rode slowly up the long slope toward the mesa, and Radcliffe, remembering his dinner appointment at the ranch, waiting in toughed spurs to his horse, reaching the rancheouse full five minutes ahead of the perspiring Manuel. He hurried into his evening clothes just as an army car drew up before the bungalow, and was driven through a crimson desert sunset to the cavalry post that lay on the outskirts of Verdi. Thirty-five years ago it had been a refuge against hostile Navahos in the days when Verdi itself was a turbulent cow camp. But now for many a year its well-kept military reservation had dozed through a long, uneventful succession of commanding officers. Before the quarters of the latest of these the car stopped, and Radcliffe read the sign over the vine-covered porch, "L. R. Blount, Major, U.S.A."

It was Mrs. Blount who received him—Aunt Clara, he remembered, the girl had called her.

From the first he liked this vigorous, middle-aged woman. Liked the firm handshake, the keen, straight look and the deep restful voice.

"I sent for you before the others." She led him to the broad fireplace. "That was partly selfishness to have to myself the new mysterious arrival. And then I can describe the menagerie before it arrives. For like a perfect hostess, I've invited everybody that matters—and several that don't."

"Thanks being awfully good to a stranger."

"Bah. You're not a stranger here. Already Verdi is whispering that you've come out to buy cattle and miles of land and irrigate the whole desert. Verdi will remember that father of yours."

Radcliffe nodded somberly. "Yet this same Verdi sent him away a pauper. It took him years to win back prosperity again."

"But men say he did win it back—with interest." She lighted a cigarette. "Why did you come, really?"

"Would you believe me if I said I didn't know? That's the real truth. Five days ago I was back in New York without a thought of coming West. I had just returned from Europe and found a letter from my father's banker telling me to come out and see Bob Harkness. Father and Bob, you know, were partners in the old days."

His hostess considered the end of her cigarette. "So perhaps there is a mystery, then. We'll ask Bob tonight. Bob, of course, has told me all about you. But I didn't quite expect to see a young giant stumbling in on me." She looked at him in frank approval. "You're quite too big and good-looking to have come out here. If the boys don't lynch you before the month's out, and if Adela spares you——"

"Adela, be repeated. "That should be the name of some Spanish dess of the desert."

The woman nodded. "It almost describes her. The Mexican ranchers and peons would tell you she is a saint from Heaven. Some day she will be the richest girl in all north Mexico."

He laughed. "And modified, of course, to make it half way to be beautiful."

"Aren't all heiresses beautiful? No? Well, a dried-up old colonel once said that. But Adela has also a desert sunset."

A sudden recollection seized the man. "Has she—good Lord! Has she a pair of violet eyes?"

"If you wanted to be very so risky you might call them violet. As a matter of sober truth, there's a very nice shade of blue."

She spoke with just the least——

"Just the suspicion of an accent. That's Adela."

Once more in retrospect the man saw that upturned, saucy face, then to the great delight of his hostess he told the tale, adding: "But the little impostor said she lived on a ranch with two or three cows."

"Two or three thousand wouldn't cover it." Her kindly eyes conse——

"And I suppose," the girl was saying gravely over her cigarette, "that like all lovely ladies she left him and will never come back."

"Never," Radcliffe agreed. "I'm beginning to think she never existed. She was just a mirage of the desert."

The girl turned to Aunt Clara. "Tell me more about your mysterious guest."

"Here's what Don Bob reports: It appears that this Mr. Radcliffe who stands smoking before us was first brought into prominence by his ability to carry an inflated pigskin through eleven opposing young gentlemen. For his native grit he was twice made captain of Yale's football team. He also took great interest in contests whereby two opposing men attempt to unravel each other's limbs and dislocate various joints for the somewhat obscure purpose of forcing their opponent's shoulders on a dusty mat. Mr. Radcliffe was so successful in this pursuit that he was later acclaimed heavyweight wrestler of the East."

Ted Radcliffe nodded. "I also played on the freshman chess team."

Aunt Clara ignored the interruption. "Later this burly gentleman graduated with some such silly title as Bachelor of Arts and spent a year in Europe and another in Africa, hunting the kind of things one hunts there. In his spare moments he probably slew lions and zebras and posed with one foot poised on their Adam's apple."

The girl shook her head. "This amazing senor, then, is of the very elite?"

"He is, I am sorry to admit, one of the dirty rich. I gather that he has a fabulous income."

"That," Radcliffe countered, "shows how reasonably intelligent women can be misled."

Aunt Clara turned toward him. "Rumor says you have entirely too much money for your own good."

"Rumor is probably right. But I don't believe rumor ever said I was stupid in history." I wasn't. I sold papers and shined shoes. One of my first memories is of my father holding me in his arms while we looked at the bread line, because the holes in my shoes let snow in. That was what your border country did to father. No, I certainly wasn't reared in luxury."

The girl looked down at the two listening women, then went on, more quietly. "I don't like to weep! I remember once in Denver a woman gave me a dollar for clearing the snow from her pavement. I ran all the way home to show the big silver piece to dad. You know, there were tears in my father's eyes. He held it up in the light and felt it with me so earnestly that I remember every word. 'He wished to buy a son,' he told me. 'To be poor—that is the unforgivable sin.'"

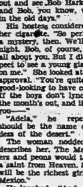
Radcliffe's brooding face cleared. "We weren't poor long after that. My father's luck turned. That winter he bought sheep on shares, and next spring had a band of his own. Later we went to Washington and left a year that was the beginning of spirit in a group of men who were developing land in South and Central America. He touched every kind of industry—steamships, tobacco, sugar-cane plantations, tropical woods—and they all yielded gold. I've been proud of him for the respect him more than any man in the world. You see we suffered together and came through the dark places together." Radcliffe stopped, and added slowly, "Then five years ago he died."

The silence that followed was broken by a closing door above them and a moment later Major Blount clattered down the stairs. The major's ruddy face had seemed more than to tan beneath the sun of sixty years, and a heavy mustache, that was short, inclined to heavinsa, and his shirt front disgorged above his vest. It was, as Mrs. Blount had many times declared, a sad but scientific fact that the major looked better in uniform than in evening clothes. He greeted his greeting from across the room.

"Glad Clara asked you both to get here ahead of the mob."

Over Adela's hand he bowed his stiff head, now, and, holding Radcliffe's hand for a moment, looked up into the younger m——. Yes. To Radcliffe it seemed that some momentary pain passed across the old soldier's face vanishing as he spoke again. "Bob left a note making us his late guests until he gets back. It's a pleasure to do that." Abruptly he asked, "Staying long in Verdi?"

"How long I can't say. My coming has been somewhat sudden and a little mysterious."



Again that fleeting look of pity seemed to touch the major's eyes.

MUFFETS... you'll declare
Best Whole Wheat Biscuit

Developed by Prof. Steenbock's process

WHEN you eat a Muffet you will agree it is the best whole wheat biscuit you have ever tasted. If you do not, we will remit you the cost of the package. That is our guarantee printed on every package. And here are some of the good reasons why you should eat Muffets:—

1. They are so delicious. They have the wholesome, nutlike taste of toasted whole wheat.

2. They are so nourishing—just the entire wheat berry, with all its natural bran;

3. They are so economical—cost less than a cent and a half apiece;

4. Irradiated by Prof. Steenbock's process to contain the Sunshine Vitamin D. No other whole wheat biscuit has this vitamin.

HEALTH FACTS about Irradiated Muffets

1. Per Cent of Protein—Muffets contain of greater concentration than the finest refined cereals.

2. Per Cent and Truth—Muffets are made of 100% whole wheat; 20% more nutritious than ordinary whole wheat bread.

3. Per Cent of Bran—Muffets are made from an 18 carat bran.

4. Per Cent of Sunshine—Muffets are the exact proportion of irradiated vitamin.

5. Per Cent of Digestibility—Muffets are 100% digestible because of their porous structure.

Danger to Health
in risking doubtful substitutes for Kotex

IT'S a temptation, sometimes, to save a few pennies by accepting a substitute for Kotex.

But what a costly saving it may be! What guarantee have you of the hygienic safety of this substitute, if you know nothing of its makers? Is it fit for this personal use? How was it made? Where?

When your choice is Kotex, you're backed by medical approval. The best hospitals use it. They appreciate the splendid purity of Kotex, the exacting care with which it is made.

You should never consider sanitary protection of lower standards. Insist on Kotex. Demand Kotex.

Utmost Comfort

Comfort, too, is assured by Kotex. Laminated layers of Cellucotton absorbent wadding absorb scientifically—away from the surface—assuring continued softness. The gauze, too, in Kotex is treated—to make it amazingly soft.

WEAR ON EITHER SIDE

1. Can be worn on either side with equal comfort. No embarrassment. Inconspicuous.
2. Kotex is soft . . . even the gauze is specially treated to make it amazingly soft.
3. The Kotex absorbent is the identical material used by nurses in Canada's hospital supplies.
4. Disposable, instantly, completely.

Whirling Car is Cause of Injuries

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 4 (By The Canadian Press)—When a whirling car on one of the midway sideshows at the Canadian National Exhibition broke loose and tore through a picket fence yesterday, its four occupants were thrown out and suffered painful injuries. None of them was seriously hurt. The accident occurred to the Wallace, which operates a series of cars on a raised platform. The injured were Miss Marjory Aehn, William Spalding and Alvin Bullock of Preston, Ont., and Miss Gwen Hilling of Toronto. They escaped with cuts and bruises and a severe shaking up

"ASK THE SHELL MAN—HE KNOWS WHERE THE FINNY FELLOWS ARE CAUGHT"

Nita was worried . . . she could not imagine where she had lost her bracelet — in the hotel or on the journey home.

"I can't think what I could have done with it," she kept telling her mother.

"Why not telephone to the hotel," mother suggested. "It's after eight-thirty now, and a call will only cost a few cents."

Imagine Nita's joy when the hotel clerk told her that the bracelet had been found in her room and would be mailed to her right away.

Thanks to her mother's suggestion, Nita's anxiety was relieved at once . . . and the cost of the call was considerably less than her taxi fare from the station.

Station-to-Station ("anyone") calls between 7.00 p.m. and 8.30 p.m. local time are on the low evening rate. Between 8.30 p.m. and 4.30 a.m. they are on the "night rate" basis and still lower.

SCENE AT FAIR

He was sitting on a box near the cattle sheds at the Belleville Fair Wednesday afternoon—a looking old gentleman with a pleasant smile. "Good day Sir," said the Scribe. "How are you enjoying the Fair?" "Gosh, brightly replied the old gentleman, "I'm having a grand time. I do like a fair; I've gone to lots of fairs in my day. I have been fairs of the present day, but years ago we used to have more fun, they were free and open, too. I've won prizes for cattle, and horses but, of course, we had not as fine breeds as they have now. I love horses and cattle, that is why I am staying around this part of the fair; all that concerns over there is no good to me. There is some grand stock here. One of the judges, a fine kind man, was patient enough to talk to me for a little time about the livestock. I love to talk about stock, you or they don't. I've had horses that we're almost human. I was telling my wife the other day that if I now had a fine Chestnut mare if I had years ago and was able to take care of her, I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for her." "It's nice you have your wife with you," said the Scribe. "You're right there son," he answered, "Let me tell you one thing; having a good companion is a grand thing; my wife and I worked together for years and years and now we're old, we loaf together; we're both thankful that we're still together. See that Hackney out there; he's wasting a lot of energy in his front feet and I haven't very much energy left in mine. I guess The old guy, mare ain't what she 'used to be," he laugh ed. And so we left him with a hearty hand shake.

OUT OF one package OF Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

THINK of all you get! Many delicious treats for breakfast. And there's lunch—what could be better than Kellogg's and milk with fruits or honey added?

Then, the children's evening meal—Kellogg's are wonderfully wholesome and easy to digest. And many a man knows them as a delicious and healthful bedtime snack.

Always ready to serve—no trouble or work. Costing only a few cents a package. Of all the foods you buy, Kellogg's Corn Flakes are indeed one of the most economical and convenient. No wonder they are the most popular ready-to-eat cereal in the world.

Wise buyers put the name Kellogg on their grocery lists. No other corn flakes have ever been able to duplicate the matchless flavor and crispness of genuine Kellogg's. More than 12,000,000 people prove this every day by buying Kellogg's Corn Flakes.

Look for the famous red-and-green package—with the inner-seal wax-tite wrapper that keeps the flakes crispy-fresh even after opening. Still another exclusive Kellogg advantage. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

"Even in Banking Service there is a difference"

Every business house—and certainly banks come under this heading—has its own viewpoint on what constitutes service. And nearly always you will find the viewpoint visibly reflected in this working atmosphere of the establishment.

As you talk with the managers of this Bank, with the tellers, or with others who take a visible part in giving service, you will very quickly perceive that strict attention to a great volume of business is tempered by a spirit of real friendliness and courtesy.

Your own banking needs may be personal or commercial—local, national or international. In any case, at the branches of this Bank, you are sure of service that is accurate, speedy and cordial—well rounded out in every respect.

"And say deserter will be shot down like a dog!" A tense moment in "Suspense," the enormous drama of the rank and file at the Capitol, Saturday and Monday.

According to the 1930 census there are 1,963 persons in the united States who are blind and deaf.

The cornerstone of the original U. S. capitol building was laid by President Washington on September 18, 1793.

Richard Arlen, Fetty Shannon, the male and female leads in "Shanghaied" now at the Belle Theatre in the exciting drama, "The Secret Call."

Hide-and-Seek by Madman on Highway

London, Ont., Sept. 4.—High Constable A. J. Wharton had to call out reserves to nab another crazy man who went suddenly insane on Springbank drive, near the amusement park at two o'clock Thursday morning. Clad only in a pair of pants, the maniac battled the high Constable with stones for over an hour before he was taken.

Yelling at the top of his voice and hurling verbal defiance at the wide world, the madman raced up and down the highway, piercing the early morning air with his mad cries. Whereupon High Constable Wharton would come near, the crazy man would pick up a boulder and let it fly at the officers head. Although many came close, Wharton managed to dodge the missiles.

Finally when the impromptu game of hide-and-seek became too prolonged, Wharton put in a call for his assistant, Constable Fred Alfred. Alfred arrived in another police cars and after careful manoeuvring, he closed in on the madman slipped a pair of cuffs over his wrists, brought him to London and locked him up.

Stimson Sees Peace Prosperity in Future

New York, N. Y., Sept. 4—United States Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson returned from Europe to-day with an optimistic prediction that a lasting structure of peace and economic prosperity will be built on the foundation laid by President, Hoover's debt moratorium and the recent seven power conference in London.

Would Make Young Swimming Instructor

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 4—(CP) — A suggestion was made to Mayor Stewart that the city could give suitable recognition to George Young's feat by appointing him as swimming instructor at a new swimming tank which is to be opened shortly in North Toronto.

Such a position, it was said, would give him a lasting tribute and would also create a greater incentive to the rising generation to become interested in swimming. The matter is to be discussed by the mayor and his colleques on the Board of Control and council.

LITTLE BENNY

By LEE PAPE

We was eating supper, being stake under onions, and pop said, Do you still object to my taking breklfist in bed to give myself the sensation of spending part of my vacation in France?

Now Willyum do we haff to go through all that again? ma said, and pop said, Not at all, but Ive got another idefer.

O for goodness sakes, ma said, and pop said, Tomorrow morning Ill have my breklfist in the dining room as usual.

There's more to it than that, I'm sure, it cant be as sensible as that, ma said, and pop said, Thats all there is to it except that I get the impression that I'm in England by eating an English brekfist.

Well that sounds better, or at least it duzzent sound so bad, ma said. Well whats an English brekfist? she said, and pop said, Well, its just an ordnery brekfist, except there's generally a little more to it. For instants its starts with a little fish, and then there will be some kind of eggs, perhaps with bacon or ham, and that's generlly followed by a chop of some kind, or elts a nice stake with French fried potatoes, and of corse buttered toast and cawffee, he said. And naturelly 2 or 3 kinds of jam and marmalade, he said.

O my, and do you think Nora is going to cook you all that? ma said, and pop said, I gess she'll cook me what I like as long as Im the master of the house.

Wich just then Nora came in with more ice water, ma saying, Nora, did you ever hear of an English brekfist?

What mite that be? Nora said, and ma said, Well, I bleeve it consists of soop and 8 or 4 kinds of meat and fish, with vegetables and dizzert.

Glory be, and where would they be getting the girl to kill herself over that kind of a heathen brekfist, is it slaves they have over there or what? Nora said. And she went back to the kitchin still tawking to herself, pop saying, After all I shouldent be serprised if an English brekfist was quite indigestible.

Not to say quite impossible, heg hee, ma said.

Meening in our house anyways.

TRIPLE-POWERED DRAMATICS IN NEW FILM

Featured New "Find"

Paramount presents a new dramatic "find" with the sidewing, beginning today and running through to Saturday, inclusive only, of "The Secret Call," action-packed thrill drama of modern city life.

Her name is Peggy Shannon.

A few years ago she was just a beautiful girl, living with her family in Pine Bluff, Arkansas. Today she is a beautiful girl still with an equipment of rich experience in stage work in stock companies and on Broadway. . . . . .

Called An "Ash-Hitter"

She was in Earl Carroll's "Vanities" and later played in stock companies from Brooklyn to Buffalo. Followed a season of legitimate stage work on Broadway. It was while she was playing opposite Roscoe Ates in "Cape" that she was offered a contract with Paramount.

A short time after she accepted this bid, Clara Bow was taken sick. It became necessary to fill her part in "The Secret Call" on short notice, Miss Shannon was rushed into the work of production.

Plays Publicity Angles

Miss Shannon is the daughter of a politician who is made to be the "goat" in a primary election campaign to save the honor of the "machine" which runs the town. The big boss of the "machine" assumes her failure's disgrace and death. She had been in love with Richard Arlen, son of the big boss, but when she learns how this relentless man had brought about her father's death, she swears vengeance upon the whole family.

In order to make a living she is forced to work as a telephone operator in one of the big hotels of the city.

As an operator she becomes the confidante of newspapermen and politicians. It is not long before she learns enough "inside dope" on the activities of the big boss to put his whole "machine" into general disfavor with the voters.

Arlen Tries to Regain Love

Meanwhile Arlen, who is ignorant of the shady operations of his father, and who knows nothing of the scandal which Peggy could disclose if she so desired, tries to win back her love.

The final scenes bring all these vibrant forces of drama together in a highly absorbing climax, covered with a romantic re-union of the lovers.

LARGE CROWDS SEE LILY DAMITA AT THE CAPITOL

When a young woman weds an elderly widower, finds she is hated by her step-daughter but adored by her step-son, she stumbles on a pretty predicament, and her course is by no means clear. This is the situation Lily Daculla as Joan finds herself in "The Woman Between," the featured attraction which drew such a large crowd of patrons last night at the Capitol theatre.

Convincingly acted, "The Woman Between" presents a photoplay of excellence, and is far removed from the average society satire associated with Hollywood. With its scintillating background of beautiful dresses, and of the latest 1931 mode, there is an element of beauty of soul which is altogether too refreshing for us, and in the portrayal of Lester Vail, as the young Oxford undergraduate, who so madly is infatuated with his step-mother, there is an undercurrent of pathos which still remains even after the story is brought to an end. Anita Louise in her part of the outraged step-daughter, who can not reconcile herself to her new "mother," we see just how a girl would feel and behave under the circumstances. O. P. Heggie is also grandified as the wealthy American, and the affection he has for his young wife, his complete understanding of what has happened between his wife and his stepson, and above all, the masterly treatment he deals throughout the whole characterization, just adds one more nail to the already well secured reputation this talented actor has as a finished master of the dramatic art.

"Two Fresh Eggs" the comedy creation included in the program, is very, very funny, and the Audio Review just brings the programme to a delightful end. "The Woman Between" ends tonight.

SILVERWARE GIFT NIGHT

It is worthy of mention that Salad Forks, last night's free gift of silverware, are now reposing safely in a great number of cabinets, hope chests and coffer receptacles throughout the city of Belleville, for many salad forks were distributed to the ladies. Next Tuesday will again be Opportunity Silverware Gift Night, the article to be announced later.

"SUSPENSE" AT THE CAPITOL SATURDAY

If it can be imagined to what degree of panic the mind of someone sitting on a box of dynamite would reach, knowing that at any minute, hour or day that box was going to explode, and being constantly in suspense of awful death and helpless to prevent it, something of the impressive nature of "Suspense" the epic of the rank and file, which comes to the Capitol theatre on Saturday can be conceived.

Here are a bunch of fellows; there's "Scruffy" the chap who is always knitting, but who only has enough wool for one sock, and to fill in the time he unravels the finished article and re-knits it! Then there's Pettigrew, a youth of eighteen of good stock and prospective mother-in-law of the Captain of the Detachment—Captain Wilson. Private Brett, man of religious tendency, so he is nick-named "Allelula" but unfortunately his pals are too prone to blasphemy for "Allelula" to have the desired effect on them! Private Lomax, a sea-lawyer of the trenches and Sergeant McClusky, loved by everyone—but his platoon, and they have about as much affection for him as a heathen has for holy water! And with these characters, Patrick McGill has moulded a story, based on an episode from the Great War, and one which will prove intensely real.

From out of the dark silence of the dug-out comes a hoarse ejaculation, "I thought I saw something move. Is that how it will begin?" A voice dryly comments, "It's all over before it's begun."

Tap-tap-tap. What is happening down beneath the dug-out? Tap-tap-tap—sinister and insistent—"Scruffy" continues knitting with a muttered, "Oh H—ll!"—"Alleluia" is reproachful—Pettigrew, wide-eyed asks "What is that?"—Lomax gruffly replies, "Allemandes—Germans—mines"—"Ooh! Are they going to blow us up?" gasps Pettigrew. "Not while the digging goes on," wittily observes Lomax. "It might be an hour—a day—a week—but it will come, oh yes, it will come." The suspense is terrible, and they are helpless and hopeless. "Can I get out of it?" thinks Pettigrew. "What's that?"..... and the deserting his post will be shot down like a dog!" It is the drone of the Captain's voice, horribly threatening, and making escape impossible.

And so goes on the story of "Suspense," an epic of the Rank and File which should be seen by everyone. Here is truth, fact and feasible fiction, blended into a creation of grim reality, giving each an opportunity for proudly possessing or sneering from the screen with concentrated conviction.

The cast contains such names as Mickey Brantford, Cyril Mackdonen (brother of the famous Victor) Fred Groves, Jack Raine, Hamilton Keene and D. Hay Petrie.

Those who saw "Journey's End" and "All Quiet on the Western Front" will thoroughly revel in "Suspense."

An episode of "Adventures in Africa" titled "Buffalo Stampede" an Aesop Fable and the Pathe Sound News will be included in the programme, which will also be shown on Labour Day.

Little Progress In Plans for Arms Parley

Paris, Sept. 4 (AP)—The semi-official newspaper Le Temps said editorially tonight that reparations for next year's disarmament conference are making little progress if any, and expressed regret that the United States is not taking a more active part in the efforts by the League of Nations to attain disarmament and security.

Unless there is some plan for mutual assistance in time of war, such as the proposal by Joseph Paul-Boncour that all armed forces be placed at the disposal of the League, little can be expected from the disarmament conference, says the newspaper.

Natives of Savo, one of the Solomon Islands, regard the shark as a god and cast their dead into the sea as an offering to their finny deity.

DRIVERS!
be everlastingly on the Alert..

Strangely enough, most accidents occur in broad daylight, and on smooth highways. And, in a great majority of cases, the cars involved are in good mechanical condition.

The explanation can be given in one word . . . CARELESSNESS.

Hands on the wheel. Eyes on the road. The price of safety on crowded summer highways is eternal watchfulness. And you are in danger the moment you relax your vigilance.

Watch the road. Watch other cars. Watch signals. Watch pedestrians. Watch railway crossings. Watch the speedometer! Watch yourself!

7 Rules For Happy Marriage For Widows Alleged Slayer Drafted

Olean, N.Y., Sept. 3—Harry F. Powers compiled seven rules for happy marriage for the widows he courted by mail. The West Virginian accused of murdering five women during his matrimonial adventures sent his rules to Mrs. Bessie G. Storrs, middle-aged Olean widow who was to have married him yesterday.

Here they are:

"First of all, a sense of humor should prevail. Everything has its funny side and if husband and wife can find it and laugh together, they never need to fear the divorce court.

"Second, they must love each other and with co-operation, and perfect harmony and understanding and loyalty and an earnest effort on both sides to cultivate the feeling of love, love is bound to come as a natural consequence, without true love, molehills of misunderstanding become mountains of suspicion and things that love would laugh away bring about tears and miseries.

"Third, they must trust one another. Nothing lowers the tone of married life so quickly as suspicion. It ever brings about what it seems to prevent for unjust suspicion and jealousy lead the constantly suspected victim to try to deserve it.

"Fourth, give and take. Marriage is a compromise, a matter of adjustment and the husband or wife who expects perfection in the life partner, while ignoring his or her faults, accepts or later will wreck the home.

"Fifth, pull together. Antagonism—the clash of will and purpose and character, destroys restfulness and happiness and prevents the progress of home life.

"Sixth, criticism or superiorism have no support in any well-conducted home. But few wives and husbands, too, can stand criticism, and the more they love each other, the more is it taken to heart, especially if it be edged with sarcasm. Superiorism must equally as well be avoided. Many men and women marry their intellectual inferiors and a quick way to trouble is to let the marital partner know that he or she is constantly aware of it.

"Seventh, love self last. The husband who thinks he can act like a bachelor or the wife who thinks first of her own pleasures, luxuries and welfare are in love only with themselves and not with each other.

Veterans Should Be Adequately Cared For

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept 4 (By The Canadian Press)—Expressing his conviction that those of the great veteran body who have lost their health and strength in the service of their country must be adequately cared for, Sir Arthur Currie, Commander of the Canadian Corps in the war, sent his annual message to the Dominion of the Canadian Legion here.

MAHATMA GANDHI VOICES IDEALS FOR INDIA

No Caste, An India of Peace Without Drugs and Liquor Gandhi Aim

Indian Leader Voices His Views to Indians at Aden

INDIA OF DREAMS

Seeks End of "Untouchability and Degradation

Aden, Arabia, Sept. 3 (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi and his party arrived here at the entrance to the Red Sea today and made a brief visit ashore before resuming their voyage to London for the Round Table Conference.

A large crowd of excited Indians wearing Gandhi caps, who had waited since midnight, cheered as the S. S. Rajputana steamed alongside the wharf in the dawn. Taking advantage of the cool morning air, he and the other delegates made a series of short trips to points of interest in the town. He was given an enthusiastic reception wherever he went.

Gandhi Welcomed

Local Indian merchants wished him success at the conference and presented him with a purse containing about $1,625. Responding both in Gujerati and English, he said he had expected more money from his Aden adherents but passed on to lay emphasis on the Hindu-Moslem communal problem in India. He then breakfast with the leading Indians of the town and remembered amid cheers.

Asked what programme at the conference would be, Gandhi replied:

"I shall strive for a constitution that will give freedom to India from all thraldom and patronage. I shall work for the Hindu-Moslem unity, personally shall feel it is their country in whose making they have an equal interest, as India in which they shall be no high caste and no low caste. I shall work for an India in which all communities shall live in perfect harmony."

Corner of Turban

"There will be no place in such an India for the curse of untouchability or the curse of intoxicating drinks or drugs, even as they are in the same rights as men. Since we shall be in peace with all the rest of the world, neither exploiting or being exploited we shall have the smallest army imaginable.

"All interests not in conflict with the interests of the dumb millions will scrupulously be respected whether as foreign or Indian interests. I hope the distinction between foreign and Indian will disappear.

"It is the India of my dreams for which I shall attempt to the utmost at the Round Table Conference. I may fail but if I am to deserve the confidence of the masters, as principal, I shall be satisfied with nothing less."

CANCELS VISIT

Sir Austen Chamberlain, famous British Conservative, who is First Lord of the Admiralty in the new National Emergency Cabinet, has cancelled his visit to this country owing to pressure of Cabinet business.

DRIEST YEAR SINCE 1890

Precipitation to Aug. 31 Was 9.5 Inches Below Normal

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 3 (CP)—To date 1931 has been the driest year since 1890, the Dominion Meteorological Farm here first took weather records for this district in 1890.

Precipitation since Jan. 1 to the end of August totalled 14.31 inches, or 9.5 inches below normal. For the three summer months of June, July and August, only 4.42 inches of rain fell. The average for the period is 10.39 inches while the record precipitation in 1893 totalled 19.08 inches.

The drought caused serious damage to the vegetable agriculture areas of the Ottawa Valley.

STAR DUST ON OCEAN BOTTOM

Appeal of Science Draws Wilkins Into Great Danger

(By J. B. Brackett)

New York, N.Y., Sept. 3.—Star dust on the bottom of the sea, among other scientific things, has drawn Sir Hubert Wilkins, submarine Polar explorer, nearer to more than any other man has ever sailed or managed—and into great danger, in the opinion of Vilhajamar Stefansson, who once led Sir Hubert on another Polar trip.

Infrequently heard from, Sir Hubert is now in the Arctic Ocean pack about 350 miles from the North Pole, Stefansson said today.

Sir Hubert undoubtedly cannot catch longer delay his return from the ice because the summer season virtually is finished.

"When he started his trip the chances were four to one in his favor, but with winter approaching the odds are reversed. Ice in floating ice packs will now begin to freeze together, making it the one impossible and the submarine's most dangerous foe," Stefansson said.

"I think Sir Hubert is over-confident of the powers of his very efficient radio. The Graf Zeppelin had as powerful a set, but also could not communicate with the outside for some time. In all likelihood he is safe at present."

Mr. Stefansson emphasized the importance of Sir Hubert's trip, explaining that the explorer may can certain important scientific phenomena be obtained.

Geo. Young Will Race on Sunday

Montreal, Que., Sept. 3—George Young, who tonight his way back to fame by winning the big swim at Toronto exhibition will be a starter in the eight mile marathon struggle at Pointe-Aux-Trembles Sunday afternoon, according to announcement made today on behalf of the Postmen's syndicate, which is sponsoring the race. Young and Miss Lorraine Bell, winner of the ladies swim in Toronto, are both under the management of Johnny Weller and both have entered the Montreal event.

The Sunday swim starts at 1.30 for a junior event and at 2.15 the senior class today with indications that near fifty will start.

"Detector" Used and Finds Bones are Sheep Bones

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 3 — Mrs. Zadie Bowers who heretofore steadfastly has supported her husband, confessed killer of two women and three children, has turned against him after she was questioned by police.

"I realize now he betrayed me" she said, "and I realize what a terrible creature he is. I'm through with him forever. I'll help have him out of jail for $100,000,000."

Search for the bodies of other lies were found.

possible victims was abandoned after deputies reported that fragments of skeletons found on what was believed to have been a second burial plot were sheep bones. They were using a "detector" a machine invented by a Clarksburg physician which supposedly reacts to human bones. Detectives said the machine revealed definitely when pieced near the burial plot where the five bodies

SWEEPSTAKES BAN APPROVED BY THE LEGION

Will Return $57,000 Contribution From Veterans' Body

OPPOSE LEGALIZING

Convention Adopts Report Urging Enforcement of Law

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 3—There will be no legalized sweepstakes in Canada if the Canadian Legion can help it.

The Legion finally declared itself today on the question which has aroused widespread interest not only among the membership but throughout Canada. Not only did it declare itself as not favoring the legalization of sweepstakes, but the Dominion command was instructed to oppose, now and in the future, any such attempt to alter the law. The convention wants the law of Canada applied strictly, "without favor towards veterans or their organizations."

Just to impress to point, delegates today voted to turn to the army and navy veterans the present gift of $57,000 which was wholly derived from sweepstakes.

Not since the Legion convention opened here Monday morning has there been such a complete attendance of delegates in the convention hall. The room was packed to the door. Interest centered silently while the chairman of the resolutions committee read that committee's report. But the vote was practically unanimous only two or three hands being raised from the back of the hall.

Rev. R. Hardy Whitby, made a vigorous address against any move by the Legion for the legalization of sweepstakes, believing it would work infinite harm on the organization. Following the address he was cheered on a higher basis than that. We cannot afford our good feet financially, as in other things."

Trainer in Rowboat Makes Young Sit Up

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Young, "coxed" into the finishing line miles ahead of his friends, the Young who are him since he was a youngster of 8; Workstrider, the "black shark" of the 1927 21-mile marathon, forced out to day late within a mile of finishing, numbered by the heart-break ing realization that he had still another lap to go. Not that he didn't he had finished—these were perhaps the extremest of thoughts and tragedy that centred around the hospital tent of the big swim yesterday.

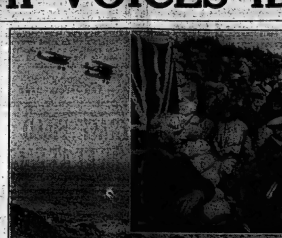
Tide Against Premier Turns in His Favor



London, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The tide of Opposition against Premier Ramsay MacDonald and his Parliamentary economy programme was believed by observers here today to be turning in his favor. They noted increasing signs that many who followed the Premier in the devotion in years past are experiencing heartbreaking over the split in the Labor Party and what has been described as the dictation of Trade Unionism to Socialism.

Though Socialist, Isabel Supports Her Father

London, Sept. 3 (AP)—Miss Isabel MacDonald, daughter of Ramsay Macdonald, is backing up her father in his decision to form a "national" welfare above the creed of the labor party.

In a letter to the Seaham Harbor party, which called on Premier Ramsay MacDonald to resign his seat in parliament because of his leadership of the National government, she offered to cancel a speaking engagement before the group if it would embarrass them.

"As the present crisis is only another proof of the failure of capitalism and the need for genuine Socialist propaganda," she wrote, "I feel I can support my father and at the same time continue Socialist propaganda.

CAIRN UNVEILED TO COMMEMORATE WOLFE'S LAND ING IN CAPE BRETON

These pictures were taken when the Wolfe Memorial was unveiled at Kennington Cove, on the rocky shore of Cape Breton Island, once known as Ile Royale and once the stronghold of France in the New World. It was on this spot in 1758 that Wolfe landed to begin the dra truction of the great fort of Louisburg, which took the French a quar ter of a century to build. The main picture shows three Royal Canadian Air Force planes dropping a simple message, "To the honored dead of two nations" to commemorate the union of France with Gr eat Britain in Canada. Inset shows Hon. Senator J. S. Bellenan making the unveiling at the unveiling ceremony while Lieutenant-Governor Stanfield of Nova Scotia (sitting) listens to his speech.—Photos by courtesy of Ca nadian National Railway.

Appeal to Citizens to Attend Belleville Fair

"With the apparent break in the wet weather which reduced the attendance of the crowds at the Belleville Fair, President Hanna of the Agricultural Society and President Symons of the Parks Commission today issued an appeal to the citizens of Belleville and district to support the fair with all their effort. Two days wet weather cut heavily into the attendance and if there are days when the weather is fair the fair should rally by their attendance.

Thursday nights program and Friday night's are being doubled to provide additional attraction to the people.

The presidents undoubtedly have but to point out the need of good crowds to have them.

Renunciation by Austria Satisfies French Aims

Geneva, Sept. 3—Addressing the opening session of the full commission today Herr Schober said of the protected Austrian economic arrangement with Germany, "We will not pursue it further."

The whitehaired Austrian minister made statement in German but although he usually speaks in English all such matters in this manner was unusually subdued and he was obviously ill at ease while on his feet.

Herr Schober thus anticipated the world court verdict which according to general belief will declare Austria's proposed economic link with Germany illegal. In this manner was eliminated a scheme which has acutely troubled the European political scene for the last five months.

Following this renunciation, it is believed will quiet the fears and satisfy the demands of France, chief opponent of the plan.

Individual Teaching Aim in Education

Waterloo, Ont., Sept. 3 (By The Canadian Press)—Some aims of education were discussed yesterday by Hon. George S. Henry, Premier of Ontario, opening the new Elizabeth Zeigler Public School here. The altitude towards education had changed since the days when pupils were divided into classes—the clever ones and the dunces. Individuality of the pupils and interests with which they are identified are considered today in teaching, he said. S. C. Tweedie, M.L.A., introduced the Premier and Mrs. S. C. Tweed, his wife, Chairman of the Waterloo Public Board, presided.

BLOOD TESTS ARE FAVORED

Percy Ray Advocate of Tests for T.B., Contagious Abortion

Petitions are in circulation among farmers in this district and are being freely signed in favor of tests for tuberculosis and contagious abortion among cattle.

Mr. Percy Ray of Harold, whose herd of twenty-one cattle constituted a number of head which had contracted the disease and which reports all, but one of which is still intact and not one of the six infected cows in the herd was destroyed, has been busy and has been inspected by the government inspector, Dr. Brown of Toronto. Mr. Ray had the Government Agricultural representative visit the herd and it was pointed out that with pasteurization of the milk and cream, all danger from contracting disease from this source is eliminated and the products are quite fit for human consumption. In the case of milk sent from such cows to a cheese factory, when cheese is matured there is no danger from what is known as malta fever. Mr. Ray, however, withdrew his milk from the cheese factory to which he had been sending the milk for the sake of the peace of mind of the community.

Mr. Ray has a letter from a Government official stating that if the disease becomes widespread throughout the district the infected cows will be condemned as was treated by a Kingston doctor and after two weeks of treatment he was quite himself again. However the disease is an unpleasant and debilitating one and for that reason Mr. Ray himself is a strong advocate of bloodtests not only for T.B. but for contagious abortion. Only blood tests will show the disease.

An attachment for motion picture projectors has been invented to clean grease, oil spots and dirt from films as they are being exhibited.

Lignite Shipment from Cochrane Deposits Likely

Swastika, Sept. 3—On a trip to the mining recording offices in the North, Thomas F. Sutherland, Deputy Minister of Mines in Ontario, was met here yesterday intends to visit the lignite deposits at Cochrane before returning to Toronto. At these coal fields, north of Cochrane, developments with a view to shipment of lignite to Toronto are being carried on under instructions from the Provincial authorities, and a railway is being built from Cochrane to the deposits, a distance of 35 miles.

Quebec Will Support Power Project to Full Gov't to Guard Rights

Government of Province Will Co-operate to Limit

ONTARIO'S CASE

Quebec Will Reserve Right to Cancel Power Leases

Quebec, Que., Sept. 3—A conference was held Wednesday by Premier Taschereau, K. D. Sweezey, of the Beauharnois Power and Alme Geoffrion, K.C., at which the recent developments in the Beauharnois project were discussed. In view of the importance of prog ahead with the work, it is understood that the Provincial Government will co-operate to the limit as long as the power rights of the Province are not interfered with.

It is also understood that Premier Taschereau will adhere to his stand to prevent any interference from another country. The endorsation given by an unprecedented victory is understood to have strengthened the Premier's stand, in the case of Ontario, as long as the power is exported with the reservation that Quebec may cancel leases at any time it may need more power. It seems that there will be no change in the original plans.

SEEN AT THE FAIR

J. T. Warren Co., automobile dealers, are making a display of Chevrolet and Oldsmobile cars at Belleville Fair. They are showing coaches, sedans, sport coupes, cabriolet, in the Chevrolet models. Note in the Oldsmobile line they have the coupe and sedan on display. Another display in the exhibition is the Monobile knit that has been erected behind the Merchants' Building and they have all of the latest and most up-to-date models that are produced by the General Motors of Canada. They have the finest collection of Chevrolet cars that has ever been seen in Belleville and Mr. Warren expects to have some fine checks on display before the exhibition is over.

The Chevrolet car this year is the best car that has been produced by the General Motors in a small car in some time. They expect to have a much better display before the completion of the Fair. Chalmers and Gilbert Bros. have a fine line of all farm implements on display and their booth was well attended by the farmers of the district yesterday.

Exterminate Wolf Game Solution

Schreiber, Ont., Sept. 3—Extermination of the wolf was advanced as the solution of the game conservation problem in Ontario at a meeting here of the Provincial Conservation Council. The subject question was made by Hon. W. D. Black, chairman, Mr. Black moved, and permission to use poison in catching wolves was granted by the council. It also favored an open season for partridge this year and the limitation of the number to one license fee throughout the Province.

Headed For Land of Midnight Sun

Gillam, Man., Sept. 3—On their last half-before entering "the land of the midnight sun," the party of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce delegation touring the Hudson Bay, rested here for a while last night. The tourists, on their special train, travelled all day over the muskeg route after leaving the Pas early Wednesday.

The party is due to arrive in Churchill today to inspect the harbor and its shipping in the evening on their return to the south, en route to Regina, Sask., for the convention of the party.

Members of the party, leading business men from through the Dominion, have expressed great enthusiasm over the plans of the Manitoba seaport.

FIFTY MILLION FACING DEATH FROM HUNGER

250,000 Die in Month in China as Flood Results

DEATH-TRAP

Shanghai, Sept. 3—Another vast welter of death and suffering is slowly being revealed, as President Chiang Kai-shek estimated that 10,000,000 Chinese flood victims were on the verge of starvation. Relief and medical efforts was being made to relieve stanuow, Wuchang and Hankow where 250,000 persons were estimated to have died of flood, disease and exposure during August, attention was diverted to Northern Kiangsu Province, where the once fruitful and happy basin of the Grand Canal and the sea has been transformed into a death trap for 50,000 thousands.

The flooded area there approximates 17,000 square miles in which 10,000,000 persons dwell. The most serious misery has been pitched upon five rich farming counties, each supporting 1,000,000 people. This region, containing the cities of Kaoyu, Shaopo, Tsaoyo, Yangtai and Anghwa, the ten feet below the Grand Canal bed, and twenty feet above the level of the canal.

Missionary Tells Story.

The Rev. Thomas L. Harnberger, who arrived yesterday from the devastated area, estimated that at least 100,000 had died in the Northern Kiangsu floods, and that 2,000,000 would perish of starvation and exposure.

Mr. Harnsberger, who came from Tsaoyo, Kiangsu, years ago as a Presbyterian missionary, said hundreds of villages have been submerged. Residents were without a chance to escape when dykes near Kaoyu and Shaopo collapsed a week ago.

The swollen Hwai River poured its waters into a string of lakes, which emptied into the Grand Canal, the dykes of which burst. The flood inundated with that from the Yangtze River, steaming north through broken dykes near Wuhu in Anhwei Province. The typhoon in August of the 25th started a great lake over the populous area, drowning thousands.

Entry List Not as Large as Last Year But Class Good

NO UPSETS

Stunt Fliers From Camp Borden Entertain During Events

The athletic meet held in connection with the Belleville Fair on Wednesday was a pronounced success, although the class of the performers was not equal to a year ago. Mr. Harry Ferguson, who conducted the meet for the Fair Board, assisted by members of the Y.M.C.A. and Ralph Morden of the same organization with an energetic committee handled the meet in fine style. There were no long delays and all events were finished by six o'clock daylight time. Mr. Walter Knox, athletic coach for the Ontario Athletic Commission officiated as starter and handled the fields in brilliant fashion.

During the progress of the meet, two stunt fliers from the Airport at Camp Borden entertained the crowd high overhead with daring feats of flying, which included the barrell roll, inside loops, outside loops, zooming and other manoeuvres. These boys were over the exhibition ground for nearly a half hour, and the crowd was held spell bound with their work. Incidentally these fliers in the near future will be situated at Trenton, Ontario, and the residents will have more opportunity to judge the skill of airmen Canada is developing.

Entry Not As Large

The entry list was not as large as last year but there were not as many of the athletes competing as in the past. This in a measure can be accounted for from the fact that many of the athletes have had a heavy programme this summer and are laying off for a while. The Intermediate Ladies' Athletic Club of Toronto competed in all events and everyone was in the prize money, Margaret Smith, Ontario Ladies' champion the events she entered in excepting one. In the Senior events Jack Mitchell of Oshawa were the outstanding fighters, they winning practically all of the events competed in. Doug showed his prowess with the javelin by hurling it 150 feet, Stapleton of Ontario and his skill was outstanding upon the discus, he closely followed the events. Arthur Dixon of Toronto also was a fighter to the three miles and ran the race in exceptionally good time considering the condition of the track.

Track Heavy

The track was heavy from Tuesday night's rain and hampered fast time being made. The boys and girls had to pick their spots as they were wrong on the racing strip, this particularly being true in the relay events. The most popular win of the afternoon was that of Margaret Smith in the two mile handicap walk. Miss Smith is a Senior Girl, of Toronto with something to spare, she had a fine lead and during the second handicap on the second man Margaret showed a steady and steady pace. The summary of events follows:

DEATHS and FUNERALS

SISTER MARY PERPETUA

Smith's Falls, Sept. 2.—Sister Mary Perpetua died at St. Francis General Hospital here, after seven months' illness. Deceased was formerly Miss Emily Murphy of Marysville and entered the Providence Novitiate in Kingston about nineteen years ago. Shortly after making final profession, about seven years ago she came to St. Francis' General Hospital, Smith's Falls where she remained until her death. For seven years past Sister Mary Perpetua had been Superintendent of Nurses. Deceased leaves two sisters, Mrs. Richard Kennedy and Mrs. Charles McWilliams of Marysville, and three brothers, Harry Murphy of Marysville, Joseph of Toronto, and Vincent of Detroit, Mich. A sister, Sister Mary Imelda, died five years ago in Kingston. The funeral of Sister Mary Perpetua took place in Kingston, where solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated at Our Lady of Lourdes Church by Archbishop M. J. O'Brien, and was largely attended by the clergy. Interment was in the Sisters' plot in St. Mary's cemetery, Kingston.

REUBEN KETCHEPAW

There passed away at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. H. Daymond, Guelph, Wednesday, Reuben Ketchepaw, an aged and respected resident of Thurlow Township for many years. Mr. Ketchepaw has been ailing for some years but his demise will come as a shock to a legion of friends who had learned to know and respect him for his many fine qualities of mind and heart. The late Mr. Ketchepaw was born in Thurlow Township, 79 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Ketchepaw. He was interested in farming and conducted for many years until ill health forced his retirement, a farm in Thurlow Township. He was a member of the United Church and leaves to mourn his loss besides a widow, one daughter, Mrs. Harold Daymond, Guelph, three brothers Russell of Grand Rapids, Mich., Charles of Grand Rapids, Mich., Irving of Lamonte, Mich.; also three sisters, Mrs. Hattie Fox, Demorestville, Mrs. Eva Hoyle, Picton, and Mrs. Horace Way also of Picton. The body arrived in the city today from Guelph and was taken to his late residence in Thurlow Township from which home his funeral will take place on Friday afternoon.

LATE MRS. (DR.) LAMEY

Friends of Mrs. Marie Cummins Blanchard were shocked in the city of Toronto, were shocked to hear of her very sudden death on Monday on Wednesday. She was for some time a resident of Belleville and was well known. The funeral will take place in Toronto on Friday.

MABEL SELENA DUNNING

After a very short illness, Mabel Hawkins, beloved wife of Arthur Dunning, passed away at her home in Plainfield on Wednesday. Mrs. Dunning was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hawkins, and was born in Gray County 34 years ago. Besides her husband she leaves to mourn one son, James Giblin, of Regina, Ont., an infant daughter, Nina Dunning, and one step-daughter, Ruth at home. Two brothers, Frank of Keith, also are at home. She also leaves two sisters, Mrs. R. Bennett of Mrs. Milton Roberts, both of Eugenia. Two brothers, Kendal and Kilbourne, both residing in Sugarloaf, also mourn her loss.

MRS. FAYNE HONORED

The following appeared recently in the Athens news in the Brockville Recorder: "Rev. A. B. Payne and wife have been appointed to the charges of St. Thomas Church, in Belleville, will take the services in which the late Rev. Dr. Sundays in September and is due in his new parish about September 15th. On Wednesday his household effects were moved from Athens to Belleville. Mrs. Payne and sons having gone to Belleville to be with the mother for a week or so. Prior to Mrs. Payne's removal from Athens a number of social affairs were held by the choir of Christ Church with the ladies and a very pleasant chesterfield table, as a slight appreciation of her services as a soloist in the church, while in Athens.

John Streib Hanged On Permanent Scaffold

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 3.—(By the Canadian Press) — In the solemn quiet of the execution room at Headingly Jail, John Streib, 48-year-old child-slayer was hanged today.

Murderer of the three children of Mrs. Lillian Walters, who gave him free board and room, he died on the identical drop a moment after the swinging trap was sprung, at 7.15 a.m. C.S.T.

Streib took the few steps to the permanent gallow in the dismal death-room with none of the despondency that caused him to attempt suicide after he had killed the three children who loved him. In his cell, where he sat silent as the black cap was fitted over his bowed head and quietly waited for the fatal drop.

The first indoor execution in Manitoba's history, the hanging was performed less than four months from the sunny day in May when Streib slashed the throats of Irene and Dennis Walters and shot their brother George to death.

453,000 RADIOS

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 3.—(By The Canadian Press)—Licenses were issued to 453,000 Canadian radio owners in the first four months of the present fiscal year. The radio branch of the Department of Marine issued 833,100 licenses in the 12 months ended March, and expectations were that this total would be increased materially in the present fiscal year.

BULLETIN BOARD

15 SMALLEST AND YOUNGEST

Belleville's entry in the great swim at Toronto, Thomas Pedder, was in the big splash today. He is the youngest, 17, and the smallest, 117 pounds.

DEPARTMENT JUDGE ARRIVES

W. J. Dawson, Toronto, is the Departmental judge at the Belleville Fair for light horses and arrived in the city today. He only casually inspected the classes to be shown and from the past performances he declared the classes to be the best he has seen this year with a considerable increase in every event. Mr. Dawson called on the Editorial Department of the Ontario Intelligencer and went through this modern and up-to-date plant by one of the staff. Mr. Dawson was amazed at the progress that has been made in the newspaper field in the past few years, stating that the new inventions would soon make the extremities of the world meet.

DEPOSITS INCREASE

King George School led all the Belleville public schools in percentage with regards to Penny Bank savings during the month of June according to figures issued by the Penny Bank in Toronto. King George School had a percentage of 26. Queen Mary; Queen Victoria 34 and Queen Alexandra 22. The total amount on deposit for Belleville at the end of June in the 13 banks was $18,00, an increase over the figures of a year ago which were $17,536,46. The total amount on deposit at the end of June in Canada was $1,247,757,75 compared with $1,277,318,78 of a year ago. At the present time there are 466 schools in Canada depositing compared with 430 schools last year.

DOG IS DESTROYED

A fine Collie dog, belonging to Mr. Wills, 69 1-2 Mains Street west, was struck by a car on Wednesday afternoon and one front leg and one hind leg were broken. Under the car did not stop. Constable Alcard was called to destroy the dog.

CARS WERE MIRED

Mud and rain then rain and mud caused more than one car to be stalled at the Belleville Fair grounds on Tuesday evening. Automobiles were mired on lot and it was the early hours before some of them managed to get their cars out of the mud. Some of the fair officials worked far into the night trying to find those who had become stuck in the mud. During the week a new drive over the baseball diamond; this practice should be stopped as once if the local ball diamond is to be kept in condition.

A LITTLE WARMER

Yesterday's rainfall of .83 inches seems to have cleared the air as the local temperature rose after days of raining. Yesterday's temperature was 70 high and 50 low, while the mercury only dropped as low as 57 yest night but registered 84 this afternoon.

Taxation of Liquor Stores Church Lands, Favored

Municipal Association Suggests Many Changes

CUT EXEMPTIONS

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 2 (CP) — Assessment and taxation of liquor stores, church lands and seminaries a part of the changes revised of the assessment act of Ontario is approved by delegates to the 23rd annual meeting of the Ontario Municipal Association.

There has been no revision of the act since 1904, it was pointed out. The suggestion was that the changes be made under headings of taxation and assessment.

Power to assess church lands, exclusive of buildings, was strongly advocated. The power should be given with regard to sanitation, it was urged, so as to limit more closely the exemption of land used for agricultural, speculative or future use. Assessment and taxation of liquor stores, putting them on an equality with hotels, was also asked.

HOUSE, BARN BURNED TODAY IN HUNTINGDON

Blaze Starts in Barn of Edward Barry and Spreads

FAMILY AWAKENED

Team of Horses Cremated — Loss is Very Heavy.

A brick house, a large frame barn, 6 head of horses and two pigs perished in the flames in the season's crops, farm machinery and household contents destroyed was the result of a disastrous fire which occurred at an early hour this Thursday morning on the property of Huntingdon. The property in question is occupied by Mr. Edward Barry, and the location is on the Crookston Road, about five miles west of Tweed village.

At about 5 o'clock the inmates of the house were aroused by a bright illumination which showed that the barn was on fire, the fact the building was a mass of flames before they were able to reach it. In a few minutes the flames spread to the house which was also destroyed. A team of valuable horses were cremated, as were also two pigs. Fortunately there were no cattle in the barn. The family's crop, also a considerable quantity of farm machinery and other articles were burned. In the upper part of the house the contents were destroyed and owing to the flames enveloping the house quickly, but a small part of the furnishings on the ground floor were taken to a place of safety. Despite the fact that it was an early

770 Total List of Registered in City

The adjustment of the unemployed listed at the Ontario Government Employment Bureau, of Belleville and the office of the Chief Engineer has been completed. One hundred and eighteen duplicates were found. Three hundred and twelve Belleville men had registered with the Employment Bureau; one hundred and eighteen had registered at both offices; this gave an additional number of 194 names to be added to the City Engineer's record of unemployed residents in Belleville. The total number registering those 194 men remain with the Ontario Government Employment Bureau; they had entered their registration at that office owing to the prospect of obtaining employment on Government road work this winter. With those new names added to the city's unemployment figures are also married men and 230 single men, total 770.

Many of the unemployed are of honor a number of neighbors gathered at the scene but were powerless to prevent the onward march of the devouring element. There was a most serious one to Mr. Barry, as he is partially covered by insurance.

30 LB. LUNGE HOOKED IN BAY

Ted Lill Caught Monster On Steel Rod, Casting Line and Plug

The "lunge" fishing is on in earnest in the Belleville district and each day's new fish story comes to hand. On Wednesday afternoon, Jack and Ted Lill, sons of Mr. Jack Lill of Corbyville, went down the bay of Quinte for to cast for lunge. The boys landed a "lunge" would make up his mind to strike. Ted Lill had the honor of hooking a 30-pounder, which measured 54 inches and he was taken on a steel rod with light casting line and a jointed wiggler plug. The fish was hooked about 600 yards south of the north shore of the bay, directly in front of a large sandy rift range.

The Lill stated to the Ontario Intelligencer today that the fish was not well hooked and he was afraid he was going to get away. It took nearly twenty minutes to land the "lunge" and the boys are done without the aid of a gaff hook. "When the fish was first after being played," said Mr. Lill, "my brother Jack rushed down to the water and grabbed the fish by the gills and successfully pulled him up to the boat." Mr. Lill also stated that the "lunge" struck hard and fought keenly.

At the request of the King and Queen a number of Boy Scouts have been detailed for duty at royal garden parties recently.

Persons under the influence of alcohol numbered more finally than sober persons, according to the Berlin Institute of Research.

A GOOD BAROMETER

Basic conditions are solid here and elsewhere in Canada. The stability of the country as revealed in the autumn exhibitions is a proof of the this statement.

No more perfect demonstration of the stability of conditions in these parts can be found than in the Belleville fair—live, stock of superior class, wealth shown in motorcars and trucks, crowds with money, the air of confidence, industry and business, hopeful of the future and not the too far distant future but that at the door—give the lie to the pessimist.

There is nothing to be downhearted about. The things that are real wealth are here today as they were in the early days of 1929 before the slump in commodity prices got well under way and the market crashing started.

Fairs are signs of faith and confidence and they breed confidence and faith. No wonder they are flourishing in these days following depression!

REGIONAL FAIRS

How the regional fair will help agriculture was shown by Mr. W. E. Turnbull, M.P. the other day at the fair in the course of his address at the opening. The regional fairs will be built on the basis of the small fair and the regional institution will derive much of its importance from the fact that it draws from the fairs held earlier and is the pick of the stocks and other exhibits shown at the smaller fairs. In this idea superior livestock, superior grains and superiority in other fields will be made the mark of the district fair. Dairymen, seed growers, and all who live upon the farm will have the benefit of the supreme exhibits of the region's fair.

AURORA MEASURED

The Aurora Borealis, least understood of heavenly phenomena, is not so distant from the earth as we used to think.

Fifty to seventy-five miles from the ground is the height fixt for the very flashes of light in a report made to the Royal Society of Canada, at its recent meeting, by members of the physics department of the University of Toronto.

Says Science News Letter, a publication of Science Service (Washington):

"Utilizing the fact that the northern lights are visible farther south in eastern Canada than anywhere else in the northern hemisphere, the physicists photographed displays last January and February. They set up two observing stations near James Bay. One was located at Blacksmith Rapids, fifty miles from Moose Factory, and the other at Coral Rapids, thirty miles father south. The stations were connected by telephone lines, and each was provided with cameras similar to those used in aerial surveying.

"When the aurora was visible from both stations, the photographers focused their cameras on areas of the sky selected by telephone, and took simultaneous pictures. The exact times were compared by telephone and checked against the sidereal clock. Reference points in the heavens were provided by the stars, photographed on the plates at the same time.

"When the plates were developed, the heights of shafts of light recorded at both places were calculated by the same triangulation methods used in surveying. In this case, instead of a horizontal triangle, the physicists computed a vertical triangle with one side as the line joining the observing stations.

The results show that the auroral flashes may occasionally lie 156 miles above the earth. Less than 100 miles is the usual height, however. This result agrees with similar measurements obtained in Scandinavia."

TOBACCO DIET MAKES LARGER CHICKS

This unexpected result is the outcome of experiments at Pennsylvania State College, reported in the New York Herald Tribune.

Smokers need not chuckle, for the effect of tobacco smoke taken into the throat and bronchial tubes is not the same as that of the unconsumed leaf taken into the stomach. Says the Herald Tribune:

"Tobacco fed to baby chickens is making them into bigger and better broilers at Pennsylvania State College.

"This same diet in the fully grown fowl makes healthier hens and roosters—and emancipates their owners from keeping close watch for fear of a parasitic infection that chickens may pick up when economically foraging for their own food.

"A high percentage of nicotin is the secret of the effectiveness of the Penn State, tobacco diet. Suspecting that the harm may come from other tobacco ingredients than nicotin, Drs. J. E. Hunter and D. E. Haley, of the department of agricultural and biological chemistry, have been feeding tobacco rich in nicotin, a diet with less tobacco, but with a greater kick. Between the low and high nicotin types they are now seeking the 'level' of nicotin content at which the best results may be obtained. A wider range in effective plants may mean increased markets for tobacco farmers."

THE BUILDERS

By Aline Michaelis

We are building not for this hour alone,
Not just for the day that is here,—
For after a score of years have flown
The purpose will be more clear:
The meaning at which we could only guess
In the deeds that are past and gone,
The hopes which our hearts could not express

Save as the day is expressed by the dawn.

The word we spoke or the deed we did
May gain force with the flight of time
And its highest use, for a season hid,
May change life's dull prose into rhyme.
Oh, many and many a year ago
We planted the seeds of today,
With no thought, perhaps, how the tree would grow
Or its increase of far away.

And how sweet is the hour that comes at last
When the fruits hang ripe for the hand
And we gather the yield of these days long past
In the golden harvest-land!

BORROWING GERMANY'S ART POSSESSIONS

A syndicate of French art dealers is reported in a dispatch to the New York Times as offering Germany a loan of $40,000,000 on the security of the old masters now in German museums.

The proposal is not popular in Germany, for reasons pointed out in the Art Supplement of the Chicago Evening Post:

"The whole idea is scouted as preposterous and impracticable, even as a cold business proposition, because of both legal and economic obstacles.

"What rankles most deeply, however, is that the national monetary need should be taken advantage of for laying hands on German cultural treasures that money can not buy. What is resented most fiercely is the condition that the masterpieces, when pledged, would be transported to Paris, to be on view there until the loan was repaid.

"It is asserted that, with the Reich so poor, once its Rafaels and Durers, its Michelangelos, Hals, Holbeins, Rembrandts, Vermeers, Grecos, and Giottos were across the border, they would never come back:

"By some the proposal of a loan is interpreted as masking an attempt at spoliation, even if originated only by private speculators, reviving in republican France today the Napoleonic trick of filling artistic tribute on conquered and helpless people.

"But even if German museums and private collectors were willing to give up highly prized possessions, it is pointed out, their acquiescence would be nugatory, since a law of the French Republic exportation of its principal art treasures."

AMERICA'S "DARKEST HOUR"

Revolution looms ahead in the United States, according to some foreign observers. Such gloomy foreboders are particularly imprest by a statement attributed to William Green, the President of the American Federation of Labor. He is reported to have said that a revolution in the United States in the near future is by no means an impossibility. Clearly, the London Saturday Review avers, this forecast deserves closer attention than it has received in Europe, and we are further told:

"Ever since the enactment of Prohibition there has been a growing disregard for law and order, and when to this is added unemployment and destitution on a large scale (it is said that there will be 12,000,000 unemployed in the United States by next year), it is obvious that a crisis of the first magnitude is at hand.

"There is no country in the world with such unruly elements in its population as the United States, and if once the Communists gain control of them the Russian Revolution will be child's play compared with what will inevitably follow.

"The North American has been prosperous for so long that he is likely to be driven mad by adversity. The real testing-time of the United States is at hand, and we shall all watch her carefully to see how she carries herself in her darkest hour."

MUTUAL LIFE CONTINUES PRESENT DIVIDEND RATE

Leading producers of The Mutual Life of Canada, comprising the Company's Quarter Million Dollar Club, met in Convention at Lourene in Quebec September 1st. and 2nd.

The gathering was addressed by the President of the Company, Mr. R. O. McCulloch, who, in opening his remarks, stated that it fell to his lot to present the address of welcome at a convention of the Company's representatives ten years ago, on August 31st, 1921, when general conditions were about as bad as it was thought at that time they could be. He had remarked in 1921 that the depression of that period would not continue indefinitely, and although prospects were very dark, the situation cleared up quickly with a return to prosperity. He felt that while there was no miraculous cure for hard times we would emerge from the present depression probably without realising that we were making progress in that direction.

Mr. McCulloch made an announcement of greatest importance to policyholders in the field men of the Company alike, when he stated that after taking all factors of situation into account, Board of Dirigtors has in contemplation no change in our present scale of dividends for 1932. He felt sure that would be welcome news in view of dividend reductions being prevalent in so many directions. He concluded his address by pointing out that the Company's progress continued steady, substantial and satisfactory, the gross amount of the Company's life insurance in force now being well over $10 millions.

Mr. J. L. Taylor acted as chairman of the convention, which was opened with an address by Mr. W. Carlisle, Superintendent of Agencies. Mr. W. H. Somerville, General Manager of the Company, followed with an address of welcome to which Mr. J. A. Dowling, Toronto, President of the Quarter Million Club, responded. The report of the Club was read by Mr. F. W. Smith, Superintendent of Sales Promotion, which was followed by a report of the Agents' Association by Mr. W. M. O. Lochead, Branch Manager at Kitchener. Dr. J. M. Livingston, Medical Director, gave a talk on "Underwriting," after which Mr. J. A. Dowling addressed the interesting address on "The Building of an Insurance Programme."

The President of the Company, Mr. R. O. McCulloch, acted as Chairman at a dinner at which a Toast to the Company was proposed by Mr. Frank Robinson, Branch Manager at Ottawa, and responded to by Mr. C. M. Taylor, Chairman of the Board, and Mr. L. L. Lang, First Vice-President.

Wednesday morning was given up to a number of informative addresses: Mr. J. M. Laing, Actuary, on "An Analysis of Business"; Mr. C. B. Stewart, Montreal, "Cultivating Policyholders"; Mr. J. F. Devaney, Assistant Secretary, "Conservation"; Mr. A. E. Pequegnat, Assistant (Montreal) Manager, "Investments."

The officers of the Quarter Million Club are: President, J. A. Dowling, Toronto; 1st Vice President and Leading Personal Producer 1930-1931, Arthur Levin, Montreal; 2nd. Vice President, D. A. Ferguson, London, Ontario; Executive Committee: T. H. Dickinson, Toronto, G. H. Dawson, Hamilton, E. H. Fairty, Toronto, E. Germain, Quebec, Que.

DAILY DOUBLE SUIT STARTS

Max Shacks Nevis Seeks $16,000 From Jockey Club

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 3 (by the Canadian Press)—The "Daily Double" ticket that horse racing devotees have come to know in the past year is the basis of a $15,000 damage action issued at Osgoode Hall today.

Max Shacks Nevis, now living in Toronto, who came here from South Africa and claims to be the originator of the double form of betting, seeks that amount from the Connaught Park Jockey Club, of Ottawa. Nevis declares that he holds the copyright for the tickets used and that the Ottawa club at their spring and summer meetings used and sold these tickets without his sanction, "making enormous profits therefrom."

An injunction restraining the defendants from infringing the copyright and an accounting of the "enormous" profits is also sought.

Sells Tickets at Board Fence Gate Near Murder Scene

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 3—County officers found a board fence erected along the highway in front of the "Slaughter Farm" at Quiet Dell when they went there and a man was selling tickets at the gate.

The fence was erected by an enterprising man who expected to profit from the curious who have thronged to the place since the bodies of two women and three children were found there. Twenty-five cents was charged for admission of adults and 15 cents for children.

Two workmen at the farm said they were hired by a man named "Kincaid" and the fence was completed at 4 a.m. yesterday. They said "Kincaid" told them he had leased the property. Sheriff W. B. Grimm told the workmen to find the man and direct him to report for questioning.

General Freight Agent of Motor Companies Charges

Toronto (Can.) Sept. 2 (By The Canadian Press)—The Department of Highways of the Ontario Government is responsible for present freight transportation conditions which have resulted in a price war between the railway express companies and the motor transports, declares L. G. Fabian, general freight agent for seven large Toronto motor transport companies.

"If the Department of Highways had enforced the Public Commercial Vehicles Act there would be no unfair competition between the express companies and the transports, nor between the reputable transport companies and the cut-rate truckers," Mr. Fabian said today.

Hundreds of transports are operating without their "P.C.V." licenses, without their insurance registered with the government and without registration with the workmen's compensation board, as required by the Act, Mr. Fabian charges.

Another Beatty Train Load on Its Way

It is interesting to note that the firm of Beatty Bros. Limited are sending out, this week, another Trainload of Electric Washers. In the past this company has sent out several complete Trainloads of electrical washing equipment as a result of consumer demand. This fall they are sending out another trainload to supply the needs of their customers.

This trainload will consist of 1,200 Beatty Electric Washers. It will also carry many hundreds of Beatty Electric Vacuum Cleaners, Floor Polishers and Waxers, as well as several thousand washday accessories. Within recent years Beatty Bros. Limited have developed the Ironer, Cleaner Waxer and Polisher lines and are now in a position to supply practically all the needs of the consumer in the way of household appliances.

Beatty Bros. Limited are a thoroughly Canadian concern, employing over 1800 Canadian workmen and giving a livelihood to 12,000 people through their requirements in raw materials. We are pleased to announce the shipment of another trainload for the stockists of Beatty Stores from Halifax to Vancouver and hope that the prosperous state of the firm will continue to increase with the bettering of world conditions.

Police Seek Clue Of Missing Bandits

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 3—Provincial police are seeking trace of two armed gunmen who robbed the Ancaster men on the old Ancaster road near Dundas Tuesday night. The motorists Roy Oakes and Keith Ward, were proceeding slowly along in the heavy rain when another car drew alongside them. A tall man with a heavy revolver in his hand leaped out and ran to the side of their car and forced them to stop. Planting the revolver in the ribs of the driver, he ordered the youth to deliver up his valuables. A second man emerged from the back car and menaced them with another revolver.

The thieves departed with $32 in cash.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 22 (Metropolitan Newspap er Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan always kept his grass rope lasso in readiness when journeying through the forest, catching many small animals. At last came she whom he sought—Sabor, the lioness. Nearer and nearer—to where Tarzan of the Apes crouched upon his limb, the coils of his long rope poised ready.

Like a thing of bronze sat Tarzan. Sabor passed beneath. Three strides she took. Then the silent coil shot out and settled about her neck. With a quick jerk, Tarzan snapped the noose tightly about the glossy neck. She made a bound and fell upon her neck! Sabor was trapped.

But Sabor had now found that it was only a slender cord that held her, and, grasping it in her huge jaws, she severed it! Tarzan was much hurt. His well-laid plan had come to naught. Sabor paced back and forth beneath the tree for hours often springing at him.

Tarzan mocked and danced above her, hurling twigs and branches at her unprotected face. At last he tired of the sport. With a parting roar of challenge, and a well-aimed k..e fruit that spread over her face, he swung rapidly through the trees a hundred feet above the ground.

In a short time he was among the members of his tribe. And here he recounted the details of his adventure, with swelling chest and so considerable a swagger that he impressed even his bitterest enemies, while Kala fairly danced for joy and pride at her foster-son's bravery and prowess.

BEACHES WIN FIRST PLAYOFF

Defeat Kingston Ponies in Kingston by Score of 8-5

Kingston, Sept. 3.—Toronto Beaches, winners of the first Greenwood Trophy won the first game of the O.B.A.A. intermediate playdowns here Wednesday afternoon when they defeated Kingston Ponies, champions of the O.O.B.L. by 8-5.

Wilbert Hall pitched out of the King box hurlers, Jamieson and Godfrey, missed the ball entirely at the Kingston team, who would likely have won the game had it not been for the fact that Jamieson walked the next man and Godfrey handed free tickets to four.

Beaches had broken the ice in the first inning when Shaw walked and a single by Mays sent in a counter. But Kingston promptly came back in the second and ran in two counters, Hall struck out Scruton, Stone and Jamieson doing the trick.

Jamieson's wildness continued, however, and in the fourth, after walking a man and hitting two, he proceeded to hand free tickets to three more in a row, forcing in Mays. In the next inning, Sinclair started with a single, Jamieson never filed to left, Mays walked and Shaw doubled to left centre, Shaw stopping at third. Rosen hit over third for a single and Rex Shaw scored, with Smith three times to the plate.

The Beaches went up in the seventh when Beaches scored four runs and finished the inning. Shaw started with a single, but was forced by Mays, Sinclair walked and Roberts drove a fly through the left to centre for a home-run when the ball was then picked, and Godfrey handed Ade scored on Shaw's single. The latter, however was out stealing, ending the game. Kingston's life on Shaw's error, and went on to third when Sinclair was forced away from him, McQuaid, however, ended the game with a fly to left.

Sinclair and Hall Stanton, well until the ninth, when the locals broke out in a dangerous rally. Smith, first man up, singled, and then went in to hit for stone, and drove a two bagger to centre, Smith scoring. Hitting for Scruton, picked out the first ball he saw, and lifted over both base runners, Ade went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Shaw's single. The latter, however was out stealing, ending the game.

Kingston's life on Shaw's error, and went on to third when Sinclair was forced away from him, McQuaid, however, ended the game with a fly to left.

PRINTERS DEFEAT HOUSTONS

In a Belleville and District Soft Ball League game played last evening at the Cricket Field, the Printers Co. were decisively beaten by the Printers by a score of 14-5. The score ending 14 to 5

To the last inning the Houstons were chalked up four runs due to a number of errors by the paperpast, but the Printers came back strong and played excellent ball behind Hutchings and Hutchings for the remainder of the game.

The Printers scored 10 runs in seven innings but owing to rain in the fifth frame it was called with the Printers holding the long end of the score.

Henn and Barriage and Henn were the battery for Houston Co., with Lockhart and Hutchings for the Printers.

Umpires—Bawden and Stiller.

Yesterday's Stars

Red Ruel and Gene Goslin, Browns, made five hits apiece, including Goslin's 22nd homer and six doubles and Ruel's record double-header with Tigers.

Si Johnson and Lou Dreschen-Reds—Former fanned eight Cubs to win first game of doubleheader; Luke Hamlin six Cubs in 1931, Brown up to help sweep doubleheader with Chicago.

Ivy Andrews, Yankees—As relief pitcher held Red Sox to two hits in 6 2-3 innings as Yankees won from behind to win 7-4.

Johnny Allen, White Sox—Made three hits and batted in two runs to help defeat Tigers and Indians 3-2 in opener and tied 4-4 in second game.

Carl Hubbell and Bud Parmelee—Giants—Pitched Giants to victory over Braves.

Al Crowder, Senators—Held Athletics to six hits to win 8-3.

Lady Gwendoline is In Critical State

Montreal, Sept. 3—It is learned that the condition of Lady Gwendoline Jellicoe, who underwent a very serious operation on Sunday is most critical, and she cannot be pronounced out of danger till the end of the week.

His Majesty the King has sent a telegram to the Admiral of the Fleet and Lady Jellicoe expressing his sincere sympathy and conveying his earnest prayers for Lady Gwendoline's complete recovery.

TROUBLE IN COAL FIELDS

Sydney, N.S., Sept. 2.—Trouble appeared to be brewing in the coal fields at Nova Scotia yesterday as a movement against registration under the Government's unemployment relief scheme moved forward rapidly.

Caledonia and Victory locals were the first to enter a protest against the Government's offer of 20 cents an hour on relief work, and indications were that the protest would be favored by nearly all the 13,000 miners in District 26.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS MADE ANDERSON SWIM FOR EXERCISE

Mother of Nova Scotia Boy Wants Him to Continue Education; She Prais es Johnny Walker, Coach, For His Ability and Also Toronto for Hospitality Extended Befo re and During Long Grind

Toronto Cable, Sept. 3 (by the Canadian Press)—"We have no definite plans yet. We may go right home from here or perhaps make a brief visit to Baltimore, where my sister lives," said Mrs. W. Anderson of Sydney, N.S., mother of Warren Anderson, youthful competitor in yesterday's Canadian National Exhibition Marathon, who sprang the greatest surprise of the race by finishing third.

"I didn't want my boy to come up here this year," wounded Mrs. Anderson in an interview with the Canadian Press. "I wanted him to finish his high school course first and then enter the university on a scholarship. Since and Jamieson doing the trick.

Jamieson's wildness continued, however, and in the fourth, after walking a man and hitting two, he proceeded to hand free tickets to three more in a row, forcing in Mays. In the next inning, Sinclair started with a single, Jamieson never filed to left, Mays walked and Shaw doubled to left centre, Shaw stopping at third. Rosen hit over third for a single and Rex Shaw scored, with Smith three times to the plate.

The Beaches went up in the seventh when Beaches scored four runs and finished the inning. Shaw started with a single, but was forced by Mays, Sinclair walked and Roberts drove a fly through the left to centre for a home-run when the ball was then picked, and Godfrey handed Ade scored on Shaw's single. The latter, however was out stealing, ending the game.

Kingston's life on Shaw's error, and went on to third when Sinclair was forced away from him, McQuaid, however, ended the game with a fly to left.

"My son came up first and when he finished third I was sure that he was a natural swimmer and sure to be in the prize money. I felt confident Warren would finish because he had started and always did what he starts, but really I did not dream he would be so wonderful. Then he finished ninth finished third. A mere boy outlasting all those oldtimers and professionals.

Had Infantile Paralysis

"Warren has never had the opportunities some of those boys have had," she continued. "He took it up as a hobby to fully restore the use of his limbs. He had an attack of infantile paralysis when he was a baby and since then it left him crippled in one leg and also affected one shoulder. The swimming exercises helped him a lot and he kept at it for a month or so each year. You see swimming facilities are only available for that time in Sydney.

"Two years ago my boy got the notion into his head that he would like to try his luck in the Exhibition marathon and when he finished ninth last year Johnny Walker said he would make a good swimmer some day."

Asked what Warren would like to do with the money he won yesterday Mrs. Anderson said she had decided to urge him to use it for educational purposes.

"I want him to take a course in engineering. It is something he likes and I think he will agree to take the course."

Trained Hospitality

Mrs. Anderson was enthusiastic in her praise for Ontario hospitality. She told of a family at Oshawa, Ontario, with whom she had applied Warren with many things, and who had come down to the camp where he, George Young, winner of yesterday's marathon and Mercer, winner of the women's marathon last Friday were trained by Coach John Walker. Many kind hands helped Mrs. Anderson and Warren during seige yesterday. Frequent cups of tea in an attempt to relieve pain and other little tid-bits brought by willing hands of sympathizing women who would only be strangers in their home or tourist home.

MERCURY HOSIERY

by TOM GILL

PROLOGUE

In a patch of moonlight the masked rider halted.

Just ahead, just beyond the fringe of shadow mingling that skirted the desert's edge, two dusty wagon tracks led out over the mesa. They were all that marked the Yuma-Verdi road, those tracks, and for fifty miles of cactus and sand they were all that recorded the turbulent existence of an international boundary line. But now, the faded, discarded ribbons lay stretched, lonely and indistinct, across the desert, then dropped abruptly over the edge of the mesa.

Minutes passed. The tall rider sat motionless—a brooding statue, silvered with moonlight. Only his eyes moved—eyes that glittered restlessly through the mask, incessantly searching that velvet darkness ahead. A fitful night, wind crept like a sigh among the mesquite. Once the horse pawed impatiently at the sand, and once he raised his head to catch some faint, elusive message.

Silence. An endless silence while the twisted shadows of the mesquite lengthened before the sinking moon. Toward the far-off Mexican foothills a gray bowshed. Again, silvery, moon-drenched silence, while the long minutes passed.

Abruptly, in the same startled second, both horse and horseman raised their heads. Out of the desert night came a sound, faint and indistinct. From a formless, pulsating murmur it rolled nearer, until at last it resolved itself into the muffled tread of galloping horses.

Only then the quiet figure in the moonlight moved. A touch of the rein, and the horse stepped forward into the shattering maguire, where again they froze to immobile statues, lost in that shadowy obscurity. Gently the man's hand dropped for an instant to the black automatic at his side. The barrel was still warm. His knees clasped the horse more tightly. His lithe figure had taken on a new tenseness, and he leaned forward with coldly eager eyes.

In the moonlight ahead the night had become dimly peopled with galloping horsemen, who were driving toward the mesa's edge. Mexican cavalry on patrol. The night was loose ranks, two abreast, talking in low tones. Little whirling puffs of sand rose beneath their pounding feet, then died, and in another minute the sound of their hurried passing faded. As the last shadowy pool drops melted back into that night of silence, the solitary horseman moved. Harvey's many happy memories of Denver. Then his eyes grew somber, he fell silent and busy with their own thoughts, they rode slowly across the glistening sands.

A gate loomed ahead of them, and passing through it, the girl stopped the car before a low adobe storehouse. About it stretched thick lawns, their cool greenness looking in welcome contrast to the drab browns of the desert. Vines covered the adobe walls. Two servants ran out and in answer to the girl's brief orders carried Radcliffe's bags and drunk in the house. He hesitatingly he stepped from the car.

"I want to let you go," he told her, "but you've been a dear to bring me here."

She held out a slim hand. "Nothing. Bob's friends are mine, Jack."

The cool little hand seemed to be trembling in his, and again he felt his pulse quicken. "Good-by, Fay. I will see you again, won't I?"

The wide eyes looked steadily down at him. the lips moved in a tiny smile. "Do you really want to, Ted Radcliffe?"

"I want to very much. And I also want to know your name."

She laughed. "I wonder. But you know it, big man. And you also see me—now."

Then with a little nod and a friendly wave, she left him standing before the steps of the bungalow. He watched her ithrow the long car into gear and start away. He was still watching when she passed the gate and vanished down the dusty road.

CHAPTER II.

His first day had begun quietly enough.

But before that first day ended it was destined to throw Ted Radcliffe headlong into conflict with the greatest power of all the border country. Yet the morning held no cloud. He spent it rambling about the ranchhouse, unpacking and unwriting, conscious only of a serene sense of well-being. After long days of train travel the desert air was like wine, and that world of thirsty, sun-bleached and far horizons. the rising, shimmering heat waves and the purple hills of Mexico—all these were to him the fulfilment of a boyhood dream of romance.

Lunch over, he went out to the corral, where, in the shadow of the saddle house, a grizzled Mexican sat braiding a leather quirt. He touched his sombrero as Radcliffe approached.

"I am Manuel," the Mexican announced in slow Spanish. "Can I serve the senor?"

"Just now, Manuel, the best of service would be a good horse. Will you saddle one?"

But Manuel within the next few minutes saddled two horses, and, handing the reins of the latter animal to Radcliffe, said casually, "Don Bob would not have the senor ride alone on this, his first day."

Smiling, the big man nodded and they turned toward the road. A Mexican boundary, Radcliffe ahead, the old Mexican shuffling along at a tireless trot, while silently he told himself that the lawless gringo could at least ride.

Presently they dropped down from the mesa into—a little river valley which, Manuel told him, marked the Mexican line. Side by side they rode, their horses, then crossed and bore still side by side up the opposite. To the left a ranchhouse appeared, and presently dinner's blue pencil of smoke pointed straight upward. Bringing to the horsemen that sweet acrid smell of burning mesquite. An elderly olds little checkerboard fields of green told of spring's coming, and of farm crops just breaking through the soil. They took, too, of toil and care in the face of adversity, and of unending battle waged against the desert's stern hostility. It was an out-and-out ranch, an outpost of man in the home-maker's invading the desert. Beyond the water's multicolored windmill a few cattle rested after the day's grazing.

All the world was hushed. The benediction of a desert afternoon brooded over the land—the friendliness of tilled fields and human habitation. To Radcliffe, the same peace of it held him.

He was about to speak when a shrill scream pierced the stillness and straightened both men bolt-upright in their saddles. Again that agonized scream, and from behind the ranchhouse a barefoot peon boy fled toward them in shrill terror his eyes wide with horror. Behind him the Mexican vaqueros ran clumsily in high-heeled boots, hauling the boy with their quirts, cutting through the thin shirt until again he screamed in an agony of pain. With each stinging blow the boy leaped frantically into the air, and at each jump his pursuers laughed and struck again. Once he fell, but staggered to his feet beneath a hail of blows.

As Radcliffe spurred forward, the boy caught sight of him, and with redoubled speed made for the rider. Seizing his stirrup, he turned upward a supplicant face, revealing across his dark cheek the deep welt of a quirt.

"Help me, senor," he cried in Spanish, and again as he spoke the leading vaquero arised him and raised his quirt to strike again.

Radcliffe's leg thudded over the saddle horn. He seemed to strike the ground and the vaquero at the same instant, and in the next second the nearest Mexican rose in the air, turned twice, then sprawled face down upon the sand. In consternation his companion halted and after a moment of stupefied silence called to Manuel in Spanish, "Who is this gringo fool that he interferes with the riders of Paso Morales?"

Before Manuel could reply, Radcliffe himself answered. "Come but a little nearer, amigo, and I will interfere yet again." The giant muscles of his shoulder twitched as if eager to strike. The vaquero thoughtfully stepped back a pace.

Gently Radcliffe spoke to the boy. "Why do they beat your?"

"Because I watered my father's cattle at the stream, senor. They say the stream is low and that the water belongs to Paso Morales."

"Is this so?" He looked up at Manuel.

The old Mexican shrugged. "The stream belongs to all. But the herds men of Morales have first drink, for it is the will of God my father's cattle should die!"

Twirling his quirt the vaquero laughed. "I am no priest. But certainly it is not the will of Paso Morales that you should use his water or his grass. Again be scowled at Radcliffe. "Jito, our leader, will soon stable his gringo regret before raised a hand against one of our riders."

ALL RIGHT, I'LL TRY IT LOUISE

THE FOLLOWING MONDAY

YOU WERE RIGHT, LOUISE! WHAT HARD-WATER SOAP SOAKS CLOTHES WHITER THAN THEY CAN BE SCRUBBED

I KNEW YOU'D LIKE IT, FLO. RINSO IS GREAT FOR DISHES, TOO.

These thick, safe suds mean whiter washes!

THERE are all degrees of whiteness. If you want to see the very whitest white that clothes can be—just try Rinso!

Rinso gives rich, creamy lasting suds even in the hardest water. Dirt loosens—soaks right out. Clothes come so whiter they don't need to be boiled. Even grimy cuffs and edges come snowy with little or no rubbing. Clothes last much longer!

Cup for cup, Rinso gives over twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps—it's so compact. And no other soap is recommended by makers of 37 washing machines.

MRS RACHAEL MEDDUGH

Mrs. Rachael Meddugh of Montreal died very suddenly Sunday morning, Aug. 23 at the home of her sister Mrs. Wm. Collins whom she has been visiting for the past two weeks.

Mrs. Meddugh's health had been very poor for some time, but her death was a great shock to her family and friends when on Sunday morning she was stricken with a heart attack and died shortly after.

Mrs. Meddugh was born and raised in the village of Tweed being the daughter of Mrs. McCann and the late Thos. Ryan. Besides Mrs. Collins she is survived by two sisters here Sister Mary Raphael, Mount Joy and Mrs. Wm. Collins of Tweed, and also another Mrs. F. McCann of Tweed.

The funeral took place on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Carthage's Church where the requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev Hugo Doyle of Kingston. Attending on the sanctuary were Rev Fr. Kealey of Marmora, Rev. W. Kinlin of Picton, Rev. J. King of Tweed. After the ceremony the interment was made in the family plot in Stone cemetery.

Bowling Tournament

Ideal weather conditions and a good crowd, the two big factors that contribute to the success of outdoor sports of any kind, favored the Tweed Bowling Club on the green on Wednesday afternoon.

Eighteen teams participated—Toronto, Cobourg, Belleville, Picton, Tadenville and Deseronto were represented, and it was past midnight before the winners were announced.

Tweed was very much in the limelight and won three out of four events on the days play. Dr. Sowerby was first with three wins and highest plus. The other members of his team were Mrs. Martin, Mrs Frost, and Jas. Ryan. W. Whitty of Stirling was the runner up and won second prize.

G. D. Wilson with a team composed of Mrs. M. J. Quinn, Mrs. Leworthy and J. C. Grant won the prize for two wins with the highest plus. F. Hindle carried off the honours for one win with the highest plus. His team was made up of Mrs. Kerr, Mrs Hindle and J. D. Carson.

The draw was very efficiently handled by Mr. A. W.—McGuire.

Flower Exhibit

Tweed Horticultural Society held their annual flower show at Lakeside pavilion on Tuesday afternoon. Four long tables were laden with flower exhibits of every kind. Mr. Chas. Corr carried off the majority of prizes and his contribution to the show helped in making it a success. Afternoon tea and supper was served by the ladies.

Mrs. (Rev). Cooke of Tweed and Mr. Wm. Harvey of Belleville, the latter District Director of the Canadian Horticultural Society acted as judges.

The officers of the Society are President, G. A. Jamieson; 1st Vice-Pres., Wm. Austin, 2nd Vice Pres., Mrs. Arter, Sec'y, Mrs. J. W. Kingston, Treas. F. J. Hunter.

AT 75, FARMER WORKS FOR 18 HOURS DAILY

H. M. Williams, Bloomfield Keeps Pace With Younger Men

GOOD FARMER

Returns to Farm Life After Twenty Years

Picton, Sept. 3. (By Mail).—One of Prince Edward's progressive farmers is Mr. H. M. Williams of Bloomfield, who at 75 years of age continues to work eighteen hours a day and keeps pace with much younger men.

Mr. Williams' farm shows—what can be done by thorough methods and planning. The farm has been in Mr. Williams' possession for nearly fifty years but for twenty years it was practically neglected as Mr. Williams spent those many years engaged in railway and government service, both in the United States and Canada.

In 1926 Mr. Williams gave up this work and returned to his farm. It was in a run-down condition and making no profit. He moved fences and added to his land, put a great deal of land out bushes, cleared stones from fields and otherwise improved his farm. He then planned a rotation of crops which he is following out with great success as his crops show.

Mr. Williams first introduced Holstein cattle into Prince Edward County and still stands by the black and whites. He is a booster for pure-bred bulls.

Just as strong is Mr. Williams is urging a greater war on weeds. His own farm has been practically rid of these by long hours of hard work and thorough cultivation and rotation of crops.

Mr. Williams believes in utilizing all possible land and has added to his acreage by removing as many fences as possible. In doing this he has made it easier to control weeds.

Mr. Williams is optimistic. He has purchased the adjoining farm and is making the two farms into one—a model farm.

"There is no place like the farm" Mr. Williams said in a conversation of this paper. He further stated, "I would rather be a good farmer, having clean land and crops than anything else in the world I know of."

Sixty years ago Mr. Williams handled a plow behind a team of oxen. Today at 75, he works 18 hours a day and keeps pace with the two employees who are much younger men.

He believes better times are coming for the farmer. He believes that the farmer who farms well as any one in the long run. Planning and thorough methods are essentials to success.

In these days one hears about the many difficulties of the farmer, the small returns from great expenditure of labor, the tax bill, interest charges, and high cost of everything he buys compared with prices received. It is then especially interesting to meet Mr. Williams and listen to his optimistic views and words of encouragement.

Although they had a rather bad time of it in the first game of the North, the Baltimore Orioles are by no means out of the International League pennant race. The Orioles who have a habit of dropping home runs over the fences of their home park at the crucial moments, are recognized as a dangerous team in their home pastures, and most of their games for the rest of the season will be played in their own back yard.

Aiding the Baltimore cause is the fact that the only times they play away from home are with Jersey City and Reading, the weaker teams of the League's southern division, and they already have clouted the Skeeters twice in succession.

Orioles Again

The Birds had another close battle with Jersey City yesterday but they won by a 4 to 3 count when Harry Rochester came to Monte Weaver's rescue in the ninth and halted a Skeeter rally. Weaver gave only six hits but issued eleven walks to cause himself trouble. Nevertheless, he gained credit for his 20th victory of the season as Smith and Hesbourg, Jersey hurlers, passed eight men and gave as many hits including a homer by Joe Hauer. The victory put the Orioles into virtual tie with Rochester, its points behind the Red Birds are two games behind the Newark Bears as an evening of rain hits both leaders. Newark was scheduled for a night doubleheader in Reading and Rochester for a similar bill at Buffalo.

Leafs Divide

Montreal and Toronto opened their struggle for fourth place by dividing a double header. The Royals took the first game 5 to 4 as Herb Thormalien outpitched Johnnie Allen after the Leafs had put across three runs in the ninth. Frank Barnes reversed the decision by a 4-3 count in the second game, holding Montreal to six hits. The Leafs drove Gowell Claset to cover in the fourth, scoring three runs to win.

MANY ATTENDED FUNERAL

Among those from Belleville who attended the funeral in Oshawa yesterday afternoon of the late Amos Moyer, were Mayor Ponton, Capt. W. H. Bottom, C. J. Millet, and H. Hillier, representing McLaughlin Motor Car Co. of this city with which the deceased was associated for a number of years. Mr. W. H. Pailleron was one of the pall bearers at the funeral, which was largely attended. Services were held at the home of the father and interment was made in Oshawa cemetery.

30 YEARS OF CONFIDENCE

Presentation

Centenary, Sept. 2.—A very enjoyable time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Adams on Friday evening when about fifty of the friends and neighbors gathered there to spend a social hour with their two daughters, Miss Clara and Miss Jean, who are leaving to take positions in Toronto. Rev. Mr. Hillier ably acted as chairman for the evening. Miss Helen Hart read an appropriate address and Misses Harold Thrasher and Ivan Garrison presented Miss Clara with a handsome suit-case and Miss Jean with a beautiful leather purse. The girls were very much surprised and in a pleasing manner thanked the donors for their beautiful and useful gifts. A dainty lunch was then served and all enjoyed a good time. Following is the address:

Dear Clara and Jean,—

We have gathered here tonight, all your old friends and neighbors, to spend another social hour with you in the old home.

We are sorry you are both leaving our community at once but feel proud to think you are entering into the business life of the city with such bright prospects in view and we are sure you will make good wherever you may be cast. We will miss you Clara, in the Sunday School, Choir and Church, so much. You have always been at your post and no duty was too hard for you to face and always with such a willing and cheerful spirit.

In the social life you have always been a good friend and true and we are thankful for the influence your young life has had upon the youth of our community. We wish you every success in your new surroundings.

Dear Jean,—You have not been with us so much during the past few years, yet we will miss your cheery face and witty sayings. We are proud of the success you have made in the business life during the past five years. We sure can say, as a friend you're constant, honest, true. In fact we think the world of you. As you both go forth to face the world with its joys and sorrows we hope you will always have kind remembrances of your old friends at Centenary. We kindly ask you to accept these gifts as but a small token of our high respect and esteem for you both.

LITTLE BENNY

By LEE PAPE

After supper pop was smoking to himself in his private chair, saying, Well, im having a pritty good vacation. No hotel bills to pay, all the old familar faces around, its a real treat. And the cream of the joke is, Ive just thawt of a way to have a trip to Europe without moving out of the house, he said.

My lands, how? Whats this going to be? ma said.

The main diffrence between Europe and America is the manners and customs, pop said. And the most diffrent manner and custom is the manner and custom of eating brekfist in bed. For instants in France even the common people have their cawffee and rolls in bed. Its the national habit. So this is my ideer. Tomorrow morning Ill have my brekfist served to me in bed and Ill have all the sensations of being in France without the expense of a long boat trip, he said.

Now Willyum thats the craziest ideer of all the crazy ideers youve had so far, ma said.

Why is it? pop said. Do you mean to say that 50 million intelligent French people all start the day with a crazy ideer every morning? he said. Thats a slur on the French race, he said, and ma said, It is not, its a slur on you for wanting to act contrary to your own country and climate. Think of Nora, she'd be perfeckly scandalized. Think of what the naybors would say if they herd about it. And think of the bred crums in your bed. It's not to be thawt of, Willyum, so dont think of it. If you must get the impression of a travelling sensation take me to the Narcississ, theres a picture there called Boohoo or something like that. Anyway its all about unexplored Africa and everybody says its very thrilling. Come on, Willyum, thats a good ideer, we'll just be in time, ma said.

All rite, yee gods, lets go, pop said. Wich they did.

Jobless In Ontario Run Up To 120,000 Total

Toronto, Sept. 2.—According to the calculations of Hon. Dr. Joseph D. Monteith, Minister of Public Public Works, and Labor, the total unemployed registration in Ontario will range between 110,000 and 120,000.

"I am basing my estimate," said he, "on the returns from the municipalities we have already compiled. We still have a lot to check up."

Of the 130,000 jobless, 40 per cent., in Dr. Monteith's opinion, will be unmarried men and transients.

As Chairman of the Special Committee of the Government entrusted with the handling of relief funds, the Minister has called an organization meeting for tomorrow afternoon at Queen's Park. This whole conference will be given over to formulation of relief policy. None of the forty relief programs which have already been received from municipalities by J. A. Ellis, Secretary of the committee, for consideration and approval, will be dealt with today.

AMUSEMENTS

SENNETT SUPERS IN "THE COMMON LAW"

Constance Bennett is a glamorous person. And the role she portrays in her latest picture, "The Common Law," which opened to a capacity audience at the Belle, last night, is particularly suited to her beauty and talent.

The story is about an artists' model fifth advanced ideas of love—and the man she loves who is modern in everything but love.

The art studio scenes are particularly well done, and the scene representing the Parisian "Four Arts Ball" with its gorgeously costumed women stands out as a piece of masterful direction. Henry Clive famous painter and illustrator, acted as technical director for these Parisian scenes. He had to conduct a real beauty contest in order to make a suitable selection of beautiful girls for the scene.

Constance Bennett undoubtedly lived the role of Valerie West. Never for a moment does the quality of her characterization lag. Through out the picture she plays with understanding and restraint. There is depth to Valerie West.

Miss Bennett has an excellent supporting cast—Joel McCrea, Law Cody, Robert Williams, Hedda Hopper, Marion Shilling and Paul Ellis.

"Troubles From A Broad," is the title of a very funny Fred Sterling comedy, which preceded the exhibition of the feature offering. "Strange as it Seems," and the Metrotone Newsreel added greatly to the enjoyment of the program, which will be exhibited again tonight, for the last time.

LILY DAMITA AT THE CAPITOL TO-NIGHT

A French mannequin's marriage to a wealthy American, her stepdaughter's immediate antagonism her step-son's infatuation for her and a most surprising sequel to the resume of "The Woman Betwen," Lilly Damita's newest picture at the Capitol to-night, (tilverware Cift Night), and Friday.

Lily Damita, herself a fiery French brunette, portrays the mannequin with ease and perfection. As "Madame Julie," proprietress of an emporium, Lily Damita parades the very latest 1932 fashions, a positive feast of delight for the lady patrons at the Capitol to-night, when they attend in large number to receive the Silverware Gift, (salad fork).

The part of the Oxford undergraduate, Victor, who falls so madly in love with his step-mother, is taken by a rising young actor, Lester Vail, chosen out of twenty applicants by the exacting Lily Damita. Or F. Reggie, Australian stage matestro acts with his irreproachable ease, and as the wealthy American, live the character to a degree of flawlessness. The daughter is played by Anita Louise, an actress needing no introduction, and certainly no apologies.

Now possessing all the facts about "The Woman Between", readers can bank on enjoying the program at the Capitol today and Friday to the utmost.

There is a supporting program which includes a comedy and the Audio Review, a delightfully photographed tit-bit of hits and pieces.

Doors open at 7 o'clock each evening, and the programme commences nightly at 7:30 and 9:30. There is a matinee each day at 2:30.

LOVE AND POLITICS DON'T MIX, FILM STORY REVEALS

Richard Arlen and Peggy Shannon, latest Hollywood "flirt"s are co-featured in "The Secret Call", timely gripping romantic drama of modern political intrigue in a big city, which will be the main feature of the bill to-morrow and Saturday matinee daily.

The story which was written by William B. DeMille famous figure in movieland for many years deals with the lives of a boy and girl who are inextricably bound in the activities of a big political "party machine".

Miss Shannon is seen as the daughter of a politician, a one-time henchman of the "big boss" who is made the "goat" in a city-wide investigation of the practices of his party. He alone bears the disgrace which is due the entire "machine".

The girl swears vengeance on "the boss" after her father dies, broken-hearted by the disgrace. To earn a livelihood she becomes a telephone operator in a big hotel. When her enemy, "the boss," makes this hotel his headquarters she learns enough facts about his shady operation in politics to send him to jail.

But she is in love with Arlen, son of "the boss"—and thus is caught between a burning desire for vengeance, and an impulse to protect her lover.

The plot carries on through a series of high-voltage situations, to the staccato accompaniment of fast dialog.

The denouncement is a happy one in a large cast of competent actors support Miss Shannon and Arlen. Among them are William B. Davidson, the magistrate of "The Vice Squad," Harry Bernard, elderly apartment-keeper of "Up Pops the Devil," Ned Sparks and Jed Prouty, comic bobbies of "The Devil's Holiday," Jane Keith, Selmer Jackson, and Claire Dodd.

LILY DAMITA reigns to filmdom in "THE WOMAN BETWEEN", at The Capitol today (Sa ind Fork Night) and Friday.

A SECTION OF THE SARNIA REFINERY OF IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED—ONE OF THE LARGEST AND MOST MODERN IN THE WORLD

NEW MANUFACTURING PLANTS ARE CONVERTED TO MAKE NEW GASOLINE

Years of Planning Bear Fruit as Imperial 3-Star Goes on Market.

SECRET WAS GUARDED

Stocks Reduced During Past Week to Prepare for Deliveries of New Product.

Following many months of planning and preparation, three of Canada's largest manufacturing plants, the Imperial Oil refineries at Dartmouth, N.S., Montreal East, and Sarnia, changed over production to Imperial 3-Star Gasoline during the past few days, this morning changing stocks in Imperial storage tanks throughout Eastern Canada, but until a few days ago only a few men knew just what the objective of their labors was.

This change-over is said to be one of the biggest undertakings in industrial history. Thousands of men were employed in the work which culminated last week, and thousands more worked until early this morning changing stocks in Imperial storage tanks throughout Eastern Canada, but until a few days ago only a few men knew just what the objective of their labors was.

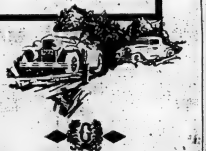
Secret Closely Guarded.

Up to a few months ago only the chief executives of Imperial oil and a few of its senior officers knew of the development of the new 3-Star Gasoline, which has been perfected during several years of research and experiment.

Oil refining is said to be one of the most intricate and elaborate of manufacturing processes. It involves the use of equipment of gigantic size and enormous cost, and to convert, this equipment without interfering with current production was the biggest problem that ever confronted the company's engineers. The task was accomplished with practically no loss of operating time or curtailment of production.

Planned in Twenties.

The work was all planned in Toronto, where the company's executive offices are located, and specialist in the various phases of refining were carefully trained to supervise the work and then went out to the company's three eastern refineries, where, with the addition of new units and the revamping of much of the existing equipment, preparations were completed. The change-over was effected almost simultaneously in each of the big refineries, but the new product could not be announced until such time as millions of gallons were moved about the country to the company's main distributing points for supply to approximately a thousand storage points and warehouses, from whence it must be removed to the final point of sale.



Enormous Equipment.

Twenty large tank ships, thousands of railway tank cars, and hundreds of motor tank trucks were employed during the past week or two days to distribute the new Imperial 3-Star Gasoline throughout Eastern Canada, thus paving the way for its introduction today. As soon as the company's three eastern refineries changed over their production, Imperial tank ships began to move large quantities of the gasoline to the company's big tank farms, which are situated at strategic points along the Atlantic seaboard and inland waterways. Simultaneously, long trains of railway tank cars pulled out from the refineries for points inaccessible by water and other trains loaded at the shore tank points to move the product inland. These were unloaded at what the company calls its substations with capacities ranging from a few thousand to many thousands of gallons, and then the motor tank trucks came into play affecting further distribution. The trucks were not their brand until last night, when it was they task to fill all service station and dealer pumps. During the past few days deliveries of the old gasoline had been restricted as much as possible so that supplies at retail outlets were at all times just about on the verge of exhaustion.

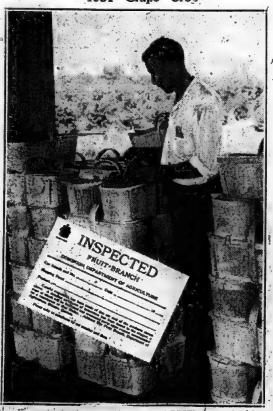
General Hughes Declines To Make Comments

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press)—Brig.-General W. St. Pierre Hughes, Superintendent of Penitentiaries declined to comment today, on his return from Kingston, Ont., on the proposed frustration of a wealthy plot at Portsmouth Penitentiary to effect a "general jail delivery."



General Hughes recalled that the warden of the Penitentiary had himself given an emphatic denial of the report.

GAVE UP ART FOR BUSINESS

Romantic Career of W. B. Foshay Who Is On Trial

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 2.—A man who developed companies valued at $80,000,000 after family reverses forced abandonment of an art career, is on trial with six business associates charged with using the mails to defraud.

He is W. B. Foshay, whose enterprises, including public utility industrial, banking, hotel, transportation and office building projects found him operating in 14 States, Canada, Mexico, Honduras and Nicaragua before they entered receivership nearly two years ago.

On trial with him in Federal District Court where selection of jurors began after Judge J. W. Molyneaux overruled a defense motion for dismissal of the panel are H. H. Mennen, R. J. Andrus, E. E. McGinty, H. V. Maloney, E. F. Welch and C. W. Salisbury. All were officers of the largest Foshay firms. The W. B. Foshay Company, the Public Utilities Consolidated Corporation and the Foshay Building Corporation, whose most ambitious project was the 25-story local Foshay Tower, completed a short time before the receivership.

Throughout the nation the Government charges $20,000,000 securities were sold to investors who received "large pretenous ..... dend" divisions. The Government, which brought about indictment of each defendant on 17 counts last February charges the dividends were not earned. True earnings were misrepresented, it contends.

UNEQUALLED OFFER AT DOMINION STORES

An offer such as the Dominion Stores make for this week-end has never been equalled in Belleville and the opportunity should not be allowed to pass without a substantial purchase! The finest Ontario potatoes are offered this week-end a 90 lb. bag for only 39 cents, so don't fail to lay in a supply while this extraordinary value is being offered.

Infantile mortality in South Australia is about the lowest in the world—only 41 per 1,000 births.

Is is said of the great Dr. Samuel Johnson that he was in the habit of touching the posts as he passed them in Fleet street and the Strand.

The word "imp" once meant a scion of nobility and was used, for example: "Let us pray for the King and his beloved imp."

Mirth are frequently more a matter of taste than of conscience.

Mother— you simply must get him a pen!

Since he started to school mine is never about when I want it

While Parker Duofold owners do not share the general aversion to lending (because no hand discorn this wonderful pen!), yet to deprive them of their pet pens is carrying a good thing too far.

But if parents don't supply enough pens to go around, how can a fellow learn the three R's, especially when two of them—'riting and 'rithmetic—depend on having a good pen and pencil?

With school days here again, let's assemble at the nearest Parker Pen counter.

Let's note especially that Parker Duofold Pens are all Guaranteed for Life, even the Duofold Junior (Duofold pens, $5, and their ink capacity is from 22% to 69% more. MAYOR REID OPENS BELLEVILLE FAIR

Livestock Assembled At Belleville, Finest In District's History

Horses, Cattle and All Other Exhibits Make Fine Appeal

4,000 ENTRIES

Hundred and Forty-five Have Exhibits in Place as Fair Opens

Belleville Fair was opened this afternoon by Mayor George A. Reid and it would be safe to say that never before in the history of the Fair has it been opened under more favorable circumstances. True, sunshine, circumstances. There is a certain amount of uncertainty and many are not as plentiful as a year ago, although there is still plenty of money and stability in the country, yet from the class of exhibits displayed and the number of entries received, the residents of the city and district, who pass through the gates will be surprised with what is in store for them. The exhibits are all in place when the button was pressed setting the fair in motion and all the officers were on hand to welcome the visitors. Weather was threatening this morning but early morning with dashes of rain.

Exhibitors

The countenance of Richard H. Kelchner, secretary of the Fair and one of the hardest workers, was beaming with satisfaction. He started for his labor showed in the various exhibits about the grounds. Mr. Kelchner mentioned the entries of 145 exhibitors, scattered from Sarnia in the west to Three Rivers, Quebec, on the east and there were over 400 entries in the exhibits. Naturally the agriculturist turned first to the horse and cattle barns, finally ending up at the furthest end of the grounds, where the poultry and sheep are quartered. There are on the grounds over 130 horses under the shelter, scattered among 260 colt classes, more than all the number put together in previous fairs in the new grounds. The same can be said of the cattle, sheep and swine, the entries in these classes being higher that ever before.

Fine Livestock

There are at least four herds of cattle on the grounds that can win prizes at almost any fair the owners would care to exhibit. Mr. H. B. Kerr has a herd of Jerseys that are pictures and range from the year ling calf to the mature cow and state specimens. The Holsteins, of course the predominant breed at the Fair as this district is noted the length and breadth of Canada and the United States for this breed of cattle. Holstein breeders, Graham Foster, Bloomfield, Fred Hubbs, Bloomfield, C. C. Vanalstine, Consecrable and others go to make as fine a collection as one would wish to look at. Mr. James Carbutt and Martin and Sons of Plainfield naturally are prominent in sheep and swine but they will have plenty of competition from the Plainfield boys of Tweed. Going back to cattle the Ontario Dept. of Agriculture certainly receiving plenty of attention.

Horses

In the equine world the range is large and comprises the Clydesdale of Napanee is showing trotters and roadsters, also carriage horses single and teams and Shetland and some beating in the prize ring. Mr. Weber has a fine collection of saddle boys and roadsters. There is a fine showing of the Percheron and other heavy draught horses, more so than at any previous fairs, while the showing of the colts far exceeded the expectations of the directorate. Passing from the livestock exhibits to the poultry, here one is amazed with the showing that has been put together. In all 575 birds are exhibited and these in the finest

PLAYED INDIAN CHILD BURNED

Big Brothers Association Will Investigate Charge at Hamilton

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 1— (By The Canadian Press)—Officials of the Big Brothers Association are investigating a peculiar case of childish brutality, which occurred the last week, when little Stephen Addis son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Addis was almost burned to death by a group of lads. They were playing "cowboys and Indians", and Stephen was tied to a tree the same, stowed Stephen into a packing case, wired it round so he could not escape and then set fire to it. The little child's parents fortunately arrived on the scene before the flames reached the prisoner.

Twenty nine states have laws pro hibiting intermarriages between negroes and whites.

Photographs have been transmitted from Australia to England by radio with sufficient clearness to be published in British newspapers.

5 Dominicans Drowned In Ottawa River When Rowboat Is Capsized

Few Details of Tragedy Near Basken's Landing

GRAPPLERS SENT

Scene of Tragedy 16 Miles North of Ottawa City

Hardley, Que., Sept. 1.—Five holy members of the Dominican Order, vacationing at the summer camp of the order here, lost their lives in a boating accident on the Ottawa River this morning. The rowboat in which the party were crossing the river capsized but the cause of which has not yet been determined. With one exception, all were residents of Quebec Province.

The victims were: —

Rev. Father Harris, 36, of Montreal.

Rev. Father Rousseau, 35, of Three Rivers.

Rev. Father Couture, 35, of Levis.

Rev. Father Nicole, 33, of Quebec City.

Rev. Father Sibiere, 33, of Switzerland.

The one occupant of the ill-fated craft who was able to swim, Rev. Brother Gerard, managed to reach save his own life. After freeing himself from the upturned boat, he was able to remain afloat by treading safely in an exhausted condition.

Death ends the first tragedy in the religious brothers were crossing from the summer camp to the villages of Basken's Landing, on the Ontario shore of the stream. They were to have gone to Ottawa today.

Police rushed a grappling iron crew to Basken's Landing located some 16 miles north of here on the Ontario shore of the Ottawa River.

When the party of religious order members started out from the Quebec shore, the wind was blowing up waves on the broad and equipped with an outboard motor, was considered thoroughly sea worthy, however, and no fears were held that it would be unable to safely negotiate the trip. Between Hardley and Basken's land ing the river, acting as the boundary line between the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, is close to one mile wide, regarded as one of the party when they were within 200 feet of the Ontario shore, and safety.

Think Army Fights • Gangsters in N.Y.

New York, N.Y., Sept. 1.—In New York, the passengers aboard the Italian liner Conte Biancamano think chaos.

They greeted customs men anxiously when the liner entered quarantine yesterday and hoped that if it would be possible for them to land.

"Is there much shooting?" they wanted to know. "Are there many dead?"

"But the army—and the gangsters," cried the Biancamano passengers fighting each other in the streets! Arson, looting and children being shot down, and all that sort of thing! Why the military authority had been called out, and that all was more or less chaos."

Assured that all was not as New York is concerned, is just a word in a dictionary, the passengers sighed and disembarked.

TO TORPEDO BLAST MAYOR OPENS FAIR

W. E. Tummon, M.P. Speaks on Regional Fairs

VALUE OF FAITH

"With the boom of a giant torpedo blast Mayor Ellis officially opened the Belleville Fair for the year 1931 at 2 p.m. this afternoon.

At exactly one p.m. (D.S.T.) the directors luncheon was called to order, in the Armouries Hall, by President Chas E. Hanna, who acted as chairman for the occasion. Hanna thanked all the directors for their hearty co-operation in making the Belleville Fair a grand success, and which he called upon Mr. E. Tummon, M.P., for South Hastings for a few words.

The Regional Fairs

Mr. Tummon praised the high standard of Belleville's Fair and wished the directors every success in their efforts. He stated that he could see no future for the future of fall fairs as it was the intention of the Federal Government to establish what is known as regional or district fairs. The smaller centres will then be the fairs and the winners of all classes will be eligible to enter the regional or district fairs. This will make the larger centres much more attractive. The fair-goers of the surrounding district when the district Fair is held in their city will be now being tried out by the Dominion Government and if the trials proved a success the regional fairs will be founded and will be very short time. It is the intention of the Government to assist the regional fairs financially providing that the very best results may be obtained. Mr. Tummon closed his remarks with wishing the Belleville Fair every success and that the directors would bear in mind the thought that he tried to convey that the Belleville could be the regional centre for the district fair.

Need Faith Says Mayor

Mayor Ellis, the next speaker of the day, was then introduced by President Hanna. Mr. Reid thanked the directors for the privilege of opening Belleville's Fair. He went on to say that the fair was the annual fair that Belleville had staged. He was pleased to be informed that the whole idea of the success of the fair was due to the faith in the surrounding district. Mr. Reid went so far as to say that the faith of the district had the name of being one of the finest districts for farming in Canada. He said that his prosperity was in the fact that there were many manufacturing concerns as Sargent's, American Hardware and the great Swift Plant locate in Belleville. The Swift Company will spend from $150,000 to $200,000 per annum in this district and the farm are will be the ones to benefit by the purchases and the Mayor.

The Mayor was very optimistic as to the future of this district and went so far as to say that there had been no depression in Canada and has made the progress in the past ten years that Belleville and the Quinte had accomplished.

"Good times are coming," he said, "now for us. Let us be optimistic men." His honour went on to say how is has been with him, saying" said Mr. Reid. The Mayor closed by wishing the directors every success and then officially declared the Belleville Fair open for 1931.

President Hanna then rose and moved a vote of thanks to the Mayor and the opening luncheon was over for another year.

Britain Will Emerge Soon From Present World Crisis

Niagara Falls, Ont. Sept. 1 (By The Canadian Press)—The British Empire will come through the present crisis more quickly than it overcame distress following the Napoleonic wars, predicted Major General Sir Frederick Maurice, speaking at a luncheon given in honor of the Canadian Legion by the Rotary Club here today. The Napoleonic wars lasted 18 years as against the four years duration of the Great War, he said. The cumulative effect of the 18 years was greater, he declared, than that of the heaviest hardship of the Great War. Increased resources in all parts of the Empire would aid in the recovery, he said.

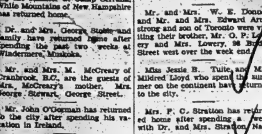
Schools Throng Again with Bright Young Life As Holidays Are Over

Increases Shown in All Schools Which Open Today

HALF HOLIDAY



Many New Teachers Join Staffs of City Schools

Two thousand scholars answered the call of the school bell this morning as classes reopened for the autumn term at Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, Queen Mary School, St. Michael's Academy and King George School. The boys and girls who will attend Queen Victoria and Queen Alexandra Schools are revelling in an additional week's holiday for, owing to construction work yet to be completed on these buildings, classes will not be resumed until September 8th.

The last minute downpour of rain brought out many family cars to the school doors and avenues leading to institutions of learning were lined with automobiles just at nine o'clock. Tiny beginners, some keen to assume the dignity of student, others reluctant to face the big adventure of starting to school, bobbed about under the umbrellas and more experienced school-children came in groups, discussing eagerly the possibility of a new teacher or new books.

Collegiate Increase

Between eight hundred and fifty and nine hundred registered this morning at the Collegiate, a slight increase over last year. Four new teachers have been engaged for the Collegiate, they include, Miss Margaret Bunting, Toronto, who will teach English; Miss Agnes Sweeney, Oxford Mills, classics; Mr. S. T. Grafton, Trenton, science and geography. These teachers replace Dr. Meadon, who is now in St. Thomas; Mr. Rimmington who accepted a position at Owen Sound Collegiate; Miss Madeline Young, who is a member of the Toronto Normal School staff; Mr. I. $74,870.05 CHEQUE MARKED FOR CITY FROM GAS COMPANY

New Pipe Lines May Be Constructed in City Shortly

OFFICIALS HERE

Representatives of the Ontario Hydro Gas Company of Toronto, and of the Utilities Power and Light Corporation of Chicago, Ill., who are to take over the Belleville Gas system from the city on Wednesday and the transfer will be made some time today. Those in the party were A. W. Perkins, general counsel for the Utilities Power and Light Company; O. D. Conant, counsel for the Ontario Shore Gas Company; C. W. Miller, vice president and general manager of the Ontario Shore Gas, and Eugene C. Lang, assistant to the Vice President of the Utilities Power and Light Corporation. They were met by Alderman George O. Tice, chairman of gas in the City Council, Alderman W. A. Woodley, chairman of the executive, Mayor Reid, and members of the special committee.

The Belleville gas plant as far as the city of Belleville is concerned is ready to be turned over to the new company. For the past few days a staff of men have been at the plant has been taken and checked, the checking being done by representatives of both parties. As soon as the transfer is made the city will be tendered a cheque backed by the Bank of Montreal for $74,870.05 which is the final payment. The company purchasing, when the deal was first mooted, gave a cheque for $30,000.00 this making a total of $94,870.05 in cash, which the city will receive for the plant besides being relieved of the obligation of paying the debentures and interest, when they fall due. Out of this amount of cash, the city must take care of the overdraft in the Bank of Montreal, a small payment to the West Gas Company for equipment placed in the plant when constructed, and certain interest charges. The city at one time borrowed from the general funds a sum of $53,000.00 but this will not be paid back to the money derived from the sale of the plant.

Speaking to Mr. Lang today, the Ontario Intelligencer learned that the company intended to start work on improvements at once. It is a possibility, that the company will proceed with new pipe lines in the city and probably a line from Quinte to Thurlow Township. Asked if a new manager had been appointed for the new company here, Mr. Lang stated that no move had been made in this direction as yet. The dealings between the Ontario Shore Gas Company, the Utilities Power and Light Corporation and the City Council, has been most friendly in every particular and the new company will become an industry in Belleville instead of a corporation as was predicted, when the rate-payers were asked to ratify the sale.

FIRE BRIGADE HAD 3 CALLS DURING DAY

Damage of $600.00 Done to Home of John Smith James St.

LOSS COVERED

Chief Lynch Warns Parents About Children Having Matches

Starting from an explosion of unknown origin, a fire broke out in the two front rooms of the home of Mr. Jack Smith, James Street, yesterday afternoon. The flames had gained considerable headway before the local fire department were called to the scene of the fire.

When the department arrived they were met with a rush of flames from the front door of the building. After laying three leads of hose into the fire, they soon had the blaze well in control but nor before considerable damage was done to the house and contents. The loss is estimated at $600.00 which was covered by insurance.

Again at 2.30 p. m. Tuesday morning the firemen were called to James Street, where a few members had started a blaze in the veranda posts. The fire was quickly extinguished. Again at 3.15 a.m. this morning the local fire department were called to West Moira Street, where a grass fire was reported. The department soon were on the job and had the blaze under control.

Chief Lynch, of the Belleville Fire Department stated this morning that there were altogether too many grass fires of late. He also wished that the parents of small children would see that the kiddies do not have matches in their possession. It has been reported that some children have been responsible for numerous grass fires. This is a very good suggestion of Chief Lynch's as some day a grass fire may cause considerable damage in Belleville. As late than yesterday afternoon, when the department were fighting a bad fire on James Street, a grass fire call came in to the station. But personal property must be protected before answering grass fire calls.

Favorite Actor Dies On Eve of Benefit

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 1.—San Francisco tonight will pay tribute to the memory of one of its favorite sons of a generation ago, Dustin Hartman, in whose behalf a benefit performance was to have been held in a local theatre. Hartman, 68 years old, died last night as the last seats for the benefit performance were sold. All the proceeds were to have gone to him.

A HOT-WATER ENGINE

A new kind of engine that uses liquid water instead of steam, discards boilers and condensers, develops more power in less space than ordinary steam- and gas-engines, with freedom from explosion hazards and heat wastes, will shortly be offered for experimental commercial use in England.

The inventor, J. F. J. Malone, engineer, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, has experimented with the novel water-engine for several years.

Since steam and other engines have been worked always by the expansion of gases for three hundred years, a prime mover operated by expansion of liquid has created much interest in engineering circles. Says Science Service (Washington):

"Both the new water-engine and conventional steam-engines use water, but in the case of the steam-engine the water must be changed to steam before any work can be done. In the Malone engine the water stays liquid even under pressures of tons per square inch created within the engine.

"Rapid heating and cooling of the liquid, water are necessary in order that the water-engine will operate This was accomplished by Mr. Malone through the development of a novel form of heat transferrer within one of the cylinders of the water-engine.

"Other advantages claimed for the engine are:

"Only a small amount of water is needed, and this reduces the size of the engine and allows it to be used where water is scarce.

"It runs and changes speed more noiselessly than conventional engines.

"It loses less heat than other engines and its outside shell is cool to the touch.

"Its mechanism is simpler and the working parts need be opened for inspection only once in four years.

"There is no incessant boiler cleaning, no water gauges, no risk of shortness or foulness of water.

"The control system is simpler than in the steam-engine.

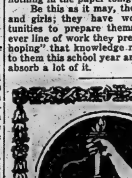
"It has no exhaust, as the water is used over and over.

"All bearings within the engine are cold and lubricated by the water itself."

FAIR TIME AGAIN

With fine weather, prospects are the brightest for the 1931 exhibition at Belleville, now in progress. The Fair opened this afternoon with the largest entry list in history and the promise of an attendance which will break all records.

In this exhibition Belleville and the community around about have collaborated in the finest possible way with all their industries the district possesses. The fair is the product of co-operation of city and country. Through it there are opened up unlimited avenues of united action for the growth of this part of the province.



One of the features of the fair is the confidence which all who patronize the exhibition profess in the management and directorate. Value and more value than the entrance fee asked is what counts and has contributed to the creation of this industrial and agricultural institution.

Some of the records which will be built up at this fair will be almost bewildering to those who attend. There are classes being shown at the fair to which the exhibitors from far and near in part of the province have contributed. The fair is not large in one field and cramped and dwarfed in appearance. It is evenly developed and constructed exhibition.

SCHOOL DAYS

"BACK TO SCHOOL HURRAH! HURRAH!" Is that all a mistake? Some boys and girls didn't shout that this morning, neither have all boys and girls shouted it at any time since schools were instituted and the opening day arrived after the long Summer vacation. However, the boys and girls, big and small are back at school today with the exception of the pupils attending Queen Victoria and Queen Alexandra Schools. This morning they were seen on their way to the various schools walking in pairs and groups, much absorbed in discussing this, that and other things. "Whose room will you be in this year?" "Wonder what she is like?" "Bet you had a grand time camping—I was on a long trip in our car." Such was the line of talk—and they were truly, a fine, healthy, intelligent looking lot of children. Future lawyers, doctors, business men, journalists, bankers, clergymen, engineers—perhaps members of parliament or a Prime Minister to be, were in the lot. Undoubtedly, a future Mayor of Belleville and some of the future Aldermen and School Trustees wended their ways to the fountain of knowledge and lastly there may have been in the crowd some one who will choose to be a newspaper man and think of himself, at first, as a journalist. He may, however, change his mind and "turn out all right," selecting some other line of endeavor in which he will be content to be a reader only of the local paper and after he has read about a lot of things he did know, wearily cast the paper aside and say "Ho Hum! there's nothing in the paper tonight."

Be this as it may, they are fine boys and girls; they have wonderful opportunities to prepare themselves for what ever line of work they prefer and "there is hoping" that knowledge may come easily to them this school year and that they will absorb a lot of it.

UNDERSTUDY

By Anne Sutherland

In a pool of candlelight,
God, by His stars at night,
Or in the golden flame of noon,
Or bowed by His grave moon,
Make poems out of shining things,
Deep water, wet leaves, wings—

All of God's things are mine to use,
The tender purple bruise
A hill makes, leaning on the sky,
The dark owl's shrieks cry,
And all the frittle, foolish pain
Of crickets wanting rain.

But He, with shadow, scent and vine,
Shames any work of mine;
His frond of fern is mystery
I tremble, being deaf and blind,
To touch it with my mind.

Oh God forgive my tongue that mars
His lilies and His stars,
And God forgive my strange conceit
To make His rain mote sweet,
Oh pitifully bless the pen
That copies His. Amen.

TWILIGHT OF THE SMALL FARMER

OUT WHERE THE WEST BEGINS, we are told, looms the doom of that important figure in American life, the small farmer.

With prices of farm products continuing to drop, writes Willis J. Ballinger in the New York Herald-Tribune, "that sturdy, socially valuable little fellow over whose troubles there has been such concern among politicians and poets—will be ready for the business museum." This is an idea—

Not in the west the tractor and giant combine have declared a war of extermination on the small agriculturist.

From the Panhandle of Texas north to the Canadian border, large-scale farming, using costly machinery and cultivating at one lick anywhere from 10,000 to 50,000 acres of land, is producing wheat for less than forty-five cents a bushel, and cotton around six cents a pound.

For these farmers there is no farm crisis. But their prosperity is the ruin of millions of little tillers of wheat and cotton.

East of the Mississippi are bunched our little grain growers. These belong to an older order dating from Colonial days.

The average holding is from 120 to 160 acres. The holder is numerous. Three-fifths of all our wheat and cotton growers are these small growers east of the Mississippi.

It costs them around $1.40 a bushel to grow grain and about sixteen cents a pound to raise cotton. Fifty-one per cent wheat and eight-cent cotton is certain ruin for them.

Now their large-scale competitors of the West are increasing their acres and dumping millions of new bushels of wheat and bales of cotton onto the market. The price of these crops subsequently falls and little growers are trapt.

MODERN ETIQUETTE

By Roberta Lee

Q. Should the hostess rise when greeting all newcomers?

A. Yes; it is very inhospitable if she does not.

Q. What is an important thing to remember when making a business appointment?

A. Punctuality.

Q. What four courses constitute a simple, formal dinner?

A. Soup, main course of meat and attending vegetables, salad, and dessert, with coffee.

HE COULDN'T READ FOR INDIGESTION

"For some years previous to 1922 I was subject to indigestion. Which headaches and thousands of stars sparkling in my eyes, rendering it impossible to read or study. I decided to try Kruschen Salts. That was August, 1922, and I have taken a little in my first morning cup of tea ever since. I never miss a thing, and am entirely free from indigestion or 'stars.'"—F. C.

Now let it be said quite definitely, that what Kruschen did for F. C. will do for everybody else who suffers from indigestion as he did. The fact is that the little daily dose it gives stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion, and then assists complete, regular, and unfailing elimination of all waste matter every day.

Soon after you start on Kruschen you will begin to feel the benefit. You will look in your mirror and see that you are able to enjoy your food without any distressing after-effects. And, as you persevere, you will see that the relief which Kruschen brings is lasting relief.

FLOWER AND THE STAR

A poet once reminded us that we cannot pluck a flower without troubling a star. He suggests that the mechanism of the universe is in most delicate adjustment. Any little thing may disturb it. It is in wavering and uncertain equilibrium. A foolish ruler tomorrow may disturb the sweet influences of the Pleiades, loose the cords of Orion, or darken the slendour of our planet's companion.

FLEEING FROM DEPRESSION

In the Vermont woods, according to some New England newspapers, an odd little animal has been found. He is not an odd little animal in the sense that the species is rare or curious, for he is of the woodchuck and gopher persuasion, but his markings are most peculiar and—if we can credit the dispatches—hitherto not seen. The peculiar significance has naturally been attacked to these markings by Mr. Coolidge's thrifty neighbors.

Like other American marmots, this new-found Vermont woodchuck or gopher is brownish chestnut underneath, white at the sides of the throat, blackish as to feet and ankles. The back is a rich chestnut brown fur is relieved by a design in creamy white, and some romancers who have come upon the animal declare that the design clearly makes this figure.

Prosperity is believed by many to have come from Vermont, brought by the wand-saving of Mr. Coolidge. These people have ever since been looking to Vermont as to the hills, whence cometh help. The discovery of this woodchuck with the $-mark on his back is prosperity's familiar, Calvin Coolidge's familiar, also—and this is a sad reflection—the unmarried hills and valleys which under some rocks, and the marks are but shy and unsuspecting mice have proved to be.—New York Times.

THE BEST AGE

John Masefield once said that the golden age in the development of the Canadian people was the present. If the genius, the poet, for example had not by that age begun to instigate his discoveries and to apply his talents in agreement with his character, it was then that the best heights were reached. In his "The History of Modern Art" Edward Clarke, K.C., remarked in a similar vein, that "the age of thirty-seven is the commencement of the highest level of the faculties of man."

It is an old concept, constantly revived and never to be settled. Even in Shakespeare's day, when the dark days of early 1918, before the German forces had been spent or the American power had been mobilized, the...controversy broke out in small measure. The London Observer and in the way of England, a circle of writers figured in to the correspondence columns rich in points to prove or disprove the statement of Mr. Edward Clarke. Hall Caine took a hand, an old man and discontented at the beats of Edward's theory that mental efficiency declined after the middle thirties. Thomas Hardy wrote briefly from Max Gate to the effect that thirty-seven was the age for the best literary work. "It must be owing to the conditions of modern life," for we are told that Homer sang when old and blind, while Aeschylus wrote his best tragedies when over sixty. Sophocles and Plato died writing in nearly ninety, and Euripides did not begin to write till forty and went on to seventy; and in these you have the pick of the greatest poets who ever lived.

Hall Caine agreed that the age of thirty-seven could be pointed to as the age when Shakespeare wrote "Hamlet," Spencer the last books of the "Fairy Queen" and Thackery "Vanity Fair" but forty-seven or twenty-seven would yield as many other expressions of genius. The poets, it would appear, developed in early youth, Rose Lamb, Byron and Burns wrote some of their greatest poems before they were twenty. Shelley's genius was great at twenty. Many of the artists, Giotto, for example, were young men, boys indeed, when at their height. Brunelleschi built the cathedral in Florence when he was about nineteen. And was not David's statue carved from marble by Michel Angelo in his twenties?

There is no age for genius. It is above age. It may reveal itself unmistakably in childhood, "it is only as we grow up and become educated that we become stupid," wrote Hall Caine. The old man may may survive both education and infirmity. No doubt if any age can be fixed as representing the period of the highest development of the human mind."—Ottawa Citizen.

VOCATIONAL CLASSES

Announcement is made that a variety of vocational evening classes will be offered by the Picton Collegiate during the next school term, for men and women of all ages.

Typewriting, stenography, sewing and dressmaking, millinery, motor mechanics, vocal music, home nursing and hygiene, radio, electricity, agriculture, and physical culture are physical culture are among the class subjects to be offered.

Those who are interested in taking up any of these subjects are getting in touch with Mr. Howard Leavens, chairman of the Picton Collegiate Board, or Mr. W. Mainsley who is chairman of the Advisory Committee. A number of classes are to be made up in September from inquiries received.

Principal C. A. Shover states that the project will not entail any financial responsibility, but will use available grants that will exceed the outlay.

Railway Competition

An instance of increasing competition for the railways is that cars for the county canning factories are being brought in to Prince Edward by truck. The first load has brought in by a local trucking firm with a truck and trailer capable of big tin. The truck had an eighteen-foot platform and the trailer was fitted up with a special rack. Each load is of sufficient to bring a carload of cans.

The cans are used by the American Can Company's million dollar plant at Trenton, Ont., and brought direct to the local factories. The cans are shipped in cartons in the flat and are formed and bottomed at the factory.

Formerly the cans were shipped loose, just piled in tiers in railway cars and loaded by the same number in the factory. Now that the cardboard carton has very largely superseded the wooden box for the shipment of canned goods, the other method is used for the return of the empty canned goods is being adopted.

In one carload brought by a local truck with trailer, there were 2,350 cases of canned goods, each containing 24 cans, 56,400 cans.

Trucks are also being used by county factories each season.

Trucking has come to stay and started but may grow into a big business. Cost to the can company for delivered to the shipper in that the goods are delivered direct to the factory. There is no cartage from car to factory.

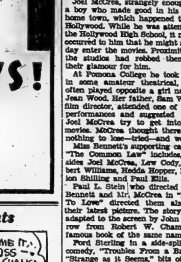
HUMAN STORY TO-DAY AT THE CAPITOL

"Man to Man" is the feature at the Capitol to-day and Wednesday. This title contains a wealth of meaning, particularly when starring father and son. A great problem is contained in the story of "Man to Man", brought about by a young man, cashiering a career for himself by the most unusual road of success, under the impression that he is fatherless, until he discovers that he has a father—in prison, serving a life sentence for murder! Here is the story, his college life snapped off, because who would want to associate with a fellow whose father was a criminal of the worst kind known to society—a murderer? And to make it even more tragic, the boy is in love with a girl of good breeding, and one whom he imagines would possess parents who were equal in their views of the proper.

Feeling that he is an outcast, he returns to his home town, to find that his father has been released, and is welcomed back by his friends who had always thought that the murder had been justified. Then he gets a job in a bank and finds the daughter of the banker's sister, a girl with who he is in love. Here is another predicament, and when money is short at the bank, what can be the inevitable thought? It is either he or his father.

Without doubt, this is a dramatic episode of a young man's life which can be enjoyed in the picturization. For the utmost, and Phillips Holmes, a popular Belleville star, acts this role with supreme convincing ease. He is ably supported by Lucille Powers as the girl and Grant Mitchell as the erring father. The whole production is acclaimed—"Man to Man."



The programme is made complete by the addition of "Car's Paw"—a very funny comedy, "Curiosity"—an amazing collation of strange happenings, and a vaudefilm.

BENNETT'S LEADING MAN CONSIDERED COMER IN PICTURES

Joel McCrea who plays opposite Constance Bennett in a new RKO Radio picture, "The Common Law" is a young featured player for whom it is safe to prophesy a brilliant future.

After his first featured role in "The Jazz Age," a leading producer recognized his ability and gave him the second lead in "Five O'clock Girl" with Marion Davies. Later he appeared with Greta Garbo in "The Single Standard" and starred with Will Rogers, "The Silver Horde." Next he was seen, and "Rich Husband."

Although appearing as Constance Bennett's leading man in "Born To Love," Mr. McCrea was so well received that RKO Pathe immediately signed him for her leading man in "The Common Law" which is the feature attraction at the Bella Monday and Tuesday, matinee daily.

Joel McCrea, strangely enough is a boy who made good in his own home town, which happened to be Hollywood. While he was attending the Hollywood High School, it never occurred to him that he might some day enter the movies. Proximity to the studios had robbed them of their glamour for him.

At Pasadena College he took part in some amateur theatrical, and often played opposite a girl named Jean Wood. Her father, Sam Wood, film director, attended one of their performances and suggested that Joel McCrea try to get into the movies. Joel thought it a joke, but was nothing to lose—tried—and won.

Miss Bennett's supporting cast in "The Common Law" includes, besides Joel McCrea, Lew Cody, Robert Williams, Hedda Hopper, Marian Shilling and Paul Ellis.

Paul Sloane who directed Miss Bennett and Mr. McCrea in "Born To Love" directed them also in their latest picture. The story was adapted to the screen by John Farrow from Robert W. Chambers' famous book of the same name.

Fred Kerr in a side-splitting comedy, "Troubles From Abroad" "Strange as it Seems," bits of Hollywood that you believe, and the ever popular Metrotone News are announced as presentation on the same programme.

LITTLE BENNY

By LEE PAPE

Pop was smoking and thinking and I was looking at the evening paper, saying, Hay pop, what a moratorium?

Pop says, It means the 2 Latin werds, mora, meaning nuthing, and tory, meening to do, in other words nuthing doing. In the present case its a generel agreement between all the countries excuses each other from paying their detts for a certain time, thus giving themselves time to mile up their detts and have something to reely worry about, pop said.

Well G wizz, sippose some of the countries dont go to the mat, I said.

Some of them undoubtedly wouldent if the pressure werent strong enough, but in this case the pressure is being applied by the United States, wich is very strong indeed, pop said.

Well jimminy, pop, holey smokes, I said.

I dont quite follow you, pop said, and I said, If 2 countries can declare a moratorium, why cant 2 people?

They can, sometimes they do, pop said, and I said, Then why cant me and Shorty Judge declare one? Why cant we declare one not to pay what we owe each other for about 3 months? I said.

How much do you owe each other? pop said, and I said, Well, he dont owe me anything and I owe him 2 cents, but Im stronger than he is so if I declare a moratorium he'd haft to agree. wouldent he? He asks me for it every time he sees me and Im getting tired of telling him I havent got it yet, so at least Id have a 3 months vacation from him, I said.

Its a hotty problem, and I think than the responsibility of deciding it Id rather give you 2 cents with the stipulation that you give them to Shorty Judge and liquidate your dett, pop said. Its just another proof that its the tax payer who ultimately pays, he said.

And he gave me the 2 cents, making me wish I could declare a moratorium for myself.

NORTH FRONT STREET

ernoen Wootton, Griffin, Rimmer, Woodley, McMillan, Tice and Mayor Reid argued that by giving the contract to the Godson Company on a unit price basis as submitted, when the West John Street pavement was done, a distinct saving could be made and that the work could immediately be proceeded with, whereas if tenders were called, the council would not get as good a price and probably the lateness in starting would run the work into cold weather and a considerable extra cost would ensue. The principal reason, however for their stand in the matter was the fact, that the work could be started immediately, and would give work to those who are at present in dire need of employment. The work will be started on Wednesday as well as the piece of road between the King's Highway and the new filtration plant and this will ensure work at once. Incidentally there will be some relief money for Belleville but this will not be available until later in the fall. The Public Works Department has no money to work with at the present time and work is at a standstill and those who voted for the by-law were influenced mainly by this condition.

Rate Suspension

When the time came for the suspension of the rules, Aldermen Hill and Looker voted with the majority to suspend the rules, which ensured the question being brought before the council but Aldermen Sprackett, Armstrong and Marshall still remained with the minority stating that tenders should be called for the work before it was let. Alderman Armstrong explained his position that there was serious competition among the contractors at the present and in fairness to the ratepayers tenders should be asked. "The ratepayers on North Front Street have to bear fifty percent of the cost," said Alderman Armstrong and "they should be considered." Alderman Sprackett took the same stand in the matter, while Alderman Looker, who agreed with the other three members of the council, was willing to vote to let the work without calling for tenders, providing the work be started immediately. Ald. Hill was willing to vote for the suspension of the rules but voted with the other three members on the main motion.

Must Rush Work

Alderman McMillan stated that if tenders were called the work could not be finished until late in November and it was certain the job would run into cold weather and if the cement had to be heated, the cost was certainly going to be greater. By calling for tenders the work would be delayed at least three weeks and the workingman needed the work immediately. Alderman Woodley was of the opinion, that the working man should have a job and at once and that is why he was supporting the motion. Ald. Wootten stated that relief would be given for the other work but work was needed by the workingman at the present time and that was why he was supporting the motion. At this point a new angle was sprung in the proceedings by Alderman Armstrong who asked the Chairman of Public Works and the Chairman of Labor "if the rumor was true, that the work in the Public Works Department was properly distributed?" Alderman McMillan jumped to his feet and remarked to the Alderman that he was quite satisfied the rumor was correct and soon he was going to ask the council to give him a clerk to distribute the work as he believed the city was not getting the service for stock and labor, that was employed. He believed that certain stock was being taken from the city yard and sometimes not returned and if there was proper supervision, this would not occur but the correct supervision cannot be given as the system now stands.

Alderman Elmore at this juncture took a hand in the proceedings. stating that he believed Alderman Sprackett was right as far as the principle went but he did not think a better price could be obtained than that given by the Godson Construction Company and by waiting for tenders the work would be delayed. Alderman Tice was in the chair in committee and took but little part in the discussion although he voted with the majority on the motion and also the by-laws. Some wanted to start the work on the Grab and storm sewers and call for tenders on the construction of the pavement but the City Solicitor informed the council that the procedure could not be done as the work came all under the one by-law. This closed the discussion and the construction by-law was passed also the motion to award the contract to the Godson Construction Company and the work will be started on Wednesday at the latest.

EION'S HILL W. M. S.

The regular meeting of the Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Wyatt Tufts on Wednesday afternoon, August 19th, Mrs. W. C. Ketcheson in the chair. The meeting opened with Hymn 94 "Jesus Shall Reign Where'er the Sun" followed by the Lord's Prayer sung in unison. The Scripture Lesson, 9th and 20th Chap. of Matt. was given by Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson. It was moved by Mrs. Casey, seconded by Mrs. John Ray that the invitation to the W.M.S. meeting at Fuller be accepted. It was moved by Mrs. Wilfred Ketcheson, seconded by Mrs. Tufts that there would be a dinner at Mrs. Bunnett's. The Study Book was reviewed—Japan by Doris Bunnett; Trinidad by Mrs. Tufts; Temperance, Mrs. Clifford Ketcheson; China, Mrs. Bunnett; North Woman, Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson. A reading was given by Mrs. Broad for Temperance Sentence prayers by members; then three verses of Hymn 95 were sung and the meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Bunnett. The attendance was ten and the collection, 70c.

ENTERTAINS S. S. CLASS

Foxboro, Sept. 1.—Mrs. William Hodgen of Mountain View, entertained a class of girls at her home on Friday afternoon. The regular monthly meeting was held and was opened by singing a familiar hymn and repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. Miss Isabel Romburgh gave the scripture lesson, the thirty-third Psalm, after which a number of old-time songs were sung and the lesson story taken up as questions were asked. Miss Cora Wilson then sang very nicely "Where will you plot be," and Miss Alyea Knight led in a couple of contests, which caused youthful soilists, Miss Bertha Lepman and Master Clarence Sprague each sang very sweetly a couple of songs. This part of the meeting was then brought to a close by repeating the Mizpah Benediction. A dainty lunch was served by games, ball etc., after which the hostess served lunch.

Lindsay, Ont. Sept. 1.—Hearing a noise behind him, while he was cutting hay on the farm of William Hall, Somerville Township, North Victoria, Dick Cavinaw, looked behind him and saw a mother bear and two little baby bears sitting up on their haunches. As they were within 30 yards of him, he started for the house at his best speed and glanced back just in time to see the bears disappearing into the bush in just as big a hurry.

Wesley W.A. Spends Time Piecing Quilts

The monthly meeting of Wesley Women's Association was held in the home of Mrs. Fred Denyes on Thursday, August 20th, in charge of the President, Mrs. A. Wright. The afternoon was spent by the ladies present in finishing blocks for a quilt. It was decided to send a bouquet of flowers to Marion Kerr, who was ill in Belleville General Hospital. A reading was given by singing a hymn and repeating the Lord's Prayer. A dainty lunch was served.

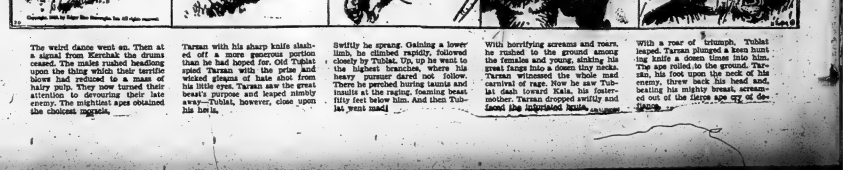
INEXPENSIVE SATISFYING

Woman's Swim Winner Will Compete With Men

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 3.—(By The Canadian Press)—Although she does not expect any honors from the C.N.E. swim committee, Margaret Ravior, the winner of last Friday's 10-mile race, is going to enter the men's marathon on Wednesday just the same, she said here today.

The game swimmer from Philadelphia stated she ignored on taking part in the swim because she wanted to help Dorothy Young, local entry, win the big race.

"Margaret and George will swim in the race," said Johnny Walker, coach of the pair. "She is in there to help him win."



George Young drew a lucky number—seven—this year. Last year his identity was 103.

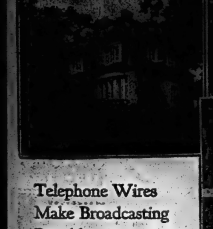
THE BIBLE

It lays a pillow for the weary head,
It pens a staff whilst the pilgrim's hand,
It meets us at each bend of life's rough road,
It oversees anticipates our range,
It is a guide to life's last boundary line.
It opens wells no drought of Time can fill,
It satisfies the most artistic sense.
It is a gallery of matchless charm,
It is an honest critic of the soul,
It is a cheque-book we too seldom use.
It kindles hopes beyond our fondest dreams
It has a balm for every wounded heart.
It speaks a language that all understand.
It ends in an apocalypse of gold.

TARZAN OF THE APES No.20 (Metropolitan Newspap er Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs



The weird dance went on. Then at a signal from Kerchak the drums ceased. The males ranged headlong upon the thing which their terrific blows had reduced to a mass of hairy pulp. They now turned their attention to devouring their late enemy. The mightiest apes obtained the choicest morsels.

Tarzan with his sharp knife slashed off a more generous portion than he had hoped for. Old Tublat spied Tarzan with the prize and wicked gleams of hate shot from his little eyes. Tarzan saw the great beast's purpose and leaped nimbly away—Tublat, however, close upon his heels.

Swiftly he sprang. Gaining a lower limb, he climbed rapidly, followed closely by Tublat. Up, up he went to the highest branches, where his heavy pursuer dared not follow. There he perched luring taunts and insults at the raging, foaming beast till fety below him. And then Tublat went mad!

With horrifying screams and roars, he rushed to the ground among the females and young, sinking his great fangs into a down tiny necks. Tarzan witnessed the whole mad carnival of rage. Now he saw Tublat dash toward Kala, his foster-mother. Tarzan dropped swiftly and faced the infuriated male.

With a roar of triumph, Tublat leaped. Tarzan plunged a keen hunting knife a dozen times into him. The ape rolled to the ground. Tarzan, his foot upon the neck of his enemy, threw back his head and, beating his mighty breast, screamed out of the fierce ape cry of defiance.

Telephone Wires Make Broadcasting Possible

"It is to the telephone," says H. A. Bellows, Vice-President of the Columbia Broadcasting System, "not to radio, that we owe the development of the modern speech and music as made available for broadcasting. It is the telephone wire, not radio, which carries programmes the length and breadth of this country."

How true this statement is is shown by the fact that although on vacation at their summer homes on Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, the two popular entertainers, Amos 'n' Andy still maintain their engagement each evening except Sunday by means of the microphone and telephone wires installed in their homes. Andy, the President of the Fresh Air Taxi Cab Company and his fellow Director, Amos, are not in that the telephone was installed and ready when they arrived with their families. Andy lives in the house at the left of the picture. Amos and his family occupy the one at the left of the picture.

NO SLEEPERS USED CABOOSE

Two Young Men Remanded For Trespassing on C.N.R. Property

The Canadian National Railway Police have had considerable trouble for some time past with persons "on the tramp" selecting caboose cars, not to use, as a place of residence. These cars were undoubtedly selected owing to the fact that no standard sleeper was available in the yards. The Railway Police have chased them unmercifully around the yards and warned them on many occasions. The cars occupied by these men are invariably left in a very dirty condition. Monday night Railway Constable Probert arrested two young men charged with using the property of the railway as a place of abode. They gave their names as Edmund Sheppard, Belleville, and Louis Jackson, no address. This Tuesday morning they appeared before magistrate Mikel in City Police Court and were remanded for one week. It is understood that the Ontario Provincial Police desire to investigate the past conduct of these men and it is said that there is a possibility that they may be called upon to answer to more serious charges.

Barrie Elite Stricken After Afternoon Tea

Barrie, Sept. 1—Thirteen members of Barrie's elite are suffering from typhoid fever following a recent afternoon tea, where salad was served by two women thought to have been typhoid carriers it is reported here. Reports are that one woman was in a critical condition after having two blood transfusions, while two others were delirious.

Dr. C. T. Little, Medical Health Officer, could not be interviewed regarding the situation, owing to the fact that he is confined to bed with hay fever.

SCIENTIFIC EYE'S POWER

Can Detect Every Known Element in Nature

Buffalo, N.Y., Sept. 1.—A new scientific eye which combines the speed of light with suggestions to detect elements as infinitesimal as one part in 100 billion was described to the American Chemical Society today.

The detector is based on a discovery by its author, Dr. Fred Allison of the Department of Physics, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, that every one of the 92 elements composing the earth is affected differently by a combination of light and magnetism.

Vegetarians who ate meat only occasionally, were 13.4 below. But this lower energy rate made no difference in health.

"What the phenomenon really means is not at all clear," they stated. "The authors do not attempt any interpretation which can be represented either to favor or disfavor vegetarianism."

Police Court

Coming from Montreal about three months ago, during which time she has lived in a furnished apartment on Front Street, and worked at the Quinte Hotel, Mrs. Bertha Weston, about 47 years old, appeared in the city police court this Tuesday morning charged with theft. A prominent resident of the Front Street apartment where the woman has been employed for about six months reported to City police that numerous articles of linen and household utensils and silverware have disappeared from the house. Sergeant Detective Trusdell took the case in hand and his investigations resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Weston, Monday evening. Numerous articles, said to have been stolen, were found by the accused, were it represented either to favor or disfavor vegetarianism."

Chamois Hunting Draws Millionaires

Cogne, Italy, Sept. 1.—(AP)—This district was crowded today with British, United States and Norwegian hunters as the National Park of the Grand Paradise opened for the season of chamois hunting. The usual high fees for permits brought out a millionaire crowd with the leading amateur hunting party participating.

The chamois of this great hunting preserve some years ago were about extinct, due to wanton killing by peasants and their dogs. A royal commission was formed, including the King, the late Duke of Aosta and the Duke of the Abruzzi, and hunting was not allowed for a number of seasons.

Now the chamois have once more multiplied and the season is on until the end of December.

CAR CRASHES AGAINST POLE

Mrs. L. R. Cluting Suffers Cuts and Bruises

Picton, Sept. 1.—Mrs. L. R. Cluting of Ida the Prince Edward County Hospital as a result of a car accident on the eastern limits of the town, Saturday night. She is suffering from facial cuts, a broken bone in her face and shock. Mr. and Mrs. Cluting and another lady were motoring to Deseronto after spending the evening in town and in some way the car got out of Mr. Cluting's control and crashed into a telephone pole. The car was completely wrecked. Mr. Cluting was cut about the head and shaken up. He and Mrs. Cluting were admitted, to the hospital. Mr. Cluting leaving for home Monday morning. The other lady escaped with bruises and a shaking up.

The plane night a serious motor accident occurred on the Cherry Valley Road when a coupe, driven by Killinson Simmons and occupied also by his brother Sid Simmons and Miss Mayne of West Lake, was hit by a car driven by Charles Biggs of Picton, and turned over twice and was demolished. Wilkinson Simmons had one wrist dislocated and was cut by glass. Sid Simmons suffered severe scalp wounds, Miss Mayne escaped with only a shaking up. Mr. Biggs' car was not damaged to any extent.

GOOD NEWS!

River's Return

By B. Earnest Wilson

David Coleman walked wearily across the parched fields with the dry blades of half-grown corn rustling in the shimmer of late August heat. He looked earliest to the right for the left: he was sick of the sight of his burned-up fields, of the dancing heat waves rising from the dried earth.

He came to the end of the field and followed the line of trees to the top of the cliff, then downward from timbered ridge to ridge. Boyhood memories came to him, memories of hot August afternoons when he had stolen away from the hard labor of the open fields. Dearly Jean and had hurried with boyish eagerness down to the still pool of cool water in the eddy beneath the willows. He could feel the coolness of the water on his hot, dusty little body and feel the tug of the river's enchanting music that had always seemed to be calling him.

David straightened his shoulders and hurried on, his eyes fixed upon the winding blue ribbon that was the river. Reaching the willow-grown bank, he unloosed the chain of an old boat, stepped quickly into it and took up the heavy homemade paddle. With powerful, skilful strokes he shot out into the current and headed down stream.

Slowly his body relaxed, a look of peace spread over his young face as he drifted before the known lines of wooded determination, a look of escape. He began to sing.

It had been hard to stick to his determination with Lola's pleading eyes upon him, hard to tell her that she would have to wait, that he couldn't build the cabin this year; for Lola's household goods were ready. But she would be glad, David kept telling himself, glad of the waiting when he returned with the pearls the river would surely yield him, pearls that would build perhaps more than a cabin, would give them luxuries undreamed of. The land had failed, but the singing river would surely be kind.

The dazzling sun dropped quickly behind the bluffs that walled the river. David pulled up to a shallow beach, and making the boat secure, ate his scanty meal beneath a willow, then stretched himself upon a blanket with his face upward and watched the colors fading from the sky until all were merged into a dull amber glow that shaded upward into starlit blue. The purling water lapped softly at the sand.

The second day as David drifted farther and farther down the river, the rocky hill farm faded from his consciousness like a bad dream and the beauty of the river sang in his veins a song of joy and freedom.

Toward evening he sighted blue smoke rising from a clean-swept bar in a bend of the river ahead. His sore muscles suddenly responded to the eagerness within and he shot the boat forward with renewed energy. He pulled up beside another boat, a sturdy old blackbed hulk that was littered with the varied paraphernalia of a river man.

The odor of boiling coffee and sizzling bacon greeted his nostrils. He hailed, and an old man bending over the camp fire slowly straightened and answered the hail. It was Old Jack and David was sure of his welcome as he strode across the bar. He had known he would find the river rat somewhere down the river.

Winter had followed the autumn, spring the winter, and another summer, a summer with an abundance of rain had come and passed, and still David was scratching fruitlessly for the gem that would build Lola's home. In the first eager days he had hunted feverishly, every daylight hour busy with the gathering of mussels into heaps upon the bar and opening them. Often he would come running into camp if Jack were in for the old man's verdict on his find, and always the river man had shook his head.

The bits of shig he had found were almost worthless. Gradually he had learned to judge for himself and came less and less often. As time passed the delights of the free life of the river lured him away from his task to go fishing with Jack, to lie for hours on hot summer afternoons in the river's cooling, to loaf about in the woods back of their camp in the early morning, learning the songs of birds or gathering wild berries to aid in their frugal fare.

Again the cycle of seasons passed and David had become scarcely less at home on the river than Old Jack himself. Life was gloriously free from care and, gloriously full of beauty and music. It was only mechanically now at times that he went on with his search. The river had worked its spell.

One autumn afternoon David had gone reluctantly to the pile of mussels he had gathered the day before. Sitting cross-legged on the bar, he opened mussel after mussel, his eyes often on the flaming colors of the bluff across the river. Suddenly he started. What was this in his hand? He sat with unbelieving eyes gazing at a large lustrous stone. Something gripped the muscles about his heart, a lump rose in his throat. He did not need Old Jack's verdict, but slowly after a long time he got up and slowly stumbled across the bar to camp. The old man was dreaming fish for that evening meal. Without one word David held out the gem to him. Old Jack gazed for a moment, then spoke three words, the value of the stone.

That evening the two men sat in silence before their camp fire, each gazing out across the river, their pipes gone dead. At last the old man rose to seek his blankets.

"I s'pose you'll be goin' tomorrow," he said as he knocked the ashes from his pipe.

"I s'pose so," David answered lifelessly.

Two days later David was peering his father's farm in the bend of the river when he saw a clearing in the woods ahead. It was on the Breedon farm. Evidently his old friend Thad Breedon had been getting married for there in the center of the clearing stood a new cabin. David sighed and the pearl wrapped in a bit of old leather against his heart.

Dusk was settling over the hills as he drew near the cabin. He was thirsty; he would stop and ask for a drink and get news of home. Doubtless he would find brightfaced Rosalind in the cabin. Thad had always seemed to like her best.

He stepped to the cabin door in half-light and rapped. A girl came quickly from the lean-to in the rear to the knock. At the same instant a thin little waif arose from a rude log cradle in the room. David suddenly felt back a pace into the gloom, for there outlined in the doorway, the baby in her arms, was Lula, a thin, worn, unkempt Lula. In a choking voice he asked for a drink and Lula brought in a gourd dipper. She scarcely looked at the man she served, being intent on stilling her child.

Slowly David drank the cool water slowly the ache in his breast receded. When he had finished he set the gourd on the table and into it dropped a little package wrapped in old leather, muttered something about a little gift for the baby, and hurried away, away back over the path he had come, back to the singing river, whistling as he went, the long weary tramp forgotten, the vision of Old Jack eating his supper alone by the campfire drawing him like a magnet.

U.S.A. Entangled In World Affairs

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 1—(AP)—"The opposition of Washington and Moscow against "foreign entanglements" have lost their force, Senator Henry Berenger, former French ambassador to the United States, today told the committee formulating a constitution for a European economic federation.

"American entanglement in the world affairs is now complete" he said. "The penetration of American capital since the world war has made a 'European Bloc' impossible, and provincialism appears to be a thing of the past for continents as well as for nations.

"Recent events demonstrated that the whole world is involved as soon as one nation is in peril. No state can remain indifferent to a lapse without menacing all other states."

CIACO GIRLS WIN B. OF Q. CHAMPIONSHIP

Defeat National Maids in Deciding Game by 12-5

KEEN RIVALRY

Play-Offs Have Been Arranged With Capitols of Kingston

Stopping the offerings of Molly Gray, to every corner of the park, the Ciaco girls won the Bay of Quinte League championship for the second time in succession. The National Maids tried everything known to baseball but could not solve the mysteries of the pitching and Beasie Doolittle and Vera Hee. The score was 12 to 5 for the Corby ville lassies about tails the tale as they got hit Gladys Dafoe to the tune of 20 to 9.

Running base like players possessed the Ciaco team took every advantage of the mistakes of their opponents and piled up a lead in the sixth innings, when they scored all six runs never to be headed. The two teams battled at even terms until the last inning when the heavy hitting Ciaco team broke loose and ran amuck at the expense of Molly Gray.

"K" Cameron was the big hitter of the game, when she collected four hits out of six times, one of which was a home run. "Ev" Post was hit was the only home run of the game, which came in the fifth inning at the Armouries park. As there has been a lull in baseball since the heavy hitting Ciaco team broke loose and ran amuck at the expense of Molly Gray.

One incident nearly marred a perfect game, when Molly Gray struck Maggie "Pat" Morgan with the ball going into third base, much too hard, as a result the ball got away and her with the ball once too often, when she said, he had better go into Morgan's rib. These tactics should not be allowed. The ball is the ball and never have been seen in Belleville before. It is a game for the game to allow such actions especially by payers, that come especially at the Quinte area, where clean sportsmanship is taught.

The Ciaco girls will meet the Kingston Capitals in the play-offs for the Beattie Association and they are trying to make arrangements to play the first game in Belleville on Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. The return game would be played in Kingston on Friday evening.

Ciaco—Patterson, Doolittle, K. Cameron, Hee, M. Cameron, Post, Howie, Day, and Canning.

FREE-FOR-ALL DINGHY RACE

Having fruitlessly but cheerfully spent over two decades of his life and nearly $10,000,000 of his vast fortune nursing a hobby to win back for England the America's Cup —a silver yachting trophy actually worth a hundredth part of that—Sir Thomas Lipton is well called the world's best loser. All of which attaches special significance to the dinghy race at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, next Monday for the Sir Thos. Lipton trophy. The race, which is the first of its kind in several dozen small craft competing, is one of the most unique of the kind in the world. In point of entries it is possibly the largest on the continent.

DEMPSEY LAYS OUT 4 HEAVIES

Plays With Fifth Man for Two Rounds in Comeback

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 1—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, got his slumbering bawles and clowned two rounds with a fifth last night in the fourth stage of what he described as a comeback attempt.

The stadium was filled with 12,370 fans who paid $21,890 to see the one Manassa Mauler systematically his five opponents during the 11 minutes, 18 seconds the bouts took 2: 54).

Eglin Taylor, Spokane Negro, was the first victim. He stepped out with a scowl that matched the former champion's, but he hit the canvas in 25 seconds.

Joe Richmond, Chewelah, Wash., went out next in 30 seconds.

Big Bill Neering, Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, lumberjack known as a slugger, landed two solid lefts, one of which made Dempsey shake his head, but crashed to the canvas twice in a bout of two minutes, 23 seconds flat in the second of the three rounds.

Through yesterday's games Ferrell was batting .367 and Greer was tapped only by two American League players who have participated in as many games as he has this season. They are Al Simmons and Babe Ruth. Appearing in 47 games, many times as a pinch hitter, he has pounded eight home-runs, six doubles and a triple and batted in 27 runs.

Valuable as is his pitching, arm to the Cleveland cause, it would not be surprising to see the Indians shift him to the regular outfield post in order to get the daily benefits of his big bat. There are the shining examples of Babe Ruth and Left Wilcox, who deserted the mound for the more lucrative field. Frank Wade would not require more than a passing fling at their arm to convince him the change was for the better.

All of which is preamble to the fact that he has one of his most spacious days yesterday."

German Flier's Next Hop is to Chicago

Long Lac, Ont., Sept. 1.—Wolfgang Von Gronau, German flier, who landed here after a new route from Europe landed here yesterday after flying from Port Harrison. Mr. Gronau's plane is being refueled and he will take off today for Chicago. With his companion, he retired for the night at an early hour, after indicating that he was very tired after the flight across the northern territory.

This was the brief information received by the Canadian Press early this morning in direct communication with a Canadian National Telegraph operator at Horseyapus, Ont., who in turn, was talking directly to a fellow operator at Long Lac.

Swimmers Watch Lake Temperature

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press)—Medical examination continued today of good swimmers and not so good who are seeking riches and world fame in the Canadian National Exhibition's $25,000 15-mile swimming championship. By tonight it is predicted more than 200 will have qualified to line-up on the starting floats just before eleven o'clock tomorrow morning.

Apprehension on the part of warm water fish that Lake Ontario's temperatures will be down around the 50 degree mark were somewhat dispelled this morning when the wind veered sharply around to the south, southeast, and the temperature rose well above the 60 mark.

BOONE'S BIG BAT KEEPING BEARS ON TOP

Leads Bears to Double Victory Over Leafs

The big bat that earned for Ike Boone several trips in the major leagues again is speaking in no uncertain terms as the Newark Bears' heavy hitting outfielder again bids for a chance in the "big time."

Boone, whose poor fielding repeatedly shoved him back into the minors, is the big gun of the attack, which is keeping the bears on top of the torrid three-cornered race for the International League pennant.

Yesterday he led the bears to a 8 to 4 and 3 to 2 triumphs over the Toronto Maple Leafs, pounding out a home run, a triple, a double and two singles. The double victory increased the Bears lead to two full games over Jack Rochester Redwings who went ahead of the Baltimore Orioles.

The Redwings turned in a 7 to 3 triumph over the Reading Keys behind the fine pitching of Ray Moss, formerly of the Phillies and the Reds. He opposed Tex Rankin on the mound in the third after Rankin had scored three runs. He held them scoreless for the remainder of the game, while Paul Flermose connected with his third home run in two days.

The Orioles climbed back to third place, two and one-half games back of the Bears, when the Buffalo Bisons staged a six-run rally in the eighth to win 8 to 5. Johnny Hughes got most of the credit for the Bisons' victory. He ended the game with a two run single at the field fence with two out and the bases loaded. Baltimore also hit home runs, sending four balls over the fences, but they failed to pile up what appeared to be an unsurmountable lead.

The Montreal Royals failed to lighten their hold on fourth place, when the Jersey City Skeeters took the rubber game of the series 4 to 2. Clarence Mitchell worked on the mound for the Royals but blew up in the sixth and was charged with the defeat. Al Shealy, Skeeta went the route for Jersey City.

BATS HIMSELF OUT OF POST

Wesley Ferrell Greater as Batter Than Pitcher

(By Gayle Talbot)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cleveland, Sept. 1.—Wesley Ferrell is likely to discover that he has batted himself right out of his present job with the Cleveland Indians. With every passing week it becomes more apparent that he must bat out or be a pitcher.

Ferrell has the young right-hander rang up 35 victories last year, afternoon of the All of the credit goes to Coach Walt Gerber who kept the big fellow in the game" when Campbell had the Canadian well in hand the first few innings. But when the Cubs came Gerber left the players hard and often. He may find his work tomorrow somewhat harder when Cleveland will face Campbell in second time.

After their defeat in Toronto the R.A.A.L. players are now trying under the loss of the game. They realize that it was their errors that gave the Cubs the defeat for "Red" Wilkins their stellar pitcher but they also realize that they can win the second game by a wide margin. They have got their backs to the wall there is no doubt but that they can turn the game in three games. They will practice tomorrow evening in preparation for Monday's battle.

Again, for the second year in succession, the CIACO girls are the local soft ball league. They out-played and out hit their rivals the Nationals. That Maids, from the first innings until the last man was retired from their batting the Maids to the tune of 20 to 6 shows their superior batting strength. The score of 12 to 5 about indicates the play as the Maids could not get going while CIACO could do nothing wrong.

The CIACO club are trying to make arrangements for the first game of the play-off with the Kingston Capitals to be played in Belleville on Wednesday afternoon at 3 p.m. The return game would be played in Kingston on Friday evening.

What about a meeting of the citizens to elect officers for a senior team next year.

234 Juvenile Ready For Belmont Park Races

New York, N.Y., Sept. 1 (AP)—With 234 juveniles eligible, the richest race of the year will be run at Belmont Park, Sept. 12, when the futurity is decided over the Widener Course. If only ten start, that is a conservative number, the race will have gross value of $114,140 and would net the winner close to $95,000. When Widener won the race two years ago, the race grossed approximately $130,000 of which close to $100,000 went to the late Harry Payne Whitney, owner of the winner.

Yesterday's Stars

Wesley Ferrell, Indians—Held White Sox to six hits, batted in five runs with two homers and a single and scored twice.

Lou Gehrig, Yankees—Took American League home run leadership, hitting his 38th home run with bases loaded off Earl Whitehill.

Fred Fitzsimmons and Clarence Mitchel—Turned in two fine pitching performances to enable Giants to defeat Braves 3 to 2 and 4 to 2.

Wally Hoyt, Athletics—Shut out Red Sox 3 to 0 in his seventh game for Athletics.

Dave Alexander, Tigers—Drove in four runs as Tigers defeated Browns 8 to 3.

Current Sport

By The Observer

Tomorrow is the day that all lovers of track and field events have been waiting eagerly for time. Harry Pearson, the chairman of the athletic meet, is overjoyed at the fine entries of the local athletes. He stated this morning that there were over 190 entries to date and he expected some good-sized entries for the pole-vault. Thanks to the committee, the girl's bicycle race has a number of entries, but it is expected that more will be in evidence by the time the starter fires his gun.

There are 21 events listed on the card for tomorrow's athletic meet with over 190 entries ready to face the barrier. This will be the greatest galaxy of athletes ever seen in this district and it is expected that some records will be broken before the setting of tomorrow's sun. All that remains to make tomorrow the biggest athletic day ever held in Eastern Ontario is fine weather conditions.

The outside athletics will find some real competition in the local boys of this district. The Belleville Collegiate Athletic who did so well at the interscholastic meet hold last week in connection with the C.N.E. will be in evidence at tomorrow's meet. These boys gave a very good account of themselves at the C.N.E. and it is expected that they can show the outside athletics the way home tomorrow. It looks like a real day's entertainment on the Fairgrounds of the Belleville Fair tomorrow.

The Strath-Craft Trophy Company of London, Ont., has donated a shield to be competed for by the intermediate soccer clubs of the Belleville Fair tomorrow. Although Fraser won the first game in the Intermediate series that Campbell will be a much harder opponent on Wednesday.

The Gibbards collected 15 runs off the offerings of both Campbell and Casey on Saturday afternoon and as a result of the Sutphide nine. Although Fraser was the first game in the Intermediate series that Campbell will be a much harder opponent on Wednesday.

Princes, Governors and Premiers

The three Lieutenant-Governors of the Prairie Provinces and the Premier of Alberta have officially notified their acceptance of invitation to attend the Annual Highland Gathering and Scottish Festival to be held at Banff, Alberta, under the auspices of the Canadian Pacific Railway, from August 27 to 30. They are Mr. Justice W. L. Walsh, Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta; His Honor James Duncan Bredin, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba; Lt.-Col. H. E. Monroe, Lieutenant-Governor of Saskatchewan; and Hon. J. E. Brownlee, Premier of Alberta. Thees acceptances, added to the fact that H.R.H. Prince Subhodara, of Siam, will formally open the Gathering, will make the event one of the most brilliant of recent years. A feature of the programme this year will be the inter-regimental piping competition between representatives of the seventeen Highland Regiments in Canada and there will also be the other bagpipe contests and displays, as well as dancing and Highland Games. The Gathering is placed in one of the finest scenic settings in the world, the beautiful Valley of the Bow River, encircled by mountains, and having, as the centre of hospitality, the famous Banff Springs Hotel built in Scotch baronial style, fitting in ideally with the general scheme of the District. Lay-out shows, left to right, top, the Lieutenant-Governors of Manitoba; H. R. H. Prince Subhodays, of Siam; the Premier of Alberta. Library Cruisers Are Entertained

Small book lovers who embarked enthusiastically the latter part of July on the library, "Round the World Cruise" in the boys' and girls' department of Carnegie Public Library and who stayed with the ship until her return, were entertained yesterday at a merry party in the home port. Thirty children made up the passenger list of the cruise which took them through the pages of enthralling books on every country. A few were lost at sea.

Competition about was keen for the ship's prize offered to those who made the most of their cruise by reading as many books as possible. The result was a tie, Leslie Cooper and Sidney Denyer both reading thirty-seven b'ks. Each was presented with a book. John Denyer received the girls was also presented with a prize.

The party which took place on the Corby Library lawn yesterday in celebration of the completion of the cruise was a splendid success. The children's librarian, Miss Grace Mahon, had arranged an interesting series of games that the small guests greatly enjoyed. There were stories which never fail to delight and finally those present were served with ice cream and cake.

Reckless Driving Brings Stiff Fine

P. Ewaryk of Sandwich, Ont. paid into the treasury at the city police court this Tuesday morning the sum of $15.00, which represent ed a fine of $10.00 and $5.00 costs for having on August 25, at about three o'clock in the morning, it is said, in a manner dangerous to the public. The scene of the crime of complaint was on the highway about 2 miles West of Brighton. Ewaryk claimed, that owing to a bad blow out his car swerved to the side of the road. However, it was charged by the Provincial Police that before the car was brought to a stop, seven posts of the guard rail along the highway were wrecked and some demolished. Traffic Officer Byles, of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated the accident, which resulted in a charge being made against Ewaryk.

Letters to the Editor

HATS OFF TO THE CANADIAN LEGION POST, BELLEVILLE

Editor Ontario Intelligencer:

Through the efforts of Jos Esmain and of the officers and members of No 20 of Belleville, I was able to realize my ambition of being a competitor in the winning championships of the world at the Exhibition at Toronto, where for the better I would have had a trying time in meeting my superior and where I have had not without any obligation except that should I "come in the money" I will pay them back what they cheerfully advanced me. I will do my very best, knowing I have the well-wishes of Post 99.

I remain,

(Sgd.) TOMMY PEDDAR.

Graf Zeppelin On Way Across Atlantic

Hamburg, Germany, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin was sailing across the South Atlantic today on the last stretches of her round-trip cruise from Germany to Brazil with a payload of 13 passengers, mail and freight.

The dirigible let Friedrichshafen Saturday night in command of Dr. Hugo Eckener to make record flight to South America. She had aboard a number of scientists who are making experiments in atmospheric conditions.

AS DO-X REACHES ITS GOAL—NEW YORK

Two man-made monuments to progress, the huge German Dornier DO-X flying boat, in the foreground, discharging its passengers on arrival in upper New York bay, and the imposing skyline of Manhattan, in the background, bespeak the accomplishments of the human race. The arrival of the DO-X at New York marked the end of an epochal flight started from Lake Constance, Switzerland, November 4, last year. Misfortune trailed the craft, greatly delaying it en route.

BABY'S FACE CUT IN CRASH

Driver of Car Put Out Flames With Blanket

Marion Saddler, ten months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Saddler, Whitby, was cut and badly bruised, when the car in which she was riding and driven by her father, was forced into the ditch near Trenton airport shortly before three o'clock Monday afternoon. The car turned turtle and caught fire from the carburetor but Mr. Saddler through presence of mind, threw a blanket, that was in the car on the flames, which smothered it but not before a large patch of grass was burned directly under the car. The occupants, Mr. and Mrs. William Saddler, also Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Meraw of St. Catharines and relatives of Mr. Saddler were not seriously injured. The child was rushed to Trenton and attended by Dr. E. A. McQuade, the wound on the nose requiring 12 stitches to close. The child also had a head wound but not a serious one.

Mr. Saddler was driving westerly on the King Highway, when a car was seen to be pulling out from behind a truck. Same motored traveling eastward. Mr. Saddler pulled to the shoulder of the road but the driver of the car turned his machine close to the truck went wide it is said, forcing the latter into the deep ditch, after which it turned on its side. Practically all of the glass in the car was broken and the baby was thrown underneath the other occupants and received bad bruises from flying glass. The driver,who it is alleged caused the accident, stopped his car and returned to the scene. Traffic Officer Hillier was on soon at the scene and after investigating stated, that a charge would be laid by the police.

Many conflicting rumors were abroad concerning the accident, a report being received in the city, that the child had been decapitated in the burning wreck but this proved to be quite unfounded. Traffic Officer Taylor, Belleville and Huffman of Trenton were both at the scene and assisted the latter's Traffic officer in clearing the highway and looking after the injured.

Marriage Weathers Slump of Trade

Washington, D.C., Aug. 31—Marriages may have been a temporary set-back due to the economic depression, but the thousand-and-one years that institution has stood up excellently in census statistics.

The Census Bureau, which a few weeks ago reported a marriage decline in 1929, today had statistics showing a larger per cent of the population married now than ever before.

"At each census since 1890, earliest date for which we have marital statistics, the per centage married has shown an increase for both men and women," the bureau said. Only 53.2 per cent of the men were married in 1890, whereas 60 per cent of the men are married now, while 54.3 per cent of the women were married then as against 61.1 per cent now.

MUTINEERS SEIZE 6 CHILEAN WARSHIPS

6 Chilean Battleships In Hands of Mutineers Revolt Over Wage Cut

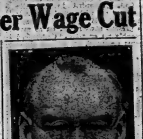
Non-Commissioned Officers Direct Fleet's Activities

ULTIMATUM

Mutinous Crews Force Officers to Sign 36-Hour Ultimatum

Coquimbo, Chile, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Six fighting ships of the Chilean fleet were in the hands of mutinous crews today and their officers were being held prisoners until the Government agreed to cancel acknowledged reductions in pay.

A group of non-commissioned officers were directing the fleet's activities in the harbor from the bridge of the flagship La Terre. They have turned an ultimatum calling on the Government to abandon the salary cuts within 48 hours—the ultimatum began early yesterday when the crews overpowered their officers and forced them to sign the ultimatum and forward it to Santiago, where they returned to their posts and the officers resumed command. Besides battleships, however, and the mutineers, once in control, changed.



The fleet consists of the battleship Almirante La Torre, the cruiser O'Higgins and the destroyers Iquique, Serrano, Aldea and Hyatt, all here, for the whole strength of what represent a good share of Chile's naval forces.

Despatches from Santiago said the Cabinet had met and decided to put down the movement with vigor, believing that the entire nation would lend its support. It was considered that the incident had no political significance, but was merely an outbreak against the salary reductions.

60 DOCTORS BACK TRIAL

New York, Sept. 2—Forty physicians were indicted by the Brooklyn grand jury today on charges of fraud in the Federal Government's investigation into the illegal sale of liquor by drug stores and the writing of prescriptions.

Two druggists and two drug clerks also were indicted.

FINE BIRDS SEEN AT SHOW

Come From All Parts of Ontario in 70 Mile Radius

The poultry exhibit at the Belleville Fair is wonderful; one has forgotten, if they ever knew, that there is so large a variety of domestic fowl. The entire building around the sides and down the centre, several cages deep, is filled with proud, haughty, disdainful birds, each looking each other for admiration. And admiration they receive in abundance, spectators become enthusiastic and determine there and then to start a chicken farm. Much enjoyable time can be passed viewing this array of aristocracy and cackling is amusing to listen to at times. One noble monarch, with his head thrown proudly forth his clarion call of defiance to all other contenders for honors and immediately his challenge is replied to by brave knight of aristocratic breeding who would enjoy meeting him "eye to spur." Occasional combats between peers prove themselves and cackle encouragement to the spectators, urging him on to greater exercise of his "vocal" ability. Finally the battle ceases as suddenly as it commenced and each noble champion returns to his wives and thinks "he won the war."

To one not familiar with poultry breeding the exhibit is certainly most amazing. Here is given a list of names of the different varieties: Wyandottes, White Cochins, Buff Cochins, Black Hamburgs, Silver Hamburgs, Dorkings, Brahmas, Rhode Island Reds, Plymouth Rock (these in Barred, White and Silver), Polish (Silver and Golden), Pyle game bantams, Black, White, and Buff Bantam Cochins, Game Cockerels, Golden, Silver, Black Crested Polish, Houdans, Black Giants, Partridge Wyandottes, Partridge Rocks, Blue Andalusians, Orpingtons, Cayugas, Pitt Game, Legborns of many colors and Minorcas.

This building also contains varied and interesting exhibits of pigeons, gorgie, turkeys, pigeons and rabbits.

Another interesting exhibition of poultry including water fowl, a basket of eggs will not only be a basket of eggs, but will contain one of the very numerous varieties of fowl. Here are Muscovy ducks (some more than others) in egg production, and the interesting fact is that some varieties of these spindled looking birds should eventually be found on the dinner table—but not in life-or-death struggle.

SAILS FOR CANADA

London, Sept. 2 (C. P. Cable) — Larry Gains, British heavyweight champion of the British Empire, sailed for Canada on the Empress of Britain today. He is scheduled to meet an unnamed opponent in Toronto on September 21. He will probably return to England in October to beat the brains out of anybody. Gains was accompanied by his manager, Harry Levene.

VISIT "JUNGLE"

Provincial Constables Hammer and Campbell visited the "Jungle" in the west end of the city and arrested two men on the charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. This Wednesday morning in Police Court they claimed to be from St. Johns, N.B., and gave the names of Burns and Mercier. Magistrate Miller ordered that they spend the next ten days in the County jail.

UNWISE TO GIVE MONEY TO PAN-HANDLERS SAY POLICE

Much of it Goes Into Wine Which Causes Trouble

POLICE HAUL

"He is unwise who gives money to any pan-handler."

This aphorism is a product of these times and during days when so much talk of lack of work gives opportunity to men to approach the public and ask for a bit of money in order to buy the bite of food. The police of Belleville ask the press to stress this point—that nothing should not be given those who beg.

The police have had proof enough that money secured in this way rarely finds its way into places where it is exchanged for food and the wine cannot seem into noisy maudlin men.

On Tuesday afternoon there was a racket on the premises some distance behind the Stephen-Adam Company's plant and as a result seven men were brought to the police station by Sergeant Booth, Detective Trusiach and Constable Leard. Five faced charges of intoxication and two for vagrancy. In view of their numbers the court has held immediately and four of the men were fined $15 and 37 costs or ten days, all taking the ten days perforce, and the fifth Thos. Gorman, aged 55, for intoxication was so embalmed in wine that he could not consult his fears and arrested until this morning when he went the same way as the other to form up the jail steps for ten days. Two, John Gorman and Hugh McDonald, young men, were remanded ed until this morning as vagrants and ordered to beat the rock pile of town, which they promised to do with all the expedition they were capable of.

Out of the scuttle picked up near the bay shore was a Belleville man, a former barber, George Taylor, who complained that he had been picked upon by some of the gang of six and a dollar, a knife and his tobacco taken. Diligent search of the ragged pelted to show the tobacco or the money or the knife, but it did show that George had a permit for liquor purchase. Police officers say he recalled that George as well as most of the others were intoxicated that they took care of all who had fallen them to the station.

On the bay shore signs of an orgy of wine drinking were found. The wine had been drunk from one of the crowd and drunk by most of them. It had been purchased from tin cans and as the police descended upon the party one man dashed for a tin which still contained a small amount of the red stuff (three to four ounces) and with a hurried attempt to end the misery of himself and descended of operation when the heavy hand of the law wracked his shoulder.

Robert Griffin, Harry Grimes, Hugh Smith, were the other three found guilty of intoxication along with Taylor.

One of the men stated that the "boys" pick up some money around the streets and bought wine.

The condition of some of the men was enough to stop any fun-ther gifts to men.

Taylor has his home here and owns a horse and outfit with which he works.

To crowd rest him at the bay shore, This was no suggestion that Taylor pan-handled, but he was the only one who had a liquor permit.

SALE OF PLANT IS COMPLETED

No Change in Local Gas Organization Made For Present

The sale of the Belleville Gas Company, Limited, has been authorized by a vote of the electors of Belleville by an overwhelming majority on July 30th, 1931, was duly completed yesterday. Representatives of the City and of the Gas Company spent most of the day at it and only succeeded in completing the transaction in time for the registration of the documents before the local registry office closed at 4 o'clock. Although the negotiations for the closing had been made by all parties in the satisfying of investories, examination of titles, the preparation of documents and other details, it was found that at the minute that in a transaction of such size considerable remained to be done. However, with the united efforts of the city officials and the officials of the company everything was completed and the deal consummated. The necessary documents were exchanged and the cash payable on closing agreed upon in the sum of nearly $100,000 was paid by certified cheque.

The City was represented in the closing by Mr. A. B. Collins, City Solicitor, by Mayor Mr. P. G. Cushing, Mayor Geo. A. Reid, Aldermen Geo. Wills, Jas. Thompson, Holmes, City Clerk, Mr. F. G. Chamberlain, City Auditor and City treasurer and Mr. William Harden Manager of the Gas Plant. Ontario Shore Gas Company, Limited was represented by Mr. J. W. Perkins, Engineer C. Lang, Lawyer Mr. W. G. D. Conant, Oshawa, Canadian Executive Vice-President of Utilities Power and Light Corporation, Mr. J. T. Miller, Manager of Ontario Shore Gas Company, Limited, Mr. W. A. Hustad, Accountant of Ontario Shore Gas Company, Limited, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Gillingham, of the Canadian Corporations.

Officials of Ontario Shore Gas Company, Limited, have stated that for the present no change will be made in the local organization. Mr. William Harden will be in charge of the local plant as he has been under the jurisdiction of Mr. J. T. Miller, the manager of the company. It is understood that Mr. Miller will be in town for some time to assist in the turn-over of the plant and to familiarize himself entirely with the local organization.

Young Takes Lead From Gambi After 6 Mile Chilly Grind

Toronto Youth Follows Italian For Many Miles

WATER FRIGID

Belleville's Entry, Tommy Peddar, Taken Out of Water

Lakeshore, Toronto, Ont., Sept. 2 (CP)—George Young of Toronto went into the leadership in the 15-mile marathon swim today on the fourth lap after more than five miles had been covered. He displaced Giovanni Gambi of Italy, who had held the lead from the start.

Spender was taken from the water shortly after the five mile mark had been passed.

He was the fourth prominent swimmer to fall victim to the frigid water, the others being Geo. Blagden of Memphis, Sam Shields of Louisville and Eddie Meyers of New York.

Giovanni Gambi was taken out of the water shortly after Young passed him. This left the standing as George Young, Toronto; Alfred Sully, Toronto; Bill Goll, New York; Sam Greiler, Chicago, Marvin Nelson, Fort Dodge, Iowa; Mildred Burdett, Toronto, Ernst Vierboeller, Toronto.

Among those 100 taken out were the following Canadians—Melville Brown, Niagara Falls, N.Y.; G. A. Corsoran, Toronto; Y. H. Clerthey, Toronto; Victor Pyle, Toronto; C. Kendall, Toronto; Robert King of Wallaceburg, Ont; Jan Kaiser, Toronto; Allan Leavitt, Toronto; J. R. McArthur, Niagara Falls, Ont; Alex McIntosh, Toronto; G. Dunn, Toronto; Thomas Peddar, Belleville, Ont; John W. Reynolds, Caledon East, Ont.

At 1.40 p.m. two and a half hours after the start, more than 160 swimmers had been brought out of the water.

(By Jack Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Lakeshore, Toronto, Sept. 2—With the water barely warm enough for the event the fifth annual Canadian National Exhibition Marathon Swim started at 11.26, E.D.T. today. It is estimated that more than almost every part of the North American Continent was plunged of at the start of the 15-mile grind. One hundred and fifty-five minutes later, The lake was very calm but the temperature of the water was 58 1-4 degrees, just a fraction above the stipulated limit.

Lakeshore, Toronto, Sept. 2 (by the Canadian Press)—Starting the marathon swim today were a total of four miles of the 15-mile marathon swim today Giovanni Gambi of Italy, held'a lead of about 100 yards over George Young of Toronto. Alfred Sully, Toronto, swimming very fast, had moved up into fourth place, Sam Greiler Spondor of Port Colborne back into fourth position.

The leading group of swimmers at five miles in the 15-mile marathon swim today:

Giovanni Gambi, Italy.

George Young, Toronto.

Alfred Sully, Toronto.

Sam Greiler, Port Colborne.

Bill Goll, New York .

Sam Greiler, Chicago.

Gambi, a short man, ploughed practically from the start, slw his margin reduced by a half mile over George Young as the third lap ended. Gambi's time for the four miles was 2 hours, nine minutes and 10 seconds.

Young, plugging along with a slower but more powerful stroke all the time, covered the three laps in 2.10:11. Young was swimming a shorter style than he has ever before shown.

Not a Sea Serpent But 300 Year Old Turtle

Chapleau, Sept. 2—The sea serpent which struck terror into a party of fire rangers in this district a few years ago, has now turned out to have been a sea-turtle of monster proportions and of great age, possibly 300 years. The special game committee of the Ontario Government incidentally secured this information while on a motor trip into the wide 16 miles east of Chapleau this afternoon.

Their informat was Tom Godfrey, who told of how his men were scared by this monster which rose out of the water and almost upset their canoe. It is said to be over three feet in width, while its head and body thrust out of the water resembled a huge snake. When it swims the commotion in the water is like that made by a motorboat and its tracks seen on the shore are like those of a tractor.

The Indians have known of the presence of this turtle for many years and one Indian named Nemegoe, aged 95 years, stated that he had saw it 50 years ago.

"Tom Godfrey says he is determined to catch that turtle which interferes with his men operating in the creek.

FLOWER SHOW IS GATEWAY

Women's Work Commands Attention at Local Fair

Feminine visitors to Belleville Fair linger for many minutes, and some for an hour at a time, in the building which contains the handwork of women exhibitors.

Since the Flower Show is also a part of the attraction in this building, the first view is a beautiful one. The centre is devoted to the display of flowers which for this time of year is one of amazing beauty. The women's work is grouped along the sides of the building and commands the attention and admiration of all who appreciate the skill and industry of the workers.

Those who had vague ideas that the art of needlework has lost its popularity would do well to visit this section of the Fair's competitions. Every imaginable type of embroidery, crocheting and knitting is shown. The modernistic note is seen in design side by side with articles inspired by grandmother's work.

The range of articles is extensive. There are hooked rugs, fleecy and soft, one striking example being the design of a parrot developed in a vivid green shade. Baby articles in knitted goods for men rub elbows with the sheerest of dainty aprons. Smocks, decorative to the last degree, are placed in close contact to pretty affair of yellow, whose pockets were green Chinese lanterns which were delightful with a constant temptation to the wearer to thrust her hands thereof into the pockets.

Babies' fine wear was seen in great variety, white voils dresses being conspicuous. The useful afghan done with as fine a skill as grandmothers showed, overlooked quilts whose unimagination would have left grandmother aghast.

The old-fashioned sampler had an exalted place in the display, these articles being treasured for hanging, others were used in a tray, the examples of petite point work were exceptionally good. The loveliest of the tapestries pictured a flower-covered cottage, the whole lighted and carried out in purples and dark wine shades giving a hazy effect.

A little farther on, one found linen cut work of exceptional beauty. Hours must have been devoted to the fine lace work and the result well repaid its exhibitors.

The pillow cases, appliqued, embroidered, festooned or studded with insets of crochet made a handsome display and the bread and tea sets, vanity and buffet sets were there in original variety.

This year has seen many new exhibitors of fancy work and the number of entries shows an appreciable increase.

Domestic Science

Cookery to tempt the passerby with its appetizing look was a feature of the Women's Work exhibits. Plain cakes and bakes elaborately iced (which also failed to impress the hungry delectable pumpkin, custard and lemon pies, rolls and buns, cool salads, dainty sandwiches were entered in the competition and visitors offered to assist in the judging if assistance should be needed. Preserves, eggs and butter complete the display.

Scribe Views Psychology Of Belleville Fair Crowd

Pennies and Nickels to Spend at Ice Cream Booths

CHILD TRIUMPHANT

The Belleville Fair is off to a good start, despite a little rain—it did not last for long and what are a few drops of extra moisture—the crowd did not mind it; they were out for a good time and they had it. It was entirely fine day and there in large numbers accompanied by their mothers, fathers, we beg pardon, they enjoyed themselves just as much as did the children. The temperature was just right for a day at the Fair and every one was happy. Family groups were to be seen everywhere, mothers visited with friends while their children had the time of their lives, avenues of adventure and would occasionally come running back to show the numerous souvenirs and prizes which, they had just won. Indeed, they were interested in every thing; the cattle, the horses, the poultry, and the beautiful exhibits in the buildings caused them to exclaim with delight. The midway was a source of wonder to them as well as to the grown ups and rides on the merry go round, the ferris wheel, the aeroplane swings and swing furnished much excitement and merriment.

The Simple Simon booths where ice cream cones, cold pop drinks and hot dogs were sold, received a fair share of their patronage. They were not like:

Simple Simon who met a pieman Going to the fair;

Says Simon to the pieman, "Let me taste your ware."

Says the pieman to Simple Simon "Show me final your penny;"

Says Simple Simon to the pieman "Indeed, I have not any."

No, they were not in the financial state poor Simon was in, for they had pennies to spend; it was their afternoon at the fair and their parents provided them with dimes, nickles, within reason, with which to obtain "treats" for themselves and their chums. "Have you any money left?" "Mine is about gone"—was part of a conversation between children, now and then overheard. One vendor of "treats" was heard calling a little girl back to the booth. "Change, change. "You're all right," remarked an onlooker," I've been in the business for 30 years" he replied, "but I wouldn't cheat a kid anyway."

Children's Day

Children's Day. The children who enjoyed the first day at the fair, the older people had a good time, the horse racing were the best class and afforded a lot of enjoyment to a large number of spectators. The Municipal Band in their dressy and smart appearing uniforms supplied excellent music. People rested on the seats near the band and came to enjoy the concert. The grounds never looked better; huge flying balls for formula playing, the clean, tidy appearance of the entire refreshment booths left a favorable impression on all visitors. Despite the occasional shower the first afternoon was a success. The evening attendance was not as large as in the afternoon, owing to the unfavorable weather. A fairly good crowd, however, was present.

It was a real good fair—a most interesting, instructive and amusing fair; it is deserving of the patronage, support and hearty encouragement of all. Go to the fair—you will enjoy it!

Manufacturers' Exhibits

The Manufacturers' Building at the Belleville Fair Grounds is a scene of many an activity these days. Thos. Hodgson fits with their advertisement of Rn-Ber-Old roofing, and tells of the different kinds of chicks presented a very pretty picture.

St. Charles Motors with their Sparkling tires and tubes, Kaypol oils, offered a picture that will remain in the eyes of the Fair-goers for some time.

The Percival Stoves presented a very large display in the building when they took up no less than six booths to show their goods. They have a very fine display of furniture, radio, electric washers and ironers. They are well worth the time and bother for one to visit at their exhibit is one of the best at Belleville Fair.

The Fisher Hardware Co. have a display that is well worth seeing. They have the paints and varnishes that are to be shown in any Fair. They also have a fine line of roofing and building hardware as so to make a complete display.

The Beatty washers are also displayed in the building.

Alongside of this is the booth of Snap & Dwight's, makers of cleaners' products, and Abbey's Salts.

The Canadian Fairbanks Co. have a very nice picture with their advertisement in the building. Galt Metal Roofing and carry a nice line of milking machines.

The "Friend Grocers' Machine Co. have a fine exhibit in the building, showing all kinds of their sprayers and insect killers.

The Wallace Lumber Company display hardwood and insulating board. They also have a fine line of Neanic-ford roofing that cannot be equalled in this part of the country.

The National Grocers' exhibit of "Gold Medal Products" is one of the features of the building. It features tea, coffee and groceries. Their booth is one to be proud of.

Booths by Gilvine, J. J. Turner and Dr. Thomas attract notice. They all have displays that are well worth seeing.

The Canadian Department Stores have a display of electric washers and ironers that should not be missed. They carry the Gyren washer, the Salenia vacuum and a fine line of electric stoves that are well worth seeing. Their electric fixtures make up a very fine exhibit.

The Carl Rast Company have a very fine display of electric ranges and Stromberg-Carlson radios that are well worth inspecting.

The Chas. L. Hyde Company are showing a fine line of "Happy Thought" Ranges and Livingston Stokers that are well worth seeing at any Fair.

C. E. Bishop and Son present a very fine booth with their display of seeds and "Matchless" Products.

McIlmoyle, Ross & Pellerine have very finest of linens when they show on display the cloth linen known as the "Old Bleach."

The John Lewis Company feature the "Hot Point" stoves, the Connelly washers and the Alwater Kent radio. Their display is one to be proud of, and they also carry many other lines of hardware. Their display of "Vital-Aire" Humidifiers took the eye of many a customer.

The R. A. Rose Co. display of Pressure washers, and Columbia Radios are well attended. Their display of Viking sprayers was also well accepted by the farmers that have attended.

Manufacturers' Building this year has the finest line of exhibits that have ever been seen at the Belleville Fair. Perhaps that is a broad statement but all that is asked is the inspection of the public to find out this statement. The displays in this building are well worth seeing and deserve the patronage of any fair, large or small.

Lafleche as Dominion President of the Canadian Legion last April, was today unanimously elected to serve in that capacity until the next convention, no other names being placed in nomination. Brig.-Gen. Alex Ross of Toronto was re-elected second vice-president of the Dominion First Vice-President.

Merchants' Exhibits

The Belleville merchants have cooperated with the directors of the Belleville Fair in making it a success and the exhibit of the wares of these various merchants in the Merchants' Building is one of the attractions of the Fair. All of the booths were ready for inspection late Tuesday afternoon and all were in readiness. The building was crowded as residents inspected what the merchants have to offer in dressed man and woman for Fall, when the comforts of home were to the limelight. The reporter for the Ontario Intelligencer slowly made his way through the building and was greeted by the merchants who had spent much time on their different exhibits.

The first booth to greet the eye was that of R. J. Wray, the house furnisher, and what a lovely exhibit he has. There is shown, using practically the half of one-side of the building, a complete home. There is the bedroom suite in solid walnut, bedspring room with mattress—Mrs. W. A. McColl, Mrs. L. E. house and Northern Electric and their display of electric goods is one of most pleasingly. Prominent in the display is the latest in Victor, a machine having automatic tone control, and "capable of giving out one station at one time without cross talk." The management is running a guessing contest free of charge, the contestant being required to guess the length of wire used in making a large quantity mark. Another novel feature is the Electric Clock and they must be seen to be appreciated.

Hawes and Hagerman, plumbers and contractors, are showing Findlay pipeless furnaces, Findlay fireplaces and Findlay gas and coal ranges. There is also shown coal Hess Humidifier and radiator cover. The exhibit is attractively arranged and many stopped to see these new stoves and furnaces.

Dolan the Druggist has a pleasing display of drug supplies, perfumes and all the dainties that women like while the men are catered to in expensive pencil and pen sets. In front is a distinctive model of the Brunswick radio for which Dolan the Druggist is the local dealer. For those who like chocolates a full line of Laura Secord brand is shown.

Next in line was Weiland, Ltd. and the manager is showing a line of party dresses, afternoon dresses consisting of one pan satin and two black velvets in the latest mode. There is also a party or evening dress shown developed from the new metallic cloth. The black coats are trimmed with Russian Kit Fox and Natural Wolf. The whole exhibit is in black with exception of the evening dress and the exhibit will be changed every week before the Fair closes, these two shades being the predominating ones for fall and winter wear.

The next booth but by no means the least to be visited was that of Woodley's, the furrier. A wonderful display of fur coats in all the latest styles are shown, consisting of beaver, muskrat, lapin, Persian Lamb and coats on display and in the dress velvet is the most prominent and will be worn extensively this fall. The coats are all trimmed with the choicest furs. The booth is tastefully decorated.

ENTERTAINMENT

Little Dora Island returned home with her mother, Monday via "Ascania," from England, having to return on business sooner than expected.

While going over Dora took part in a concert held on board the "Empress of France." She played a duet with her mother, a piano solo "Flapperette," and gave a toe dance also which more than pleased the audience.

On July 8th her mother played the Anglican Church Service held on board "Empress of France."

On the return on R.M.S. "Ascania", a delightful party was given held in the large dining room for all children on board. The dining room was wonderfully decorated with colored balloons and streamers, colored paper hats were supplied for all children to wear during the party. A wonderful lunch was served. The menu was as follows:

Wine Jelly a la Red Riding Hood; Fancy Pastry, Modern Rubbard"; Fruit Cake, "Ascania"; Ice Cream, Santa Claus; Assorted Fruit Jack and Jill; Everton Toffee, Dick Whittington; Bon Bons, Jack Horner; Bread and Butter; Milk; Cocoa.

Boy Knocked Down No Serious Injury

Arthur Cook, 60 W. Moira St., was struck and knocked down by a car owned and driven by William H. Lucan, Station P.O., but was not seriously injured. The young boy was walking near the concrete bridge on North Front Street, when he attempted to cross the road and walked into the car as it was proceeding north. Mr. Lucan quickly brought his car under control and finding the boy not seriously injured took him to his home. Those who investigated found the driver in no way to blame for the accident.

Kingston Woman Fever Sufferer

Kingston, Sept. 2.—Mrs. Lawson, wife of Professor Horace Lawson of the Royal Military College staff, is in the General Hospital suffering with a distinct case of typhoid fever, which she contracted recently while visiting her home in Barrie, where thirteen persons are understood to have contracted the disease as the result of eating salad at a tea party. Mrs. Lawson's sister in Barrie is also one of the afflicted.

FALL TERM AT O. B. C.

Students are now coming in at Ontario Business College for the fall and winter. The College, as usual, has been in session throughout the summer and, in addition to local students, there have been a number in attendance from British Guiana, South America, Barbados and Jamaica, British West Indies, and other distant places. One young lady recently came from England to attend and will spend her time in her home in the Old Land when she completes her course.

This is an opportune time to take a course at the College. The cost is little, effort and money is small considering the service rendered and the long-time benefit given. No other investment will bring greater returns.

The staff of skilled and experienced instructors take a personal interest in each student. A great amount of individual help is given besides the regular class instruction, insuring rapid progress and thorough mastery of the work. The fine equipment and beautiful class rooms are conducive to efficiency and success.

Young people contemplating a business course would do well to get full information now and start in at O.B.C. as soon as possible. An up-turn in business is coming with good opportunities for those who are well prepared.

FLOWER FAIR UNEXCELLED

Bower of Beauty in Hall Where Flowers Are

Many varieties of blossoms and plants flaunted their loveliness at the annual flower show of the Belleville Fair. The building in which they were contained attract a crowds of horticultural enthusiasts and ven those whose knowledge of flowers was not extensive found much to admire and praise in the display. The arrangement was artistic, the flowers being placed before a background of evergreen dotted with flags.

The entries exceeded those of last year and for quality as well as quantity the display was excellent. Judges were surprised at the number of exhibits for this has been a discouraging season for flower growers. Dry weather and blights caused havoc in gardens but one would think this had been an average year, so fine was the flower show. The scarcity of asters and dahlias, however, told their sorry story. Horticulturists were puzzled by the fact that the only asters shown were of a deep red shade and many local gardeners found that blossoms of this shade were the only ones that escaped the aster blight.

Cosmos Shown

In single clusters, small baskets and massed in mammoth displays the flowers were seen to advantage and every variety of late summer and early autumn flower showed its pretty head in the display. The baskets were unusually well arranged. Some showed the stalwart zinnias, the curled snapdragons, others were dainty little affairs for the dinner table, graceful and charming. Even a few late roses permitted the sly frail fuchsia by the flowering flowers beside them. The house plants exhibited did much in number and of good did quality.

In this same building were housed roots, grains, and vegetables. Judges agreed that the exhibits this year were of a high standard. The vegetables were reckoning ach appearing to be a perfect specimen of its kind. Th array seemed like the harvest scene in the floral seed catalogue vegetbles. A striking feature was the vegetable depicment was Bamford's display. Foliage of the dahlias, everyone, and blossoms made an effective background for the beautiful arrangement of garden products, and all who viewed it were loud in their praise of the attractive exhibit.

In this building was another floral display, A. E. Rolland of Eldorado showed various processes used in the art of beekeeping, the display being complete with a num ber of bees in a frame.

Children's Work

Children's work and fine arts completed the displays found in the Agricultural building. The former included pastel work of a very fine quality, weed and butterfly collections. The fine arts, a little too crowded for adequate display, contained work of all and comprised many barities. Painting on satin was a new feature and one piece of work was an elaborate Eastern scene, showing the three Kings in many colored garments. Water color and oil paintings were exhibited, and a portrait of the Prince of Wales in a characteristic pose was outstanding. Tinted snapshots formed an attractive display, China painting on cups, tea sets, and vases was a popular department and the work was delicately executed.

Trans-Canada Highway Through Medicine Hat

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 2—The route of the Alberta section of the proposed trans-Canada highway will be by way of Medicine Hat, Calgary and Banff, it is announced by Hon. G. L. McPherson, Minister of Public Works.

Details remaining to be settled as to the ultimate standard to which the road will be brought will be discussed with Dominion officials in the near future.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

LATE LEO AUSTIN SODERBURG

The funeral of the late Leo Austin Soderburg, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Soderburg of this city, was held from the Tickell and Browne funeral home yesterday afternoon. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. J. S. McMullen of the City Mission. The largely attended funeral and the many beautiful floral tributes only went to show the high esteem in which little Leo was held in Belleville. Interment was made in Belleville Cemetery.

MABEL SELENA DUNNING

The residents of Plainfield and vicinity were shocked to hear of the death of Mrs. Mabel Selena Dunning this morning. Mrs. Dunning was a well known resident of Plainfield and was highly respected by those with whom she came in contact. Her illness was of a very short nature and her passing is regretted by all the surrounding district.

Mrs. Dunning was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel R. Hawkins of Eugina, Ont., and was born in Grey County thirty-four years ago.

Besides a husband, she leaves one son, James Giblin, of Eugina, two sons Allan and Keith at home and one infant daughter, Nina Mabel, also at home. There are also two sisters, Mrs. H. Courvoisier and Mrs. Milton Roberts, both of Eugina. Two brothers, Kendal and Kilbourne both residing in Eugina. Mrs. Dunning was a member of the Anglican Church in which she took a very active part.

LATE MRS. MADGE HUBBS WHEELER

The funeral of the late Mrs. Madge Hubbs Wheeler took place on Tuesday, September 1st, from her home in the third concession of Sidney to Bellecille cemetery. Rev. Mr. Joblin of Stirling, officiated at the home assisted by Rev. Mr. Sexsmith of Sidney; and Rev. Mr. Jones of Belleville. The bearers were, Westover, F. Westover, Everett Hubbs, Donald Gunn, Fred Wilson and Harry Butler. There was a large number of friends in attendance and many floral tributes were offered.

The Chicago district builds more railroad cars than any other area in the world.

CHEATING THE CHILD

A lot of mothers are cheats, says Literary Digest.

When it comes to the biological facts of life they may be glib enough in explaining things to the young questioner.

But when it comes to religion they are shy, just as the Victorian mother was when anything "indelicate" came up in the conversation.

Some things they just can't believe.

Doubtless there is a Supreme Being, but—well, why not wait and let the children decide such controversial matters for themselves when they are old enough to reason?

"In other words," writes Marian Castle, who bring religion-shy mothers to task in an article in The Woman's Journal, (New York, "why not wait and let them bump up against sorrow and fear and life and death, with no other preparation than stark biological facts and cold moral precepts?"

"Your been very careful," a mother said to the writer, "never to let the children go to Sunday-school where they could pick up a lot of Hebrew myths and Old Testament ideology. I've been so afraid that they might form a literal image in their minds of God as an old man with a long beard, sitting on a golden throne."

Then she chuckled over how she had explained Santa Claus to her children as symbolizing the spirit of Christmas.

"If, when they were old enough, you could make the transference in their minds from the actual long-bearded Santa Claus to the intangible spirit of giving," asked Miss Castle, "why wouldn't it be just as easy to make the transference from the idea of a long-bearded God to the idea of the spirit of love?"

THE FUTURE OF THE FAIR

The future of fairs was clearly indicated by W. E. Tummon, K.C., speaking at the opening luncheon of the Belleville fair, when he referred to the plan for Dominion regional fairs. What place a fair like that of Belleville will occupy in the federal plan remains to be seen but it was pointed out that the smaller fairs will first be held and after them the regional or district fairs, drawing upon the region served by all the smaller fairs in the district.

The fact stands out that the annual fair is considered the basis of the fair system. The large fair cannot exist in its proper function without them. The fair dies but to stay despite the prophets of evil which have foretold the extinction of the small exhibition.

Mayor Reid made no mistake when he spoke of co-operation and faith in the community as essential to the successful fair. Belleville's energetic first citizen, a man of dynamic energy himself, sees that confidence is the keystone and that co-operative effort is wanted.

All signs with the large attendance, the magnificently large exhibits, and the whole management of the exhibition would point out that Belleville fair is being guided in the way it should go to serve best the interests of this district.

A YARDSTICK FOR NOVELS

The appetite of the novel reader is growing. Not that he wants more novels, but he appears to like a bigger meal off a single dish. It is as if he were determined to make publishers abandon their parsimoniousness of the period immediately after the war, when many authors were encouraged to economize in words in order that the volume might be slim. Indeed, before that time novelists themselves had been developing a taste for brevity. When the three-volume novel—the "three-decker"—went out of fashion, authors soon discovered that they could accommodate their plots and their thoughts to a single volume; and during several decades there was a tendency for novels to be shorter and shorter, which pleased the reviewers, whose task was simplified, and the sophisticated, "read everything" with the minimum of effort.

Mrs. Wharton's masterpiece, "Ethan Frome," was no longer than 80,000 words. Jack London, perhaps, required a little more space; Upton Sinclair, in "The Jungle," a little more still; and Arnold Bennett, in which he considered his most important, expended himself in about 200,000 words.

But that is nothing to what we have been having lately. J. B. Priestley's "The Good Companions" was about 250,000 words in length, and the novel readers of Great Britain were so absorbed in digesting that they had no time to read anything else. Arnold Bennett then decided to go Priestley one better, and produced "Imperial Palace," which attains nearly the length of "Pickwick Papers," which was designed to go on forever.

But that is not all. Miss Clemence Dane has made her latest bow to the public with a volume so bulky that it is alleged to require two porters to carry it; probably no one has counted the words, but there are between 300,000 and 400,000 of them. Where is it to stop? How is it to end? If this goes on, a great part of one's career will have to be devoted to the reading of a single book.

But even Miss Dane's tome has not succeeded in beating the record. At the time when most novels were short, M. Rolland deliberately set out to defy the fashion. He established a record for a century with "Jean Christophe," though his record was beaten by Proust when he completed "A la Recherche du Tempe Perdu." But the latter was really many books. Even so, it fell short of the world's record, which probably still is held by the 600,000 or more of words in Tolstoy's "War and Peace."

But a writer must be a Tolstoy to get the world to absorb so much. At a moment when in every other walk of life economy is the watchword, is it tactful for authors to be so prodigal of words?—Christian Science Monitor.

EFFECT OF NO SPEED LIMIT

Abolition of the maximum speed limit for passenger cars on highways outside of cities, towns and villages was recommended unanimously by the 1931 conference of the Ontario Safety League. The subject will again come up for discussion at the annual meeting of the Canadian Automobile Association, to be held in Toronto on the 26th of September. All the leaders in the motor leagues of all the provinces will be represented. Changes in motor vehicle legislation of course are not to be rushed, and to that ahead of public opinion, and when the maximum speed limit is abandoned in Ontario it will be in response to popular demand.

The abolition of the speed limit on private motor cars in Great Britain is considered to have improved the standard of motor-driving. But the Minister of Transport stated recently in the House of Commons that time must be allowed to lapse before it can be determined whether the Act had achieved its main purpose of reducing the roads casualties.—London and Empire, Toronto.

THE OSNABRUCK BLAZE

The disastrous fire which almost completely wiped out the Village of Osnabruck, Ontario, has taken appalling property toll of one of the beautiful historic centres of Eastern Ontario. Landmarks dating to the United Empire Loyalists advent in 1784 have been destroyed along with the most modern of business institutions.

Where churches, halls, stores, lodgerooms, homes and barns stood all been swept away in a blazing holocaust, it is improbable that the afflicted residents are giving much thought to some of the things which have aroused the admiration of those further removed from the disaster. Yet the stillness of the neighborhood concerned have reason to fell proud of the way the fire was fought with all its human fagilities. From far and near men and women rushed to give all their strenuous efforts, in some cases actually losing the identity of a less tragic outcome—Toronto Globe.

FOR THE CANADA OF 1950

What Canada is to be like in 1950 will depend largely upon what is done for Canadian children during the present years of infancy. Indeed, because of the prevalent belief that Canada must submit to privations, called drastic economy, children are being deprived of nourishing food, schools are being closed and medical attention and treatment for export to countries where the demand had subsided.

Canadian children are similarly having to go undecked, for the better reason that they are denied nourishment. Many may go through the coming winter under conditions of dire distress, although there is no just better endowed with resources to provide everything necessary for a civilized stand ard of living.

Under an artificial shortage of teachers schools are being closed in some Canadian communities because there are no funds to pay the teachers. The result of this needless limitation may register itself in later years on the Canadian nation. Whether Canada is to be set back, as though earthquake or famine had swept the country, will be largely determined by the effectiveness of the national effort to take care of the children.

One national organization to plan for better living conditions is the Canadian Council on Child and Family Welfare. Since the inception of the welfare movement, in 1920, much has been done to make Canada a better, safer country for little children to live in. Much is needed. The national council, with headquarters in Ottawa, is gunning for contributions this week to carry on work for the children to be carr... on. The need is urgent. The response will be registered in the Canada of 1950, as well as in the immediate situation of many Canadian homes.—Ottawa Citizen.

WHERE ARE THE INSECT PESTS THE FARMER FOUGHT IN OTHER YEARS?

Time was when a late frost in early spring would set wise heads wagging with fears for the peach crop. In the season advanced the passing months might be counted upon to produce gloomy accounts of the arrival of the Japanese peach moth, the Mediterranean fruit fly, the ubiquitous grasshopper, the corn-eating boll weevil and the vagrant corn borer. Ominous predictions would leave the world in doubt whether there would be even a fraction of a crop of anything.

But those times seem to have departed. The grasshopper, it is true, is still in evidence, but nothing is now said of the depredations of the other pests. And today the complaint is not of the shortness of the crop but of its abundance. The productivity of the earth threatens to swamp the market so that the tiller of the soil is faced with low prices and penilessness in the midst of plenty.

Abandoned by his traditional enemies the farmer has had to become not only a producer but a destroyer. The United States Farm Board has advised cotton growers to plough under every third row of cotton. Californian the grape growers are yanking a proportion of their vines up by the roots. A carry-over of 4,000,000 cases of canned goods has moved those interested to raise a $1,500,000 fund to pay California farmers to destroy part of their peach orchards.

It is a topsy-turvey world which has confused with a new appearance of the kindly fruits of the earth. And it is a strange vision of fate that farmers, who have always had to fight to produce, in spect pests should now have to pitch in and do their own destruction. —Toronto Globe.

JAIL IS THE PLACE

In Quebec a motorist who was found guilty of the second time on a charge of driving his automobile while drunk has been sentenced to prison for 21 days without the option of a fine, and if he cannot pay the costs he must stay in jail for thirty days more. The sentence should make any driver who think twice before taking the wheel unless they are absolutely sober.—Montreal Gazette.

IN SLEEP

By Aline Michaelis

Faces grow fairer
Always, in sleep,
As when loved fingers
Over them creep.

When kind oblivion
Draws her veil down.
Then furrows vanish,
Tenseness and frown.

As if, absolved from
Days care, they grew
Somehow in semblance
Of childhood anew,

Faces seem gentler,
Sweeter, more kind
When thought has no problems
Of waking behind.

Brightly, then, hidden
Dreams soon hearts keep,
Glow on the faces
Fairer in sleep.

A CHALLENGE TO RENO

May Reno jeopardize a marriage partnership made and existing in another State?

It is not an academic question. An Illinois woman, informed that her husband was in Reno to obtain a decree, filed a petition in an Illinois court asking an injunction to restrain him from obtaining a divorce. She pleads that she has acquired rights under the laws of her own State, such as dower, jointure, homestead, support, and maintenance which will be jeopardized if her husband obtains a divorce elsewhere for causes which the Illinois laws do not recognize. She says that the marriage must continue until her own State dissolves the union and, in doing so, fully protects her interests.

This woman, comments the Milwaukee Journal, has raised an important issue:

"A State should protect its homes and those who make the homes. When Nevada 'liberalized' its divorce laws, just for the profit of the 'trade,' so that any one could go there, and by establishing a residence in six weeks, send a divorce complaint through the Reno mill on the flimsiest pretext, did not Nevada thereby endanger the rights of every persons in every other State?

"Divorce is left under our present plan to State control, and Nevada is a sovereign State. What Illinois can do about the matter, we do not know; altho, exercising their own sovereignty, the other forty-seven States might refuse to recognize a Reno divorce within their borders."

MODERN ETIQUETTE

By Roberta Lee

Q. When a man is walking with a woman and she bows to someone whom he does not know, should he bow also?

A. No, it is not necessary for him to bow, but he should always lift his hat.

Q. Is it proper for a woman to keep her hat on at a luncheon?

A. Yes: in large cities women generally retain their hats, but it does not show bad form, however, to remove it.

Q. How far from the edge of the table should the ends of knives and forks be placed?

A. About one inch from the edge of the table.

"KILL THE WOLF"

Sudbury, Ont., Sept. 2—(By The Canadian Press)—"Kill the wolf and we will have so many deer in the province that no matter how great the number of hunters, they will never be as scarce as at present," was the comment of Jack Miner of Kingsville, Ont. to a representative of a Toronto newspaper at the station here while en route from Toronto to Chapleau.

Mr. Miner's comment came in praise of the government's move to preserve the future of wild life in the province with the arrival here of members of the game and fisheries committee recently organized by Hon. Charles McCrea. The party was joined here by W. Lyenese, chief game warden, Orillia, and Mr. Marle, Ont., who is travelling with the several committee meetings at Chapleau, Port Arthur, Kenora and other places.

COMFORT

Last night the rain
Upon my roof
Sent lightly like
A dream-fairy's hoof.
The rain blew in Upon my bed
And like a lover
Soothed my head.
And like a mother
To her child
The rain spoke comfort,
Clear and mild.
From the vast sky
My friend the rain
Brought the sweet remedy
For pain.

Pop came down to brekfist late this morning, being one of his favorite ways of injoying his vacation, and ma came down still later, saying, My goodness what a nite's sleep I had ,or I should say what a nite's sleep I dident have. Every time the same dream came to me, just like an old blank reality to all intents and perposes, because I woke up with a start every time and then id no sooner get to sleep again when id have the same silly dream and id wake up again. I dont bleeve I had an hours sleep the whole nite, she said.

G, ma, what did you dream? I said, and she said, I dreemed your fathers alarm clock went off and that he jumped out of bed to stop it. It was one of the most vivid dreems I ever had, but why I had to waist the whole nite dreeming it is more than I can say, she said. Im a human reck, im as week as a kittin, she said.

Yes gods what a feast of the imagination, pop said. You couldent of had your feest so called dreem till at least 6 o clock this morning, because thats the ferst time my alarm clock went off and it dident go off again till 7, he said.

Why Willyum Potts, do you actually mean it axually went off because you axually set it? ma said. I mean axually? she said, and pop said, Absolutely. Every weekday morning for a whole year Ive leaped up and stayed up at the summons of that alarm clock, and the man who dunzent get even with his alarm clock on his vacation is a spineless slave. Last nite I set it for 6 o clock, and this morning when it went off I choked it into submission and set it again for 7 and dropped sweetly off to sleep again, and at 7 it went off again in a perfect fury of rage, but I silenced it with a dignified gesture and told it in a few calm well chosen words that I was master in this house, and then I slept again till 9, he said.

Then it was reely you who kepp me awake all nite, ma said, and pop said. All nite, yee gods dident I tell you the ferst alarm went off at 6 o clock? Is that all nite? he said, and ma said, Yes it is, to all intents and perposes.

And she dident stop being mad for about a hour.

SPANKED IN

By Charles Sloan Reid

"Anderson, you're just as good as beat unless yuh line up the Haynie in the main district."

Jim Bryley was laboring under a good deal of excitement when he came into Anderson's office. Gun was a sort of self-appointed campaign manager for Anderson, and had been hearing from the district tentatively.

"The judge is still running like a scared mink in spite of his age," Bryley continued; "and with the electing only five days off, you're a sonner, without the Haynies."

"You assure me, Jim," declared Anderson, "that I knew I would have a close race; but I thought, and you thought that my election was assured."

"Yes, Anderson; that's what we thought till I heard a few things to day over the grapevine."

"What about your going to see Haynie?"

"Worst thing that could happen for you. Them mountaineers don't like me much. You got to go; an' you don't want to lose no time."

Anderson scratched his head thoughtfully. "I better go tomorrow, then," he decided. "That's a hard trip back among those hills."

Tom Haynie was sitting in front of Brunson's store in Hazzafras Gap, whittling out an axe handle from virgin hickory. Brunson was making some new guns out of short cuts from the butt of a hollow pop lar.

There were about nine or so of the Haynie boys, and six girls. All of the girls were married. About half of the rest of the district were related to the family by blood or marriage; and all looked upon Tom Haynie as the leader of the clan. Tom was a big, good natured mountaineer who was ready at all times to lend a hand at a log rolling or a house-raising for some of his neighbors, and everybody had a liking for him. His popularity extended even beyond his own district, and for these reasons his support in an election was a thing to be considered.

Anderson had pulled the long mountain grade in his little roadster. There was a jet of steam issuing from about the cap of the radiator when he reached Brunson's store. Finding Tom Haynie here saved him a still further climb of more than a mile. He got out of the car and advanced across the little clearing.

"Hello, Tom! Hello," Brunson he greeted, going forward and exchanging his hand.

"Hello, Mister Anderson. Some 'at out o' your latitude, I reckon," Tom Haynie ... down his axe handle and pocket knife and rose ... his seat on the soap box.

Anderson seized Toms hand warmly. "You have a fine country up here, friendal" he declared.

"I reckon so," agreed Haynie "leastwise we're un to it." He accepted Anderson's handclasp cordially.

"Everything all right up this way?" Anderson swung his inquiry to take in Brunson's position also.

"Oh, set down! set down! Set down; thar's a box over thar," Brunson motioned inwards as he ply packing case.

Gradually Anderson worked the conversation up to the coming election. "Well, I guess you know that I am called the young man's candidate for Clerk of County. He directed his question more particularly to Tom Haynie.

"eah! we heard about it," Tom agreed.

"I am very anxious to get the support of this district," continued Anderson; and they tell me that whatever Tom Haynie says goes in this part of the county. Is that right, Brunson?"

"Jess about," grin blank, I ah'd say, Anderson,"

"So I thought if I could see him there would it' be any use to go farther."

"I reckon not," From Brunson.

"I dunno," said Haynie. "Natchery I got much friendship; but I reckon at they can't all so adiacty as I see."

"Oh, well; I imagine they are guided pretty much by what you say. I am making the race on the young mans ticket. We have too many old men in office, all worn them out, and out of date in their ideas. It is time to make a change; and Judge Hawley is a mighty fine man, but he has grown old in office, Heid the office of Clerk now for Hatter years."

"Yeah" drawled Tom Haynie, "Mister your, they say. Well, I'm hopin', by cracky, 'at he'll hold it stiking; mure—not sayin' nothin' to sell you, Mister Anderson."

"Why, I thought—I hoped—have you any partcular reason for supporting the Judge?"

"I've a right smart reason, I mought say."

"Maybe I can argue you out of that notion!"

"No; hit ain't a matter as admits any argutin—hit's got a stand in," drawled Haynie twenty years."

"Gratitude, I presume, for some favor of long ago, which no doubt you already have expressed a score of times."

"Yeah. Expect to express hit right on, as long as I can turn a squirrel rifle. Judge Hawley."

"You wouldn't mind telling me the story, would you?"

"Hit a bit of it, Mister Anderson. When a man sacrifices himself for his fellow man, he's made a score wi' Tom Haynie as never to wiped out."

"I see."

"Well, to begin with, yuh see that little ol' log school house agin the ridge, through the gap that—the roof is about ready to now?"

"Oh, yes; a romantic spot."

"Well, some'ts storm twenty year ago, Judge Hawley was a teachin' that school over that; an' he boarded round wi' the neighbors—a week here, an' a week thar."

"I see; and you are grateful for what he taught you?"

"Lord, no; 't warn't much I 'arned. But he was something big'ger'n that over house. Yuh see, there was nine or so born, me be'in' the oldest. That war m'y but two rooms to our cabin, wi' a hall between. Us boys wanted fur to beds in one room, an' hit was a right squeeze at that, for them was home-made beds, an' narrow.

"Well, the last night the teacher stayed at our house he had to sleep wi' two o' us boys—the other brothers had to scrouge in wi' some o' the rest. Yuh know Judge Hawley is a mighty stout man an' he warn't much bigger'n what I was then. Mars, she wanted him in bed wi' two o' the littlest ones in a bed long side the winder. Sittd o' that the teacher decided he'd scrolge in wi' Bill an' me in the risk bed, an' sleep at the front."

"And something happened during the night that enabled Judge Hawley to become a hero?" Anderson was smiling quandlly.

Tom Haynie spat at a beetle that was crossing the yard a few feet away, was silent a moment —then went on.

"Yeah; I reckon so. Yuh see, Joe an' Turk an' me was in the bed next to our'n; an' they got awful tickled about the teacher a sleepin' wi' us, an' set to giggin' it to kill, uh know, giggin', an' I got it. Wi' that Bill got riled at me in the back. I rolls over an' smashes him in the jaw. Wi' that he howls. Naw, she feelers out at we don't git quiet, ary the teacher could sleep, she'd come in thar an' spank the fust one she could lay her hands on—an' she's hand had a rep to it like the beck action of a hay mede.

"We quieted for a leetle spell; but Bill war m'y sadcrafted, an' I had to smash his jaw again. Well, when he howled, Maw, she come a Pilin'—an' she was so above hit was me, an' that I was the fust one on thet side o' the bed, she lest laid back the liver a bit—an' thet poor teacher tuk the wust whalin' he ever tuk in his bachelor days—and so above all ... wards—but he never chesped.

"Naw never did know 'at it war m'y one she spanked—an' Judge Hawley never told till long after she died. Next day the teacher never set down all day long—and it was a hot, sticky standin'. Us boys was awful sorry for him havin' to take our lickin' like that, but he never tuk hit out on us no way at all, an' was allers real friendly. We'uns 'lowed that a man as was willin' to sacrifice hisself that way to save us a lickin' was entitled to everything we could do for him as he lived. So, I reckon yuh'll under stand, Mister Anderson, hit's no use a campaignin' agin the Judge in this deestrict."

Anderson dropped into a chair in his office, all worn out from his trip. Jim Bryley was there before him, awaiting the news. Anderson sat staring before him for some moments, in fact he was deep in thought.

"Bryley, Judge Hawley was spanked into office so hard, I fear we never shall be able to get him out."

RECOVERY HAS BEEN STARTED

But Much Lack of Confidence Holds it Back

New York, Sept. 2—The National City Bank, in its current bulletin out today, says the uncertainty of what will happen after July 1, 1932 when the Hoover moratorium ends, is casting a blight over business.

"So far as the ordinary processes of economic readjustments are concerned," says the bulletin, "there is evidence that a great deal of progress is being made.

"What is needed now above all else is a restoration of confidence, and this can come only through the removal of what is, in our opinion, the chief restraining influence, namely, apprehension as to the ultimate outcome of conditions in Europe."

Hydro Denies Change From Basic Principles

Toronto, Sept. 1.—Charges that the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario has departed from its basic principles sit without foundation, declares a memorandum issued by the Commission. The issuance of the statement marks a new departure for the Commission's administration. It is made that other memoranda concerning operation and policy of the publicly-owned utility will be issued per iodically.

If the class of racing enjoyed by the patrons at the first day of the fair is any criterion of what is to follow, then all are in for a week of splendid sport. The class of race horses now quartered at the track has never been better in years, the majority of which are on their way to Toronto to compete at the National Exhibition. There were but none a 2.14 class and a 2.30 class scheduled on Tuesday and the rather was keen and the time quite to last. Two slight showers passed over the afternoon program before the first race was completed but only served to lighten the racing strip and make it faster. There were five contestants in each race and no accidents occurred in the afternoon's sport.

Mack Togo Wins

Followers of the harness horse anticipated a keen contest between Graton Scott, a black stallion owned by Vic Rowntree of Weston, and Mack Togo, a bay gelding owned by F. Hewer of Guelph and they were not disappointed. The race developed between these two and it took four heats before Mack Togo was declared a winner. Rowntree in the first heat went to the front with Graton Scott and won the fastest heat of the afternoon. In the second heat Mack Togo went right on high with the stallion nicked in the second turn but he pocketed. He was not able to get out until the stretch was reached and it was a battle with Togo horse winning by the proverbial eyelash. The third heat Rowntree went to the front with the black horse and just couldn't reach him. Coming down the close, Togo had too much stamina for the rest of the field and easily won the last trip in slow time.

Slow Class Good

Sparkle, a first time starter owned by Dr. Hogaboam of Cookstown, after getting away bad in the first heat with Kenton Nelson had entirely too much foot for his field in the next three trips and simply bog ged them. She was well driven by Jerry Hopkins a son of the owner. Nellie Rose owned by Keith Jones of Peterboro won the first heat but was nowhere afterwards. The chief opposition came from Kenton Nelson, full-sister of Bud Gratton and owned by Mr. and Mrs. Napanee. The starting was most satisfactory, there being few scores and the field well controlled by Ald. George O. Tice. She acted as starter and there will be no racing on Wednesday but Thursday the harness horses will hold the fort.

The half-mile run for farmer's horses attracted a large field with Norman Marcelle of Shannonville riding Billy K. 2nd, with Todd second. The race was run in comparatively fast time and the patrons received quite a thrill from the contest. The summary.

LOOP LEADERS CHANGE LITTLE IN STANDINGS

Newark, Rochester and Baltimore All Won Tuesday

MOVING DAY

Bears in Lead Have Best Chance to Cop as They Play at Home

(By the Associated Press)

It doesn't seem to make much difference to the clubs, which are battling in a serious way for the International League pennant whether they play at Home or away. Baltimore, known as a "home park" club did suffer a bit in its recent tour of the northern division but Newark, playing away from home, did just about as well as its rival, Rochester, which was busy repeling invaders.

Newark Wins

Newark's Bears wound up their tour successfully trouncing the Toronto Maple Leafs 7 to 2. This victory gave them a record of four out of five in Toronto and eleven victories in seven details for the intersectional series. Led by Boone, who clouted a triple, a double and a single, the Bears threw drove Cantrell and Harrison from the mound in two innings and scored seven runs before young Al Shibegoyer checked them.

Rochester Won Final

Rochester won the final game of its stand from Reading, 3-2, to wind up with a record of 11 victories and six defeats but still two full games behind Newark. The Red Wings had a rather bad time in the mound duel between Hill and Barnhart. Hill had a shade edge, giving the Keys only seven hits and fanning eight, but Reading was the first to break the score this deciding, putting over two runs in the first half of the sixth. With two out in the last half of the inning, singles by Wilson and Delker drove in three runs to win the game.

Orioles on Top

After getting only an even break in eight games in the north Baltimore's Orioles entered the action in their home sector by downing Jersey City 3 to 2. Walter Brown's withering cost the Skeeters their chance in a battle with Beryl Richmond, he gave two walks in the eighth and followed with a pair of wild pitches to allow the winning run to score.

Montreal and Buffalo had an off day.

CHILD FOUND DEAD

Coroner Dr. Whiteman was called to the home of James John on the Wellington Road Monday where the young daughter of the house had been found dead in bed. The little girl, named Audrey, was about two months old and had been suffering from a cold. No inquest was deemed necessary.

GEHRIG CLOUTS TWO HOMERS AS YANKS WIN

Yankees Closing in on Senators For Second Place

GOMEZ'S 17TH

Boston Braves All But Eliminated From National Race

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer)

Lou Gehrig keeps on hitting at the present rate, it seems likely that he will be well by substituted for that of the great Babe Ruth in the baseball stage "As Ruth goes so go the Yankees." Lou is now hitting at a terrific clip for the second time in days, doing well through the whole season and his burst of form has definitely helped the Yanks considerably in their effort to overtrail Washington. He clouted a home run in each game of a doubleheader yesterday to bring his total for the series in successive contests and give himself a comfortable margin in the race with Ruth for slugging honors with a total of 40. Not only does Gehrig lead the big leagues in four bagers, but he is first in the majors in scoring, total hits and runs batted in as well.

Gehrig received quite a bit of aid from his teammates yesterday, but his two homers were the important factors in the Yanks' double victory over the Boston Red Sox which left them only a game and one half behind the second place Senators. Lou's 39th four bagger and a single, three hits by Babe Ruth and some effective pitching by Lefty Gomez gave New York the first game by an 11 to 3 score. It was Gomez's 17th victory of the season. The second honor from Gehrig's bat but with the bases loaded in the third inning provided the margin of victory in the 5 to 1 game. Red Ruffing aided by holding the Sox to six hits.

Senators Win

Sad Sam Jones and Joe Cronin kept the Yanks from making a big per gain as their combined work led Washington to a 5 to 1 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletic. Jones gave the A's ten hits, most of them coming with two men out, and fanned seven. Cronin led the 13 hit assault on Rube Walberg by clouting a homer with one aboard in the first inning.

National League

The western half of the American League schedule was rained out, while the single game in the National League served principally to give young Jim Mooney another chance to show what a rookie southpaw can do. Mooney turned in his fourth victory for the New York Giants and his second straight shutout triumph as he turned back the Boston Braves by a 4 to 0 count. Mooney gave eight hits to New York's seven off Cantrell but he received fine support while the Braves made three costly errors.

The defeat put the finishing touch for Boston and the third at the hands of the giants, left the Braves on the verge of mathematical elimination from the pennant race. They now are 34 1-2 games behind the St. Louis Cardinals with only 26 games to go.

A group of thirty two prostrate junipers, rarely found in Pennsylvania had been discovered in Rush Township. They are rarely found in the United States outside of New England.

Price Cutting at Fair "Sat on" By Society

Cutting prices by concessionaires on the midway on the first day of the fair caused considerable excitement on the part of owners of refreshment booths at the Belleville Fair. After taking their grievances to President Chas. Hanna the matter was cleared up Wednesday when standard prices were put into effect by the Belleville Fair Board.

It has been the practise of other fall fairs to set a standard price for all refreshment booths on the midway and Canadian Shows moved into Belleville with the idea that the same arrangements were in vogue but other independent concessionaires put up stands and did not; it was claimed, use the standard prices which have been the practise at other exhibitions.

The Belleville Fair Board met this morning and set a standard price on all refreshments that are to be sold on the grounds at the Belleville Fair this year.

Gandhi Appeals to Indian People Today

S. S. Rajputana, Sept. 2 (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, voyaging through the Arabian Sea on the way to the second round table conference in London, appealed to the Indian people today to be peaceful while he was away.

"Now that I am drawing away from India's shores," he said, "let none suppose that Indian people to preserve absolutely a non-violent atmosphere during my absence. I also appeal to Englishmen, including officials, to trust the congress and congressmen if they really believe power must pass from them to India."

Current Sport

By The Observer

Tomorrow's horse races look like the class of the Fair. To believe is the 2.25 trot or pace for a purse of $250.00 then there will be the 2.12 trot or pace for the same purse. These classes always give the harness lovers a thrill. In the 2.25 class the younger horses are seen in action, while in the 2.12 class we will see the horses that have been tried. The races at the Belleville Fair this year look to be about the best that have been seen in Belleville in some time. The reason being that every class is filled to capacity.

Today is a big day in the play-offs of the O.S.S.A. in Eastern Ontario. At Kingston the Pecks entertain the Blue Beachs of Tweseke, while Gibbards of Napanee, is the host to play the Salphide nine. Up'tin Fort Hope Orme's took up against the Peterboro C.G.E. in the Intermediate "A" semi-finals. Down in Kingston Lawrence Lebarr and "Flet" Walsh will umpire the games, while Bert or Tweed "Bill" Regan and "Heck" Stevenson, of Deseronto will do the officiating.

Considerable conviversery has been offered in the case of Player Peterson of the C.I.A.C.O. team. The Eastern Association declared him an ineligible player while on account of signing two certificates at one time. The reason being that he had first had signed with the CIACO before Belleville had obtained her release from the Kingston Capitals. (All very good.)

The R.A.F. is not on the protest entered by both the Maple Leafs and the National Maids and decided that Peterson was eligible to play in the Bay of Quinte League. Now comes an new aries as to whether or not the Eastern Association has any jurisdiction over the Bay of Quinte League or not.

It is plain that the player has been suspended by the Eastern Association, but, she was declared eligible to play in the Bay of Quinte League. (Figure it out for yourself.)

For the information of the general public it should be added that the said player asked Manager Shaw of the Kingston C.I.A.C.O. club to place her on the list. But she did not receive it until after July 15th, a time she was not eligible to play with the CIACO club. Then Mr. Shaw flatly refused to give the player her release because he did not want her to play with any team in the Eastern Ontario play-offs.

After the way the Bay of Quinte League took the Kingston teams into the fold and saved the day for sport in Kingston this is about the small est thing that has happened in quite some time. But what more can we expect in softball circles from Kingston.

Manager Meagher of the local National Maids has made a personal appeal to the Eastern Association. It might be added that Mr. Meagher is perfectly right in his contention, that he, if player Patterson is not eligible to play in the Eastern Association. But when managers lend up the release of players for petty grievances it is time that something was done on the matter. (Why not take the whole question to the parent-body in Toronto.) They might air things in Eastern Ontario.

Miss Audrey Wilkins, Eastern Ont. convener for this district, received a telegram from the President of the Association today stating that they were not trying to interfere with the officials of this league in any way.

CORRECT CLOTHING FOR MEN

Miss Seddon, the president, went on to say that she was going to look more carefully into the case of Miss Patterson and intimated that she might lift the suspension now on "Pat." This will be very sad news to the Kingston Capitals, who from her escort and ran into the fields to be captured.

First story that reached the city was of an infuriated bull which was being led to the city fair. But police when they went to the scene found that it was a young cow. The cow was being brought to town and broke away, jumped over six fences skinned her leg in mounting the fences, took to the field off the road where the men had a task to capture her. The cow is destined for the abattoir.

Kite Flying Near Air Course Forbidden

Calnbot, England, Sept. 2 (A.P.)—Small boys in this vicinity must not fly their kites while Schneider Cup pilots are training for the races on September 2.

The restrictions were put into effect after several flyers narrowly missed running into kites or kite cords while travelling at more than 200 miles an hour over the scient. The aeroplane mechanisms are so delicate that such a collision probably would result in a crash.

Unexpected Rodeo is Staged upon Highway

An impromptu rodeo was staged on the Foulkon Road on Tuesday afternoon when a cow bought for beef stirred things up, broke from her escort and ran into the fields to be captured.

A late telegram today says that there will be no play-offs in the Eastern Association this week, pending the re-instatement of "Pat" Patterson.

TRUCK TRAFFIC INCREASE

Toronto, Sept. 2.—Announcing that truck traffic on Ontario highways has shown an increase this year of 28 per cent, over 1930, Hon. TARZAN OF THE APES No. 21 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The morning after the Dum-Dum, the tribe started slowly back through the forest toward the coast. The body of Tublat lay where it had fallen, for the people of Kerchak do not eat their own dead. The ra arch was but a leisurely search for food. Once old Sabor grossed their path.

This sent them scurrying to the safety of the higher branches. Tarzan sat directly above the lioness —and buried a pineapple at their angriest sneers. Into his mind a great plan sprung. He had killed the fierce Tublat; now would he track down the crafty Sabor and slay her likewise!

At the bottom of his little English heart beat the great desire to oppyr his natedjeal with clothes. He had learned from his picture books that all MEN were so covered, while APES and every other living thing went naked. So he desired the skin of Sabor, the lioness.

On this day he had other things to attract his attention. Suddenly it became as midnight. Faintly came a low, sad moaning. The great trees bent. Vivid and blinding lightning flashed from the whirling, inky clouds above. Roaring thunder bellowed forth its fearsome challenge. The deluge came—pandemonium broke loose!

The bribe buddied in shivering fear from the cold rain at the bases of great trees. For hours it raged—sending suddenly. To Tarzan came a dawning light to explain the mystery of clothes...How snug he'd have been beneath Sabor's hairy coat! So was added a further incentive.

SPECIAL FORD MODELS DISPLAYED

A NEW SERIES OF SPECIAL FORD BODY TYPES, made exceptionally attractive by its use of smart appointments, is now being displayed throughout Canada. Each body type includes such special equipment as spare wheels and metal tire covers in front fender wells, radiator grille, cowl lamps, dome lights, and windvisor, while extra finish is added as a mark of distinction. Illustrated are: (1) Ford Special Coupe; (2) Ford Special Sedan; (3) Ford Special Tudor. All these have the radiator grille, cowl lamps, dome lights, spare wheel and tire cover in the left front fender, and trunk rack, while the special town sedan also has a rear compartment and a second spare wheel and tire cover in a carrier mounted on the rear as an additional tail and stop light.

SHERIFF'S SALE OF LANDS

County of Hastings

Under and by virtue of a Writ of Execution issued out of the Supreme Court of Ontario, and to me directed and delivered against the lands and tenements of Donald H. Wheeler, Gentleman, at the suit of The Shell Company of Canada Limited, Plaintiff, I have seized and taken in execution and will offer for sale by public auction at the Sheriff's Office, Belleville, in the County of Hastings on Friday, the 18th day of September, A.D. 1931, at the hour of 10 o'clock a.m., all the right, title, interest and equity of redemption of the said Donald H. Wheeler therein, to or out of the following lands and tenements, namely: All and being in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario.

All and Singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, and being composed of Lot 33 and the east half of Lot 32 on the west side of Octavia Street, Belleville, Ontario, which lot and part of lot are on a plan made by John J. Haslet, L.S., of part of lot two in the first concession of the Township of Thurlow and duly registered.

SEEN AT THE FAIR

The Canadian Shows have a new feature in the person of "Fanny" Frank Hoffman, who is one of the freaks of nature called half man and half woman. She is as the case may be has defied all the laws of medicine, for by all science case has been brought before the eye of man of the best doctors in Canada and they do not know what to make of the case.

The Canadian Shows have a very clean and honest midway this year, and Manager Harry Jenkins states that he will not allow any gambling connected with his shows.

The "Fountain" is a big word at the fair. Yesterday the kiddies took advantage of meeting at the fountain-when they had a pressing engagement and with it ended and again last evening when the fountain was lit up it presented a picture that will remain in the memory of those who saw it.

Toronto "Ex" may have its beautiful fountain but it certainly has no better when that of Belleville's fountain when lit up at night. Many a happy time was had at the "fountain" at the local Agricultural Park to enjoy the many sights at the Belleville Fair. The sheer beauty of a fountain at the Belleville Fair can only be seen at night when it is lit up by electricity.

GOOD NEWS!

THE GAY BANDIT OF THE BORDER

by TOM GILL

PROLOGUE

In a patch of moonlight the mustard flashed.

Just ahead, just beyond the fringe of shadowy campsite that skirted the desert's edge, two dusty wagon tracks led out over the mesa. They were all that marked the Yuma-to-Verdi road, those two ruts. Softly nibbled by cactus and sand they were all that recorded the tumultuous existence of international boundary line. But now, like faded, discarded ribbons, they stretched, lonely and indistinct, across the desert, then dropped abruptly over the edge of the mesa.

Minutes passed. The tall rider sat motionless—a brooding statue, silvered with moonlight. Only the eyes moved—eyes that glittered restlessly through the mask, fire-really asserting that velvet darkness ahead. A sinful night, wind crept like a sigh among the mesquite. Once the horse pawed impatiently at the sand, and once he raised his head to catch some faint, elusive message.

Silence. An endless silence while the twisted shadows of the mesquite lengthened before the stinking moon. Toward the far-off Mexican foothills a coyote howled. Aptly, silvery, moon-drenched silence, while the bay minutes passed.

Abruptly, in the same startled second, both horse and horseman raised their heads. Out of the desert night rose a sound, far off and indistinct. Then, like a phantom, pulsating murmur it roiled nearer, until at last the sound resolved itself into the muffled tread of galloping hooves.

Only then the quiet figure in the moonlight moved a touch of the reins, and the horse stepped forward into the shuttering mesquite, where again they froze in immobile silences, lost in that shadowy obscurity. Gently the man's hand dropped for an instant to the black automatic at his side. The barrel was still warm. His knees clasped the horse more tightly. His lithe figure had taken on a new keenness, and his sinewed body was filled with coldly eager eyes.

On the moonlight ahead the night had become dimly peopled with galloping horsemen, swinging down toward the mesa's edge. Mexican cavalry on patrol. They rode in loose ranks, two abreast, jangling in low tones. Little whirling pools of dust formed and then drifted pounding feet, then died, and in another minute the sound of their hurried passing faded. As the last somber-rowed figure melted back into that night of silence, the solitary horseman left the shadows and rode slowly to the mesa's rim. Leaning far out to the south, his eyes followed their silvery descent on wheel, almost directly beneath him, the trail turned and plunged steeply downward. There the little cavalcade had halted.

In a tight circle they were clustered about a huddled figure that lay face downward in the road. Out of the stillness the tense hum of muffled voices rose to the solitary rider's ears, and beneath the mask his teeth gleamed in a brief smile. He bent forward, watching. Two men had stepped from their horses and raised the limp form in the road-way. For a moment their backs were looked at the face, then formed the word "Lopez!" A shiver ran through the group. The night seemed to grow suddenly chill. Uneasily the men turned to their horses as if it now loomed suddenly menacing.

Then from above burst a laugh, wild and jeering, and for a brief instant the horsemen below saw outlined against the desert sky the tall form of a masked rider. Leisurely his gloved hand rose in a derisive gesture, and again that jeering, mocking laugh floated down.

A rattle of stones as the horse reversed back, and now the dusty ruts of the mesa gleamed white and empty beneath the moon.

CHAPTER I.

On that same moonlit desert, twenty miles away, a train had a brief whistled and, with a screech of complaining brakes, rolled to a stop among the cactus and sand. The solitary passenger in the Pullman looked about him, and then the night, then glanced at his watch. Frowning, he opened the door a moment on the window, then, lighting a cigarette, walked down the steps.

The first thing one might have noticed about the man was his great size. Tall, heavy-muscled, with huge shoulders and a chest that curved powerfully beneath the tan sport suit. His walk, too, gave a sense of vital reserve power. It was the gentle walk of a born wrestler. And next, as if in softening contrast, one noticed the friendly eyes of the man, the full but firm lips, curving upward a little at the corners just enough to relieve some of the grimness in the square, clear-cut jaw. He was a man one might turn after meeting once. A man one would remember without quite knowing why. About him one felt a sense of poise, a seasoned quality. As if life and perhaps sorrow had given him a maturity beyond his years. Yet he could not have been over twenty-five.

Pulling open the door the man looked down the long line where the red lantern of a flagman gleamed, then walked over the rear railing of the Pullman. For a moment he stood looking about him while the hot, unforgettable breath of the desert beat in upon him, bringing a message faintly, provokingly familiar. His fist the soft, dry sand between his feet. Behind him the tracks glistened out over the desert, and ahead the great black mountains pierced. On either side faint, ghostly clumps of mesquite and cactus stretched endlessly into the night. Again a little vagrant wind stirred the sands. Irritability he raised forth powerful arms above his head.

"Ded," he rejoiced, "the old desert again." And once more like some wild thing he sniffed the air.

A sound above him revealed the Pullman conductor smiling down from the platform.

"Desert smell good tonight?"

"Does to me." The big man laughed—such a man! I'd almost forgotten. Do we stay here long?"

"The train from the north is late and we got to wait. Maybe most of the night."

"Ded, puts us hours late into Verdi."

The conductor nodded. "We're due at Verdi junction in forty minutes—just midnight. We'll be lucky to get there by daybreak."

For a moment a shadow of disappointment crossed the man's face, then he laughed. "Well, I've been fifteen years waiting it. A few hours' delay won't be fatal. Verdi junction is four miles from town, isn't it?"

"A good four miles. The junction's just a tin shed and the main line of tracks. Rest belongs to the coyotes." The conductor looked disparagingly at the desert in the distance. "It's an empty country, Mexican border's only a half a mile south of here. In daylight you can see the boundary line, and sometimes the patrol of Mexican cavalry."

"What are they for—amusement?"

"Oh, that's one of the world's always been go a hair trigger. There's still considerable trouble and horse-caving. Right now the Verdi customs house and police haven't been able to get. Seems like there always will be hell popping over there if there's a boundary line between two nations." He yawned. "I'd get a night's sleep if I were you. I'll see you can call you just before we hit the junction."

But to the man it seemed only a few minutes after he had closed his eyes that the porter was plucking at the sheets. Through the half-open window a faint dawn light glowed over the desert's edge, and the chill of early dawn lay in the air. He dressed quickly and as the train stopped ran down the steps.

The conductor had been right. Verdi junction was nothing much. A hitching post, a weaving, rutted road, and, beyond, the brown sands of the desert—that was all. The dull green of mesquite and cactus.

Already the passenger's trunk had been swung to the ground. In another moment the Pullman porter forward and the long line of cars pulled away into the red of the sunrise.

Alone in the austere immensity of the desert, the man looked about him. No one in sight. No one to greet him. Near the tracks a wooden sign confided that Verdi lay four miles to the south, but his eyes following its direction, settled curiously on a black object on the top of a little rise. In the growing light it resolved itself into a long open car there in the middle of the road. Outlined against the sky the machine looked like some derelict spectator abandoned in the inlet of the desert. No one at the wheel. The thing was simply there, empty and motionless and inexplicable.

Puzzled, the man walked down the road, noting with increasing wonder that no footprints led away from the car. He stopped before it, his glance alert in the dull light, then drew back with a quick start of surprise. The radiator was hot! Once more he cast a rapid look about him, but the desert lay silent and empty beneath the slanting rays of the early sun.

Slowly, apparently from beneath his feet a woman's voice was raised in distinct lament. "Others did I put that damned bolt this time?" The voice asked.

Then from beneath the car an arm appeared, followed by the woman's silence, by a head of coppery hair. A scrambling, rustling in the sand, and now the man found himself looking down into a surprised face, generously smudged with oil and grease. A pair of wide violet eyes looked up at him, then the rest of the girl rolled from beneath the car and slowly arranged a badly wrinkled dress. She sat up. She considered him for a moment, then suddenly she smiled.

"You are Senor Radcliffe."

It was a contagious smile, and the voice itself held just the trace of an accent.

He looked down at the smudged face. His eyes twinkled. "We have met with the video mail-box."

Rapidly she ran both hands through the thick waves of her hair, shaking out the sands that still clung. "Ded," she said, "was easy. I promised Don Bob to drive over and pick up his friend Radcliffe. You're the only applicant. And I would have been here in good time, but—well, I choked accusingly at the car—"I am having one bottle with the devil, you see!"

"Broken?"

"No, bent—knocked against a high center in the road. If I could just straighten the rod—" Again she looked up at him. "Here, anyone your size should be able to bend a crowbar. Come on now!" And she disappeared beneath the car, struggling to the ground, and then squirmed after her.

The man was liberally strewn with bolts and nuts and assorted screws.

"You'll have enough parts left over for a radio set," he smiled.

"Ded, I've been through all this before. Look, can you straighten that thing?"

Turning on his back, Radcliffe lifted both knees and with little effort bent the long rod.

"Hold it there," she commanded, and reached for a bolt. "You mustn't mind if I sprawl all over you." She dropped the bolt into place and clamped on a nut. A moment of breathless silence, then a long sigh. "Now it's easy. Can you reach up—no, on the other side of me—there. Just hold that bolt. And don't mind if I smack sand in your eyes. There! That's it." She began working rapidly industriously with her wrench, then stopped. "Now, I cannot hear a word you're saying."

"That's probably because your knee's embedded in my wishbone." came the muffled reply. "I was just saying that if you'll let me get the rest of these ornaments together—"

His beard her laugh, saw her scramble from beneath the car, and in a few minutes joined her.

Federal Farm Board Called "Costly Lemon"

Sedalia, Mo., Sept. 1—Assailing the Federal Farm Board as "that high and mighty body," Senator Gifford Pinchott of Pennsylvania said in an address here, will insist that the "welfare of America dependsf upon justice of the American farmer—justice in the farmer himself understands justice—and not some alleged class that wants relief after neither know his problems nor comprehend his point of view."

Says Canada Should Lead in Work Insurance

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 1 — Canada should lead the world in putting through new and necessary measures, the most important being unemployment insurance, Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress, told a service club here yesterday. "Unemployment insurance Mr. Moore said increases the buying power of the masses, will protect the worker, will result in higher standards of living and reduce the industrial unrest and discontent.

MUST WAR ON GANGSTERDOM

Abnormal Times Blamed For Outbreak of Lawlessness

Albany, N.Y., Sept. 1—Governor Roosevelt sent to the legislature a special message urging immediate enactment of legislation designed to combat the crime wave. The New York executive proposed that the State's anti-pistol law be strengthened, that the private possession of machine guns be prohibited and that the discretionary conditional section of the penal law be strengthened to allow communities to rid themselves of criminals.

The Governor, in his special message to the legislature, declared that lawlessness which expresses itself in terms of gang warfare, hold-ups and reckless shooting must be warred upon by organized society.

"In normal times," the Governor told the Legislature, "normal statistics and vigilant police force are able to meet normal outlawry. These are not normal times. Extraordinary measures today are imperative to uphold the hands of the police. Gangdom has challenged the strength of the law. That challenge we must meet."

COL. WILLETS DIES

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 3—Lieut.-Col. C.S.E. Willets, D. S.O., one of the best known officers of the Kingston Military District, died suddenly at his home. Col. Willets had been in unusual health, and yesterday assisted in moving to a new home in the city. He died shortly after arising this morning.

3 TRAINS HIT OBSTRUCTIONS

Pile of Tie Plates Found Upon Track Near Woodmont

Woodmont, Conn., Sept. 1—Three trains, including the Montrealer, struck a series of obstructions placed on the tracks of the New Haven Railroad Monday night in what railroad officials in New Haven today described as a deliberate attempt to derail trains.

Engineer Wade of the Montrealer, reported last night that his train had run into a pile of tie plates and rails—4 ties on Track 4, near the Woodmont labor camp. He reported the obstruction from a distance away and brought the train to a stop just as it struck the pile. The engine was slightly damaged.

Conductor Gregory of the Montrealer reported finding two piles of tie plates and railroad ties within 200 feet. Neither of those trains was damaged.

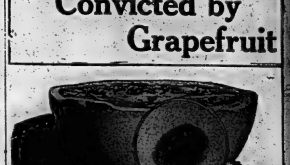
CLUBMEN TALK OF KIWANIS CARNIVAL



There was no speaker at the luncheon of the Kiwanis Club on Thursday, the meeting being turned over for the discussion of the Kiwanis Carnival soon to be held in the Armouries. This is a feature of the fall season in Belleville and the Carnival this year promises to be bigger and better. The club realizes that in order to attract the residents of the city and district, a different entertainment in the line of entertainment will have to be given and they are working with that end in view. The vaudeville during the Carnival will be of a higher class, while the booths in the hall will present wheels will be of better quality and of a greater variety. All of the booths will be operated by clubmembers and each booth will be manned by a director of the club, lendered his resignation and Terry Dolan, another director, was forced to relinquish his directorate owing to pressure of business. The directors at their last meeting appointed Art May and James Bankier to fill the vacancies for the unexpired term of the year. The appointment was received with applause and James Bankier rendered a solo in his pleasing style, while Art May accepted the opportunity to be an more service with a short address. The directorate also passed a motion that $100.00 be given to the four delegates to the Toronto convention in Windsor to cover the expense of the trip and this motion was unanimously accepted by the club at large. The softball team of the club having won the trophy donated by Angus McPee had the same presented them at the luncheon. Frank Dominico doing the honors and the cup being accepted by Eddie Shapiro, captain of the team.

A number of guests, who are touring Canada were introduced at the luncheon and were welcomed by the members and by all expressed their pleasure of the welcome and wished for the prosperity of the club.

SABOTAGE BLAMED

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 1.—Sabotage, believed by police to have been the work of discharged employees on the Dominion Express line in the district, resulted in damage of some $300 to a motor excavator in the Ottawa yards last night. The machine was battered and smashed with a pick-axe and its put completely out of commission. No arrests have been made.

Safe Robber Convicted by Grapefruit

He Left His Print

Los Angeles had an epidemic of safe-breaking. But the robber always erased his finger prints with grapefruit juice, and thus baffled the police. Then Lieut. Barlow, the famous expert who convicted Hickman, the kidnapper, found a finger print on one of the grapefruit the robber used. That print identified the thief, and he is now behind the bars.

Just another of the thousands of examples of how people, innocent and guilty, have prints or whatever they touch.

So On Your Foods

So you leave prints on, every thing you touch with contaminated hands. On bread, on toast, on cookies and candy — everywhere! Those prints convey dangerous germs. You may have picked them up from others, by a handshake or by touching something others have touched.

Life Extension Institute lists 27 diseases which may be conveyed in this way. The most common is colds, conveyed by hands which stopped a cough or sneeze.

Your only protection lies in washing hands often with a germ-destroying soap, and always before eating. That soap is Lifebuoy Soap. It destroys most germs, and makes others inactive.

Safety—Luxury—Protection

Lifebuoy Soap is based on two palm oils. There was never a soap more luxurious, more helpful to the skin and complexion. But, instead of a perfume, there is a germicide. You can smell it for a moment, but the scent disappears. Countless tests prove that no germs can live or thrive after its application.

You have three supreme needs whenever you use Lifebuoy.

First, a gentle and luxurious soap, based on oils which, since ancient times, have been recognized as best for the skin.

Second, a germicidal soap, which protects you from contamination.

Third, a soap which stops body odour and thus prevents embarrassment. That is why people use it as a bath soap.

Millions of people, in every country of the world, are using Lifebuoy for skin help—for combating germs—for insurance against body odour.

Keep Lifebuoy handy for the wash basin and the bath in your home. Encourage the family to use it often. Your dealer has Lifebuoy for you.

Newspaper Advertising is the Life Stream of Canadian Business

Advertising and mass production are inseparable partners in this industrial age. The manufacturer, distributor or retail merchant whose product has any justifiable right to a place in the market and expects to make enough sales to continue business at a profit, must keep on telling the public about his goods.

In such times as the present—when business is grimly and successfully fighting its way back to normal—there is temptation for men to curtail their advertising plans because of comparative falling off of demand and of smaller balances of profit in trading. Do the opposite! It is simple to run a blue pencil through items and lists of an appropriation, but it is not so easy to deal with the inevitable lessening of demand and fall in sales in the autumn, winter and early spring.

Daily Newspaper advertising in Canada is your greatest help today in reducing costs of distribution, not only because it covers every potential consumer, but because it may be bought exactly where and when it is needed. It is always at the salesman's back in any retail situation with a consumer appeal adapted to any sectional requirement. Use it to its fullest strength now that you need it most.

The best traders in Canada—firms which grow in strength and prestige year after year—know that Daily Newspaper advertising is as necessary to them as their raw material. When the fight is hardest—they have proved—it pays best to strengthen rather than to reduce their newspaper lists. Follow their good example!

Daily Newspapers are read today with keener interest than ever before in the history of Canada. Use them to carry your message in an atmosphere of vitality and with assurance of an attentive reception!

BENNETT'S DID NOT WISH CAREER FOR ELDEST DAUGHTER

Constance Bennett, daughter of Richard Bennett, famous stage star, was not "discovered" until Samuel Goldwyn saw her at an Equity Ball which she attended with her father. Bennett did not consider a stage career for their eldest daughter. In fact Mrs. Bennett rather hoped she would definitely choose not to go on the stage. They sent her to exclusive schools in New York and Mamaroneck, and later to Mme. Balsan's finishing school in Paris. At the age of seventeen, Miss Bennett was formally presented in Baltimore and Washington society. Her beauty and charm immediately made her an outstanding figure among the debutantes.

At one of the Equity Balls, which she attended with her father, Samuel Goldwyn saw her and suggested that she have a screen test made. She took his advice and, accepted his offer to feature her in "Cytherea," the film version of the Hergesheimer story. It was her first role but critics were unanimous in her praise.

She was soon recognized as one of the most talented of the younger players. She appeared in "Into the Net," "The Goose Hangs High," "My Son," "The Goose Woman," and "Sally, Irene and Mary."

She gave up her screen work for a while after her marriage to the young millionaire, Philip Plant, because he objected to it, and spent most of her time in her home in Paris, her villa in Biarritz, and on the Riviera.

Miss Bennett recently made "The Common Law," the feature attraction at the Bells Theatre today and Thursday, matinee daily. Joe McGrea plays her leading man. Others in the cast are Lew Cody, Robert Williams, Hedda Hopper, Marion Shilling and Paul Hill.

DRAMATIC FORCES RAMPANT IN "THE SECRET CALL"

Richard Arlen, Paramount's personable young star, has a new leading woman in his newest picture, "The Secret Call" coming to the Bells Friday.

She is Peggy Shannon, the sensation of Hollywood, who was catapulted into fame overnight when the films of Clara Bow made it necessary to find a "Bow-blister" at once for the leading feminine part in this dramatic romance.

Arlen is even as the son of a big city political boss. Miss Shannon is the telephone operator who vows vengeance on the political gang after her boy has ruthlessly sacrificed her father to save "the machine" from disgrace. Due to a series of blind circumstances, Miss Shannon gains the upper hand in the battle of wits with the politicians, but because of her love for Arlen she remonsiders. The climax is supercharged with high-voltage dramatics.

"MAN TO MAN" WILL BE REVIVED AT THE CAPITOL

Deep silence lasted for over an hour at each performance of "Man to Man" at the Capitol Theatre yesterday, when an absorbing problem was unfolded, treated and brought to a very happy conclusion by flawless portrayals on the parts of Phillips Holmes, Grant Mitchell, Lucille Powers and George Marion.

It can be said of but very few pictures that a film play does not contain "padding" somewhere. In "Man to Man" there is none whatever. Each foot of film is of dire necessity to the story, and what a story! A convict, his son, a girl and her father. Just the four main characters, and yet the drama and avert ed tragedy of their lives assume the proportions of a veritable Ben Hur at times, at others the pathos of Earl Lyon, and at all times sustains the interest of the audience to the keenest pitch. Throughout the portrayal there is case treatment, which leaves the impression of reality. The director has created a great deal of praise for this picture, and the story and the acting combine in making "Man to Man" touch the heart more than any dozen others.

The tension was relieved by the comedy, "Cat's Paw," interest was awakened with the strange happenings in "Curiosities" and the programme made complete with an amusing act, "Somewhere Out." This programme ends tonight.

1932 STYLES REVEALED IN "THE WOMAN BETWEEN"

Silverware Girl Night Thursday

A drama beautifully dressed, a beautiful star, glittering background accentuating a powerful story. That describes "The Woman Between," Lily Damita's latest picture, due at the Capitol Theatre on Thursday, (Silverware Gift Night) and Friday.

Lily Damita, the vivacious French actress, after playing in "Les Folies Bergeres" in Paris and "Sons o' Guns" on the Broadway stage, returns to Hollywood and makes "The Woman Between." Where one says, 'makes' it can almost be taken literally, because her performance is so outstanding as to rise above that of the cast assisting her. This cast is by no means meagre, including such a marvellous actor as O. P. Heggie, (or "The Vasabond Father") is included in the distinguished personal, besides Anita Louise and Lester Vail.

The story of "The Woman Between" deals with a French model, a millionaire and his step son. In an atmosphere of repressed passion, love, loyalty and sacrifice, a young modiste, temporarily dazzled by wealth, marries a business giant. Too late she discovers that she has been wedded to a life of intrigues, discord and social ostracism. Worse still, she encounters the bitter enmity of her husband's children, until her step-son falls in love with her.

The resulting situations are perhaps the most daring yet attempted on the screen, yet they are so delicately handled and plotted that the conclusion is most satisfactory and logical.

1932 fashions, direct from the fountain head Paris, are displayed abundant in "The Woman Between" and ladies will revel in seeing so much ruination of their husband's future finances! These creations are the last word in nearly every kind of occasional gown and outdoor apparel; Lily Damita has that very necessary knack of being able to parade them to the very best advantage.

There will be an amusing comedy "Two Fresh Eggs" and an Audio Review included in the programme.

The article of Silverware to be given to each attending lady at the Capitol on Thursday, has not been announced, but ladies will again be agreeably surprised in its nature.

GAR WOOD CONFESSES TRICK PRACTISED

Poor Sportmanship, Trickery, Admitted By Gar Wood Today as Piece of Spite Against Kaye Don

Disqualification of Race Result of Deliberate Plot By U. S. Defender —Don Follows Lead—Wood Makes Confession of His Object

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 8.—Gar Wood today admitted that he deliberately tricked Kaye Don, British challenger, into a premature start in yesterday's second Harmsworth race, to disqualify his boat, Miss England II.

Although Wood in his more than a decade of Harmsworth defense never had beaten the starting gun before, he took his Miss America IX across the starting line more than nine seconds ahead of the gun, and Don, apparently fearful that the United States defender might get too much of an advantage streaked after him. The British boat was more than seven seconds ahead of the gun.

Prior to the race Wood had requested a 45-minute postponement to repair a newly discovered gasoline tank leak. This was refused by Don who explained that it would necessitate his taking his boat back to the boat well, emptying his oil tanks and reheating the lubricating oil.

Wood pointed out that he had several times in past races agreed to postponements requested by foreign challengers.

Spite Work

"When they told me I couldn't have it," Wood said, "I made up my mind I would show Don a trick or two. We soldered up the spot hurriedly, but one of my mechanics was hauled out of the hull unconscious doing so.

"I planned the start. I said I would be over that line first if I were a minute ahead of the gun and if Don wanted to follow me that was his business. Everything went as I said he was going to."

Don did not discuss the start. His United States manager, William Sturm, however, commented that "Gar Wood evidently knows lots of the tricks in the racing game."

Work of raising Miss England II, which sank in 20 feet of water two miles from the starting mark, was started this morning.

Under Harmsworth rules the contenders may anticipate the starting gun by not more than ten seconds. Yesterday's start disqualified both Miss England II, and Miss America IX., and also Wood's second boat, Miss America VII., finished the 30-mile heat, the racing committee ruled there had been "no contest".

Detroit, Sept8—Disqualified with Miss England II, and his opponent disqualified with Miss America IX., both for beating the starter's gun, Kaye Don sailed for the world's speed boat record, on Monday but his ship shortly lost its life, and for a belief all chance of taking home to England the prize for the world's speed mercury. Trophy. His boat spectacularly wrecked lies at the bottom of the Detroit river.

By violating the starting rule with his boat, Miss England II, which Don, following him, also fell victim to, Gar Wood won the trophy for the United later, the trophy symbolic declaring the series "no match."

First Race Won By Don

Golden Hair Colt Wins, Beats Mowgli, Paddington

Doncaster, England, Sept. 8 (CP)—The golden hair colt owned by W. M. O. Sharpe this afternoon won the famous Champagne stakes by four lengths from Marcel Boussac's Mowgli, Lord Glanely's Paddington was third, but a head behind Mowgli.

Five two-year-olds went the six furlongs of the race, over the Straightaway course. The winner started odds-on favorite at one to four; Mowgli was at 13 to 2 against and Paddington at 100 to 6 against.

The Champagne stakes, run since 1877 at this historic racing centre, is one of the important two-year-old events that mark the last stage of that flat-racing season. It is worth approximately $15,000.

The winner is a chestnut colt bred by Gainsborough out of Golden Hair, and is already known as one of the best of the present crop of two-year-olds. The winner was one of the outstanding contenders for next year's derby and other classics.

Trees By Wholesale Are Stolen Off Oshawa Land

Oshawa, Sept. 8.—Theft of trees by the wholesale scale from the city farm was revealed Monday with the arrest by the police of Harry Rice, Douglas Street. Rice has been charged with theft, and several other arrests are expected to follow as the police clear up the mystery of midnight lumbering operations on city property.

There is a large wood lot in connection with the city farm and Arnold Brothers, who lease the property, recently noticed that several trees were missing. The trees were felled during the night under cover of darkness by men experienced in lumbering. Considerable skill had been exercised in chopping down the trunks, lopping off the branches and then carting the wood away with complete secrecy. Tell-tale stumps, however, revealed the alleged bootlegging of lumber, and Arnold Brothers notified the police.

It is believed that the trees were stolen for firewood.

Peaches Ripen in Belleville Garden

That most delicious peaches can be brought to perfection right in Belleville, has been demonstrated by Mr. Arthur Jones, 227 John Street. In his garden is a peach tree of which he and Mrs. Jones are justly proud and which has been much admired in the beauty it displays at this season of ripening fruit. The tree is about 7 years old and has been bearing for three years. Last year the yield was about twenty-quart basketfuls and this year the promise is for a yield. The peaches are the Crawford variety, large, juicy and delicious.

TWO THOUSAND IS FAIR DEFICIT

President Hanna Makes Statement As to Deficit

Speaking of the 1931 exhibition held by the Belleville Agricultural Society, President Hanna stated today to the press that the falling off in attendance due to rain largely was responsible for the society's deficit of $2,000 to the board. The society was hoping this year to make money for further improvements but owing to work from last winter the load of this deficit became the board carries on unpaid from year to year, but expends profits from the fairs in improving the grounds and buildings, the past fair last.

"Our prize list was very extensive and complete and cost us a great deal but we are glad to have made it worth while," he commented.

The president takes occasion his appreciation of the services rendered the officials and directors and also the press and public generally as he said had never before been so generous in their treatment of the fair. He also commended the Ontario Intelligencer upon its special exhibition edition.

Exhibitors did everything possible to assist the fair and the midway officers were also deserving of great credit for the way they took in securing to make the fair a success.

Stockholders Called Upon For $25,000,000

New York, N. Y., Sept 8—Stockholders of the Bank of United States will be called upon for $25,000,000, were announced by Joseph A. Broderick, superintendent of banks, today to contribute $25,250,000 for the benefit of depositors.

The sum represents a 100 per cent assessment upon the 1,210,000 shares of $25 par value stock held by 32,800 stockholders.

British Schneider Cup Pilots Will Race Against Each Other

Although France and Italy have had two years in which to construct new speed planes and train pilots for the international Schneider Cup Race, they have both withdrawn their entries less than a week from the date set for the important event, on the plea that bad weather has hampered training and death of select pilots has wrecked the morale of the two teams. Britain's Schneider Cup Flight, after experiencing one of the wettest summers in the history of the British Isles, and suffering the deaths of two of her famous Schneider Cup pilots and losing one new mystery plane, has decided to go ahead with preparations. When September 12 arrives the British High Speed Flight will race against each other in an effort to get a new speed record and not the disappoint the air-minded public in the British Isles. The above lay out shows the new S-6B mystery seaplane, constructed by British experts to defend the Motherland's right to the Schneider Trophy. There are four of the five daredevils who will participate in the race. Top, left and right, Squadron-Leader Orlebar, present holder of the world's record, 357 miles per hour; Flight Lieut. Boothman. Below, left and right, Flight Lieut. Long, and Flight Lieut. Boothman.

Brotherhood Spirit Must Dominate Labor Unions

Rev. Dr. Bell Says Duty of Churches to Make Better Individuals

GROUPS ARE MENACE

The business of the Christian Church is to nourish and cultivate the spirit of human brotherhood among men; it is not to consider the promulgation of any political or economic creed. In short the duty of the church is to make better men and women. "The church deals with motives rather than methods," said Dr. Bell, in his Bell at Bridge Street United Church on Sunday evening, when speaking on the theme of "Christianity and Labor."

"Men look for better methods. God looks for better men," the preacher went on. "Under the church does this all our plans and schemes will come to naught."

Brotherhood Spirit

If the trades unions lack this spirit of seeking to improve human brotherhood, they will fail. The place of the church is not the advocacy of any particular scheme or policy. It is the spirit of brotherly love and friendship. Only the spirit of brotherhood will solve the problems of today.

Dr. Bell claimed the great purpose of the church is to meet the needs, deepest needs, of men."

The great enemy is class consciousness, he said. Unless if they are to overcome hatred and social ills things solely, create class consciousness and run counter to the Gospel which cuts clean across human groupings.

Make All to Heights

The church would be a great more potent if every member were in his place, "Now" said Dr. Bell, "this does not mean a death conformity for there are differences of qualifications and talents among men. Bringing down to the dead level of the poorest is a mistake, rather every man ought to be raised to the utmost. Now the law can not compel a man to use his great talents and powers for the good of others, but Christianity can work in his heart and lead him to share his gifts with others.

Dr. Bell declared that there is no place for the "dole" and no place for the idle rich. If the church is true to itself, then it will not himself off from it means the death of man.

Grows Spirit Dehumanizes

A menace to the welfare of the world is seen in the growth of group spirit. "It dehumanizes man" he said. Some think that only those who live upon their talents are sickened by poverty and misery down upon the one who labor with their hands. But many in every society needs the contribution of every man as the human body needs every member for its perfect functioning. The social duty is to expand the heart and human sympathy. The shame today is that men want work today and cannot find it. Of course some do not want work.

For All Humanity

Christ did not stand for either capital or labor alone. He stood for all humanity. Christ sought the salvation of humanity and the development of the man. His teaching was Love and serve all."

In closing Dr. Bell remarked that he is not going into labor to emphasize and fight for the good of the Christian Church alone." There must be the honest day's work for the honest day's pay. We stand for this and more to justify made to suffer.

"Are we living to make a living or are we making a living to enable us to serve all?"

THANKSGIVING DAY IS OCT. 12

Holiday Set By Order-in-Council Under Old System

Ottawa, Sept 8—Thanksgiving Day will be celebrated this year on October 12. Official announcement of the passing of the order-in-Council to this effect has been made. The necessary proclamation will be issued shortly.

Fixing of a day by order-in-council is the observance of Thanksgiving Day separate from Armistice Day, which is now known as Remembrance Day under the statute passed at the last session of Parliament—is a departure from the former practice while Remembrance Day will be commemorated each year on Nov. 11, the separate date observance of Thanksgiving Day will be fixed each year by order-in-council.

Will Appear in Court Wednesday, Sept. 9

F. H. Armitage, Belleville broker who was arrested on Toronto Friday night last at the instigation of the Security Trades Investment Board of Ontario, on the charge of alleged theft of bonds and moneys from a resident of Hay Bay, appeared in police court here this a.m. The Court House last Saturday afternoon. As bail of $20,000.00 could not be secured, at that time accused remanded in custody until Wednesday morning.

PAVILION DAMAGED AT LAKEVIEW PARK

Oshawa, Sept 8—Damage of approximately $10,000 was received Monday morning when fire fire partially destroyed the Pavilion Pavilion at Lakeview Park.

No fire had attained considerable headway be are it was discovered at 8.10 a.m. and is believed to have originated from a cigarette butt throw near the orchestra platform. A midnight frolic starting sho.tly after 12 o'clock Sunday night, provided the fire and ended only several hours before the flames were discovered by Mel Smith, a resident at the lake.

75 RACE FANS GET DUCKING

Detroit, Sept. 8.—Tragedy, swift on the heels of the disastrous finish of Miss England II and Miss Harmsworth trophy, brushed its wing across the lives of 75 spectators of Monday's race. One life is believed to have been lost.

Excited by the capsizing of the British boat a few hundred yards from their vantage point, a crowd gathered on a dock of the Detroit River on the foot of Mt. Elliott Ave., Lasalle to the water's edge in their haste to help Miss Hoover, Kaye Don and his mechanics. Suddenly, with a large creaking of timbers the dock tilted and precipitated its load of men, women and children into the river.

Speeders Keep Traffic Officer Busy Monday

Speeding on Dundas Street East, by Chief Constable Tracy for hour Monday afternoon, and three officers were kept busy. Police Court Monday morning 7 this offence and Magistrate Kitchen of Parliament, Quebec, was fined $5 and costs. Frank L. Newman, Kingston, and Ralph Smith of Ottawa were each called upon to pay $5.

Both are some very expensive Senior Macaulay Club.

MRS. MARY ETHEL KETCHESON

Mary Ethel Denike, widow of the late Frank Ketcheson, passed away in the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday after an illness of less than two months. Deceased was the daughter of Charles H. Denike and the late Sarah Denike, Corbyville, being born in Prince Edward County sixty-three years ago. For over thirty-three years she has resided in Thurlow Township and was well known in the district. Of children who will exceedingly regret her death are two sons, Charles Denike, Unified Church at Bethel and active in all branches of the church. There are left to mourn her loss a father, Charles Denike at Corbyville, two sons, Lee of Thurlow and Clarence at home, also two brothers, G. R. Denike, Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. George Denike of Corbyville.

Stormy Scenes Mark Parliamentary Opening Labor Attacks Cabinet

Interruptions and Interjections Halt Premier MacDonald

ORDER CALLED

House Jammed to Doors As Amazing Scare Is Unfolded

London, Sept. 8 (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer) — Parliament opened today in a storm. Almost from the moment the speaker took the chair, Laborites were in a battle with the National Government.

The House was jammed to the doors, presenting an amazing scene in a swift change-over such frontbenchers of the old coalition as Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill and Rt. Hon. L. C. Amery were seen as backbench members of the government.

Interruptions and interjections came so thick that Rt. Hon. Edward Pitaey, speaker of the House, had to appeal that the Prime Minister be given opportunity to make his speech.

There was a burst of ironical laughter from the Labor benches when as Prime Minister MacDonald mentioned the King's offer to participate in the national sacrifice. "The King still gets fifteen hundred a day," a Laborite shouted.

In the first few minutes the exciled House fiercely assailed the division over the resignation of the chairman of the ways and means committee: Prime Minister MacDonald and Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson engaged in a sharp duel over the procedure.

Terms of Speech

But it was the drama of Prime Minister MacDonald's speech that held and riveted attention — the strange scene of the old Labor leader, attacked by Labor and cheered by Conservatives — as he explained interruptions with swift retorts.

The Prime Minister announced that with other cabinet members, the league he was accepting an annual reduction in salary of $6,000.

He pictured the scene when he had been so hurriedly summoned back from Lossiemouth. The Bank of England was losing gold. Treasury borrowings had been practically exhausted. Another loan was necessary. Success was not only threatened with falling off the gold standard, but with the country tumbling off. From twenty shillings the English pound might drop to ten.

"Scare-Monger"

"Scare-monger," shouted Laborites.

"And it would have tumbled without control if I had been a scare-monger. I am stating the facts."

Amid scenes of excitement, Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, declared that the Government's proposals were "the only way out."

Interjections and interjections came so thick that Rt. Hon. Edward Pitaey, speaker of the House, had to appeal that the Prime Minister be given opportunity to make his speech.

There was a burst of ironical laughter from the Labor benches when as Prime Minister MacDonald mentioned the King's offer to participate in the national sacrifice. "The King still gets fifteen hundred a day," a Laborite shouted.

In the first few minutes the excited House fiercely assailed the division over the resignation of the chairman of the ways and means committee: Prime Minister MacDonald and Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson engaged in a sharp duel over the procedure.

Terms of Speech

But it was the drama of Prime Minister MacDonald's speech that held and riveted attention — the strange scene of the old Labor leader, attacked by Labor and cheered by Conservatives — as he explained interruptions with swift retorts.

The Prime Minister announced that with other cabinet members, the league he was accepting an annual reduction in salary of $6,000.

He pictured the scene when he had been so hurriedly summoned back from Lossiemouth. The Bank of England was losing gold. Treasury borrowings had been practically exhausted. Another loan was necessary. Success was not only threatened with falling off the gold standard, but with the country tumbling off. From twenty shillings the English pound might drop to ten.

"Scare-Monger"

"Scare-monger," shouted Laborites.

"And it would have tumbled without control if I had been a scare-monger. I am stating the facts."

VETERAN PRINTER IS KILLED IN ORILLIA

Orillia, Sept. 8.—George A. Murray, aged 77, a compositor of the Orillia Packet and Times, who was on the staff of the Expositor, the first newspaper in Orillia, in the year of Confederation, died Monday afternoon, a short while after he was knocked down by a car on Mississaga Street, in front of his home. The driver of the car, Joseph A. Montgomery of Forth Wayne, Ind., was released after the police investigated the case and found him not responsible for the accident.

Mr. Murray leaves a widow and two children, Mrs. Edward Pomeroy and Herbert Murray of Orillia. A brother, William Murray, has been working on Orillia papers almost as many years as George Murray.

MONARCH CUTS HIS ALLOWANCE

British Monarch Expresses Wish to Share in Sacrifice

London, Sept. 8—The King announced last night in a letter to Prime Minister MacDonald that he wanted a reduction of 50,000 pounds (about $250,000) in his civil list which is the annual income paid by the government to the crown.

The Prime of Wales also announced the Prince Minister that he intended to contribute 50,000 to national funds.

The King said all other members of the Royal Family offer receive parliamentary grants proposed to do likewise, he learned. It is their contributions to these funds in the national emergency. Buckingham announced The King's voluntary reduction is to comprise for the duration of the period of stress.

Differences in the wording of the letters to the Prime Minister from the King and the Prince of Wales indicated the royal manner in which they drew their revenues.

The King's letter fixed the existing 470,000 pounds (about $2,350,000 annually. This is theoretically granted by parliament each year, but in practice the figure has remained the same for many years.

His Majesty has one other source of income, one only — his revenues from the Duchy of Lancaster, which in 1930 were $254,000.

FEWER YOUNG AND MORE AGED IN U.S.

Washington, D.C., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Fewer youngsters and more old people were shown by the Census Bureau today to be in the United States than were counted a decade ago, although 47,000,991 children, 15 or under, formed 38.3 per cent. of the total population.

The percentage of children was reported to be highest in the rural districts but the decline was as marked in the farming areas as in the cities.

GAR WOOD CONFESSES TRICK PRACTISED

Poor Sportmanship, Trickery, Admitted By Gar Wood Today as Piece of Spite Against Kaye Don

Disqualification of Race Result of Deliberate Plot By U. S. Defender —Don Follows Lead—Wood Makes Confession of His Object

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 8.—Gar Wood today admitted that he deliberately tricked Kaye Don, British challenger, into a premature start in yesterday's second Harmsworth race, to disqualify his boat, Miss England II.

Although Wood in his more than a decade of Harmsworth defense never had beaten the starting gun before, he took his Miss America IX across the starting line more than nine seconds ahead of the gun, and Don, apparently fearful that the United States defender might get too much of an advantage streaked after him. The British boat was across them seconds ahead of the gun.

Prior to the race Wood had requested a 45-minute postponement to repair a newly discovered gasoline tank leak. This was refused by Don who explained that it would necessitate his taking his boat back to the boat well, emptying his oil tanks and reheating the lubricating oil.

Wood pointed out that he had several times in past races agreed to postponements requested by foreign challengers.

Spite Work

"When they told me I couldn't have it," Wood said, "I made up my mind I'd show Don a trick or two. We soldered up the spot hurriedly, but one of my mechanics was hauled out of the hull unconscious doing so.

"I planned the start. I said I would be over the line first if I were a minute ahead of the gun and if Don wanted to follow me that was his business. Everything went off just as we had planned."

Don did not discuss the start. His United States manager, William Sturm, however, commented that "Gar Wood evidently knows lots of the tricks in the racing game."

Work of raising Miss England II., which sank in 20 feet of water two miles from the premature start, was started this morning.

Under Harmsworth rules the contenders may anticipate the starting gun by not more than one second. Yesterday's start disqualified both Miss England II., and Miss America IX., and also Wood's second boat, Miss America X., which finished first in the 90-mile heat, the racing committee ruled there had been "no contest".

Detroit, Sept8—Disqualified with Miss England II, and his opponent, disqualified with Miss America IX, both for beating the starter's gun—Kaye Don, holder of the world's speed boat record, on Monday lost his chance to win the title, and for the second all chance of taking more than one trophy in the Harmsworth Trophy race. His boat speedily wrecked lies at the bottom of the Detroit river.

By violating the starting rule with his 1931 entry, Miss England II, which Lon. Segrave hits, also his own record—he retained the trophy for the United Isles, the racing officials declaring the series "no contest."

First Race Won By Don

Clearing through the placid waters of the Detroit River Monday afternoon in a curtain of spume and spray, Lord Wakefield's Miss England II., with the gallant Irishman, Kaye Don, at the helm, broke all existing records to win the first heat of the classic Harmsworth Trophy race, as Gar Wood, in Miss America IX, wallowed in his wake more than a mile behind.

Travelling more than 92 miles per hour for over 37 miles, and hitting 110 miles per hour on the straightaway, and averaging 86.918 for the heat, Don's cool courage, one of heart and steady of hand, not only substantiated by Wood the first defeat he ever sustained in his competition, but gave such a superb display of speed that the bronze plaque that Lord Northcliffe then Sir Alfred Harmsworth, offered in 1902 seemed the destined for a turn to England, whence Wood carried in 1930.

The contest was a speed-boat race in the history of the world that could compare with this one for speed. The lap record that Wood set a year ago of 78.16 has not only surpassed by Don, but both Gar Wood in Miss America IX, and George Wood in Miss America VIII bettered it every time round.

FEWER YOUNG AND MORE AGED IN U.S.

Washington, D.C., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Fewer youngsters and more old people were shown by the Census Bureau today to be in the United States than were counted a decade ago, although 67,668,981 children, 19 or under, formed 53.3 per cent. of the total population.

The percentage of children was reported to be highest in the rural districts but the decline was as marked in the farming areas as in the cities.

MENDELSOHN GETS $500 SETTLEMENT

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 8 (CP)—Sidney Mendelsohn's claim of ten per cent. of the $10,000 purse won by George Young in the fifteen-mile swim in the Canadian National Exhibition last week, was settled amicably out of court Monday morning with Young, paying Mendelsohn $500. Dollars and cents had not been loaned or otherwise handed by Mister to Sister during the year, it was while the training contract between the two lasted.

LAST SURVIVOR DIES

High River, Alta., Sept. 8.—Edward Larkin, last surviving member of the original detachment of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police to arrive in Alberta in 1870, died on Sunday night at the age of 86. He joined the force in 1888 and had resided since in the Macleod district, according here for medical attention recently.

Peaches Ripen in Belleville Garden

That most delicious product can be brought to perfect ripening in Belleville, was been demonstrated by Mr. Arthur Bowen, 287 John Street. In his garden is a peach tree of which he and Mrs. Bowen are justly proud and which has been much admired in the beauty of its growth with an abundance of ripening fruit. The tree is eight years old and has been bearing for three years. Last year the yield was about twenty-six-quart basketfuls and this year it promises to be much greater. Many quarts of peaches have been preserved from this source and ripe ones are yet to follow. The peaches are the improved variety, large, juicy and delicious.

TWO THOUSAND IS FAIR DEFICIT

President Hanna Makes Statement As to Deficit

Speaking of the 1931 exhibition held by the Belleville Agricultural Association, President Hanna stated today to the press that the falling off in attendance due to rain largely would result in his opinion in a deficit of $2,000 to the board. The society was hopeful this year to make money for further improvements but will have to move forward under the head of this deficit because the board carries no surplus from year to year, but expends profits from the fair in improving the grounds and building up the stock list.

"Our prize list was very extensive and complete and cost us a great deal, but we are glad we made it worth while," he commented

The association has expressed his appreciation of the services rendered by the officials and directors and also to the press. The country press he said had never before been so generous in their treatment of the fair. He also commended the Ontario Intelligencer for the special 8-page edition.

Directors did everything possible to assist the fair and the military and the police staff also received credit for the part they took in endeavoring to make the fair a success.

Stockholders Called Upon For $25,000,000

New York, N. Y., Sept. 8—Stockholders of the United States Steel are now in process of liquidation, were called upon by Joseph A. Broderick, Superintendent of Banks, today to contribute $25,350,000 for the benefit of depositors.

The sum represents a 100 per cent assessment on the 1,000,000 shares of $25 par value stock held by 22,800 stockholders.

British Schneider Cup Pilots Will Race Against Each Other

Although France and Italy have had two years in which to construct new speed planes and train pilots for the international Schneider Cup Race, they have both withdrawn their entries less than a week from the date set for the important event, on the plea that bad weather has hampered training and death of select pilots has wrecked the morale of the two teams. Britain's Schneider Cup Flight, after experiencing one of the wettest summers in the history of the British Isles, and suffering the deaths of two of her famous Schneider Cup pilots and losing one more mystery plane, has decided to go ahead with preparations. When September 17 arrives the British High Speed Flight will race against each other in an effort to set a new speed record and not disappoint the air-minded public of the British Isles. The above lay out shows the new S-6B mystery seaplane, constructed by British experts to defend the Motherland's right to the coveted trophy. Inset are four of the five contenders who will participate in the race. Top, left and right, Squadron-Leader H. Orlebar, holder of the world's record, 357 miles per hour; and Flight-Lieut. Boothman, low, left and right, Flight Lieut. Long, and Flight Lieut. Boothman.

Brotherhood Spirit Must Dominate Labor Unions

Rev. Dr. Bell Says Duty of Churches to Make Better Individuals

GROUPS ARE MENACE

The business of the Christian Church is to nourish and cultivate the spirit of human brotherhood among men; it is not to consider the promulgation of any political or economic creed. In short the duty of the church is to make better men and women. So the church deals with motives rather than methods," said Rev. Dr. Bell at Bridge Street United Church on Sunday evening preaching on the theme of "Christianity and Labor."

"Men look for better methods, God looks for better men," the preacher went on. "Unless the church does this all our plans and schemes will avail naught."

Brotherhood Spirit

If the trade unions lack this spirit of seeking to improve human brotherhood, they will fail. The place of the church is not the advocacy of any particular scheme of policy, it is the spirit of brotherly love and friendship. Only the spirit of brotherhood will solve the problems of today.

Rev. Bell claimed the great purpose of the church is to meet the needs, hearts and minds of men."

The great enemy is class consciousness, he said. Unless if they stress themselves alone and material things solely, create class consciousness and run counter to the Gospel which cuts clean across human groupings.

Make All to Heights

The church must be a great more potent if every member were in his place. "How" said Dr. Bell, "this does not mean a deadly uniformity; for there are differences of qualifications and talents among men. Bringing down to the dead level of the poorest is a mistake, rather every man ought to be raised to the utmost. Now the law of hot compel a man to use his great talents and powers for the good of others, but Christianity can work in his heart and lead him to share his gifts with others.

Dr. Bell declared that there is no place for the idle poor and no place for the idle rich. If the church is Christ's body, then it is not himself off from it means the death of man.

Group Spirit Dehumanizes

A menace to the welfare of the world is seen in the growth of group spirit. "It dehumanizes man" he said. Some people think that those who live upon their talents are scarcely human and others look down upon the one who labor with their hands. Both are wrong. Society needs the contribution of every man as the human body needs every member for its perfect functioning. The social duty is to expand the heart and human sympathy. The shame today is that men want work today and cannot find it. Of course some do not want work.

For All Necessity

Christ did not stand for either capital or labor alone. He stood for all humanity. Christ sought the man. His whole thought was the development of character. His teaching was, Love and serve all.

In closing Dr. Bell remarked that "it is all right for men to emphasize and fight for the good of all but not for their class." There must be the honest day's work for the day's pay. The sting is that man is often unjustly paid or suffer.

"Are we living to make a living or are we making a living to enable us to serve All?"

THANKSGIVING DAY IS OCT. 12

Holiday Set By Order-in-Council Under Old System

Ottawa, Sept. 8.—Thanksgiving Day will be celebrated this year on October 12. Official announcement of the passage of an order-in-Council to this effect has been made. The necessary proclamation will be issued shortly.

Fixing of a date by order-in-Council for the observance of Thanksgiving separate from Armistice Day—what is now known as the old system—was done by a bill passed at the last session of Parliament—is a departure from the former practice while Remembrance Day will be commemorated each year on Nov. 11, the separate date for observance of Thanksgiving Day to be fixed each year by order-in-Council.

Will Appear in Court Wednesday, Sept.

F. H. Armitage, Belleville broker who was arrested in Trenton Friday night last at the instigation of the Security Frauds Prevention Board of Ontario, on the charge of alleged theft of bonds and mortgages of the estate of Reuben Sprague, set before Magistrate Mikel at the Court House last Saturday afternoon for hail of $20,000 which was not be furnished at that time or the prisoner remanded until Wednesday morning.

PAVILION DAMAGED AT LAKEVIEW PARK

Ahawa, Sept. 8.—Damage of approximately $10,000 resulted Monday morning when the fire partially destroyed the Jubilee Pavilion at Lakeview Park.

So it has had stationed considerable buildings here as it was discovered at 8.10 a.m. and is believed to have originated from a cigarette stub thrown near the orchestra platform. A midnight frolic, starting 3ho.30 Thur 11 o'clock Sunday night, preceded the fire and ended only several hours before the flames were discovered by Ned Smith, a resident at the lake.

Golden Hair Colt Wins, Beats Mowgli, Paddington

Doncaster, England, Sept. 8 (CP)—The golden hair colt owned by W. G. Singer this afternoon won the famous Champagne stakes by four lengths from Marcel Boussac's Mowgli, Gladney's Paddington was third, just a head behind Mowgli.

Five two-year-olds went the six furlongs of the race, over a straightaway course. The winner started odds-on favorite at one to four; Mowgli was at 13 to 2 against and Paddington at 100 to 8 against.

The Champagne stakes, run since 1823 is the historic racing event in one of the important two-year-old races that usually the last leg of that flat-racing season. It is worth approximately $15,000.

The winner is an unnamed colt by Gainsborough out of Golden Hair, and is already known as one of the best of the present crop of two-year-olds and therefore one of the outstanding contenders for next year's derby and other classics.

Trees By Wholesale Are Stolen Off Oshawa Land

Oshawa, Sept. 8.—Theft of trees by the wholesale scale from the city farm was revealed Monday with the arrest by the police of Harry Rots, Douglas Street. Rots has been charged with theft, and several other arrests are expected to follow the police clean up the mystery of midnight lumbering operations on city property.

There is a large wood lot in connection with the city farm and Arnold Brothers, who lease the property, recently noticed that several trees were missing. The trees had evidently been felled under the cover of darkness by men experienced in lumbering. Considerable ground has been examined in chopping down the trunks, lopping off the branches and then carting the wood away with complete secrecy. Tell-tale stumps, however, revealed the alleged bootlegging of lumber, and Arnold Brothers notified the police.

It is believed that the trees were stolen for firewood.

Stormy Scenes Mark Parliamentary Opening Labor Attacks Cabinet

Interruptions and Interjections Halt Premier MacDonald

ORDER CALLED

House Jammed to Doors As Amazing Scare Is Unfolded

London, Sept. 8 (By George Hamilton, Canadian Press Staff Writer).—Parliament opened today in a storm. Almost from the moment the speaker took the chair Labor benches were in a battle with the National Government.

The House was jammed to the doors, presenting an amazing scene in a swift clang-over each front benchers of the old opposition as Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill and Rt. Hon. L. C. Amery were seen as backbench members of the government.

Interruptions and interjections came so thick that Rt. Hon. Edward Fitzroy, speaker of the House, had to appeal that the Prime Minister be given opportunity to make his speech.

There was a burst of ironical laughter from the labor back benchers as Prime Minister MacDonald mentioned the fixing of fee to participate in the national sacrifice. "The King still gets his hundred a day," a Laborite shouted.

In the first few minutes the excited House narrowly escaped a disorderly session, and when Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson engaged in a sharp duel over his procedure.

Drama at Speech

But it was the drama of Prime Minister MacDonald's speech that held and revealed attention—the strange scene of life old Labor leader, attacked by Labor and cheered by Conservatives—as he pushed on interruptions with swift retorts.

The House was informed that along with other cabinet colleagues he was accepting an annual reduction in salary of $6,000.

He pictured the scene when he had been so hurriedly summoned back from Lossiemouth. The Bank of England was losing gold. Temporary borrowings had been practically exhausted. Another loan was necessary. Sterling was not only threatened with falling off the gold standard; it was threatened with tumbling off. From twenty millions in the English pound might drop to ten.

"Scare-Monger"

"Scare-monger," shouted Laborites

"And he will have tumbled without control," Mr. MacDonald pointed out. "I am no scare-monger. I am stating the facts."

75 RACE FANS ● GET DUCKING

Detroit, Sept. 8.—Tragedy, swift on the heels of the disastrous flight of Miss England's Rolls for the Harmsworth trophy, brushed the wings across the lives of 75 spectators of Monday's race. One life is believed to have been lost.

Excited by the capsizing of the British boat, a few hundred yards from their vantage point, a crowd gathered on a dock of the Detroit River at the foot of Mooroboat Street. The dock, built by the city as an office to watch the races of Kaye Don and his mechanics. Suddenly, with a terrific crash part of the dock lifted and precipitated its load of men, women and children into the river.

Speeders Keep Traffic Officer Busy Monday

Speeding on Dundas Street East, kept City Traffic Officer Taylor busy Monday afternoon and three offenders were fined in Police Court Monday morning. This offence George E. Kitchen of Bessemerque, Quebec, was fined $5 and costs. Frank L. Newman, Kingston, and Ralph Smith of Ottawa were each called upon to pay $5.

British Monarch Expresses Wish to Share in Sacrifice

London, Sept. 8.—The King announced today that Premier Ramsay MacDonald that he wanted a reduction of 50,000 pounds ($250,000) in his civil list, which is the annual income paid by the government to the crown.

The Prince of Wales also informed the Prime Minister that he intended to contribute 150,000 to national funds.

The King said all other members of the Royal Family also required parliamentary approval, must vote in their incomes. It is their contribution to the common effort to meet the nation's time of financial emergency. The King's voluntary reduction is to continue for the duration of the period of economy.

Differences in the wording of the letters to the Prime Minister from the King and the Prince of Wales reflected differences in the manner in which they drew their revenues.

The King has a civil list totaling 470,000 pounds (about $2,350,000) annually. This is theoretically granted to Parliament each year, but in practice the figure has remained the same for many years.

83rd Birthday is Celebrated

Mrs. Sarah Tice, widow of the late James Tice, Lakeshore Road at Wellington, celebrated her 83rd birthday Sunday surrounded by more than forty relatives drawn from Oshawa on the east to Cobourg on the west. The birthday party arranged by the relatives was a complete surprise on the aged woman, who despite her years is active and in the best of health. Mrs. Tice was born in Prince Edward County, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Monahan but has been living since one of the earliest United Empire Loyalist settlers in Prince Edward County. Mr. Delmer Tice, a son of Mrs. Tice, arranged the birthday party and its success was only achieved by the hearty co-operation given by those in attendance. The tables were set on the broad lawn in front of the house, which looks out on the broad expanse of Lake Ontario and they were loaded with all the best in culinary art prepared by those in attendance. The mistress of honor was seated at the centre of the table surrounded by her sons, step sons, daughters-in-law and relatives of the immediate family, including Rev. Father William Monaghan, former warden of Prince Edward County, who was unable to be present but sent a telegram of greetings on the birthday before participation in the festivities. Another step son present was the late T. C. Tice, former member of Meaford High School.

At the conclusion of the dinner, the party broke up into little groups and enjoyed a family visit, while Mrs. Tice, who was the centre of attraction told of the early life in that county. After her marriage to Mr. James Tice, she settled on the Lakeshore Road, one of the picturesque spots of the Garden County of Ontario, where she has enjoyed for many years the confidence and respect of a large community. Congratulations were extended upon the departing of the guests, all hoping for many years of contented life. Mrs. Jason Tice, Ald. and Mrs. Geo. O. Tice, also Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tice were present from this city.

DAYLIGHT TIME PASSES IN TOWN

Back to standard time went the clocks and watches in Belleville and in the immediate environs last midnight and the fall evening a new era began. In spite of the change very few people failed to make the change and as a result all fitted into the new conditions.

Even the early children were seen at the schools and the city stores and offices did not report any unusually early shoppers or workers.

Daylight time is done for the year 1931. It will be voted upon in December for council has practically decided to give the people a say on the question.

WEDDINGS

FORESTELL—RYAN

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on September 2nd at St. C. Church, Stirling, when Mary Agnes, second daughter of Mrs. James Ryan and the late James Ryan, became the bride of Milford A. Forestell, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Forestell, Madoc, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. J. Farrell, pastor.

The bride looked charming in a pink georgette dress with hat and shoes to match. Miss Leona Forestell, sister of the groom, attired in blue crepe with black hat and shoes, acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. Joseph Ryan, brother of the bride, performed the duties of the best man.

Mrs. McGhee presided at the organ while Patrick Quinn sang.

After the ceremony, the wedding party proceeded to the home of the bride where dinner was served to only immediate relatives.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Forestell left on a motor trip to Sudbury, on their return they will reside at the groom's home, Madoc.

MORSE—ROBINSON

Miss Mary Albertena Robinson, daughter of John Robinson and the late Albert Robinson, of Belleville, was married Saturday at her home, Highland Avenue, Belleville, to Mr. Eric Wilton Morse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilton H. Morse, of Port Hope. Rev. R. D. Warner, of Bond House, officiated.

The house was beautifully decorated with palms and garden flowers, the ceremony being performed under a beautiful floral bell.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John Robinson, wore a gown of eggshell satin and Chantilly lace fashioned on long, fitted lines, the skirt lengthening into a train, and carried a shower bouquet of roses. Her veil, falling from a tulle cap was caught at the sides with Pompon flowers.

Miss Dorothy Robinson, sister of the bride, and Miss Muriel Rose acted as bridesmaids. They were gowned alike in quaint frocks of Lanvin green chiffon with hats to match and carried arm bouquets of sweet peas arranged on small muffs of the lattice. Mr. Cecil Millard, Toronto, sister of the groom, wearing a gown of yellow net and carrying Talisman roses, was matron of honour and Mr. Norman Moore of Toronto, supported the groom, acting the signing of the register. Miss Helen Rowe, of Toronto, also acted as bridesmaids. Later the bride and groom left by motor for a honeymoon to be spent in the Eastern Provinces. On their travelling in a most becoming ensemble of blue with accessories to match. On their return they will reside in Port Hope where Mr. Morse is affiliated with Trinity College.

BATTLE—WHALEN

St. Edmunds' Church, Stoco, was the scene of a very pretty Autumn wedding, on September 1st, when Annie Frances, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Whalen of Stoco, became the bride of George Clement, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Battle, Point Anne.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Callahan.

The bride entered the church to the strain of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Clara Mulligan, and was attended by Miss Frances Courneyea sang.

The bride looked charming in a blue georgette dress with hat and gloves to match. She wore black satin shoes.

Miss Elizabeth Mackey, Read was bridesmaid and wore a becoming frock of brown georgette with lace trimmings. She wore hat, shoes and gloves to match. Mr. Patrick Whalen, Stoco, brother of the bride was groomsman.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful pearl rosary, to the bridesmaid a silver compact and to the groomsman a necktie.

After the wedding ceremony the party proceeded to the home of the bride where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served to immediate relations.

The room was prettily decorated with streamers of blue and white and large white wedding bells.

Mr. and Mrs. Battle left by motoy on Thursday for a trip through the States. The bride travelling in a smart blue tweed suit with hat and other accessories to match. The happy couple will reside at the home of the groom, Point Michigan.

On Thursday evening there was a reception held for Mr. and Mrs. C. Battle. Over three hundred being present for the occasion. All had a very enjoyable evening. The bridal couple received a large number of lovely gifts.

"POLISH LION" IN HOSPITAL

Fracture of Elbow Discovered on the Journey Through City

Stanley Stasiak, called the Polish lion wrestler, of Canborough, Ont., is in the General Hospital, Belleville, suffering with a fractured elbow, which he sustained while wrestling with Ed. Don George of Buffalo, N. Y., an ex-world champion wrestler, at the Arena Gardens, Toronto, on Thursday night. The fact that the arm was broken during the match developed at the time. It was not until after leaving Toronto, on Friday morning, on his way to Montreal, that the arm commenced to give trouble. On reaching Belleville, Mr. Cecil Millard was consulted and the seriousness of the injury discovered. Mr. Stasiak was at once taken to the General Hospital and his father-in-law is still confined. An X-ray was taken Tuesday morning and in all probability it will be some days yet before Stasiak will be able to resume his journey to Montreal.

Mrs. Stasiak is travelling with her husband; they have with them two fine Doberman Pinscher dogs, with which the wrestler takes daily runs in keeping himself fit.

Cities Service Oil Co. Educational Conference

The Cities Service Oil Co., Limited, held their third Educational Conference at the Royal Hotel last night, under the chairman, Mr. Ross Hepburn.

During the course of the evening, representatives from various districts gave a few reports on their particular branch of the service. Mr. Hewitt, of Mr. R. J. Poulin, Educational Manager, who introduced the speakers, was present at the evening.

Mr. Weir gave a very interesting address of various types of service, which is followed and used in California, and the surrounding country. Pointing out that when a motorist stops at a Cities Service emporium, he always has the opportunity to return to that destination again, also, how important the service man is that the cars are clean. What a pleasure it is to the motoring public to know that when a car is left at a service station to be serviced or greased, that that car is going to be thoroughly done. Most motorists are at the mercy of the service station men, and rely on him to give the car the proper attention.

Mr. Weir was followed by Mr. Hewitt, who, although not a motorist, gave a very interesting address regarding business relationship between any large corporation, their employees, and the customer. Mr. Hewitt also told a couple of humorous stories.

Mr. Cecil Rollins, Coe Hill, who is the local representative in that district, spoke on the relationship with the Cities Service Oil Co., and how, during the last three years the gas and oil business has grown up in the north country.

These conferences are held every three months, and are a means of the employees getting together and offering suggestions and telling their experiences and difficulties encountered with the public, whom we have the pleasure of serving.

Lady Astor Bursts Into House to Stake Seat

London, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Lady Astor, first woman to sit in the British Parliament, today was the first member of either sex to stake a claim for a seat in the special session of the House of Commons.

She was among 40 M.P.'s who burst into the chambers when the doors opened at eight o'clock and made a wild rush for places, thus nimbly emerged from the scrimmage and reached her chosen position an easy first.

PUT YOURSELF IN HIS PLACE

Now it can be asked. The fair is over. What did the little rooster with the dashing red comb and shapely form think of the moving picture of human life even the talking pictures which passed before his cage? Did the little fellow think fairs were made by him and his class to bring humans there in order to make the fair go? What thoughts went through the "mind" if a fowl can be said to have mind, would require a perfect knowledge of bird psychology, but nevertheless it is just as likely that the bird thought the fair was made for the human beings by the rosters and the hens in the exhibition.

The gay little bird who had practically all of his life before him felt in good shape all through the fair and his loud clarion could be heard in the early morning a sure sign that the same bird as calls up the sun, and owns the farm—was a big place in the exhibition ready to see the humans pass by paying a quarter for the privilege of seeing him and his bird friends who made the fair.

What a motley crowd he saw—young and old, and some which he could not tell if young or old for dress makes such a change in humans today while birds do not reach that stage except in the moulting season. Then did he not see the influential on parade before his happy pen where he sat safe from the human beings, the wealthy who usually ride in motorcars, and also those not so wealthy, and then even the boys and girls who had not a thought of money and enjoyed life much as Young Mr. Rooster enjoyed it out of the pure exuberance of life. What did not the bird see in the way of new dresses? This young bird was not ready for the shock of a new system of clothes and fortunately what he saw did not disturb him too much for then what he saw was not just like his, it was quite sophisticated and unnatural to his feathers, every one of which has a place and purpose in the rooster realm. As to their language what did he "think" of humans?

Strive as he could the owner of that bird could probably not convince him that it was not the people who were on exhibition. To this day the little fellow does not likes to go to other birds of his visit to the city fair where he had the opportunity of seeing humans on exhibition. He plans to come back next year and being a prize-winning rooster his life will doubtless continue to that period though by that time he may have changed his notions about the relative position of men and poultry in the fair. But first impressions are lasting and this little fellow may go to the block or market never once believing but that he is the controller of man's destiny and owns the fair.

HARD TIMES FOR MARRIAGE

The depression hurt Dan Cupid, too; and it also slowed down the wheels of the divorce mills, says The Literary Digest.

Paradoxically, romance was blighted and marital love was sustained by the same forces.

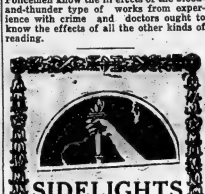
Husbands and wives, apparently, were too busy in 1930 trying to make both ends meet to quarrel, and, anyway, there wasn't much left for court costs if they should flare up and consider leaving the wife. And with jobs scarce and uncertain, and salaries and wages dwindling, men and women who might have considered halving their joys and sorrows realized that it might mean a doubling of their expenses. So fewer knots were tied and untied.

At last, however, the decline in marriages was more than the decline in divorces. Marriages in 1930, as compared with those in 1929, declined 8.5 per cent; while divorces, similarly compared, declined only 5.9 per cent. The difference was even more marked on a per capita basis, with 9.2 marriages and 1.56 divorces among each 1,000 of population in 1930, compared with 10.1 marriages and 1.66 divorces in 1929.

The count, as made public in a preliminary report of U. S. Census Bureau, shows 1,128,180 marriages and 191,630 divorces in 1930, compared with 1,232,559 marriages and 201,468 divorces in 1929. Annulments also decreased, numbering 4,333 in 1930 as against 4,408 in 1929.

While the net decrease in the number of marriages in the country as a whole was 8.5 per cent., the relative change in the several States, according to the report, ranged from a decrease of 28.5 per cent. in Texas to an increase of 29.5 per cent. in New Mexico.

LET YOUR DOCTOR ADVISE



Dean Inge assuredly has a sense for all his name of the "gloomy dean". He makes a story out of the fact that his wife was found asleep with one of his books lying upside down on her knee. The dean was joking about insomnia and his own "drowsy" works but he has made many people wonder if after all there is not something in it for the doctors.

The dean was thinking over the possibilities of the medical profession in providing folks with lists of books after diagnosis of their malady.

One New York journalist suggests that stories of Jacobs for insomnia. Philosophy, economics and history are declared the soporific books.

People generally select their books on their own initiative and on the advice of friends—not necessarily the doctor. Now doctors themselves like lawyers have a penchant for books of a peculiar class—the detective class of works or lighter works which rest their minds and deliver them from the curse of thinking always of their profession. Would doctors be so absorbed in detective and light fiction as to recommend them to every reader?

Perhaps the new grist of doctors being turned out from the medical schools will have to pass a test in the science of literature from the standpoint of health. Policemen know the ill effects of the blood-and-thunder type of works from experience with crime and doctors ought to know the effects of all the other kinds of reading.

UNBELIEF

By Aline Michaelis

The torrid day drops shifting veils of heat
Before the gaze, the languid breezes die;
Above a bank of clover, white and sweet,
Bees, bronze and golden, bent on pillage fly.

How can we picture hours scintillant
With sun upon a world swathed all in white,
Where clear-cut shadows early eastward slant
And the wind sharpens with approaching night?

Yet that such change will come no mind denies;
What of the soul, then, that strange traveller
Destined to pass beneath unguessed, far skies
Whose meaning none decipher or infer?

How do we dare refuse it any phase
In all of being's known or unknown ways?

UNCLE SAM'S POISON-GAS TRICK

Killing a regiment of men as if they were a swarm of flies is revealed as a new war trick which Uncle Sam has mastered.

It is "a system of wiping out entire regiments and populations by means of spraying mustard-gas—the most deadly weapon yet devised for modern war, from airplanes," explains a Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun. Hitherto the problem has been to spray the gas without killing the aviator.

"Despite American protestations and pledges against the use of poison gas made during the Washington Arms Conference," we are told, the Army Air Corps and the Chemical Warfare Service have developed the system after tests covering three years at Edgewood Arsenal, Maryland.

"As now being used," the correspondent adds, "the gas is sprayed from planes in liquid form, but upon striking the air quickly vaporizes, forming a gaseous substance that penetrates the lungs and clothing with ease." Experiments also are being carried on to devise "a means of protecting troops on the ground from mustard-gas rained on them from the clouds."

Reading on:

"Maj.-Gen. Harry L. Gilchrist, chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, justified his experiments by saying that it is not the intention of this country ever to use the gas against cities, but rather to confine its operation to the actual fighting front.

"He maintained that its effectiveness in cities would be virtually negligible, due to the protection of buildings, whereas in the open battle field it could be sprayed down upon combatant troops with deadly effect."

As to the ethics of the experiments, "some difference of opinion appears to exist in the State and War Departments," and—

"Although the United States was one of the nations which enthusiastically went on record against poison gas during the Washington Conference, this action was taken by resolution rather than by treaty, and four years later the Senate rejected a treaty, signed in London by forty-seven nations, outlawing the use of poison gas. Although the United States signed the pact, ratification was blocked by the lobbying of the American Legion and chemical interests."

QUICK RICHES OFTEN BRING A LOT OF TROUBLE IN THEIR TRAIN

Quick riches do not always bring peace and happiness to the supposedly fortunate ones who come into them.

George Young had hardly got thawed out before he faced a court action for $1,000.

The winner of a rich prize in the Irish Sweepstake who lived in Vancouver had to juggle with the law and lawsuits in a brave attempt to retain part of his winnings.

Jack Dempsey since he retired from the ring has been a busy fighting lawsuits that he shouldn't need much training to get back into shape to replenish his purse by another "bon-fight".

Gene Tunney is probably the near est thing to an exception that proves the rule. He gathered in a million or two and hurried away so fast that the law sharks hardly had time to get their claws into him.

After all, the great majority of people can reflect that the dollar earned by a hard day's work is the one that lasts longest and gives the most lasting satisfaction—Toronto Telegram.

AMERICA'S HEAP OF GOLD

To the plain man technical discussion of the movement of gold between nations are of little interest. He does not pay much attention to the explanations of the place and use of gold in our banking and currency system. The distinctions between the amounts held in reserve for note circulation and for credit, as well as those about gold that is "free" or "earmarked" do not mean much for him. What he looks at is the enormous and unprecedented bulk of that gold heaped up in this country. It now rests in nearly $4,000,000,000. The records show that the total was increased $832,000,000 during the last twelve months. Nearly every week additions, though on a much smaller scale, are reported in the exports of various countries to the United States.

It is this huge supply of gold in our possession which appeals to the wonder and imagination of ordinary citizens. They know that it is the greatest stock of the precious metal ever within the control of any nation. The old stories about the Spanish treasure ships from the New World and the Philippines are compared with the shipments of gold from all parts of the world which have been piled up in the treasury of the United States and into the safes of the Federal Reserve System. It is a phenomenon at once impressive and bewildering. Bankers and economists can tell you why the thing has happened as it has, but are cautious about explaining the future, and do not dispel the mystery or answer the questions of the man in the street. He remains all the more puzzled by their statements that what would appear to be this tremendous accumulation is now regarded as a kind of danger.

This is certainly something new under the sun—being afraid of unexpected shadow cast by the vast accumulation of gold within this country—New York Times.

HUNGRY AND FOOD WASTING

With hundreds of towns people without fruit and vegetables for lack of money to buy them it is charged that commercial canners are dumping fruit and vegetables on the garbage heap.

Such a condition is a reflection on our civilization. It is something that governments, be they municipal, provincial or federal, cannot afford to overlook.

The cause may be that there are too many middlemen and that the produce has to pass through too many hands from the time it leaves the farm till it reaches the consumer.

It may be that the middlemen following the cure for low prices preached in some of the notion states, are compelling the fruit and vegetables in order to keep up prices.

People hungry in the cities while food is going to waste forty miles away doors is a situation that demands immediate attention. Any action cannot follow too closely on attention—Toronto Telegram.

THE $WIM

It is probable that no other contest in the world in which athletes are asked to take part is quite so cruel a test of human endurance. The newspaper writers have no delusions about it. They called it a "ghastly grind", and that hits it off.

Consider some of the aspects of the "great swim" as reported in the press. Of 130 men who started on the "ghastly grind" only three finished the 15-mile route. Before the first hour had passed, forty were in emergency hospital. The remainder except the three, gave up sooner or later. The cold water was too much for their strength and powers of resistance.

Some of the swimmers became temporarily deranged. Some swam in aimless circles, their mind giving way under the strain. One "laughed hysterically and mumbled incoherently" as he was pulled out and rushed to hospital. Many more unconscious and were rescued from drowning. The winner was moving like a semi-conscious automation when he completed the last lap. The third and last man swam half a day and collapsed.

All this, we say, makes us doubt whether it is sport. We are inclined to think it is a cruel spectacle—a Roman holiday, in other words, to boost the "National" exhibition. We would not permit horses or dogs to be put through such tortures. Men, being free-will agents, of course, have only themselves to blame. Nevertheless, there are times even men have to be discouraged from making victims of cruel contests of themselves. We are not advocating a law against the swim. We do suggest, however that the exhibition people in Toronto ponder the implications in this year's spectacle. Either that, or see that the temperature in the lake is really reasonable—Ottawa Citizen.

LIBERAL PARTY FIXES POLICY

Far-reaching Farm Aid Moves Promised In Official Platform

Regina, Sask., Sept. 8 (CP)—Substantial assistance for debt-ridden and weather harrassed farmers is a prominent plank in the platform on which Saskatchewan's declivonal Liberals plan to seek a return to power. Resolutions passed at the annual convention, and just learned of official form, include resolutions for land-insure and weather-crop insurance which are far-reaching in scope.

If and when the Liberals who ruled Saskatchewan until their overthrow at the polls in 1929, are once back into control of the province's government, they promise to "make a complete survey of the relations prevailing between the creditor and debtor with a view to readjusting indebtedness both with regard to principal and interest in such a manner as to assure the debtor farmers the opportunity to meet their indebtedness."

In view of the serious crop situation in Saskatchewan and the low prtes for grain, particular interest centres on the stand taken by the Liberal party which commands the largest group in the legislature. Attitude of the various political groups in the province are the focus of pronounced attention, although Premier J. T. M. Anderson, Conservative head of the co-operative government, has stated that no election will be held until 1933 at least.

Three steps must be taken while the proposed creditor-debtor survey is pending, according to the approved Liberal resolution. These are:

(1) To keep municipal and provincial taxes down to the minimum essential to provide those services which have the most direct bearing on and marketing the products of the farm;

(2) To secure for the farmers of Saskatchewan interest rates as low as those which can be obtained in eastern Canada; and

(3) To set up and perpetuate an organization which understands agricultural needs and possibilities and has the confidence of the creditors as well as the debtors and which shall be given the power to arrange final equitable adjustments under which their financial difficulties can be met without dispossessing the present owner.

Powers accorded the debt commissioner under the Debt Adjustment Act in Saskatchewan are not wide enough, according to opinions expressed at the convention of Liberals. The approved resolution would extend his influence as far as to give the commissioner or commissioners power to make final equitable adjustments as between debtor and creditor.

Actuaries and statisticians of a number of insurance companies are understood to be giving serious consideration to another resolution regarding crop insurance, passed by the convention. The Liberal party, which confirmed James G. Gardiner as leader at its summer meet, is believed to be prepared to make a crop insurance plan a government affair, if returned to power.

The official resolution on the matter stated: "The Liberal party pledges itself and soon as it is returned to power, to appoint a special committee to fully investigate the feasibility of a system of crop or weather insurance applicable to the needs of the farming industry of this province, which will look toward reimbursing our farmers for the cost of producing their yearly output."

Embarrassing Moments

PICNIC AFTERNOON

by N. Florence Leech

"MAY I see you tomorrow?" Henry Dinsville asked, as he helped Wilma Alsop out of his car before her door in front of her home.

"I'll be busy," she answered promptly. "Mother is making me a dress and I've got to help her."

"You'll sit on the porch for a while after supper, won't you?" he insisted, stubbornly.

"No, Henry; and you needn't come around." Her gray eyes were angry and her mouth was set.

"All right, then, I won't," Henry agreed hastily. "See you Wednesday."

He tried to kiss her, but she duck ed expertly and the door shut in his face with an impertinent bang. Then it opened an inch. "Good night," she whispered.

Henry sighed heavily as he turned the roadster homeward. For five years he had been courting plump, saucy Wilma, and hated the day he accepted lover he had become a habit. Most of the time with her was spent in taking her places and bringing her back, for when he asked permission to spend an evening at home in her company she was invariably "busy".

It wasn't that she flirted with other boys; she just didn't want to get married. She was unwilling to exchange the carefree life of star boarder at her mother's home for the role of housemaker in a bungalow with him. Ergo, she didn't love him. A sharp pain stabbed his heart at the revealing thought.

"Hi, you Henry!" Henry returned to sanity with a start. He was home and his brother Ed was calling him from the porch of the house next door. He went over obediently to see what was wanted.

A slender, dark-eyed girl laughed up at him from the top step.

"This is my big brother Henry," Ed introduced them. "Miss Marjorie Trigg. She's Mrs. Pritz's niece. Hen, and she bet me a banana split against a stick of gum that she can bake better ginger cookies that mother can."

"I'll be the judge," Henry answered, promptly.

Marjorie's clear laugh rang out. "The cookies will be ready to sample at eight o'clock tomorrow morning," she stated. "No I really must go in before Aunt Alice calls me."

Henry slept fitfully that night, and awakened early from a beautiful dream in which Wilma was baking biscuits for him. He grinned sourly as he remembered it, for well he knew that Wilma hated housework and cooking.

When he went down stairs, he distinctly smelled the delightful odor of baking ginger cookies wafted from the kitchen next door; and without his visitfhon his feet carried him across the narrow yard to Mrs. Pritz's back porch. As he approached, Marjorie came out, bearing a plate of crispy, crunchy brown cakes.

"Try one, Judge," she challenged merrily.

"Golly! What a cook!" he cried. He reached for another brown disc, then speculatively eyed the girl. "What else can you do this wellin' he inquired, bluntly.

"I can bake a cherry pie, Henry boy," she replied, and they laughed together.

That evening, contrary to orders, Henry went to Wilma's and found her rocking leisurely in the porch swing.

"I had to see you," he began, before she could protest against his coming, "important."

"It must be," she answered, coolly.

"There's another purchaser for that bungalow we want," he continued, desperately. It wasn't at all what he had planned to say, but was as good a beginning as any.

"We want! You want, you mean," Henry was suddenly at the end of his endurance. "Wilma," he cried, tensely, "I can't wait longer. Won't you marry me soon?"

Her cheeks flamed an angry red. "No, Henry, I won't," she answered.

Two hours later he returned home, feeling baffled, saddened but also resentful. "I don't love you and I won't marry you," she had repeated and at last he believed her; and now he saw long, gray years stretching before him, cold and lonely.

To fill in the empty hours former ly devoted to Wilma, he began going about with Marjorie; and for ten days they enjoyed rides, shows, and neighborly chats. On Saturday, however, she refused to go on a picnic with him and Ed's sweetheart, Eve.

"Its' time you made up your quarrel with Wilma," she objected. "You're engaged, aren't you?"

"No," he answered, stoutly, and realized with surprise as he spoke that his heart was filled with anger instead of pain. "For five years I was engaged to her, but she has never been engaged to me; and now we are both free."

Her dark eyes met his, and some message which he could not quite read sent a sudden thrill through him.

"Let's go on the picnic, then," she agreed, "and I'll make a cherry pie."

That memorable picnic afternoon. Henry and Marjorie sat in the front seat of Ed's car and Henry drove, as if by accident, through Maymont Lane.

"Let's stop here a minute," he suggested, when they reached a small, new bungalow.

"Oh, what a precious house," Marjorie cried, as they went up the walk. Henry was unlocking the door. "This is the living room," he explained, with a proud wave of his hand. Then he led she way to the breakfast nook, talking volubly.

"I've already got furniture bought for some of the rooms," he boasted.

"Ed and I are buying a lot on the next block." Eve admitted, half shyly. Marjorie hugged her impulsively, then her eyes met Henry's, and she flushed. "That's a darling built-in cupboard," she cried, hastily.

"I'm going to move in in September, but the place will be lonesome just for me," Henry stated, slowly.

They trailed back to the car, suddenly satisfied; but Ed and Eve were soon gay again. Henry's eyes were bright, his color high. He drove automatically to the picnic grove, his tongue carried on a conversation; but he felt strangely elated and purposeful, moved by some unknown power; or was it the real Henry asserting himself at last? Marjorie was so beautiful, so responsive, so completely in accord with all he desired now in life.

Eve and Ed were absorbed in each other. He and Marjorie were to all intents and purposes alone.

"Would you be happy living in a little bungalow and doing your own work?" he hazarded, breathlessly.

"If I were working for the man I loved," she answered, with a little blush.

He leaned toward her impetuously, took her hands in his. "Marjorie, will you—will you—elope with me to Washington—now—this afternoon? We can take Ed and Eve, and we'll be married tonight."

"Why, I'll be glad to," she replied.

His arms went around her, drew her close. "Then, dearest, I'll stop waiting five years, will you?" he pleaded.

For a long moment she was silent. then she laughed softly, and pushed him away gently. "Let's tell Eve and Ed first. We better be starting at once."

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 25 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

After the first outburst of grief. Tarzan controlled himself and questioned the tribe concerning the killing of Kala. They told him of a stranger hairless black ape with feathers on its head, who launched death from a slender branch—then fled with the fleetness of Sabor the deer toward the setting sun.

It was enough. Tarzan sped rapidly to intercept the black warrior. He took his knife and rope. He struck the trail and in the mud he found footprints such as his own—but larger. His heart beat fast! Could it be that he was trailing a MAN? One of his own race?

Soon he came upon the black warrior. Tarzan looked with wonder. Horta, the boar, was charging and Kulonga shot a little poisoned arrow. Horta staggered and lay still. Kulonga cut several long pieces from the boar's body, built a fire, and ate as much as he wanted, leaving the rest.

Tarzan was an interested spectator. He decided to follow further this savage creature, killing him at his leisure. When Kulonga departed, Tarzan of the Apes dropped and severed several pieces—but didn't cook them. He knew not the use of fire. So he gobbled down a lot of the raw flesh.

And then Tarzan, Lord Greystoke, wiped his greasy fingers upon his naked thighs and took up the trail of Kulonga. In far-off London another Lord Greystoke—Tarzan's uncle—went back his chops to the Club's chef, because they were underdone, and when he finished dried his hand on snowy damask.

NEW PACKING PLANT READY AT SASKATOON

Saskatoon, Sask., Sept. 8 (CP)—The new packing plant of the Saskatchewan Livestock pool, fully equipped for completion, and it will begin handling cattle and hogs on September 15. The plant is a move toward developing an extensive livestock business direct from producer to consumer.

Livestock men see in the new plant an added stimulus to a rapidly growing business. Figures available to August 20 show that 3,794 cattle were sold through the Saskatoon stock yards this year, as compared with 4,822 last year. Hogs increased from 39,842 last year to 50,675 for the last report this year. Calves and sheep also increased. The stockyards here are serving constantly an largeing territory as Northern farmers become aware of the advantages of the shorter haul to Saskatoon than to other centres. Location of the total stock sold here a considerable proportion of the stock sold at Toronto and Montreal, the shipments reaching 85 per cent of the total sales in some days.

Veteran livestock men have expressed the opinion that if the livestock pool is successful, it will form an armature for a county 2 would sell to the English Co-operative Wholesale organization. Another remarkable stimulus to the livestock trade have been the prices obtained for the products of the plant now under construction. Such an agreement is believed pending.

MURRAY CANAL TRAFFIC GOOD

More Boats Made Use of Canal This Season

Mr. Duncan Robertson, bridgekeeper on the Murray Canal at the Twelve O'Clock Point bridge, attributes the remarkably much shipping had passed up and down the canal this year than the previous year of 1930. The first traffic through this canal commenced on April 28th, and up until the present time six hundred and ninety boats have passed through, some have gone up and down. The season comes to a close either during the latter part of the month of November or the early part of December depending on the nature of the weather. There are still more than three months to go before the season closes and Mr. Robertson expects the traffic to far exceed that of 1930 before the bridges are closed.

CROP ROTATION AND FERTILIZER DOUBLE ALBERTA YIELDS

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 8 (CP)—Proper rotation and use of commercial fertilizers may double the yields of seven clovers, Alsike, Canada peas and other legumes in Alberta, according to Dr. W. A. Wilson, professor of soils at the University of Alberta. He has experimented with different fertilizers for several seasons and finds Alsike, Alberta grown soil bells can produce seeds of these legumes to the value of several times the cost of the land.

He said that the fertilizers used in his experiments cost about $12.50 an acre, producing practically double yields. His operations took place on a farm near Breten, Alta., farmers being struck by the stands in his tests contrasted with plots nearby which showed little. He has over a number of years of experience had doubted the feasibility of growing legumes in the grey-soil belts.

Big yields, he said, were obtained by the application of phosphate, as much as 11.3 tons more of dry sweet clover hay per acre resulted. Even local lime or marl from beds within ten miles had produced very excellent results, he said. "By the application of fertilizers on these grey soils of the wooded areas of Alberta, alsike clover, red clover, Canada field peas and even sweet alfalfa may be quite successfully grown," Dr. Wilson declared.

Experimental plots, he continued, produced 3 1-2 tons per acre of red clover, 1 3-4 tons of alsike, two of alfalfa, or approximately three tons of sweet clover, per cutting. Furthermore, he added, when two or three types of legumes have been plowed down, these grey soils will give bumper yields.

He strongly recommends sweet clover for soil treatment although some of the other legumes provided a better quality of feed.

SURFACE GOLD STRIKE

Kirkland Lake, Ont., Sept. 8 (By The Canadian Press)—A surface gold strike in Lee Township made recently by F. P. Collins has aroused considerable interest locally. Visible gold in quartz veins, with fine gold scattered through the ore was found by Collins, he said on his return here. The find was made near Rourke on the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway and three miles from the Ferguson High way.

TIRED AFTER 10 HOURS SLEEP

After Lunch Would Sleep 3 Hours

NOW SHE HAS "THAT KRUSCHEN FEELING"

Everyone knows the meaning of the famous phrase: "I feel like a million dollars." Well, here is a typical instance of the extreme reverse of that condition. This woman had a perpetual tired feeling. See how it affected her appetite: "I am 56 years old, and the mother of two small sons. So my life is a very busy one. Ever since I was younger, I have always suffered with a feeling of tiredness, and never felt ready to get up in the morning, even after 10 hours solid sleep. I have often felt so tired after lunch, that I have slept for 3 and 4 hours, rather than to do the work in the evening. I took Kruschen Salts for a fortnight, and had the tired feeling completely. I feel fresh and wide awake, and I have never felt better in my life."—Mrs. R. M. W.

Millions of men and women all over the world take Kruschen Salts daily—not because they are really sick, mind you but because they want to keep fit. One daily dose of Kruschen keeps them always fit and energetic, and also keeps the system from poisonous matter caused by irregular or insufficient elimination.

People who take Kruschen Salts every morning in their tea, coffee, milk, and are always free from constipation, depression, dizziness and coated tongue and complexion troubles. They have no poisons in their system because the action of Kruschen Salts on the liver, kidneys and bowels causes perfect and regular elimination. If you want joyous health and sparkling eyes, a clear skin and aides in the morning fit and refreshed—if you want to be full of "pep" and vigor and overwork—try taking Kruschen Salts every day. A bottle costs but a few cents and their daily labours, thanks to the "little daily dose" of Kruschen. Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

JUDITH, PREFERRED

By Lena Gary Clark

As Judith Atkins stepped into the elevator which was to carry her to the Mutual Trust Co. office building she was terribly agitated. Perhaps an age hence she could enter the brokerage office of Fleming & Bates, calm and composed in spite of her thirty-seven years she looked exactly like a little girl, in her yellow dress and sweet, fluffy hat.

Judith was conscious of Mr. Fleming's direct gaze upon her. That look from his dark eyes always contained a hint. It was as if her troubles were exactly halved.

"What is it this morning, Miss Atkins?" Mr. Fleming's pleasantly modulated voice always caused her to tingle. "Has Lois been speeding again?"

"No.... It's worse this time. She's in love. She told me so. With that young Neal person."

"Fine! He's a great chap."

Whenever, on extremely rare occasions, Mr. Fleming quibbled his brows and looked under them sharply brows as he was doing now, Judith felt as if she had uttered a very foolish remark.

She sat up primly. "I'm afraid you don't understand. She might even elope any time. She's always said she would. She wants to be free, in broad daylight, to Lois."

Again that quizzical look from Mr. Fleming. "Well?"

"Oh, Mr. Fleming, you've got to help me. You've just got to help me break this up."

His rather busy business muddling in love affairs." He smiled down upon her.

"I'm thinking of her own good, child. Lois is a man's man, a mate of experience, someone who can check her impulsiveness, who can guide her. You know the kind of man I mean, don't you?"

Mr. Fleming gazed contemplative ly at the brass paper knife he pics up and put down. Judith felt the most intense desire to stroke his graying hair.

"Yes, I think I do know the kind of man you mean. But Lois is eighteen and ajle to decide for her self. Do you think she is interested in any particular all-around man?"

Judith Atkins nodded with reluctant affection of those lately enacted scene with her niece.

"You ought to treat Mr. Fleming with more respect, Lois," she admonished.

"Please don't expect me to pull any of that stuff," the girl had said airily. "I'm interested in a pair of much younger eyes than Mr. Fleming's, thanks all the same."

Judith glanced away to the mantel clock and back.

"Well, yes. I think if this man wouldn't consider himself so old—"

The ringing of the telephone cut her short.

"For me," said Mr. Fleming and he handed Judith the receiver, now lying away, with his back to her.

When Judith hung up the receiver her face was deathly white.

"What is it?" demanded Mr. Fleming, wheeling toward her.

"It's—Lois. Mimi says Lois has taken their car—alone—and gone off with Ted DuVal. It means—they're eloping."

Judith choken over the last word. It was all she could do to keep from crying. Mr. Fleming's big hand on Judith's shoulder, which had gotten so cold.

"We've got to stop them, can't you see? Don't you understand?"

Mr. Fleming jerked out his watch consulted it hurriedly, then replaced it. A new look came into his face which Judith could not read. He snatched up his hat and together they hurried out of the office.

On the Ashland Highland in the brilliant June sunshine Mr. Fleming shot his car forward at fifty miles. For fifteen years Lois' guardian had never failed Judith in anything. They were bound to overtake the couple with the speed. "Don't worry, Miss Judith," he thought, confidently. Gradually a familiar low-swung yellow car took on shape in front of them.

"There, look!" exclaimed Judith, excitedly. She clutched her companion's arm. "Faster! We can do it. Don't you could do it, Fred."

"You sound like a loyal grandstand fan cheering on the favorite runner," said Mr. Fleming, smiling at Judith's excitement.

Then horror struck Judith's soul. Lois turned her head and appeared to do an abrupt stop. Mr. Fleming wondered aloud what was the matter while Judith watched, sickeningly, the yellow car fade into a speck, then into dust.

She swung her hands. "What is the matter? Can't you do something?"

"I'm afraid we've run out of gas. I forgot to put some when we started."

Mr. Fleming looked at her in the queerest way.

Judith sank down on the running board, staring ahead. Scalding tears rolled down her cheeks.

Mr. Fleming came and stood in front of her. "Please don't! Don't do her heart," he heard. Judith could not speak.

"It's a confession I've got to make to you, Miss Atkins. 'Think young DuVal, as you know, works in my office. He's a nice chap, has all qualities one may say and like. I've given him two raises in the last year he has been with us. Last week when he told me he wanted to marry Lois I gave him a two weeks' vacation and—other reasons. In fact, they are eloping with my knowledge and at my suggestion."

Judith's chin fell crushed. She raised up at the man as if she were seeing him for the first time. "Then you were conspiring with Ted and Lois?" she asked with dignity.

Mr. Fleming sat down suddenly beside her and took one of her hands which he refused to release.

"You must forgive me while I say something to you. Ever since I've appointed guardian over Lois' affairs you've planned to marry her to me, haven't you? You've acted quite openly toward men. You see Lois has talked with me about Ted DuVal. She thinks of Lois marrying a forty-two year old man."

Judith made an effort to break in.

"I'm not through. Ever since the first time you came to my office and with Lois in your lap, gray eyes asked me what to do for the sick Atkins puppy I've loved you, have lived for your visits to the office and for the first time since Lois would marry, so you could get the notion of her marrying me out of your pretty head. I can't remember the time I sent orchids to any one and you insisted them to have been a mistake, that they were intended for Lois? Well, Lois wore them but I never sent you others. I knew it was foolish for me to love you, understand that I loved you until I got Lois safely married."

Judith, her world topsy-turvy at Mr. Fleming's words, sat in the middle of the road. How stupid she had been all along. She now realized with devastating certainty exactly how Fred Fleming had lifted her heart and controlled her life. And she had tried to marry him to somebody else!

She did not realize her anger until the urgent handling of a passing car sent her into the walling arms of Mr. Fleming.

"Will you marry me, Judith?"

"I must—tll—think," she replied, feebly tried to straighten her hair.

"No. Say it now."

His lips were close to her ear,

URGES JOINT CONTROL OVER TWO RAILWAYS

Chairman of Executive Chamber of Commerce Makes Plea

DUTIES OF CAPITAL

Not Only Risk-Bearer, Jobless Insurance Within Industry Proposed

Regina, Sept. 8.—"If the Canadian National Railways was anything but a Government enterprise it would long ago have been subjected to the process of liquidation," declared George C. McDonald, of Montreal, chairman of the executive of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, addressing the annual convention of the Board of Trade here Monday evening.

The most important problem facing Canada today, Mr. McDonald said, was railways. He reviewed Canadian National Railways operations for the last seven years and said: "May I just refer to the position of the Canadian Pacific Railway? Under the efforts of its competitors from an organization that is getting the best possible results. Always that something must be done, and that something must be done, and done quickly.

"The situation is that we have two organizations nearly always duplicating the work of each other with terrific equipment and overhead, where there is work only for one. It seems that something could be done by way of co-operation or consolidation by some controlling body which would see that waste could be eliminated and enormous saving effected to the great benefit of all parties concerned.

"Railways are the most important business problem facing Canada today," Mr. McDonald said.

He also referred to the Canadian business challenge," the formation recently of the North American Board of Trade referred to the United States. Canada, he said, was caused, he said, by the fact that the productive capacity of North America was stimulated to the extent of being able to meet the requirements of almost one-half the world during the war years. The "boom" had extended much beyond the actual period of the war. Two factors worked together to bring the boom to an end, the decrease in buying power of other nations or the restricting of their credit and the fact that the nations that had been engaged in the war began to supply their own needs.

Financial Depression

The world today was facing a serious financial depression, he said, existed at any time for at least a generation. Behind it all the world debt is shifting very heavily on some shoulders. It seemed however, Mr. McDonald said, that there existed a capacity to produce wealth per capita in the world greater than at any previous stage in history. If therefore, the machinery of distribution could not be set going normally there would appear to be no reason why prosperous times should not come back within a quite reasonable time.

Canvas plants, which, have spread to many parts of the world were originally natives of America.

The plant, Mr. Aldrich said, is 400,000,000 miles in diameter.

now close to her mouth, and it was very surprising how terribly sweet —his nearness.

"You see, Judith, dear, it always been Judith, Preferred, with me."

"I hope," said Judith softly, as a beaming and blinded driver with dug, "I'll never go below par."

Later as the car purred along speedily on its way back, the occupants were oblivious of the fact they were supposed to be out of gas.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

MRS THOMAS JOHNSTON

The death occurred on Sunday evening, September 6th, of Mrs. Johnston, widow of Thomas Johnston, former registrar of deeds for the County of Hastings after an illness of several months. Mrs. Johnston was formerly Miss Elizabeth McGowan and was the last surviving daughter of the late Adam McGowan, first town clerk and well known manufacturer. She spent the greater part of her life at Trenton but for some years lived in Belleville on Catherine Street while her husband occupied the office of registrar, and until his death when she returned to Trenton.

She was a member of the United Church and was well known throughout the county. She is survived by one daughter Mrs. Hilliard Murphy of Guelph and also by two brothers John F. and Fred McGowan of Trenton.

The funeral took place this Thursday afternoon to Tweed Cemetery.

LATE EMILY MARSKELL

The funeral of the late Mrs. Emily Marskell was held yesterday afternoon from the Tickell and Browne Funeral Home. Rev. Becker of the Herchimer Avenue Mission conducted the services.

The funeral was very largely attended by the many friends of the deceased and the many beautiful floral tributes only went to show the high esteem in which Mrs. Marskell was held in this community.

The bearers were W. E. Jones, Jas. Carrison, R. Black, Geo. Johnson and Thos. Logan. Interment was made in Belleville Cemetery.

LATE HERBERT C. SMITH (Corrected)

There passed away on Monday, Aug. 31st, in Trenton, one of this community's most known and respected citizens, Mr. Herbert C. Smith, son of the late Alfred and Mrs. Charles. C. Smith, of Frankford. The deceased was in his 48th year and died from a stroke which had stricken him on Sunday afternoon. He was born in Huntingdon, where he spent his young life. Before moving to Trenton two years ago he spent the remainder of his life in Frankford and Tweed. He was an outstanding church worker and was held in high esteem by all who knew him.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon from his late residence, King street, to King Street United Church, Trenton. Rev. M. Jones, pastor of the church, was in charge. Rev. J. W. Bullock, former pastor in Frankford, assisted in the service. Many beautiful words of comfort, thought and sentiments of the community and other speakers gave to many good works on behalf of the church and among his fellow workers and his private life. In the closing remarks both ministers spoke that "he was a man whom it was a delight to know."

From the church the body was conveyed to its last resting place in the Trenton Cemetery.

Left to mourn are his wife and three children, in Ella Marguerite Zella, two sons, Alvin and Stella and his two sisters, Mrs. Jessie Hunter and Mrs. Annie Rose, both of Belleville.

The bearers were, Messrs. George E. Sine, Marshal Smith, Frankford; Elwood Sine, Trenton; Harry Clegg, Goldie Fitzgibbon, George Wright, Trenton. Many beautiful floral tributes testified to the deep sympathy and esteem in which the deceased was held by friends and acquaintances extend a most heartfelt sympathy.

Many beautiful flowers testify to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Herbert Weldon Prindle, a resident of Moira, Ont, for some years took place on Thursday at his late residence in the fifth concession of Thurlow with Rev. Mr. Allen officiating. He had reached 62 years ago being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Prindle. As a young man he took up farming as a life work and successfully operated a farm for some years until illness forced his retirement. He was a devout member of the church and active in all branches of the work, being a member of the choir of the church. Fraternally he was a member of Roslin Lodge I.O.O.F. He leaves to mourn his loss, a widow, one daughter Miss Edna at home, three sons, Fred of Plainfield, Everett of Foxboro, and Vernal at home, also one brother Silas of Tweed.

Chilean Rebels' Fate Hangs in Balance

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 8—(AP)—The fate of the rebel sailors and soldiers who controlled Chile's fighting fleet and naval bases for a week hung in the balance today as the Government initiated an intensive investigation into their guilt.

More than 3,700 men and petty officers, assigned to the flagship La Tores, the cruiser Higgins, seven destroyers and five submarines were involved in the mutiny at Coquimbo. Other hundreds of troops figured in the seizure of the bases at Talcahuano and Valparaiso. A considerable number of commanders were alleged to have provided the torch of inspiration.

The last of the Coquimbo fleet surrendered yesterday after being beaten into submission by an aerial bombardment.

Gold coinage was used by the natives of Britain before the coming of the Romans in the first century, B.C.

The secret of keeping fresh

She dances as if she enjoys it. She radiates vitality. Nothing seems to tire her. The great secret of feeling fresh is to keep the mouth fresh.

The cool flavor of WRIGLEY'S Chewing Gum refreshes the mouth. It removes all trace of eating or smoking and sweetens the breath.

WRIGLEY'S aids digestion and helps to keep the teeth clean. It is recommended by doctors and dentists.

'MAD SISTER,' DRAMA AT THE CAPITOL TODAY

Scott Tarkington, a master of human psychology, again gives us an example of his consummate understanding of the good 'and evil of mankind in "The Strange Woman," directed at the Capitol theatre.

"Mad Sister," a drama of a girl who wanted everything, comes to the Capitol on Thursday.

Tonight's performances will, no doubt, be largely attended by

Comedy on distinguished merit, Stevie, Essie Pitts and Slim Summerville are responsible for the delectable cast, Miss Fox and Miss Pitts assisted by old stagers new comers to the screen. These two by the sisters, one of whom is dead, and the audience will have the opportunity of deciding as to which the good sister and which the bad Sister."

The part of the mischievous father is taken by David Durand, youngster adept at making parts to cuff, and as quickly would carry love to the fore in the first scenes of what a young brother would be, and his antics are relished in those of Bert Roach, a comedian of wide experience. Bert will be always a favorite with the public, and who is also included in the cast.

"Mad Sister" will be found extremely entertaining.

The programme will also include several "shorts" headed by "Happy Your Mandolin," a special art. ernment. Never dries the skin. Never makes complexion look pasty, but always youthful. Try MELLO-OLO. "Sold through all Druggists and at Toilet Goods Counters," Dolan The Druggist. Phone 126. 256 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Mr. Winfield Sheehan, vice-president and general manager in charge of production of Fox Films, caught the sparkle of greatness in that performance. Against precedent and against advice, he chose her for the lead in "Frl Reavis." Many wise heads said it was dangerous. A world-wide public unanimously reversed their decision, and accounts Winfield Sheehan's vision.

Success has left Miss Dayton unspoiled. Her great popularity has not made her a show-off. Intelligence and hard work—as well as intelligent talent—have contributed to her achievement. She proves that getting into pictures may be an accident, but staying in is not.

Adapted from the famous play by Israel Zangwill, the picture presents both Miss Gaynor and Farrell in the finest vivid roles of their careers. Henry King directed this Fox romance, with Beryl Mercer and J. M. Kerrigan lending the supporting cast.

Skin Like Velvet with New Powder

No more ugly shine when you use MELLO-OLO Face Powder. New French process makes it stay on longer and prevents large pores. Smoothest, finest, purest powder known—its coloring makes it so. Never makes complexion look pasty, but always youthful. Try MELLO-OLO. "Sold through all Druggists and at Toilet Goods Counters," Dolan The Druggist. Phone 126. 256 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

MARY CATCHES 175 LB. FISH

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 8. — Mary Pickford needn't listen in awe any longer to the fish stories of her energetic husband, Douglas Fairbanks. Cruising with a party of friends off Santa Monica, Sunday, Miss Pickford caught a 175-pound Marlin Swordfish and a 175-pound Hammerhead Shark.

Fairbanks lent assistance in both the catches, playing the swordfish half an hour.

PAIR FLYING OVER PACIFIC

Greatest of Ocean Flights Begun From Tokio

Tokyo, Sept. 8.—Trying to fly non-stop from Japan to Seattle in a plane which had failed either once or twice in similar attempts, Don Moyle, motorcycle salesman, 26, and C. A. Allen, former purveyor of washing machines, presumably over the Pacific today.

They took off from Kasumigaura Beach, 375 miles north of here, at 5.30 a.m. today (3.30 p.m. E.S.T.). Monday with 1,200 gallons of gasoline, one of the heaviest fuel loads ever lifted by a single motored plane, and began what is perhaps the most hazardous of all ocean flight undertakings.

Jail Term Deferred

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 8.—A deferred 30-day jail sentence awaited its return here of Mrs. Moyle, who with C. A. Allen was enroute today from Tokio in a flight to Seattle.

Moyle pleaded guilty in Superior Court here July 15 to a charge of driving while intoxicated and was sentenced to a month in jail, with three months probation. Judge Thomas G. Kenney, attorney, asked for delay in the jail term as he had gone to considerable expense to arrange for Moyle's flight. Judge Shy Kenney accordingly agreed to make the term for the month of October.

JEWISH NEW YEAR ON SEPTEMBER 11

On Friday, September 11, at sunset, will commence the Jewish New Year, Rosh Hashannah which continues to sun on Saturday, and will be observed throughout the world by the Jews, Orthodox Jews keeping the second day as well. The day is one of devotion and solemn prayer and days of repentance lasting 10 days. In this period, which includes the Atonement Day, culminating the holiday reaches its climax on the Day of Atonement, the Day of Judgment, which starts on Sunday evening, September 20.

The fountain for the observance for Rosh Hashannah reaches back to Biblical days. Through the ages the Jewish mind has delved deeply and has gathered about itself one of the loftiest moral and religious concepts of the world. Rosh Hashannah the Jew attempts to get close to God, to the throne of his place in the order of things.

It is a knowledge and gratitude of God and looks upon Him as the source of his being. While devotes-ing to himself his own weaknesses and sins. The Jew attempts on this day to purge himself and begin anew with firm resolve to fol low Him, ordered. Rosh Hashannah is a traditional day for the thanksgiving of greetings and good wishes.

CAR AFTER ACCIDENT STRIKES TWO FENCES

A collision occurred between two cars on the Old Highway near Point Anne Monday afternoon about three o'clock, when Mrs. Lewis Hart, Queen Street East, Toronto, driving a Buick car, in an effort to pass a car driven by George Kellar of Consecon, Ontario, driven by Mrs. Kellar car, is alleged, to have continued on its way for 62 feet, crossed a ditch, knocked down two fences and finally landed nose down in a pit. Fortunately no one was injured. Although both cars were badly damaged, the drivers of them themselves patched up the cars and were able to proceed further on their own power. Constable Byres of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated.

Japanese Cabinet Considers Execution

Tokyo, Sept. 8.—The Japanese Cabinet in its regular meeting today, considered the shooting of Kanichi Akiyama, Korean Reformist, as a spy, by Chinese troops in Manchuria a month ago.

Minister of War Minami, who a few days ago recommended that the Government take a firm hand in dealing with the Manchurian Government, left the matter, it is understood to have detailed the Cabinet meeting.

Various circles have reported the arrest of Akiyama was for espionage what is considered the insincerity of the Mukden regime. Manchuria is expected for time to complete an investigation.

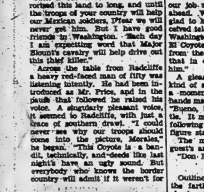
THE GAY BANDIT OF THE BORDER

by
TOM GILL

For a moment Morales regarded the silent group before him suspiciously. Then again his thin lips moved.

"I've talked long enough to this rider, offered to guide the soldiers to where El Coyote's camp lay. By chance or treachery the soldiers had already learned of their coming and fled. The soldiers left nothing but a few abandoned horses, some blankets and rotting food supplies. But they had learned something of the bandit's habits. Things that may be of interest in any case Lopez had earned his reward.

"Yesterday Ruiz must have been racing a not to Lopez. A folded paper arrow stronger had given him in the road, and the paper said in Spanish that before the full moon died Lopez himself would be.



The Spaniard ceased and played idly with a fly remains that lay before him. "Last night, under cover of darkness, Lopez came to my hacienda. He was leaving, he told me. He trembled. Then, how fright ened he was! There could be no mistake in his all the gobbers land. I gave him his freedom. I peeps in American gold." Again the Spaniard stopped, as if amid in reverie.

"Well," aired the major at last. "What happened?"

"Nothing very important. Before dawn that Lopez is found in the Verdi road a bullet through his throat, and the bag of gold cut open. A few coins lay scattered over the man, up if in contempt. A pesture, no?"

He turned toward Radcliffe. "Such is our bandit. He has terrorized this land to long, and until the troops of your country help Morales and the Mexican soldiers, Pizar we will never get him. But I have good friends in Washington. Each day I am expecting word that Major Blount's cavalry will help drive out this thief likes."

Across the table from Radcliffe a heavy red-faced man of fifty was listening intently. He had been introduced as Mr. Price, and in the mouth that followed he raised his voice. A sloughishly pleasant voice, it seemed to Radcliffe, with just a trace of a southern drawl. "I could never see why our troops should come into the picture, Morales," he began. "This Coyote is a bandit, technically, and deeds like last night's have an ugly sound. But everybody who knows the border country will admit if it weren't for

And Now He's His Mother's Pride and Joy

"CHEFIL never raise him!" whispered the neighbors behind their hands, and indeed it looked like it, for Baby Jim was a shy one and didn't thrive on his bottle.

Then his' Mother tried Eagle Brand, and to everyone's surprise almost Baby Jim ceased fretting and began to gain steadily. Grandfather now lays claim to his wonderful disposition—but his mother smiles quietly and remembers Eagle Brand.

Eagle Brand nursed countless thousands of infants to maturity over a period of 74 years. Experience has proved that it is a reliable, safe, and extremely satisfactory food where the mother is unable to nurse her own baby. Write for Baby Welfare and Record Book.

El Coyote the little rancher about the sheep ranches was beginning to click and clean by you big fellows from across the border with the whole border world. As it is this bandit, if you want to call him that, has only a little activity for the boys. Personally, I don't give a tinkle if he runs off or six other, but running him down will add a little variety to life."

"That's no proof reason," objected the doctor.

Don Bob smiled. "It's the best of reasons, Pete. Man hunting has always been a good sport. Besides we all believe that our mysterious friend is an American, and why shouldn't Americans have the fun of killing him?"

"Will they catch him?" asked Adela.

"That's so far," Dr. Price considered a moment. "They may catch him any day, but in my case I think it means the end of El Coyote."

"How?" Several voices asked in unison.

"Well it makes the odds against him too strong. The Mexican soldiers aren't really dangerous, but after all they sympathize with him, for after all they are peons, and it is but natural that Coyote has always befriended. But for our soldiers the case is different. Each day that goes will give tongue like a pack of hounds."

"Of course we'll get him," added the major confidently. "So far as the merits of your argument go, I haven't an opinion in the world. El Coyote may be a noble protector of the poor or just a plain cattle thief. All I know is I've under orders to run down a bandit gang, and, believe me, I welcome any chance that will aid my success."

"Have you heard of last night's murders, Bob?" asked the doctor.

"No."

In a peon gave information on the bandit and collected Morale's thousand dollars. That same night he was killed by a band of Mexican soldiers dead in the trail."

Don Bob paused thoughtfully. "That would happen, of course. Did the peon give any warning?"

Again Morales raised expressive hands. "That is most interesting, Don Roberto. Just a short mile east below where the road pitches down from the mesa. They surrounded Picture, my friends, that group, so close that he could look down down on one who the night before had guided them to the bandit camp. Then the cliff somehow laughed, and there they see set on his white horse El Coyote, watching them. As one man he raced again, that jester, he threw down a handful of the gold coins he had taken, and he was gone. It is not contempt for all of us he holds, the thief and cattle thief!"

"He seems to go in for melodrama and Belasco stuff," commented the major.

Price shook his head. "Not a bit of it. But he knows the effect of that sort of thing on both his enemies and friends. Lord, man, it seizes the imagination! Remember last Easter Sunday? You couldn't beat that could you?"

"What happened?" asked Radcliffe.

"Easter," Price exclaimed, "as one day when every Mexican goes to church, if he has to walk twenty miles to make it. That morning the little church over at Rio Dulce was jammed. All morning the bells had been ringing. Then just before services, a horse galloped up to the door and El Coyote, masked and spurred, stood in the doorway with his guns at his side. Five thousand pesos on his head, and there he stood alone! His walked slowly down the aisle and laid an offering of gold pesos before the little altar and as quietly walked out. Not a man moved. Not one raised hand! What a gesture that was, eh? Bravado and melodrama, if you want, but it meant that in every peon but along the border a secret prayer was raised that day for his safety, and Morales, as a sence Morales points out, the soldiers haven't half eager to find, and no one is willing to believe informations."

The major expanded his broad chest. "Well, legends and white men won't annoy my boys very deeply."

"No," agreed the doctor, testily. "They'll carry out their orders in the brave and blundering manner of all good soldiers."

"You couldn't speak with deeper feel if you were married to one," observed Aunt Clara, and let her guests to the drawing-room.

But as the ranker passed through the hall, Don Bob's hand closed on the old soldier's arm. "I'd hasn't heard?" he salted in a low tone.

"It's a word."

The quiet gray eyes rested for a moment on the major's face. "I'll tell him tonight," he said briefly and lowly walked across the room to where Radcliffe's head nodded Adela Morale's chair." For a time the two talked together in the cheerful figure the sweep of the shoulders, the giant column of his neck and the rough handsomeness of his stepped forward and laid his hand lightly on the girl's shoulder.

"Rotten luck I had to be out of town," he said, and his voice sounded imperative. "Then this little girl came to my rescue, and Aunt Clara tells me you've been in trouble; he bored tonight."

"I've been treated like an old friend because everyone remembers dad. I was with Miss Morale when he called him. You'd rave lover him. He looked for confirmation at Don Bob.

"All women had a way of loving your father," he said extremely lovable."

Something in the man's voice made made Radcliffe look down at the erect figure beside him. A sudden flood of tenderness swept him. He remembered hearing of them and who had loved his mother once and who later, when she married his father, had disappeared into the West. He realized now who that man had been. Yet in second glance he could personally see that this man with graying hair had once loved his mother when young. So, for a queer, swift moment those two men looked at each other, each conscious that he held in his brain a knowledge that could bring him pain.

The girl broke the silence. "It's been long since you've come to the hacienda, Bob. Don't dare forget that I'm going to ride your Pinto of the Rains. And bring your tenderfoot giant."

Don Bob smiled and hurried across the room to help Aunt Clara with the bridge table.

"The man who invented these self collapsing tables was an enemy of society," Aunt Clara complained. She picked up the cards. "Now, Ted, if you can unravel that damned thing while I get the cards."

Lost in thought Radcliffe still stood beside the girl. She watched his calm, steady eyes following Don Bob. Then again she saw his eyes twitch. "I'll bet you're good with your feels will you take me riding?" he asked.

"Perhaps," the girl answered. "Yes, I'll take you riding on the cliffs—at least once." And she turned away.

A moment later Adela found herself at the table's of her hostess.

"Out here in the great open spaces we never gossip," Aunt Clara began, while the cards were being dealt. "But I was just wondering in my acrh fashion what must happen if two vey big and very spoiled young men of different nationalities should fall n love with the same girl. It might result, in some amazing fireworks."

Adela sighed. "You always think of the most interesting possibilities. But I wonder if your American giant could be in love with Bobby called love. Are we playing contract, dear, or auction."

"Contract. All except the major, and he's never been able to detect any difference. She smiled approvingly at her cards. "Two without."

For more than an hour the deal of cards and the deliberate bidding of the players was the only sounds. Twice on the path outside the slow, even tread of a sentry rose and died away. Then from out the silence horses' hoofs pounded on the hard gravel walk. They clattered sharply to a halt, and at a word of command spurs clanked on the porch steps just as the major opened the door. A Carvalry sergeant stood before him, and after a word the two stepped into the night. Inside the guests caught only a low rumble of the two men's voices, but all playing had ceased, and each one sat looking expectantly toward the door—all except Don Bob whose impassive face still regarded the cards before him.

At last the major entered, visibly the proud bearer of news. He took a long breath and his throat then turned and closed the door impressively just as Aunt Clara's warning voice broke the expectant silence

WOMEN'S MEETINGS

On Friday afternoon Sept. 4th, the monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the Bethel Church was held in the church hall. The President Mrs. Cook occupied the chair, opening the meeting with the hymn 'Come let us to the Lord our God,' followed with the reading of the Scripture lesson by Mrs. Gordon Smith and prayer by Mrs. Moore, after which Mrs. Gordonsmith gave a beautiful paper on the devotional theme "Course Gathering."

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted also reports received from the Treasurer, and Thankoffering secretaries. On the absence of Mrs. Cronk, Temperance Secretary, the lady on Temperance work was given by Mrs. Moore. A short business session followed.

The program was in charge of Mrs. H. Hill and her group, the subject being "Evangelistic Mission in India". Mrs. Hill read an interesting paper on "Evangelistic work in Central India". Miss Sylvia Tett then sang very sweetly "I come to the garden" Mrs. John Donaldson followed with an interesting reading on "Early Missionaries in Central India", Mrs. Tovell then gave a splendid paper on recent work in Central India. After a short business session the meeting closed with the hymn "Faith looks up to Thee", and the repeating of the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The ancient Romans valued the diamond entirely on account of its supposed supernatural virtues.

Suffered Stroke
Glad Now They Insisted upon My Taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic).
FEELS LIKE NEW.
"A few years ago," writes Mrs. W. J. Workman, South Mountain, Ontario, "I suffered a slight paralytic stroke and had me up for several months. It left me in a terribly run down condition. I was advised by a friend to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was discouraged, for I had little faith upon my trying them, which I did. I may say that I am not now sorry, for I feel like a new person."
The loss and other disorders in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills increase the number of haemoglobin in the blood. It is the haemoglobin which carries oxygen to the tissues—producing a sense of well-being.
Decide now to be well. Get a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any druggist and see if they don't give you your needed zeal toward health.
50 cents a package at any druggist. Be sure to say "Dr. Williams'." 122

279 AT PICTON COLLEGIATE

Three Year Commercial Course Added to Curriculum

Picton Sept. 8—There are 279 pupils registered at Picton Collegiate Institute this month, a new increase over last year.

The numbers stand as compared as follows:

Principal, A. J. Shaver, B.A., Classics.

Miss J. V. Bartram, B.A.—English and History.

Miss M. M. Gordon, B.A.—Art, Physical Culture.

Miss Dorothy Carter, B.A.—Assistant Commercial.

Glen H. Hoffman, B.A.—Commercial.

W. G. Williams, B.A.—Agriculture, 5th.

Miss M. C. McNab, B.A.—English History.

Miss H. G. Miller, M.A.—Mathematics.

Wm. Donaldson, B.A.—Science.

Miss L. Thibault, B.A.—Modern Languages.

The term, a three year course is being introduced in the Commercial Department and Miss Carter, formerly a P.S.I. graduate, was appointed as assistant. Commercial equipment is also now being installed up in the basement.

Evening classes are to be held from October to March.

Quite a number of Pictonians attended Belleville Fair and report a very large number of exhibits in fair shape. Thirty horses were entered for the races. On the Wednesday half holiday, many went to attend the ball game and which was the feature of the day's events.

Picton

Quite a number of suspects have been apprehended and their movements investigated since Friday night, when Miss Lydia Cotton, a respectable and elderly lady living alone, was "held down" and her basket, robbed and assaulted. Up to date no arrests have been made. Miss Couch has failed to identify any of those brought before her as the assailant. Police are having nothing undone to discover the man and no sentence would be too harsh to satisfy local people if found guilty of the suffering from shock, she being eighty years of age. It is reported that detectives are also working on the case.

Mail By Truck

All mail in and out of Picton now being handled by truck. Sid Wellbanks has the contract for that service between Picton and Trenton. An early morning trip is made to Trenton to get the morning papers and other mail. This arrives here about 8:45 a.m. The truck leaves shortly afterwards for Trenton with outgoing mail. In the evening, Smith's bus takes the letter mail to Belleville. Up until this week, the train took out part of the mail leaving about 12 o'clock, as well as bringing in a small amount. The mail service is now satisfactory to all concerned.

Fruitvale Busy

The canning factories are busy with corn which is not a large crop this year due to lack of rain, and the corn borer pest is not as bad this year, farmers state. Tomatoes are still being handled by numerous factories.

Mr. Donald Knight of Toronto, formerly of Picton, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Williams here, before going on to Kingston to resume his studies at the R.M.C. Dr. and Mrs. P. T. Knight of Toronto spent the week-end here.

Mr. D. C. O'Brien, former P.C.I. teacher, has returned to Wallaceville after visiting friends in town.

Miss Gwen Wannamaker, B.A., is teaching on the staff of Picton Collegiate Institute this term, and with her mother, Mrs. Zella Wannamaker, has taken up residence there.

Dr. A. C. Denille of Toronto has been holidaying in Prince Edward County.

Miss Pearl Smith is spending two weeks in Toronto.

Miss Madge Fleasy of Toronto is spending holidays with her parents Mr. and Mrs. A. Fleasy.

Rev. W. D and Mrs Harrison, Deseronto, who are on holidays, spent the week-end in Picton.

Miss Hazel Thompson, R.N., Belleville has been holidaying at her home in Bloomfield.

Sister Mary Marcy and Sister Mary Bonmann of Smith Falls Hospital are in Picton, collecting for the Home of Providence and the Orphanage at Kingston.

Dr. C. O. and Mrs. Marshall of Belleville visited Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Parks last week and have entertained at a beautiful sail down the bay with a picnic supper at Pine Island.

Mrs. W. J. Lake of Kingston, who has just returned from a visited to Nova Scotia, is now the guest of her sister, Mrs. Albert Odlum.

Mrs. Leslie McCorr is attending the O.E.M.A. at Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McLean have returned to their home in Montreal, after visiting at Plainfield, N.Y., is a guest of Mrs. Dougall and Miss MacDougall.

Stirling

An Exciting Runaway

What might have proved a very serious accident occurred to Misses Nina Morrison and Mabel Bateman of the Peoria district of Rawdon as they were returning home from Stirling High School on Thursday night Sept. 3rd, at 4.30. When passing the Anglican Rectory a train that was shunting by at the railway crossing on the Marmora road, wobbled and the horse bolted, careered down to Mr. Carl Conley's corner, upsetting the rig against a tree. Fortunately the girls had jumped from the buggy before reaching the corner.

The horse continued along the sidewalk adjoining Mr. Matthew's property and in front of Mr. Joe Whitehead's residence, but Mr. Clarence Rollin's car which there the horse became fast in the buggy and was finally captured by Mr. Carl Bowerman.

The girls had tried together to control the horse but it was frightened and the lines broke. The rig badly damaged when the horse suddenly left the road. The whiffletree and dashboard of the buggy was broken and Mr. Rollin's rear fender was badly dented.

Miss Mabel Bateman sustained bruised Belleville Fair Sept. 2nd.

Mr. Jos Whitehead is confined to the house through indisposition.

Mr. A. E. Dobbs and Isabel are attending the C.N.E. for Press Day.

Dr. and Mrs. Carleton have returned from a weeks holiday in Toronto and Collingwood.

Miss Grace Vandervoort, nurse-in-training of Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal is visiting her mother for a month.

Miss Aletha Hatton, R.N., has obtained a position on the staff of the Lockwood Clinic, Toronto and left on Monday to assume her duties there.

THINK THINGS OVER

Most of the trouble in the world springs from misunderstanding.

You make a very strong statement according to your lights and without a knowledge of matters.

It is repeated and with such phrase ology and intonation that it becomes offensive to one of your best friends, perhaps.

What is the result?

Coolness, neither daring to speak out, and finally enmity.

Possibly the one who retailed your words did not listen carefully and so did not understand you thoroughly himself.

Perhaps in a spirit of mischief or "for fun of the thing" it was deliberately garbled to see you writhe.

And so good friends drift apart and neither could tell exactly why as the years go by and the incident forgotten.

If you value your friends, do not let little things affect you do certainly that you are unwilling to seek an explanation.

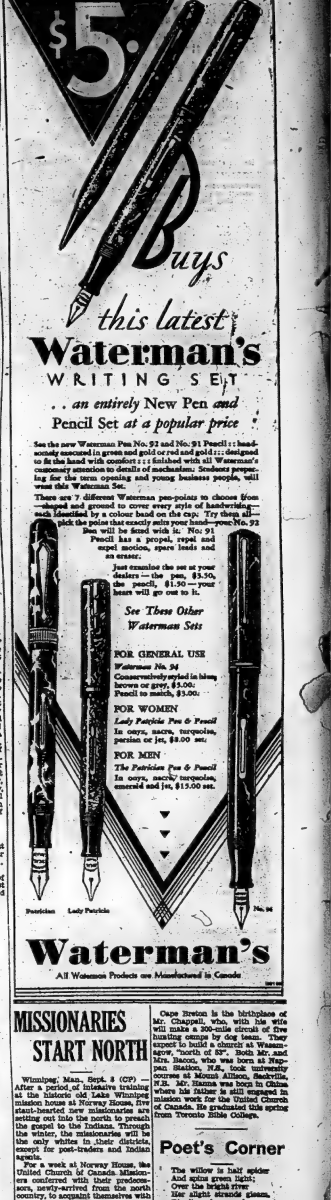
Perhaps you and your friend have had a totally different environment from birth and each is trying to be true to his bringing up.

Neither both are right in a sense and seem as opposite as the poles.

Before you take offense try to understand.

Today

(From The Christian Science Monitor)



What is our first thought in the morning when we wake to greet a new day? Is there regret that work must be resumed; that, too soon, duty hands will be placed upon our time? Or, do we welcome each breathing hour with a glad uplift of the heart, and the song of the psalmist: This is the day which the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it?

Those golden hours stretch ahead with untold opportunities for joy and service. Each is expectant good deed; the compassionate, heal ing thought, the appreciation for another's kindly service; praise to God for the manifold blessings —these are ceaseless opportunities or ceaseless prayers that bless our own hearts and help to our own hearts and help to our own hearts a singing realization of God's power and presence. We should rise, therefore, with glad anticipation.

Does our own burden seem heavy or hard? Are we sick, sorrowful, unemployed, lacking friends, oppressed by seeming enemies? Then, to earnestly turn hands to pruning may be the one thing needed to improve our own condition. Or, more often, may be nursing an innate belief that he knows something of salvation. Perhaps he is longing for that warmth of friendship which it is our privilege to give each day, and which will help him to day, through the understandable good, and claim his birthright of freedom and dominion as a joyous child of God.

MISSIONARIES START NORTH

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 8 (CP) — After a period of intensive training at the historic old Lake Winnipeg mission house at Norway House, five stout-hearted new missionaries are setting out into the north to preach the gospel to the Indians. Through the winter, the missionaries will be the only whites in their districts, except for post-traders and Mounted Police.

For a week at Norway House, the United Church of Canada Ministers conferred with their predecessors, newly-arrived from the north country, to acquaint themselves with the needs of their new flock. They followed a month of instruction in the written language of the Crees, and courses in first aid and the use of simple medicines.

The appointees are: Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Chappell, who will join Miss Frances Patterson, of Calgary, at Island Lake, nine days distant by canoe; Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Bacon, who go to Island Lake, four days' journey north, and David W. Hanna, Toronto, who becomes teacher - missionary at Nelson House, three days north of mile 137 on the Hudson Bay railway.

Cape Breton is the birthplace of Mr. Chappell, who, with his wife will make a 300-mile circuit of five hunting districts by dog team. They expect to build a church at Wasasagow, North of 53°. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bacon, who was born at Napanee Station, N.S., took university courses at Mount Allison, Sackville, N.B. Mr. Hanna was born in China where his father is still engaged in mission work for the United Church of Canada. He graduated this spring from Toronto Bible College.

AUTHOR SAYS HOLLYWOOD IS PLAYFUL

Calgary, Alta., Sept. 8 (CP)—Hollywood is a city with a "childish pagan personality" that inhabitants of the "play-children of the world," according to Mrs. Frances Reeves, Calgary author who has won fame as a scenario writer in the motion picture centre. Home on a visit, Mrs. Reeves stressed the fact that Hollywood "does not secured a center on rise."

Mrs. Reeves said the picture folk were child-like in their simplicity and that Hollywood is no more a city of corruption than are hundreds of other cities in the United States and Canada. The actors and actresses, she continued, do not consciously the cause of their lives. Because of this guilelessness publicity results, while the same attention in other places, "savage notoriety by the concealment practices."

"It is a city of heartbreak in spite of its so-called 'tinsel' evil. But it is a mecca for the beauty of the world and has a fascination all its own, which draws one back again and again," Mrs. Reeves declared.

Her first story published when she was seventeen, Mrs. Reeves has climbed the writing ladder to success. She has written many stories of Japan under the name of "Onoto Watanna." She has completed 26 novels, her latest, "Shallowland," only." She was given a contract to become scenario editor for Universal Pictures, within three weeks receiving the chief editorship of this department, a given charge of the story department in New York and Hollywood.

Later she was transferred to Holly wood where her career as scenario writer began her fame.

AIR STATION PROPERTY TO BE SET ASIDE AS THE QUINTE GAME RESERVE

Comprises Some 900 Acres of Land in Sidney Township, Including Marien's Island

Considerable discussion has been going on this week concerning the announcement in the Toronto papers regarding a Crown Game Preserve on the land formerly used by the Canadian Air Force as a station. The latter phrase made some offer the conjecture that the site was that of Camp Borden, but a despatch to an Order in Council published in the Ontario Gazette it was advised that a Crown Game Preserve be established comprising portions of Lots 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 in the Broken Front and first concessions of the Township of Sidney, County of Hastings, together with the Island, known as Marien's Island, lying in the Bay of Quinte in front of lots 6 and 7 of the Broken Front Concession, the property of the Federal Department of Educational Defence designated as the "Royal Canadian Air Force Station, Trenton", comprising approximately 900 acres to be known as "The Quinte Crown Game Preserve." This eliminates any doubt as to the location of the Game Reserve.

HORSES RUIN WHEAT FARMER TAKES THAM

Rumsey, Alta., Sept. 8 (CP)—As the farmers of the west combine this onslaught of the grasshoppers in Sauve, farmer of Rumsey, gave thanks that a plague of horses had only seems since in many years. He awoke one morning to find that a band of horses, 150 in number, were cavorting wildly over a field of his wheat, solemnly wrecking the plant.

The horses, being herded from the Bassano district to Grande Prairie, caused damage amounting to $70. It was figured when they ran away and were through Sauve's grain. Everything was settled, however, when Sauve took the accounts by selecting a team of the animals as his own.

FIFTEEN KILLED IN CHURCH

Berlin, Sept. 8—Official dispatch in the Volks Zeitung from Warsaw said that 15 people were killed and 10 seriously injured when a church collapsed in the village of Kalety, near Vilna, Poland.

The Girl Next Door

by Dorothy Reid Iliffe Scoville

"Hardboiled Henry" they called him aboard ship.

"No woman," bragged Henry, "will ever persuade me to put my head in the noose. Not that I have anything against them," he added chivalrously add, "But it's just that I'm not the same variety of sap that the rest of you are."

It was aboard that Henry had had an unfortunate love affair. Henry grinned and shook his head. "Nothing in it," he assured them. "It's only the working of a bright brain."

His self confidence irked his shipmates, and there were deep plottings to assist Henry in falling off, at least in stubbing his toe. They raved about blondes and went into ecrsates over brunettes; deliberately put them in his way, but although Henry danced with them, smiled upon them, and made himself generally agreeable, he remained unmoved.

When the ship was assigned to Deep Harbor for the summer, the malefcity of the crew were openly disgusted.

"Into the Navy and see—nothin'!" growled one of the sailors, "Next time I'll join the circus."

Deep Harbor consisted of one main street and a cluster of tiny houses that made the blue harbor where the fishing boats found shelter. One movie house a bowling alley, and town hall where dances were held twice a year were the extent of Deep Harbor's social activities.

Henry Rae grinned when he heard they were bound for Deep Harbor. "Good place to rest," he reminded them. "You can get plenty of beauty sleep—and Heaven knows you need it!" he added insultingly.

In the course of events Henry went ashore with the others, but emerged from one of the ships, belligerently he read the caption below the picture.

"Miss Mary Dyne, who will play the lead in "Upside Down" Broadway's latest musical comedy. Miss Dyne is spending the summer at her home in Deep Harbor.

"Ge-e-e! What's eatin' that guy anyhow?" Tub agitatedly demanded. Henry Rae had torn the picture from the page and disappeared below deck without a word.

There was the light of battle in his eyes when Henry went ashore that evening. He had been cheated, tricked, made a fool of. What he wouldn't tell her!

She was waiting for him by the pine grove where they had always met. But Henry pretended not to see on his tongue for a moment. Warily he approached and they sat down together on the smooth pine carpet.

"What's the idea—not telling me who you were?" Henry demanded with fierceness.

"Oh—you've found out?" The girl looked him shyly. "It was fun to pretend."

"Fun!" Henry bitterly agreed. "Fun to make me the season's pine "Boy!" Mary's eyes widened. "M-mm." Henry lit a cigarette. "Here I was thinking you was a nice little summer girl, and you turn out to be a chorus dame—thats a good one on me all right."

"What are you talking about?" Mary demanded.

Henry fished in his blouse pocket "This!" He thrust the torn picture at her.

"That's a pretty pose—" Mary observed, smoothing out the wrinkles.

"Oh—pretty!" agreed Henry with heavy sarcasm.

"She lives over there on the hill." Mary pointed. "She's my friend."

"Sa-a-y, Harry! What's the matter with you?" Mary pouted. "I'm just plain Mary Webster—pretending to be somebody." A tear trickled down her cheek and shone like a raindrop in the moonlight. "I wanted to be mysterious and—romantic," she said forlornly.

"You are somebody," corrected Henry Rae with his arm firmly around her. "You're my girl and that's plenty mysterious and romantic for me!"

FRANKFORD PULP MILL OPERATES

Twenty Employed in 3 Eight - Hour Shifts

Operations at the Frankford Pulp Mill began on Monday morning as per schedule with about twenty-five men employed. About fifty per cent of these have been employed for old crew while the remainder were former employees of the old paper mill.

When visited on Tuesday by the reporter the plant was in full swing and men were in the act of loading the first car for shipment. It appeared in a recent issue of the Courier-Advocate three shiploads of wood which will make more men to find work at the plant than it two 12-hour shifts were made, Jack O. W. Dickson, foreman of the mill, said that they had one hundred cords of wood on hand and this went through the barker and chipping machine process to press out the water. Two grinders were working and one can be used in the last stage of process. Other rollers will be in operation when the reserve fuel from Point Pelle is let loose. This was expected about four o'clock today.

BEGIN WORK ON FRANKFORD ROAD

Work started last week on the Frankford-Point Pelle Drive Highway — since it was vested in the Provincial Government and under control of the Department of Highways. Gravel is being hauled by order of the Brier Town and good progress is being made in grading the road prior to the permanent placement of material operations. It is the intention to put the road in highway condition now that it has been taken over by the provincial government, but it will not be paved until next year, according to the information received by this newspaper. At the present time there is one grader and one roller on the job under the supervision of Mr. William Nicholson, and grading has been completed on the vicinity of Glen Miller. Mr. Nicholson expects to have the necessary grading finished by Saturday. Engineer Sanders, of Port Hope, laid out the road on Tuesday and it is thought that perhaps the highway will take a new course at Marysville, sections before it is finally paved. By-pass Marysville and the road to the Pulp Mill will be paved this year.

Dog Snaps Off Finger

Orillia, Sept. 8.—A dog, against attacked an elderly man, J. H. Boyle, of Port Severn, Monday in a garage and snapped one of his fingers completely off. It also made a rush at Mrs. Thomas Brown, but was warded off. Dr. D. R. Daisy, V.S., went to the house on instructions from the owner and killed the dog after it on the verandah. As he approached warily, the dog came to him wagging its tail, and he dealt with him submissively. It will be tied up for 10 days for observation.

HOW TO BANISH WORRY

BY LOUIS E. BISCH, M.D., Ph.D.,
FAMOUS AUTHORITY ON HEALTH AND PSYCHOLOGY

Everybody worries. Even children get upset over their toys and playmates. And the curious thing about worry is the fact that most people believe if they were in somebody else's shoes they wouldn't have to worry any more.

The poor who worry about obtaining the barest necessities of life picture the rich as having no troubles, and the rich, when they are not, often live beyond their means and worry about paying bills, feel certain that some day, when fortune seems to turn against them, they will be reduced to poverty. Yet the rich often do so many envy, those very same rich frequently worry just because of their riches.

There are so many varieties of worry that it would be impossible to name them all, much less attempt to set them all down. Every individual manufactures his own particular worry bugaboo — business worries, family worries, love worries and all kinds. But whatever your own variety of worry may be, the point to be emphasized is that you ought to do everything in your power to banish it from your existence.

A constant apprehension regarding the future—what may or may happen—is the most serious handicap in the path of a person's advancement. It is the most dangerously undermining influence the mind could possibly have. When a person worries, his thoughts become confused. He cannot see his way out of the difficulty that confronts him.

People have an idea that worry can be controlled through will-power. But that is a true. You cannot push worry out of your heart for quiet reflection an dintro thoughts through force or even by means of substituting diversion and a shifting of attention. You may succeed for a time, perhaps. But always and invariably the worry will slip back into your mind, despite everything.

If you have fallen into the habit of worry it is important to remember that worry never lowers your vitality will 'make worries seem greater, and causes you more confusion by thinking always clear and to the point, you may also succeed for a sane and sensible life.

First of all, stop the mental confusion that, like a danger signal, always precedes worry. This can be accomplished by cultivating a quietly and alone and looking at your problems calmly and coolly.

Next, be sure your mind is not playing you false. Many fear bogies and premises are correct, that you are simply manufacturing foolish ideas.

Then make up your mind, once your indecision! Arrive at a conclusion. And when once your conclusion is reached, stick to it.

Furthermore, lay the foundation for a personality free from worry by living less excitely and less tensely. Set aside an hour a day at spection. Be sure to take short the frequent holidays.

Worries by every frequent holidays.

Worries by every means possible for worry never led to anything but misery and nerve exhaustion. Bear in mind that Lavell said: "Let us be of good cheer, remembering that the fortunes harvest to bear are those which never come!"

If you are at this business of ever coming worry in the right way you will be astonished to find that it can be banished.

Canada Backs French Formula, 'Arbitration, Security, Disarmament'

Hon. H. Guthrie Makes Declaration to League Assembly

CANADA PEACEFUL

Disarmament With Safety to All May Be Near-at-Hand

Geneva, Sept. 9 (AP)— Canada's support for the principle of "arbitration, security and disarmament", the French formula, was announced to the assembly of the League of Nations today by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Canadian delegate, who is making his first appearance at Geneva. He is Canada's Minister of Justice.

This principle, he said, would be in the nature of sympathetic cooperation in whatever plan might finally be agreed upon.

Canada is in no wise a militaristic nation and Canada's armaments are practically negligible, he said. Canada's Boundary

"Canada has no need for greater armaments," he told the assembly. "She has but one international boundary, that of the United States of America, a great friendly country, and is our only immediate neighbor and we are convinced that the peaceful aims and aspirations of that great country have a great support in our own.

While accepting the traditional French position, as expressed in "arbitration, security and disarmament" that disarmament follows rather than precedes security, Mr. Guthrie also expressed the belief that "general disarmament upon a very extended scale may take place within a reasonable time with absolute security to all nations concerned."

Provincial Police Find Drowned New-Born Babe

St. Catharines, Ont., Sept. 9.— Provincial Constable Jamie of Queenston, is investigating the finding late yesterday of the body of a new-born baby girl on the shore of Lake Ontario, four miles west of Niagara-on-the-Lake. The body had apparently been on the sand about two days and had likely been in the water for a longer period.

Convict Shot, 2 Guards are Prisoners in Utah State Pen.

Prisoners Obtain Arms and Fire for Half Hour

GUARDS FREED

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 9.— Louis Deslarzie, serving an indeterminate sentence for robbery, was shot and killed by a guard when he attempted to escape over the wall of the Utah state penitentiary this morning and in an ensuing riot another convict and a guard were reported to have been wounded.

Deslarzie had thrown a hook on the end of a rope over the prison wall and had started to scale a rope ladder when he was foiled by the guards who before he reached the top.

His body was dragged toward a cell-house by fellow convicts who were reported to have obtained arms.

D. L. Ress and C. L. Christensen, guards were held captive by the convicts until Warden R. E. Davis, braving the bullets of the inmates, persuaded them to release the officers.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 9.— One convict was reported shot and Deputy Warden Wilford F. Jones and several guards were held prisoner for a half hour in a riot at the Utah State Penitentiary here this morning.

Firing continued for half an hour inside the prison, where some of the convicts were reported to have obtained arms. Riot squads were summoned from the police and sheriff's forces. The deputy warden was liberated after the convicts held captive for several minutes.

NEW CHARGE LAID AGAINST F. H. ARMITAGE

Charge is Laid By Security and Fraud Prevention Board

BAIL REDUCED

Crown Agrees to Bail of $15,000.00 Which Will Probably be Raised

An additional charge was laid against F. H. Armitage, Belleville broker, when he appeared in city police court this Wednesday morning before Magistrate Mikel, to answer to the charge of the alleged theft of mortgages and bonds to the amount, it is said, of $627.50 from a resident of Rawdon. The new charge was laid upon information supplied by Mr. W. Stewart Banks, fraud-security and fraud prevention Board of Ontario and charges Armitage with the alleged theft of $440.00 from Miss May Hamilton of Foxboro in February of this year. To this charge Armitage pleaded not guilty. At the request of his solicitor, Mr. C. A. Payne, both charges were enlarged until September 16.

An application was made asking that the amount of bail, demanded by the Crown be reduced from $20,000.00 to $15,000.00. Magistrate Mikel and the Crown Attorney, Mr. R. C. Donnan, consented to this request and an endeavor is being made by Armitage's solicitor to arrange for this amount.

Unusual Method of Legislation to Prevent Obstruction in House

Delay in Program Will Not Be Permitted in View of Needs

"ECONOMY BILL"

How New Method of Gov't Will Be Handled By MacDonald

London, Sept. 9 (AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today indicated the method the British government intends to adopt with an announcement that he will present to the House of Commons this afternoon a "national economy bill" authorizing government by "orders-in-council."

By this move the government indicated that it proposes to avoid the parliamentary obstruction as far as possible and the government forces in parliament are preparing for vigorous opposition from the Labor party.

In resorting to this unusual method of legislation the cabinet is keeping its pledge of speedy action on the financial crisis and problems. Orders-in-council will be invoked if debate on details of national economy threatens to delay the program too much.

MacDonald's Victories

The national government this afternoon scored two more victories in the House of Commons.

In two divisions the government's majority jumped to 94 votes and 95 votes respectively compared with the majority of 66 votes secured in last evening's division on the confidence motion.

The increase in the majority was due to the fact that many of the Labor members — now among the opposition — were delegates to the annual meeting of the Trades Union Congress at Bristol.

The government received votes of 308 and 308 this afternoon, compared to 309 in the historic division last night. But the Labor opposition votes were only 213 and 215 respectively against 250 last night.

Baldwin's Proposal

The first division this afternoon was on a motion to adjourn the debate on Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin's proposal that the government be permitted to monopolize the time of the session for the emergency economy program. Labor members protested loudly when the vote was called, but it was 94 to 213 in the government's favor and debate closed.

China's precedent for the government taking all the time of the session in an emergency will, Mr. Baldwin, who is Lord President of the council in the MacDonald cabinet, said the last time Commons met for a specific purpose was to deal with the Irish crisis in 1922. The present government intended to follow the example of the 1922 administration in getting through its business with the utmost dispatch, he said.

Sandwich, Lord Rosebery's Colt, Wins 152nd St. Leger

Cameronian Favorite For Oldest of Races

Doncaster, Sept. 9.—Associated Press Cable—Sandwich, the 152nd renewal of the Classic St. Leger was won today by Lord Rosebery's colt Sandwich, who is by Sansovino out of Waffles.

Sir John Rutherford's Orpen, by Solario out of Happy Day, second, Sir Andrew, the English best colt by Sir Galahad III, out of Gravitate, second, and Cameronian, property of New York, finished third.

Ten year olds, eight colts and a filly, raced over the mile, six furlongs and 132 yards course in the senior of the English turf's five classics by three year olds. The field was included J. A. Dyer's good colt Cameronian, winner of the Two Thousand Guineas and the Epsom Derby.

Four Lengths Lead

Sandwich won by four lengths over Orpen, who finished a length in front of Sir Andrew.

The time was nine to one against Sandwich, 11 to two against Orpen and 100 to 30 against Sir Andrew.

The race was worth approximately $50,000.

Sandwich was ridden to a deserved victory by Jockey Harry Wragg. Joe Childs rode Orpen, Pat Beasley rode Sir Andrew for the New York turfman.

Cameronian in Race

The other starters in the second classic of the season were Sandwich (Rosebery—Waffles), Cameronian (Post), Convoy (Gordon-Richards), Goyesca (Elliott) Inglestone (Jones), Starwood (Berry) and Galaday (Weston), the latter being the only filly in the race.

Sandwich and Cameronian had battled in the three opening classics of the five classic season of six.

In the two thousand guineas event the pair were at Newmarket, Cameronian won with Goyesca second and Orpen third. In the derby over the mile and a half route at Epsom Downs, Cameronian again won, with Orpen second and Sandwich third.

Staying Powers

When it came to the Senior Classic today Sandwich's superior staying powers resulted in the reverse decision over Cameronian, which had been acclaimed greatest of English three-year-olds. Sandwich's victory thwarted Cameronian's entry into the turf hall of fame as a winner of the mythical triple crown.

The Doncaster St. Leger has been run ever since 1776. This was three years before the Oaks, the filly classic, was inaugurated, and four years before the Derby, the Blue Ribband, was first run.

Chester Vase

Sandwich won earlier this year win the Chester Vase. As a two-year-old last year he raced only once and was unplaced, losing being held over Imperial Produce Stakes at Kempton Park.

Prfncess Mary and her husband, Viscount Harewood, represented the royal family at the renewal of today's classic. Great crowds turned out, having come on Monday for the historic Doncaster town which is assured by the St. Leger.

Curly Hopes Cochet Will Turn Pro.

New York, N.Y., Sept. 9.—Jack Curley, United States sports promoter, returned from Europe today with the statement he hopes eventually to sign Henri Cochet to a contract to play professional tennis. Curley said the matter was still indefinite but that he hoped Cochet would "listen to reason." Curley is reported to have offered the little wizard of the French tennis court a guarantee of more than $70,000 a year for three years to barnstorm with William T. Tilden.

Romance Grows Out of Transpacific Flight

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 9.—Romance has grown out of the transpacific flight attempt of Mrs. Moyle and C. A. Allen. Hoping to reach Seattle on the first leg of the Pratscr-Brosson, 25-year-old fiances of Moyle, left Riverside, Calif., yesterday for Seattle to meet him. Allen is awaited here by his young wife, separated from him for some time, but, she said today, estranged no longer.

Mrs. Allen produced letters, which she said he had written from Japan indicating that differences of several months ago had been removed. "My husband and I understand each other and he knows I am pulling for him with all my heart," Mrs. Allen said. "The future is all that counts."

Portrait of Senator Presented to League

Geneva, Sept. 9 (CP)—An oil portrait of Senator Raoul Dandurand, Canadian President of the 45th session of the League Assembly, was formally presented to the League today by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Canada's representative to the present assembly.

Mr. Guthrie praised Senator Dandurand who for several years was Canada's spokesman at Geneva, "a great Canadian whose prominence and marked success as a member of this assembly will always be a matter of satisfaction in the Dominion of Canada," he said.

Police Take Hand In Game 16 Cars Parked on John St.

Residents of John Street, living in the neighborhood of the Collegiate and Vocational Institute, have made a complaint with Chief Constable Kidd claiming that they are unable to considerable inconvenience and annoyance by cars being parked for hours every school day along the curbs near the school. These cars, it is claimed, are left there by persons in attendance at classes.

Residents state that at times it is impossible to leave their cars within a reasonable distance of their homes, one prominent citizen asserting that on several occasions it has been impossible to drive into his garage.

Thursday afternoon Traffic Officer Taylor visited John Street and placed notices in cars parked in the locality complained of and as a result Chief Kidd received a call from Chief Kidd at his office late the same afternoon, when he stated that leaving their cars parked as they were was causing parked for the actions.

Chief Constable Kidd states that last school term he warned the persons who were making a permanent parking stand of this section of John Street and that this term the practice must be stopped and some more satisfactory arrangement made for parking school cars. Chief Kidd added that parking is not permitted in any part of the city where it would interfere with traffic or with the rights of citizens.

NEW CHARGE LAID AGAINST F. H. ARMITAGE

Charge is Laid By Security and Fraud Prevention Board

BAIL REDUCED

Crown Agrees to Bail of $15,000.00 Which Will Probably be Raised

An additional charge was laid against F. H. Armitage, Belleville broker, when he appeared in city police court this Wednesday morning before Magistrate Mikel, to answer to the charge of the alleged theft of mortgages and bonds to the amount, it is said, of $627.50 from a resident of Rawdon. The new charge was laid upon information supplied by Mr. W. Stewart Banks, fraud-security and fraud prevention Board of Ontario and charges Armitage with the alleged theft of $440.00 from Miss May Hamilton of Foxboro in February of this year. To this charge Armitage pleaded not guilty. At the request of his solicitor, Mr. C. A. Payne, both charges were enlarged until September 16.

An application was made asking that the amount of bail, demanded by the Crown be reduced from $20,000.00 to $15,000.00. Magistrate Mikel and the Crown Attorney, Mr. R. C. Donnan, consented to this request and an endeavor is being made by Armitage's solicitor to arrange for this amount.

Unusual Method of Legislation to Prevent Obstruction in House

Delay in Program Will Not Be Permitted in View of Needs

"ECONOMY BILL"

How New Method of Gov't Will Be Handled By MacDonald

London, Sept. 9 (AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today indicated the method the British government intends to adopt with an announcement that he will present to the House of Commons this afternoon a "national economy bill" authorizing government by "orders-in-council."

By this move the government indicated that it proposes to avoid the parliamentary obstruction as far as possible and the government forces in parliament are preparing for vigorous opposition from the Labor party.

In resorting to this unusual method of legislation the cabinet is keeping its pledge of speedy action on the financial crisis and problems. Orders-in-council will be invoked if debate on details of national economy threatens to delay the program too much.

MacDonald's Victories

The national government this afternoon scored two more victories in the House of Commons.

In two divisions the government's majority jumped to 94 votes and 95 votes respectively compared with the majority of 66 votes secured in last evening's division on the confidence motion.

The increase in the majority was due to the fact that many of the Labor members — now among the opposition — were delegates to the annual meeting of the Trades Union Congress at Bristol.

The government received votes of 308 and 308 this afternoon, compared to 309 in the historic division last night. But the Labor opposition votes were only 213 and 215 respectively against 250 last night.

Baldwin's Proposal

The first division this afternoon was on a motion to adjourn the debate on Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin's proposal that the government be permitted to monopolize the time of the session for the emergency economy program. Labor members protested loudly when the vote was called, but it was 94 to 213 in the government's favor and debate closed.

China's precedent for the government taking all the time of the session in an emergency will, Mr. Baldwin, who is Lord President of the council in the MacDonald cabinet, said the last time Commons met for a specific purpose was to deal with the Irish crisis in 1922. The present government intended to follow the example of the 1922 administration in getting through its business with the utmost dispatch, he said.

ROAD CAMPS ARE LOCATED

Work of Clearing Land and Erecting Buildings Begins

FIRST SEMI-FINAL GAME IN NAPANEE SATURDAY

North Bay, Ont., Sept. 9 — Ten camps for the men on the 50 mile route of the trans-Canada highway between North Bay and Cache Bay and work of clearing the land and erecting the camp buildings has commenced. It is thought the road will run from the end of Fisher street, North Bay, via the old Trout Lake road to McNamara where it will touch Trout Lake. In an easterly direction it will pass to the south of the Mattawa River to Mattawa.

East of the Mattawa the road will skirt the Ottawa River paralleling it to Pembroke.

The new road will touch Rutherglen but will be between five and six miles north of Bonfield.

The camps are located in such a way as to make use of present roads and rivers for the taking in of supplies. These camps are about four miles apart and from 50 to 100 men will be placed in each camp.

DEAD PLAYER MOURNED BY VAST THRONGS

Overflow Service Held in Glasgow for John Thomson

PREACHER'S WORDS

Glasgow, Scotland, Sept. 9 (CP)—So many thousands were clamoring to attend the memorial service for John Thomson of the Celtic football team, Scottish International goal keeper who died following a kick on the head in a soccer match on Saturday, that an overflow service was held immediately following the service proper.

Peter Wilson, Celtic halfback, and David McMahon, captain of the Glasgow Rangers, who should have met the keeper, were unable to get through the big crowd. Samuel English, Rangers' centre forward with whom Thomson had collided, sat with his head buried in his hands and broke down completely when the dead march was played.

The service was conducted by Rev. R. S. McClelland, himself a keen footballer. "I witnessed Thomson's death," he declared. "If these Dougliites (rowdies who call themselves Celtic or Rangers' followers), or rather behind them clown—who gather behind the goals and who themselves bearse when a member of the opposing team was struck—anything can be brought to realize by this tragic happening the brutal quality of their action, then John Thomson will not have given his life in vain," the clergyman said.

Thomson received fatal injuries while making a daring save during the match between Rangers and Celtic at Ibrox Park.

HERO OF SEA RESCUE DIES

Capt. Robert Pamphlet Reached Age of 58 Years

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 9.—Capt. Robert Pamphlet, 58, colorful Northern Columbian seaman, hero of a thrilling rescue at sea in 1924 following which he was rushed to the United States authorities, charged with violation of Federal Prohibition Laws, and sentenced to a two year penitentiary, term, died at the home of his son, Fred W. Pamphlet, North Vancouver, last night. He was born in Victoria, B.C. He had been in failing health for some time following his release by United States officials.

Capt. Pamphlet was in command of the vessel Pescawha, carrying a liquor cargo from Vancouver to Mexico, and while passing in mouth of the Columbia River, off the Oregon coast, and outside the three-mile limit, during a storm he answered a call for help to the same two schooner Kaoke. At great risk to his own ship, he saved the lives of seven men.

In doing so he had ventured into American waters, and when he helped a U.S. coast guard cutter to take off the Kaoke's crew, his ship was seized and his own crew were jailed in Astoria, Ore. The subsequent trial attracted considerable interest throughout the United States and Canada.

No Truth in Reports Willingdon to Retire

Simla, India, Sept. 9 (CP Cable)—It was stated in official circles at Simla this summer capital today, that there was no justification for press reports which have appeared in London to the effect that Earl Willingdon, Viceroy of India, may retire before the normal expiration of his term of office.

According to the London reports Lord Willingdon contemplated retiring before his time was up, on the grounds of ill-health. He has recently been suffering from a slight attack of dysentery, which Lady Willingdon had a slight attack of fever.

Earl Willingdon, who was Governor-General of Canada from 1927 to 1926, took up his new duties in India last March.

PONTIAC CAR USED IN NEW RECORD RUN

Travelling from Toronto to Halifax and return, a distance of more than 3,000 miles, on a single filling of Canadian motor oil, something new in the way of automobile records was established when Jim Festiac coach, shown above, pulled in to Toronto after completing its motor oil purring. The engine was not stopped once during the entire journey. J. Graham Oates and Ric Chitty were the drivers and during the long trip they ate and slept in the car. The crankcase was sealed at the beginning of the record run and the seal was broken in the presence of civic officials at the Toronto City Hall, where the trip was concluded. The crankcase was later drained and sent to the Canol laboratories for analysis. Oates declared that the car gave excellent performance throughout. It is a 1930 model and had a 21,000 mileage total to credit before the motor oil test was begun.

MRS. STASIAK INTRODUCES POLICE DOGS

Makes Afternoon Visit to Editorial Room of Newspaper

KIND FRIENDS

Famous Wrestler Uses Dogs in Training for Matches

"We were all seated around the city editor's desk on Tuesday afternoon. Oh, but wait, I did not tell you the preface of this story."

I called into the editorial room of the Ontario Intelligencer office at about 2.30 p.m. Wednesday. We were in session, the editor, city editor, sports editor and myself, were talking about the fine old days of baseball era in Detroit. All present sadly agreed that Ed. Wood had pulled a fast one on Kaye Don. In the midst of our conversation a terrible commotion was heard and it seemed to be coming from down the hall that leads from the office to the editorial room.

Suddenly a woman bowe in sight and as we more creatures gazed over the head of the woman, that I meant to keep you and me out of the editorial room. We could see that the lady in question had two monstrous dogs on a leash. These dogs animals of the canine family that the best thing they could do was to beat it for they could destroy everyone in sight and were tugging at all to try and get away from their handler. Honestly, by now, I was on top of the editor's desk thinking that my time had come. But one word from this lady and these two ferocious looking curs became as tame in her hands. Back to our relief came the dogs then lie down and all was peace and quiet once again.

Wife of Wrestler

The kind lady then introduced her self to the staff, she was Mrs. Stanley Stasiak, wife of the world famous wrestler, Stanley Stasiak, the Polish Lion. She merely wanted to introduce her two, pure breed, German police dogs, Baron and Frita, to the editorial staff, she said. Well these two canines, even if they are the best in the country, did not so kind as to permit us to leave truly, so, away from them I stayed. But after Mrs. Stasiak removed how gentle those dogs were (when in spoke to them), some of the braver members advanced and were introduced to the pups. Honestly those dogs seemed almost human and before we knew it, we were all in love with them. Mrs. Stanley Stasiak then spoke to them, say ing, "Frita you must behave now," and they sure did.

Everyone had been so exsited that we had forgotten to ask the lady to be seated. Mrs. Stasiak accepted a chair and explained to these present, that her husband, Stanley Stasiak, the famous wrestler was present in the Belleville General Hospital. She went on to explain that he got hurt his arm in his recent wrestling match against Dr. Deeps in Toronto last week but had paid little or no attention to his injury. But while driving his wife to Montreal from Toronto on Tuesday morning the arm became very painful. In fact, so bad, that Mr. Stasiak was forced to see a physician, who, after taking an. X-ray informed him that he had a fractured arm. Thus his visit to the local hospital.

Large Insurances Carried

Mrs. Stasiak returned to the two dogs, Baron and Frita. She explained to these pups that her husband had purchased their mother in Germany some years ago. Baron is the older of the two and is also a very valuable dog. He acts the commands of his mistress without hesitation. Frita, the pup, seems much more playful. A matter of fact Mrs. Stasiak never unleashed Frita as she is too young. By now I had become very brave and was lovingly stroking the heads of both dogs, but not at the same time, as I wanted one at a time. Mrs. Stasiak told us all the good qualities of the pups going so far as to say that Mr. Stasiak had Baron insured for $800.00, some dog. Mr. Stasiak uses Baron to help him train for his bouts, they are great partners to train with, Mrs. Stasiak explained, well, maybe, but I would just as soon meet some animal a little smaller.

After thanking the members of the staff, Mrs. Stasiak left the office, the hall with Baron and Frita tugging away as hard as they had been doing when they came in. Just been doing when they entered and might add that there were two places in the world you can find excitement and both of them are in the editorial room of a newspaper office".

New Governor Studies Hud. Bay Organization

Quebec, Sept. 9.—B. Ashley Cooper, newly-appointed Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, arrived in Quebec yesterday on the Canadian Pacific Liner, Empress of France, for the purpose of studying the whole Hudson's Bay organization in this country.

Appointed less than two weeks ago, Mr. Cooper informed newspapermen that he did not know exactly what would be done in connection with organization work in Canada, but would be in a better position to state something after he has been over the ground, and had seen for himself just what was needed in Canada, and what possibilities there was of organizing a Canadian company. He will visit Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Winnipeg.

DEADLINE REACHED IN PACIFIC FLIGHT

Seattle, September 9.—Ahead and ashore, from Alaska to Puget Sound mariners, aviators and flying enthusiasts, scanned the Western horizon today for some trace of the trans-Pacific aeroplane of Dorothy Dade and Jack Allen.

There had been no word from the flyers up to 8 a.m., Pacific Standard Time (8 a.m. E.S.T.), more than 60 hours after their take-off from Sazumbra Swamp, Japan, on a projected 4,000-mile flight to Seattle. Assuming that the adventurers had encountered no ill luck and had proceeded according to schedule, they were some 400 or 500 miles from their destination at that hour. Although not a word had been received as to their progress since they were sighted off Japan 92 minutes after their takeoff, there was little apprehension. The deadline—the hour for their arrival—was drawing near, however. They had expected to reach Seattle in 60 hours, a little more.

Field lights and beacons were turned skyward from Boeing Field here, and from the County Airport at Tacoma in the early hours. Ships and radio stations from the Aleutian Islands to Seattle were on the alert eager to witness the latter phase of what started out to be the first non-stop aeroplane flight across the Pacific's breadth.

MAYOR CASTS TIE TO MAKE TIE

Story of Steam Shovel and Manual Labor

Sudbury, Ont., Sept. 9 (CP)—For the first time in the history of the city, the mayor of Sudbury, at a meeting of the city council, exercised his right to cast a vote, creating a tie and so defeating the motion. The motion was one of censure against Inspector.

Mayor Preston last week hired a steam shovel belonging to a construction company which is to work at Junction Creek, in the vicinity of Sudbury, for $5 an hour. Five out of nine aldermen claimed in the meeting last night that the work should have been done by manual labor as relief to unemployment, and insisted that the mayor had exceeded his authority in hiring the shovel.

The remaining four aldermen supported the mayor, claiming that he had his authority but considered that the work could be done cheaper in four feet of water, thanks manual work out of the question.

PRESENTATION

A presentation address was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Miller, 53 Chatham Street before their departure from our midst. Many neighbors gathered on the evening of August 26th and a lovely tilt chair was given Mr. and Mrs. Miller, and a lovely book for Bess. Mr. and Mrs. Miller thanked them all for their kind thoughts and appreciation and a very nice letter which a lovely luncheon was served.

Following is the presentation address:

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Miller and Bess:

It is with regret that we have learned that you are about to go from our midst but we are also approved kindly and considerate at all times and ever willing to help in sickness or trouble.

It is then, with sadness that we bid you good bye.

In your new home your many amiable qualities will soon make you new friends, but it is our hope that you will think of us still. It is our desire that the blessing of God will abundantly rest upon you and that earth's choicest gifts may be yours.

It is our wish that you accept this chair Mr. and Mrs. Miller and this book Bess, as a gift of remembrance.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors.—N. M. Anderson, Mrs. Sullivan.

FAMILY REUNION

A most enjoyable day was spent Wednesday, August 26, 1931, when the Lasier family held a family reunion at the home of the beautiful Bay of Quinte near Deseronto. About thirty descendants of the late William B. Lasier, Picton, were present. Those from a distance were Mrs. Melissa Lasier Palmer, of Pal. Haven, N.Y., and her niece, Miss Ethel Lasier, of Kearney, N.Y. Amusements of various kinds were indulged in, including singing, boating, dancing and other different games. A bountiful dinner and supper were enjoyed to the fullest extent. The reunion promises to be an annual affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Flake, Mr. and Mrs. Otho Flake and family were in attendance from Prince Edward County. Other members of the family were unable to attend.

WEDDINGS

HIGH—WEIR

A pretty wedding took place at the home of the groom's parents on Monday afternoon when Miss Ellen Weir, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Weir, Ireland, became the bride of Albert William High, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank High, 13 Lewis street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. E. Clarke, rector of Christ Church.

The bride who was given in marriage by Mr. Frank High, wore a pretty gown of bridal white with hat and shoes to match and carried a bouquet of roses. She was attended by Miss Minnie McDonald, Belleville, who wore pale blue georgette.

Mr. Harold Clark, Belleville, acted as groomsman.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at which about fifty guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. High will reside in the city.

FELL—REID

Margaret Elizabeth Reid, B.A., eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Lorne Reid of Bancroft became the bride of James Russell Fell, B.A., Com., son of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Fell of Glen Dale, by Rev. A. Lucas in Bancroft on Friday, the fourth of September, 1931.

The bride was attired in a gown of biege lace and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Louella Reid who wore a dress of blue georgette and carried a bouquet of yellow Chrysanthemums. The groom was supported by Mr. V. C. Davis of Ottawa.

The marriage was performed by Rev. J. M. Fraser, minister of the bride at the church.

United Church, Bancroft, in the presence of the near relatives and some immediate friends. Among those were Mr. and Mrs. R. Dean and Miss M. Fell of Toronto; Miss M. Chamberlain of Maryland, U.S.A.; Miss Walton, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. T. Farnham (the maternal grandparents) and Mrs. M. Farley of Belleville.

The presents were many, indicative of the esteem in which the bride and groom are held. After a dainty buffet lunch the happy couple left by motor. They will reside in Ottawa and their many friends unite in every good wish for their future welfare.

BIRD—TEAL

A pretty wedding took place at the United Church parsonage, Wooler, at ten o'clock this morning when Miss Pauline Teal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Teal of Wooler became the bride of Mr. Herold Bird of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bird of Sidney.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Bird left on a wedding trip by motor to Kingston, Buffalo and through the United States. On their return they will reside in Belleville where the groom is an employe of the Belleville Hydro Electric System.

The bride has been a popular member of Wooley community and on Friday night she was the guest of honor at an enjoyable shower

PLUNGES OVER CLIFF, ROLLS DOWN MOUNT

Remarkable Test of Steel Bodied Car Thrown Down Mountain

An automobile plunging over a precipice, and crashing, sliding, somersaulting down a mountain side, coming to rest many feet below the original right side up with the car, while two young ladies calmly enter the wreckage car and drive off, is the big feature of a "talkie" film which will be shown at Riggs Motor Sales show rooms Thursday evening at nine o'clock.

The film depicts a journey across the continent in a Plymouth automobile and the trials and tribulations of transcontinental drivers on an endurance test where the car only stops for gas and oil. Many exciting incidents of narrow escapes on narrow mountain trails and fighting the thrist demon on the sand baked deserts of the Western United States feature this motion picture which is both interesting and instructive. The journey was from New York to San Francisco, 4,337 miles, and return, an average of 1,143 miles daily being maintained for the trip. All existing records were broken and the trip from New York to San Francisco was made in fifty-five hours and thirty-three minutes, beating the best train time of seventy-eight hours. The journey there and back was accomplished in 112 hours and 8 minutes, an average of 47.33 miles per hour was maintained throughout.

REFLECTION ON VICTORY

British Press is Almost Silent Upon Race Result

London, Sept. 9 (CP)—"If Gar Wood derives any satisfaction from the latest win of the Schneider Cup that is his affair" said the Morning Post, commenting today on the unsatisfactory conclusion to the Harmsworth motorboat speed trophy races on the Detroit River, when Kaye Don, the British challenger and Gar Wood were disqualified after Don won the first heat decisively.

"Gar Wood violated some of the written rules, but the rules of fair play, which can never be written," the Morning Post added. "We can only sympathize with the Americans in the reflection his 'victory' casts on the sportsmanship of their country, and we are sure they cordially endorse the strong and summary condemnation of such tactics as appears in the comments of their newspapers."

The Daily Telegraph declared Gar Wood had done ill service to the fine traditions of American sportsmanship. Fair-minded Americans themselves were the first to condemn the "smart trick" which caused the disqualification of the challenger, Miss England II, the Telegraph said. "The most elementary instincts of sportsmanship are outraged by accounts of the gallant comodore's feat, the newspaper went on. "It is an action, which it is hoped will be forgotten in the annals of American sport."

Gandhi Does Not Need Detectives He Says

S. S. Rajputana, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi would rather not have detectives watching over him day and night when he gets to London for the Round Table Conference.

"If anybody—Communist, Anarchist or Revolutionist—wants my poor life, he can have it," he said today. "But still I have to give for the cause of Indian Independence. God is my only protector."

His colleagues mistrusted British officials that the Mahatma prefers not to cover the last leg of the journey from the English coast as an ordinary traveler by train rather than by automobile as the Government is planning.

Col. Bishop Censures Toronto for Lack of Port

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 9.—(By The Canadian Press) — Toronto was strongly censured by Col. William Bishop, V.C., Canada's war ace, for her backwardness in providing adequate airport facilities, in an address last night at a dinner attended by airmen who participated in Aviation Day events at the Canadian National Exhibition.

"Until the past few weeks Toronto had treated aviation as a quiet sport and nothing more," said Col. Bishop. "With the opening of the Canadian National Exhibition and the Toronto Flying Club, aviation has been disregarded. There is no municipal airport in Toronto and there should be one."

FATAL ACCIDENT WITH GUN

Glen Williams, Ont., Sept. —Shot in the back last night by a rifle in the hands of her brother, Maude Miller, 34, of Glen Williams, died within half an hour. Morris, her brother, said he was unaware the gun was loaded. It was owned by another brother, Alex., and had returned some time ago from a hunting trip.

The woman was to have been married next month.

Alfonso Wants to Own Ranch in Argentina

London, Sept. 8—Former King Alfonso of Spain was credited in the Daily Express today with the intention of buying a large estate in Argentina and moving his family there from Fontainebleau.

Clode de Tavern, scout master to the King, was said to be far away in Santa Fe province looking for a suitable ranch. It was understood that physicians had advised the Prince of the Asturias, the oldest son, that the warm, moist climate of Santa Fe might restore him to health.

THREE CHOIRS FESTIVAL AT GLOUCESTER

(By Thos. T. Changnon, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 9.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Gloucester Cathedral is the meeting place this year for the famous "Three Choirs" Festival, which for more than two centuries has represented the talent of Gloucester, Worcester and Hereford to the world of music.

"Elijah" has been restored to the days with the master. Even if Mendelssohn may be considered by many a back number, it had been deemed a certain venture to drop this oratorio from last year's festival at Hereford after nearly fifty years' consecutive performances. Horace Stevens again appears in the principal role.

A new work for this year's festival is a choral fantasia by Granville Bantock to which a cordial greeting has been extended by the critics. Some, however, express a belief it is too subtle to ever become really familiar. Sir Edward Elgar's "Dream of Gerontius," which follows, changes the character of the festival at the instant.

The festival performances open with Elgar's setting of the National Anthem. One noted critic declares the performance of this is impressive, but not new; an impression as it might be "if the performers were able to forget all the undistinguished arrangements of this majestic melody they have been hearing all their lives."

GOVERNMENT MAJORITY 59

British House on First Division Supports Cabinet

Concomitant to the deliberations a crowd of unemployed persons held a demonstration outside the doors of parliament and 17 of them were arrested for "assaulting, obstructing and insulting" the police. They sang the "red flag" and with red banners inscribed "down with MacDonald" until mounted hobbies broke them up. One man attempted to enter the Commons but was ushered away.

In the later stages of the debate Mr. MacDonald told his hearers of the utmost necessity of stemming the "financial typhoon," "I appeal to all classes and conditions," he said, "to encompass the horrunent on the high road and hen road along which our security and honor and peace have to be found."

Mr. Henderson threw down the gauntlet to his former chief by saying that the crisis was not as serious as the nation had been led to believe and that in any event the great British powers would not have permitted the pound sterling to fall. "In their own interests those elements would never have dared to let British credit fall," he said.

London and provincial newspapers, with one exception, supported the premier's view of the situation, stressing the point that while the formation of the National government has gained a breathing space for the nation the emergency will continue until a programme is put into effect.

But the Daily Herald, labor's mouthpiece, said Mr. MacDonald had committed a blunder and was trying to commit the country to a "banker's policy which is not only one of class interest but of National disaster. He failed to show that capitulation to the demand of British and foreign bankers was the only possible emergency measure.

GERMAN FLEET UNDER LIMIT

Army of 100,000 Men and 4,500 Officers

Geneva, Sept. 9 — Germany's arms statement showing an army of 100,000 men and 4,500 officers and a navy personnel of 15,000 and 1,000 officers was published today by the League of Nations secretariat.

Foreign Minister Julius Curtius in a foreword said that Germany had not yet been able to build her fleet up to the limit laid down in the Versailles treaty and that the report revealed "how meager Germany's armaments are" as compared with other States of corresponding territory and population.

THE FAIR BOARD DEFICIT

Because the elements made Belleville fair crowds smaller than they should have been is no reason for discouragement. The consensus of opinion of all who attended was that in most features it was the finest exhibition that Belleville has ever had.

The trouble as said before, started with wet weather and from then the fair did not recover sufficiently to have large enough crowds to make the two sides of the exhibition ledger balance.

Why more people did not attend is difficult to say, for there were three days on which wet weather conditions were not too bad. Even on Thursday and Friday the attendance did not climb to the highest of former years. The farmers supported the fair with their exhibits and attendance, and the city attendance fell off somewhat.

Perhaps Old Man Time and Time had something to do with it but he has not daunted the Belleville fair board. The deficit of the year which went with the finest exhibition will act as a spur to the officials and directors to make the 1932 fair greater still in the point of exhibits and of attendance.

THE TRICK

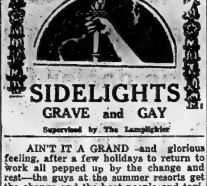
Sportsmen throughout the world cannot help but "queer" after seeing the attitude of Gar Wood towards his British rival Kaye Don in the Harmsworth race when the admiralty trophy was at stake upon his opponent in order to show him "a trick or two."

There places for learning tricks but surely an international event of this kind is no such place. The incident cannot but lead to misunderstanding.

The trick which Wood has confessed was that of leading Don to follow him across the starting line sufficiently ahead of the gun to disqualify Don and of course, Wood.

So sinks the 1931 series of races under a cloud, the one bright spot being the Sunday race when Kaye Don triumphed over his competitor in no uncertain fashion. Now's the time for the old "trick" was typical of British sportsmanship.

The remark of Lord Wakefield, owner of the boat Miss England Second, that nothing mattered but the sportsmanship, was also typical of British sport.



THE KING'S ACTION

King George's request that the civil list be cut two hundred and fifty thousand dollars and the offer of the Prince of Wales cannot but meet with the heartiest expression from the British people. The monarch in the years of the war did a like service to the nation and his action in the present crisis is just another proof of the sanity of British royalty upon all matters relating to the welfare of the nation.

SCIENCE OF WEATHER

The weather plays a great part in the lives of most people and especially of the farmers. Prof. Delury recently spoke on the influence of sunspots upon climatic condition variations. He declared that all forms of life dance to celestial music and that poets long ago forestalled the scientists believing star music inheres in all things that grow, that the sun and moon govern the seasons and that the planet is no independent orb. As the Montreal Gazette states:

"Dr. Delury tells us that the daily turn of the earth upon its axis and the annual revolution about the sun would provide a rhythm allowing for safe and certain prediction of weather variations, apart from any other celestial influences. But there are other celestial agencies to be reckoned with. What about the sunspots which have long been objects of keen interest and discussion amongst astronomers and in scientific circles? How do these solar patches affect our climate? It is said that some of these cloudy blotches or "aural storms" upon the face of Old Sol have attained a area equal to the entire globe. He tells us that the origin of sunspots is still a mystery, but holds that they have a magnetic influence, and that seasons of high temperatures, frequent thunderguts, copious rainfall, cyclonic storms, etc., tally with maximum appearance of sunspot visitation." But of the rhythmic pulsation and reciprocal action hereby acquainted, he apparently is not convinced. Numerous charts were shown dealing with the relation of sunspots to rainfall, annual cycles, famines, agriculture and the like, along with some references to a possible connection between the solar amudde and economic depressions which from time to time upset the world markets. To this theory, however, many other delegates demurred, and amongst them Dr. Huntingdon, of Yale University. There is ample scope for further investigation. Meantime, it is interesting to observe the way in which some of our modern scientists appear to be taking their cue from the immemorial volume of popular folklore about the influence of the celestial orbs upon the weather and the crops. Of sunspots the farmers know nothing. The 'Man in the Moon' is their guide, philosopher and friend. 'Plant in the dark of the moon', 'When the hills look clear, then rain is near.' A ring round the moon means a storm. A moon with horn-points upwards signifies wet weather. Such are a few of the proverbs which have gained wide credence amongst the farmers, who closely watch the weather. Perchance there is a fundamental element of truth in the jingles and ditties which have secured so firm a footing in the rural philosophy."

SIDELIGHTS
GRAVE and GAY

Supervised by The Lamplighter

AIN'T IT A GRAND and glorious feeling, after a few holidays to return to work? Be pepped up by the change and rest—the guys at the summer resorts get the change and the boat people and taxidermy get the joking aside, and vacation be it ever so short, is invigorating, that stale feeling just brushes off and things that looked dark and hostile before you naturally brighten up and look brighter, while tasks that seemed huge as mountains before just appear a little hills. Even if you only sit on the verandah and watch the world go by on wheels and heels the change is beneficial. Even if you can't sleep in the morning, sometimes you lay awake most of the night just to give the alarm clock the laugh and sleep those hours away between six and nine o'clock. But when your vacation includes a trip on the water, say through Quinte waters to Alexandria Bay, Clayton, Gananoque and through the Thousand Islands, the mind is a mirror of memories of many islands clad in living green, dotted by the breeze of water, of cottages and castles and many beautiful flower gardens, adding the skill of the horticulturist to the bounties of Nature in her kindest and most lavish mood. Comes the thought, in this enchanted fairy land of one thousand and more islands famed the world over for surpassing beauty and grandeur, there is room for thousands of people to find unforgettable days and fairyland nights, and so few comparatively taking advantage of it, preferring the city and the unforgettable intoxication of speed madness to the quiet cleanness and beauty of the narrow winding channels and beautiful camping places of the Thousand Islands. Years ago, before motor madness drew people away from the lakes and rivers Bay of Quinte waters and the Thousand Islands drew thousands daily and during the week-end many excursion boats were crowded with pleasure seekers, while rowing, sailing and motor boating were favorite forms of sport and recreation—folks were better for it, too. By and by wages will come back and the cleanest, healthiest and best of all sports.

BRITISH SPORTSMANSHIP is the high peak of good, clean sportsmanship, recognized as such throughout the entire sporting world. This fact again comes startlingly to the fore as the result of the Harmsworth Cup speed boat race fiasco at Detroit. Considerable has been said about the circumstances which resulted in the British challenger being disqualified and sunk, not without trace fortunately, and all of it is uncomplimentary to Yankee sportsmanship, the whole affair leaving a very bad taste, to say the least. Adverse comment is not confined to the British Empire either, for United States sportswriters are not slow to express disapproval and suspicion of the whole proceeding. The radio sports editor of the Chicago Tribune said many sizzling things Monday night about the affair and referred to what he called "Yankee Sportsmanship," in the Detroit affair. He also drew attention to an athletic meet at Atlantic City, New Jersey, held recently, where all the events were running an hour late. One of the events was a distance walk in which a Toronto athlete entered. This chap's train got him in twenty minutes late and he found that the walk had started. He jumped into the race and finished ahead and the Chicago announcer said that he could have beaten the bunch if he had started an hour behind. Another case of "Yankee Sportsmanship," according to the Chicago Tribune radio sport authority. We seem to remember, too, some things in connection with the America Cup races in which Sir Thomas Lipton and others had experience, but, of course, that's another story.

Other Papers' Opinions

THOSE "JUNGLES"

Some time ago there was consternation among well-meaning folk of Toronto about the conditions under which certain people were living in the so-called "Don Flats jungle." There, with the advent of spring, a community had developed almost overnight, it was discovered, among the reeds and flats of patchwork dwellings and lean-tos. With bits of tarpaper, boards, tins and metal the shelters were fashioned and the well meaning folk were horrified when we referred said it was deplorable and averred that the authorities should step in and put a stop to it. Now, these objectors are not a community spirit the use to which the Don flats were being put, but appear a little blind to the shack tenants. It was with their activities apparently not interfered and it came as a distinct surprise to them to be informed that the authorities had no desire to make a change and wished only to be left alone. There, then was no official action and the community, if it has one, is thriving, at least has the sanction of the officials of York county Council gave way to summer, now autumn has rolled around and in a short time winter will be here. Then the dwellers of Don flats are not to be considered, for the inclemencies of winter there all winter.

Every one is looking forward to the day when there will be work for all and nobody, not even the residents of these "jungles," will begrudge their prepetuation. But the people of Toronto are unforgiving in the human breast and when men who have not the wherewithal to maintain other residences "go back to nature" and try to make the best of their lot, they are deserving of sympathetic understanding.—Hamilton Spectator.

THE SCHNEIDER CONTEST

There will be widespread regret that the Schneider Cup contest which is to be given over the Solent on September 12th will be only a test of speed this year and not a race. The announcement that France and Italy have withdrawn their teams naturally removes the very important sporting element from the event, for the chances that present holder of the cup, the undisputed possessor of it, will be lost for another year if not for an indefinite period.

It would not be surprising if the Schneider Trophy were not flown for some time to come, following the withdrawal of the two other contestants this year. The contest postponed till Governments be individual can take effect and for the sense. The cost of building the machines is great, and once more they are little more than "museum pieces". The very joy of each contestant's flying days must be strained intensively (far too often with fatal accidents to the pilots over the coming event) and all kinds of technical expenses combine to make the Schneider race one of the most costly, as it is probably the most thrilling and exacting, of the world's sporting events.—Montreal Star.

LET THE ONES ACTUALLY IN WANT BE TAKEN CARE OF

Hon. Oliddon Robertson, Minister of Labor, states that Canada employed except 530,000. But it must not be taken for granted that this number of Canadians are actually in work.

Cases have been uncovered where fairly well to do people have had their names registered in order to get them sent to the northern labor camps to keep them off relief.

Other cases are reported, where men working on farms all summer have registered to make sure of all winter jobs as well.

It is charged too that this "pretended" class have tried to use political pull to get the list of early starters.

Of course, it is hard to discriminate, but as far as possible the authorities should endeavor to give the early jobs to men who are actually in need or who have families dependent on them, for others can be taken care of later.—Toronto Telegram.

IS FOUND SAFE

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 9—Searchers early today found R. C. Walker, Toronto man, who was lost in the woods near Westover. He was unharmed but tired from wandering some nine hours in the dense bush.

Walker, yesterday went for a drive with his wife and left her to go fishing. When he had not returned in the evening, she became alarmed and sought aid.

BLOWTORCHES FREE MASS OF TRAPPED PASSENGERS AFTER TRAM HITS SWITCH

71 Persons Caught in Radial Wreck at Windsor

RADIAL BURNS

Border Hospitals Filled and Available Doctors Called

Windsor, Sept. 9—Seventy-one persons, en route to a picnic and field meet, were injured here Tuesday night when a street car, filled with people, ran through an open switch and turned over.

The vehicle caught fire almost immediately, and firemen and police were compelled to use acetylene torches to free some of those imprisoned in the wreck.

Ambulances ranged all along the street and a triage assignment was rushed to the scene. The street car turned when it went on the tidal flats of the black night. Many of the injured were pinned fast, and as the flames approached them.

Second Car Jumps.

Those injured were en route to Devonshire Park, where the Ford Motor Co. employees were holding its annual picnic and field day. Travelling on Howard Avenue, the main thoroughfare of the city, the street car was proceeding at a fast pace when it struck the switch.

It bumped heavily as it ran off the rails, and finally tore up and then slowly turned over. The fire started almost immediately.

Screams of fear and pain and demonium as the passengers tried desperately to escape from the broken windows and doors of the overturned car.

Every available ambulance in the city was rushed to the scene and the injured were taken to hospitals.

The street car fell on its side at right angles to the track after it had been jumping. Firemen used their axes to release the trapped passengers.

Motorman, whose names had not been ascertained at the hospital, is under arrest pending inquiry, and did not live, doctors declared. A small child was feared had sustained a fractured skull and the motorman of the street car was unconscious at midnight.

At least 100 were aboard the car when it capsized as it jumped the tracks it collided with a telephone pole, and the car, turning, was turned over. The accident occurred at a heavily frequented spot on Howard Avenue. Lights on the car were immediately were extinguished and the screams of pain and humanity fought and clawed in its efforts to fight itself and to freedom. Some of the injured could be heard for blocks.

Motorman Walker, driver of a car following the first one, phoned police that the car had stopped traffic. He asked motorists to turn on the headlights of their machines on the scene. Immediately the command neared an automobile and proceeded to Devonshire Park where he gave the alarm. A squad of firemen from the west side station, Tuphill rushed to the scene. By this time hundreds of volunteer workers had rescued many persons.

Searchlights Used

Several others were pinned by the car, however, and it was not until after the arrival of the firemen that it was raised and they were released. The ambulances from the street railway arrived a few minutes later and turned powerful searchlights on the scene.

Firemen and others repeatedly fell into a deep hole when the car carried out the injured on stretchers.

For about an hour 15 minutes shrieking of police cars and ambulances was heard almost constantly as they dashed to the scene.

Before rescuers could reach the scene the crippled car was a riot of struggling men and women struggling to get out of the trap.

Their panic was heightened by the fact that the overhead power wire which fell to the ground when the car in its plunge felled a light pole.

The accident happened at a point where the city cars turn ordinarily by the Windsor, Essex & Lake Shore Rapid Ry. The car passed over the first switch at the loop safely, but about two car-lengths further on an open switch faced the end switch into the loop. It crashed on its left side completely clear of the tracks.

Many of the young from the rails it knocked down one of the large poles carrying the trolley lines and live wires, which fell across the car in the nearby rails, endangering the rescuers, who as they were forced to labor in the dark.

DEATHS

COULTER—In Thurlow Township, Tuesday, September 8th, 1931, Martha J. Faulkner, beloved wife of Thomas Coulter in her 74th year.

The funeral will take place from the late residence of her daughter, Mrs. J. O. Huffman, Stirling, on Thurlow, on Thursday, September 10th, 1931. Service at the house at 2.30 p.m. Interment in Victoria Cemetery.

A young girl found $1,000 in bills in some straw placed about a peach tree for fertilizer, near Gainesville, Ga. Three similar bills came from the mattress used by a woman who died more than a year ago.

Submarine Nautilus Returns to Home Base

Longvear City, Spitsbergen, Sept. 9 (AP).—Sir Hubert Wilkins began overhauling and refueling the submarine Nautilus today in preparation for an early return to America, either direct or by way of Iceland.

The chief damage done on his cruise into the Arctic was the break ing of the mast by a violent storm. The radio apparatus also was harm ed but repaired on the way back. The party expressed satisfaction with the working of its scientific instruments, especially the gyro-compass.

GOVERNMENT MAJORITY 59

British House on First Division Supports Cabinet

London, Sept. 9—The National Government Tuesday night scored its first victory. In an unusually large division, the government won it a vote of confidence by a majority of 59. The vote was 309 to 250; 250; Government majority, 59.

It was the first day of the emergency session called to consider a means of meeting the financial crisis. Early estimates conceded the Government majority between 40 and 60 votes. The actual figure was therefore within one of the maximum.

Voting with the majority were 13 Labor members, including Premier MacDonald, Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Dominion Secretary, and four other ministers. All the Conservatives and Liberals supported the Government, as did three of the Independent members.

Three other Independents, including Oliver Baldwin, son of the Conservative leader, voted against the government. The four Mosley members supported the opposition and three Labor members abstained from voting.

New Shoals in Superior Menace to Navigation

Fort Arthur, Ont., Sept. 9.—Their investigation having revealed what is said to be a very real danger to navigation on Lake Superior in the new shoals discovered in Canadian waters and brought into prominence in local waters during the past week, the possible cause of map mysterious marine disturbances members of the Lakehead branch of the Canadian Navigation Facilities Committee decided to make a strong effort toward having the dangerous waters marked by the Dominion government with up-to-date whistling buoys.

The shoal is said to have been known for several years to fishermen on the American side of Lake Superior and is shown on United States charts of the lake. It was unknown to Canadians, however, till American boats were discovered in the fishing grounds near the shoal which is entirely in Canadian waters.

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—The question of the Lake Superior shoals has, it is understood, been before the Department of Marine for some time. While no official statement could be secured it is believed that the Department's attitude toward the matter is one of installing navigation safeguards in that locality is unchanged.

The mirror never returns good for evil.

Government Thinks Seasonal Workers Registered as Unemployed

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 9.—Reports that the Provincial Government is contemplating asking remedy alleged padding of municipal unemployment figures have been current here since September. Registration listed approximately 130,000 married and single men, but the Government is said to believe a good many thousands could be eliminated. Children of school-age, farmers' sons and farm help, and seasonal workers are said to have enlisted in great numbers for jobs on Ontario links of the trans-Canada highway.

SEVEN COMMUNISTS ARRESTED

Kirkland Lake, Ont., Sept. 9.—Seven Communists are under arrest and six policemen are nursing their bruises as a result of a riot at a Red meeting here last night. Ordered by police to move from a street corner the Reds defied police to arrest them. When a shower of water were turned on them, the Communists retaliated with stones.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

LATE HERBERT W. PRINDLE

The funeral of the late Herbert W. Prindle took place from his late residence, 5th Concession of Thurlow Township, on Saturday. Service was held at the house at 2 p.m., and at Carmel United Church at 2.30. Rev. Mervin Huffman officiated, assisted by Rev. E. Farnsworth of Belleville, conducted the funeral service. The funeral was very largely attended by many friends and of Mr. Prindle and the many beautiful floral tributes which were in evidence the high esteem in which the deceased was held in the community. The bearers were Messrs. H. E. Gerow, J. Patterson, J. Reynolds, Geo. Gerow, Wm. Gerow and Clement. Interment was made in Elmwood cemetery.

MARTHA J. COULTER

Correct Manners

MIDNIGHT SAILING

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Will you kindly advise me if it is, or is not, correct to wear evening dress when going aboard ship at night, preparatory to making an ocean voyage?

J. C.

It is the custom now, when one's boat sails at midnight, for theatre shoots, to wear the evening clothes that one may have worn to a dinner if one comes from the dinner to the steamer.

THE CHAPERON

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

1. A young man of my acquaintance invited my brother and me to spend the week-end—at his camp, his mother making up the fourth member of the group. At the last minute, it was impossible for his mother to go, and he telephoned to ask me whether I still cared to go. Although I realized he had made extensive plans, and although I have known him for some time, I refused the invitation on the advice of my mother. Was she justified, and correct in doing so, or would the presence of my mother have made it conventional to go?

2. And still another question. Is it correct for a small club of mixed young people, twelve to be exact, to go on a one night camping trip without a chaperone? Many of them consider a chaperon old-fashioned, but I do not pair off, and consider myself one of them consider a chaperon old-fashioned, but I do not pair off, and consider ourselves more like a family group?

Thank you for your assistance.

1. Your mother and you showed excellent judgment in refusing when you decided that it would be best for you not to go on this visit, since the business was not to be present. It was indeed the polite and correct thing to do, and the boy's mother, I am sure, would not have wished you to do so otherwise.

2. It would be better taste and better form to have an older person accompany this group.

Fashionably Speaking

By Lucille

Dear Readers:

Sports attire this season adopted somewhat the longer skirt and coats and dress costumes carried out this idea. It is true that the vogue for shorts was introduced early in the season, and that a startled audience at Wimbledon was aghast when one of the popular feminine stars appeared in an adaptation of the mode. It is believed that the sense one whispered to the wearer that such innovations were a little too drastic for it is doubtful if the mode was accepted. For the tailored tennis, tennis is the most conventionalized sport. White, and white only is the accepted color. The dash of color in an outfit is permissible in the accessories which is donned after the game. To enter the court in a colored dress is to commit the most conspicuous faux pas of one's career.

With the sports attire more feminine, the more comfortable mode has been on the wane. In New York it is true that it is still the rage. No one can deny that it would be far more comfortable to play tennis, golf, or what-have-you in shorts. While

REDWINGS IN PURSUIT OF NEWARK TEAM

Rochester Steps Up With Win For Win with Leaders

BOONE'S HITTING

(By The Associated Press)

The Rochester Redwings, International League champions for the last three years, are by no means ready to concede the 1931 pennant to the Newark Bears.

The Bears still were on top of the heap today, a game and a half in the good, but the Redwings are muddling each Bear victory with one of their own, refusing to be shaken off.

Newark made it three in a row over Jersey City yesterday, but Rochester came up grimly with a 10-7 baseball fest on Montreal's inning victory over the Montreal Royals, 6-4.

Some resounding clouting by Ike Boone and George Quellich was responsible for Newark's victory. Boone drove in three runs with a triple and two singles while Quellich accounted for a homer with a double. Al Mamaux, Newark manager, started the game but had to expand for the Bears but had to relive in the third inning when he felt the knee by a line drive. Al Harvin finished up in fine style.

Montreal tied the score on Rochester on successive hits by Nehergall and Dick Allen in the ninth inning, but only to see the Redwings win out in the tenth on Geo. Sisler's single, scoring Roger from second base. Ralph Judd's relief hurling was a feature of the Rochester triumph. He went in for Moss in the ninth with none out and held Montreal hitless the rest of the way.

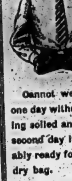
Reading outpointed the Baltimore Orioles, 11-8, in a night game, a cost ly defeat for the third place Orioles who still are seven full striking distance of the top. Reading pounded out thirteen hits and scored when they meant runs. George Kirch went the route for Reading although touched for twelve hits including three doubles by Ryan, Baltimore second-sacker.

Toronto slugged its way into a tie with Buffalo with a four-run assault in the eighth inning of a game at St. Buffalo only to see the Bisons come back with four runs of their own in the last half of the game and a 10-6 victory. Buffalo collected 19 hits with Tucker driving in five runs with a home run and a single.

IS FOURTH IN CLASS OF 24

Tom Byrnes, B.C.I. Student, Starts Career Well With the Air Force

Tom Byrnes, student at the Belleville Collegiate Institute for the past four years and active in the branches of the school's activity received the congratulations of the many friends on a visit to his home over the holiday from Camp Borden. Tommy as he is known to the younger set of the city and the sporting organizations has improved himself in aeronautics, being accepted last year as a student at the Royal Flying Corps base at Camp Borden and this year successfully passed fourth in a class of 24, a remarkable standing, which reflects great credit on Bill which reflects great credit on Bill young man. He has signed up for three years with the Air Force of Canada, and will emerge from that training base a competent and no doubt successful pilot.



During his career at the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School, Tom was interested in sports, although he did not allow his studies to be neglected while at he was always well up when the academic standings were announced. He was a member of the school hockey team and played on two teams that entered the Provincial Interscholastic play-downs, he was also a member and for one year captain of the rugby football team. He was also a member of the fall, when school champion ships were handed out on field day performances and during all his athletic career played the game fair and clean by the team's rule. The social side of school life was not forgotten as he took part in the Literary Society and was the life of the party, when the students held their social gatherings. He is an accomplished musician and his orchestra was in demand for many the school dances. The youngster set will regret his leaving the city but will wish for his success in his chosen field of life's work.

GEORGE WOOD IDLES ALONG RIVER COURSE

Question Yet to Be Settled Whether 1931 Event Was Race

BOAT RAISED

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9.—Miss America VII loafed around the Detroit River course alone at 50.849 miles an hour yesterday in what may or may not have been the third heat of the Harmsworth Trophy race.

Two days after Gar Wood, United States defender and Kaye Don, British challenger, were disqualified in Monday's heat for crossing the start ing line ahead of the gun, no one knew for certain whether there was a Harmsworth race.

The International Racing Commission ruled Monday evening the 1931 attempt to lift the emblem of water speed supremacy was "no race".

Yesterday, Gar Wood's brother, George, who piloted Miss America VIII to last place in Monday's heat, which Don won with a record breaking average speed of 92.915 miles an hour, and who was the only driver to finish Monday's heat, protested the "no race" ruling. As a qualified member of the United States team, he demanded the right to run the third heat and thus "win" the trophy for the United States, rather than allow it to remain here solely on a challenger's disqualification.

W. D. Edenburn of Detroit, representative of the Yachtsmen's Association of America on the racing commission, granted Wood's request. He said, however, Charles F. Chapman, of New York, the other member of the commission, would have to concur in his ruling before the "no race" could be altered.

From New York last night came word that Chapman was of the opinion that the 1931 renewal should stand as "no race". He added, however, his belief that it is a question for the Yachtsmen's Association, as the international authority, to decide.

Edenburn had left Detroit for Toronto last night before the word from Chapman was received.

The point at issue is whether any name shall go into the records of the International competition and on the trophy plaque as the 1931 winner.

If Edenburn's ruling of yesterday, that Miss America VIII "won" the race by completing half of the thirty mile distance, the name of a 13-year old boy probably will be recorded as the winner. He is Garfield Arthur Wood, Jr., son of Gar Wood, who has held the trophy since 1920. He is listed as owner of the only boat to complete the race. George Wood's name under those circumstances would go into the list as the driver of the winning boat.

Mrs. Gar Wood, mother of the youthful "winner" yesterday added her request that the race be completed by the protest of George Wood against the commission's previous ruling.

Don's ill-fated Miss England II, which was salvaged by crews of the Fire-boat from Gar Wood's Miss America IX at the first turn Monday, was raised from the bed of the Detroit River yesterday. Its hull was badly damaged, while the powerful motors which had driven her to a world speed-way record of 110.223 miles an hour in Italian waters, had suffered from sudden immersion while hot from high speed. They will be repaired at the Ford Motor Company of Canada plant in East Windsor, Ont.

BERG HOPEFUL TO LICK TONY

Thinks Hoodoo of Chicago Completely Worn Off

New York, Sept. 9.—Jack Berg bases a strong belief that he will whip champion Tony Canzoneri in their 10-round lightweight championship match at the Polo Grounds tomorrow night on the fact that the battle will take place in New York.

The mauling British battler points to the fact that Jack has never been beaten in a New York ring, all of the defeats that mar his record having been suffered in other sectors of the fistic battlefield.

Chicago has been Berg's particular hoodoo city. He was stopped there by Billy Petrolle and Canzoneri knocked him out in three rounds in the same city last April when Berg made his first bid for Tony's 136-pound diadem. In New York Berg gained decisions over Petrolle and Canzoneri.

Whatever Berg's own opinion of the outcome of the match, the betting fraternity is content to string along with the champion. Prospects are that Canzoneri would enter the ring a 2 to 1 favorite.

Unless the CIAOO girls perform miracles this evening at Kingston the baseball season will be over in Belleville for another year. Looking back over the season's play we find that after leading the Central League all season the Belleville Nationals were put out of the running by the Kingston Frontenacs after a fine three game series.

The Victoria, Belleville's intermediate team, also led their league all season only to drop into third place in the play-off in the second place Sulphide team. The Moose Jaulers were always ahead of the Ex. R. A. A. A. kids in the Hastings County junior league but in the play-offs the second place team, the R. A. A. A., were victorious. We merely wish to show the fact that in all cases, locally, the second place team has represented the league into the O. B. A. A. play downs.

The advisability of returning to the old system of the winning team in each series continuing on into the O.B.A.A. play-offs should be well considered for more reason than one. The main reason being that it should give a better class of ball during the scheduled season as the players would have to step out and win all games and not be satisfied to get out in front and then beat along, as here-to-fore.

This question is not brought forward because the present teams were eliminated by the second place team but for the fact that the idea is scorned upon by American baseball men who are recognized as authority in baseball matters. The main reason of their objection, being that most anything may happen in a three game series. Which might result in the better team being eliminated.

This question should be dealt with by the executive of the various leagues next year and let them point out the advantages and disadvantages of the above question.

Which reminds us that now is the time to organize for next year's ball team. There is much work to be done locally and the question should be brought before the club as soon as possible. Delays are dangerous.

The promoters are working over-time to try and put on a boxing show in the City Hall some time the end of this month. All the promoters need now is the co-operation of the Police Department to go ahead with their programme. Which by the way is a very good one. The date has not been set yet.

The members of the sporting department of The Ontario-Intelligencer were honoured yesterday afternoon by a visit from Mrs. Stanley Stasiak, wife of the great Polish wrestler, and her two German Police Dogs, Rex and Fritz. Mr. Stasiak is at present in the Belleville General Hospital, under-going treatment for a fractured arm. The dogs are huge animals and it is about all Mrs. Stasiak can do to keep them in leash.

The animals are very friendly but will not allow one to interfere with their master or mistress. They obey all commands of their mistress with lightning speed and it is said about Mr. Stasiak that he has never spoken in harsh tones to his wife that her husband was not sure but what he received the injury to his arm. Mr. Stasiak, the Polish Lion, has now been billed during the next ten days but may have to cancel them on account of his recent injury.

Mrs. Stasiak is very proud of her two dogs, Baron and Fritz. She stated that her husband had been insured for $600.00 such is the value of good train-ed police dogs. (Sic!) It may be wise to say that unless Mrs. Stasiak gives out great news it would be poor policy to try and mix up with either Baron or Fritz.

WILL BABE TAKE A CUT

Two more years as a player is what Babe Ruth gives himself and then it is the ambition to take a second division ball team and rebuild it into a pennant winner. "I have a lot of ideas about running a ball team and I would like to try them out," says the baathlon. Part '37 and playing his 18th season in the American league, Ruth looks good for those two years at least and the way he has been slamming the pill this year doesn't seem to indicate that he has come to the end of this tether. The dabs of popularity and and his hitting are going to come up to a lot of discussion this winter when his present two-year $30,000 contract expires. He says he certainly is going to ask for another big contract. Colonel Jake Ruppert may think that the depression justifies cutting the Babe's salary but the latter will have plenty of opportunities pointing to the fact that he still commands the big drawing card for his team. MILLAR WINS C. N. E. DERBY

Peterboro Youth 2 Minutes Ahead in Race

Toronto, Sept. 9.—Leading home more than a score of the premier drivers of the Dominion, Millar, youthful Peterboro pilot, roared past the grand stand before thousands who crowded the waterfront at the Canadian National Exhibition at 6 o'clock last night to win the 443-mile air derby across Western Ontario and outpointed the $5,500 cash prize.

Flying a de Haviland Gypsy Moth which had seen strenuous service in the wilds of Northern Ontario for more than a year, Millar crossed the finish line with the roar of a flock of planes flighting for second place, directly behind him. Less than two minutes after Millar had led the way to victory, W. Drury of St. Catharines, last to leave the Leaside Reid Rambler, Beverly Briscoe of Chatham followed him over the line only 25 seconds after to win third place. Drury was piloting a model, Norman Irwin of Whitby, a mechanic for Reid Aeroplanes. Millar came in five seconds after Briscoe to take fourth place. Drury won $1,500, Briscoe $750 and Irwin $350.

World Denies Plot to Lure Kaye Don Across

Detroit, Sept. 9.—Gar Wood at his Grayhaven home, desperately sought last night to stem the rising tide of popular disapproval. In an interview with the United Press he said reports had misinterpreted his statement which was taken to be an admission that he planned to lure Don across the line.

"Reports such as plot are absurd," he said. "We didn't have time to think up such a thing. But we knew our boat wouldn't ride well in rough water and we knew he would have difficulty in ours. So before the start I said to my mechanic Rupert Johnson, 'Your get in front of him and stay there and block him.' Johnson did that. I can't jump on us. I'll sock you with the entire engineer'."

That's the only 'plot' we made. Don had repeatedly told us he had his start perfectly timed, and we assumed he wouldn't beat the gun. When we started to open the throttle he tried to pass us and Orlin simply carried out my orders and kept in the lead. I paid little attention to the time because all I could think of was Miss England behind us. I didn't know we were disqualified until Kaye came on the end Don

Rev. W. Harold Reid Resigns Heavy Duties Of Charge

Is Complimented By Presbytery on His Fine Work

FOXBORO MEETING

Already every minister in the Presbytery of Kingston responded to the call to meet at the assembly hall Foxboro, which was held this morning. Rev. Dr. Stephen of Knox Church, Napanee, was moderator of the meeting and Rev. Mr. Hall, Bath, was elected clerk. Rev. Mr. Hall was also appointed to represent the Presbytery at the Synod meeting.

Rev. G. E. Mundell, B. A. Cr.th., T. C. D., Rural Dean, A. M., Rector of Christ Church, Deseronto, was welcomed as a visitor to the meeting.

Several reports from the clerk for printing, postage and other incidentals were submitted and ordered to be paid.

Rev. A. E. Cameron reported that Mr. Paul S. Bowerman, Bath, had had heard several candidates, out as far East as Napanee, without a selection. He was commended for his diligence and thanked for his work in hearing additional candidates.

Mr. Mackenzie presented a report relative to the General Assembly that is to be held in Winnipeg next month. It was considered best to defer the consideration of this to the December meeting.

Resignation Accepted

The clerk read a letter from Rev. W. Harold Reid, B. A., Bath, tendering his resignation of the charge of Fredericksburgh and Bath, Ontario, and speaking on his own behalf said that the work of such a large charge is a heavy one for any minister, and for that reason he addressed the Presbytery. The Presbytery accepted the resignation with considerable regret, and appointed a sermon moderator of the vacancy. The pulpit will be declared vacant on October 4th. Many complimentary things were said of Mr. Reid's work in the Presbytery, and in the city. It was with evident regret that presbytery parted with Mr. Reid.

Rev. A. N. Reid reported for home missions. He recommended that a grant of $1,000 be applied for in Lennox Island. That all correspondence, relating to the trust funds received, should be shipped to Mr. Harrowsmith manse be given to Rev. A. N. Reid, Bath, and that whatever action he may consider advisable in the circumstances, and that inasmuch as this year marks the 25th anniversary of the establishment of Rev. James Robertson as Superintendent of Missions in the Yukon, the Northwest Territories and British Columbia, and also the 60th anniversary of the Presbyterian Church, G. L. MacKay to China, that exhibits and mementos should be recommended to observe the anniversary in whatever way they deem best calculated to stimulate a missionary spirit in the congregations. These recommendations were all heartily adopted.

On motion of Rev. S. M. Scott, seconded by Rev. W. H. Reid the following resolution was adopted:

That the Presbytery of Kingston in recognition of the troublous times now facing, not only our own country, but the world at large, undertake at once to give concerted leadership through the Presbytery that our people humble themselves before Almighty God in prayer and supplication on such date as may be fixed throughout the world and continue to do so at frequent and stated seasons throughout the next three months and that a committee be appointed to prepare definite directives to be used uniformly during that period; further that the members of this Court meet with the people of this Presbytery in connection in their prayer meeting to be held this evening for that purpose; and that the whole situation be reviewed at the December meeting of the Court with a view to the continuance of supplication for Divine guidance and help in these days of extremity."

In accordance with the above resolution Rev. Dr. Seymour and Mearthvish and Mr. I. L. Moore were appointed a committee to carry out the provisions of it.

It was agreed to recommend Mr. J. A. Revell, a student who is now laboring in the Sudbury congregation as a Sabbath school worker under upon studies for the ministry.

Rev. Mr. Registering, College in Montreal.

Similarly Mr. John Leitch, of Bellerville, was recommended to the same institution for the ministry.

Rev. A. N. Reid, Stirling, stated that St. Andrew's Church there would hold a short time celebrate the 50th anniversary of its founding. The congregation of Rev. D. C. Hood was appointed to represent the Presbytery on that occasion.

The next regular meeting of the Presbytery will be held in St. Andrew's Church, Kingston, on December 8th, at ten o'clock Standard time.

19 ARRESTED IN SMUGGLING

Ring Claimed to Have Made Twenty Million Dollars

New York, N.Y., Sept. 9.—Nineteen men have been arrested in an investigation of a ring which, Federal officials say, has smuggled 4,000 immigrants into the United States for fees totalling $20,000,000.

The Department of Justice and the Department of Labor have been co-operating for nearly eight months. The scheme of the smugglers, officials said, was to charge each alien from $500 to $1,000 to bring him or her to this country and to bestow a certificate of residence on threat of deportation.

Revelations were made at the Federal District Attorney's office following the arraignment of the Isaiah Friedlander, a New York manufacturer of Jewish descent, and Joseph Kogan, a Canadian. They were specifically charged with conspiring to bring baby Kogan into the country illegally.

There have been several arrests during the last week of employees of steamship lines and clerks at the Ellis Island immigration station and at the barge office in New York. Many aliens and immigrants were arrested.

William M. Doak, Secretary of Labor, gave some intimation of the round-up during a luncheon at Delmonico's. Mr. Doak, a Georgian, Tenn., when he said that twenty or more persons would soon be arrested.

JEWELLER

"Over 70 Years of Jewellery Satisfaction"

THE GAY BANDIT OF THE BORDER

by TOM GILL.

"Better tell it, major. That shirt stud can't stand the strain much longer."

The old soldier tried to combine a smile of assurance to Sgt. Jones with a withering glare of disapproval at his wife.

"Nothing important," he began, making his voice elaborately casual. "The boys captured a Mexican skulking around the corrals. We're wounded slightly, and I want Dr. Price to have a look at him in the office."

"How was he wounded?"

"They're not sure. When the Mexican cavalry raided El Coyote's camp one day, we were making off among the mesquite. The Mexicans fired on him, without effect. When the big-hearted chap he dumped and they found a dent in his head. It's just possible that we've got one of El Coyote's men. So if he isn't making too much, I'd like Senor Morales and Don Bob to take a look at him. We may learn something."

"I suppose," commented Aunt Clara primly, "this is your idea of how to conduct a bridge game?"

"Dear, a soldier—"

"Don't finish it! I know. I'm going to let this game go, this once, but today." She turned to Dr. Price. "You will find pan-tapes in the desk near the table. Call me if there is anything else. And leave Ted Raddiffe here in case the rest of El Coyote's band drop in for a hand of contract."

Silently the four men walked out into the night, following the flashlight of the enemy, a clump of tamarix flanked the low building which all Verdi knew as the major's office. The soldiers had shifted the side with their prisoner, and as the major strolled in the light all eyes turned toward the captive, standing between two tall troopers. He was small, very dark, and his shoulders drooped either with pain, or with weariness, the weight of his body rested on the left leg. Dr. Price stepped forward.

"Speak English?"

The Mexican shook his head.

"They never speak English until they want something," the doctor muttered. Then, to Morales: "Please tell him to sit down there. Tell him I may hurt him a little. Bob, fill that bath, will you?"

Swiftly the doctor cut the cloth from about the wound and examined the discolored flesh. Once the man gave a sharp sigh of pain, and Bob put a lighted cigarette between his lips. In mute thanks the Mexican's heavy eyes were raised to the face of the doctor, then lowered again.

"Anyone here ever seen him?" asked the major.

"NEVER KNEW IT TO FAIL"

I HAVE used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my family for years and never knew it to fail to help. My four girls have all used it.

"I recommend Vegetable Compound to middle aged women. There is nothing better for that tired feeling we know so well.

"It helped my nervousness very much, and built me up."—Mrs. W. G. Jones, Gainford, Alberta.

Lydia E. Pinkham's VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Morales and Don Bob regarded him closely.

"Never," said Morales at last.

Don Bob shrugged his shoulders. "His face looks familiar, but one can't be sure. Will he talk?"

"The soldiers can't speak Spanish. Let's see what Morales can get out of him."

"Where do you come from?" began Morales in Spanish.

The captive made no reply.

"Answer me. Where are you from? What is your name?"

Again silence, and the flush on the major's face deepened.

"A few days in the guard-house may help him remember." Then to a soldier, "Search his pockets."

Quickly the contents of the prisoner's coat were spread on the table. A bag of tobacco, crumpled cigarette papers and matches, a bundle of ravelde string—the soldier gave a quick whistle of surprise. "Good bird's sure well-heeled." He held up two twenty-dollar gold pieces.

Instantly Morales pounced on them. "Pay Maria!" He carried them nearer the light. "Almost I could swear to it—"

"Let me see!" The major's voice was eager.

"And they are of the same bag I paid Lopez.

"Too many every gold piece was marked?"

"No. Not marked. I grant, of course, there are other twenty-dollar gold pieces in the world, but see, these are new—as were the ones I had from the bank. And what would that be doing in the two pieces of gold? I think, major, you have caught one of El Coyote's band."

Perhaps El Coyote himself," suggested Don Bob, smiling.

"Hardly that." The Spaniard looked menacingly down at the captive, "If one could only make this fellow talk. Perhaps Diciembre is worth of a surenese speak."

Then Bob and Diciembre had disagreeing. "The wound doesn't look bad," Diciembre said at the home of the whole thing's inflamed. Don't move him any more than you have had enough. Can you keep him here?"

"He'd be safer in the guard-house."

"Well, a man with a leg like that isn't going to break any long distance runs for a week. You look here and put twenty or thirty non-coms over him!"

Bloomf smiled at his friend's impatience. "All right. I'll have the guard keep an eye on him. We may want a long talk with this fellow tomorrow morning. I don't think El Coyote, Well, let's go back to the house."

"Inside, Major Bloomf confined his talk to the fact that the Mexican had been wounded in the leg and captured."

"Probably the girl's husband," suggested Aunt Clara hopefully, and there the matter was dropped. It was too late to resume; indeed, and so a new meeting later Bloomfield found himself eying Adela's cloak about her shoulders.

"I'm wondering," he said without smile, "if you remember I'd wake up and discover you never existed."

She looked up at him, so close he caught the fragrance of perfume in her hair, and her eyes were a little mocking. "Perhaps you have just created never did exist. At any rate, dear stranger, come to us next siesta. And now, as we say in my country, 'Hasta la vista.'" She touched his hand in a little gesture of farewell, and followed her uncle out into the night.

As he stood looking after her, Don Bob joined him. "We've a lot to talk about before you go to bed tonight. Let's be going."

To Radcliffe the voice of the elder man sounded suddenly weary, and in a few moments they had taken leave of the Blounts.

Radcliffe settled down as Don Bob drove rapidly over the long, moonlit road that led from the mountains. Gardenias floated the scent of jasmine and the pungent odor of mesquite, and as they left the town behind them he breathed again the hot, dry desert air. Dimly he caught the silhouettes of low-roofed adobe, hinting that vague, mysterious land of old Mexico.

He wanted to talk, but the graying man beside him seemed so sternly silent, and somehow forbidding. He leaned forward to light a cigarette, and was aware that the other's eyes were on him.

"What were you thinking, Ted?" the older man asked.

"Just then I was thinking of the freedom of life out here and the friendliness of everyone, and I recalled something dad once said—that if you trust life—trust it absolutely and with utter faith—it never lets you down. He was right, wasn't he?"

For a time there was no reply. Only the whir of the wheels on the smooth road. Then, as if from very far away came the quiet voice of Don Bob.

"I'd give my right arm, Ted, if I could say yes to that. But instead, I'm going to tell you something tonight that will make you lose that trust in the kindness of the world, and a message that is going to strip you of everything you've ever had. I'm sorry, added, sorrowfully, "even your memories."

Tweed

Three old boat houses at the Memorial Park have been destroyed. They were of no improvement to the park and many citizens are glad to see them removed. They were owned by John L. McGowan and citizens agree he made a wise move in having them removed.

Tweed Hydro office has moved into the store formerly occupied by H. J. Clark, jeweller at the corner of Bridge and Victoria St. The new place has been newly decorated and, indeed, the office being one of the finest in the village. Its lighting fixtures are a dominant feature in the new arrangements. Manager M. R. Rose and assistant Okley Cornoyea are now in a position to better accommodate the public.

The water from the new well at the north end of Metcalfe Street that seems to be inexhaustible, has been reported by the Department of Health, Toronto to be first class quality.

JANET GAYNOR, CHARLES FARRELL NOW AT BELLE

A real treat for Belleville screen fans is offered today and Tuesday at the Belle, matinee daily with the presentation of the Fox Romance, "Merely Mary Ann", starring those favorite screen sweethearts, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in colors.

"Merely Mary Ann" is a perfect vehicle for the two stars, and is perfectly played. Director Henry King daringly went beyond the usual field to choose the supporting players, which include the ever-delightful Beryl Mercer, J. M. Kerrigan and Arnold Lucy, among others. The authentic London setting and the sympathetic given "Merely Mary Ann," which is based on Israel Zangwill's play of that name, making the resulting film a sheer delight, and is said to be the finest Hollywood has given us.

Janet Gaynor-Charles Farrell "team" has yet turned out. You can't go wrong with "Merely Mary Ann."

Four highly entertaining Featurettes are announced for exhibition on the same program, including "She Stoops to Conquer" a highly amusing Daphne Pollard comedy, Lester Allen, popular Vaudevillian in a clever melodious offering titled "Paris", the popular Metrotone News, with its slate of important News events, and the King of Golf, Bobby Jones, sets demonstrates, "The Driver."

With such a splendid program assembled no doubt the popular playhouse will be favoured with large patronage.

"BAD SISTER" IT'S EXCEPTIONAL

Sitting through a performance of "Bad Sister" at the Capitol yesterday, one was struck with the easy movement of the story. Booth Tarkington, in drawing a comparison between two sisters, showed wonderful integrity, and throughout the picturized version, there is only one incident which might have a rude shock on the viewer. This is the scene where the bad sister, having been to a movie show with the young doctor, is peeved at having to walk home, and when a young waster drives up in his roadster, leaves the doctor standing whilst she accepts the offer of the stranger. This young blade proves her downfall, because he is promoting a fake company and uses her as a tool to gain the signature of her father to the prospectus. She, the little fool, blindly follows his lead, and goes as far as.....

It would spoil the effect to reveal more, but suffice to say, "Bad Sister" is a picture with a capital P.

Sidney Fox, Bette Davis, two newcomers to the screen are outstanding, and Miss Fox is reminiscent of Janet Gaynor. Conrad Nagel, Bert Roach and ZaSu Pitts are included in the cast, whilst David Durand as the mischievous brother deserves abundant praise. He is just remarkable.

The programme, which is shown for the last time tonight, includes a special cartoon, "Lady Play Your Mandolin" and a very amusing social satir, "Over the Radio."

"OH! SAILOR BEHAVE" AT THE CAPITOL THURSDAY

Olsen and Johnson, aptly described as the screen's craziest clowns, make merry as a couple of nautical Knaves in "Oh! Sailor Behave" at the Capitol to-morrow, Thursday and Friday. With Charles King of "Broadway Melody" staging a comeback, some good singing is expected, and the trailer now showing at the Capitol depicts scenes which will realize this expectation. The Highway to Heaven" a catchy song, is sung during the picture, and a new and novel way of finishing the number into the story has been created. Irene Delroy is the romantic personality with Lottie Loder capturing the hearts of Olsen and Johnson.

The background of this comedy is Venice and the Grand Canals. Just what time in Venice is always a gay time, but, when Olsen and Johnson invade the night carnivals, festivities, then it is a case of "Oh! Sailor Behave!"

With additional attractions, the programme at the Capitol on Thursday and Friday will certainly chase away the blues!

SILVERWARE GIFT NIGHT

In announcing the article to be presented to each lady patron at the Capitol to-morrow night, a silverware insert floom the management also announce that the Tuesday Opposite Sex Silverware Night has now ceased. Ladies are now advised strongly to take advantage of each Thursday's presentation.

TRAVELOGUE OF BAHAMAS GIVEN CLUB

R. J. Graham, Noted Traveller, Gives Impression of Br. Possession

NO AGRICULTURE

Natives Import Sail From Everglades for Production of Tomatoes

Besides enjoying a splendid travelogue address by R. J. E. Graham on the Bahama Islands, the Kiwanis Club members were also given some useful information respecting the Karnival, which is an annual affair and will be staged next week in the armouries, at their luncheon on Tuesday. The travel talks by Mr. Graham are always appreciated by the Kiwanis Club and the one given on Tuesday was most interesting.

Chairman Appointed

Several of the chairmen of the various committees reported on the Karnival progress. George Parker in charge of the vaudeville programme stating, that all acts had been booked and from the talent in the week of entertainment was in store for the patrons. Each night the programme will change with something new and novel. The committee were able to book the three acts this year on account of the depression in theatre business. The quality of goods offered for those biding for seats should will be better quality than ever offered by the club. The fashion show will be replete with new fall styles and a better quality of wearing apparel.

Accept Invitation

An invitation has been extended by the Oshawa Kiwanis Club for the Belleville Kiwanis Club pipe band when they entertain Kiwanians from Oshawa and vicinity, Buffalo, N. Y. also Renfrew, Montreal and Kingston in Ontario and Quebec. The luncheon will be held on September 25th at the Chateau Laurier and a number of the Belleville Club have signified their intention of going with their Kiwanian hosts. The luncheon was presided over by George Clark president, Jack Bainton being song leader, Arthur MacDonall sergeant at arms, and Leo B. Slegel at the piano. Kiwanian Rom Hunter accompanied on the violin.

Bahama Islands Subject

Mr. Graham in describing the beautiful winter resort in the Bahama Islands gave as his reason for visiting that country, the fact that was a British possession and in these times of stress, people should patronize their British possessions and buy British goods wherever ever possible. He stated, that the winter colony did not enjoy themselves during the past winter on account of high winds. There were only two inter-island boats swimming and golf, two of the directions forced to holiday makers. The speaker stated that a large number of Canadians each winter made Nassau their rendezvous, the inhabitants being nearly 80 per cent coloured. The Islands are governed by a Governor sent out from England, assisted by a body of Belle council. "The educational system is the worst in the world" said Mr. Graham, "the inhabitants as a rule being illiterate but considerable, kind and courteous, probably spending their teachings for less," said the speaker. The capital city, Nassau, is a beautiful place to live. The natives do not have any municipal taxes to pay, the principal revenue of the country being derived from the tourist trade.

Mr. Graham told of the two splendid hotels in Nassau and of the bathing beaches and sports around the islands, stating that Paradise Beach, was a favorite resort, being destroyed by the influence of modern business methods. He told of the wonderful regattas held in the excellent harbor and the fine fishing that could be enjoyed in and about the islands. Mr. Graham had a fine display of all the earmarks of a fiction tale but he brought back proof in the form of pictures of the catch. The speaker told of the pursuits of the inhabitants and stated that the land was a coral-limestone formation totally unfit for agriculture, although some had transported good soil from the Everglades in Florida, and were cultivating tomatoes to a marked degree. The fruit business of the Islands has been practically ruined through the coming of a certain insect to infest the fruit blooms. The speaker was introduced by the president and Kiwanians appreciation was expressed by F. G. MacKenzie.

TWO SCHOOLS SOON TO OPEN

O. S. D. Will Open Thursday and Albert College on the 15th

Two schools of learning will soon open their doors to accommodate those who will seek education in this city during the year. The Albert College will open on September 15th and it is expected the attendance will be close to that of last year. Dr. Bishop, principal of Albert College, stated today the outlook for a successful year was bright. "There may not be as many students as last year but this fact will not be determined until a final check up is made and all the students reported" he said on Thursday. Students have been reporting since Tuesday and it is expected that all students will be on hand when the classes open. Asked by the Ontario Intelligencer if he expected a larger attendance than last year, Dr. Peterly stated there would in all probability be 40 more in attendance this year than last bringing the total number of students attending the school to 350.

Preparations Being Made for Novel Features at Kiwanis Karnival

Kiwanis Karnival days are fast approaching and next Monday evening, we'll see the formal opening of this important event as the Community life of Belleville. This week the Kiwanis are busy with hammer, saw and paint brush, getting the armouries into shape, but this year it will be a much easier job than usual, for during the year they have made the entire frame

Fashion Show For Men

The fashion show of ladies garments will commence on Monday night and in connection with this there will be a style parading contest of interest, details of which will be announced later. On one evening during the week there will be a break in the Ladies Fashion show and on this evening there will be a men's fashion parade. This is something that has never been attempted in Belleville and should prove a popular card. Each evening there will be some novel feature offered as well as the "Big Timer Vaudette" already booked by Geo. Forhan, chairman of programme. All told it looks like a big week.

ELECTROCUTED MOVING POLE

Sebringville Linemen Die As Power Enters Chain

Stratford, Sept.8.—Borden Wightman, 30, and Jacob Klein, 40, both of Sebringville, employees of the Bluebird Rural Telephone Company, were electrocuted late yesterday afternoon while removing the Hydro poles on the Goderich-Stratford highway about three miles west of this city.

Doctors and first-aid workers tried for over two hours to revive the victims by artificial respiration, and although Wightman showed a spark of life, he passed away in the General Hospital here about 8 o'clock before 8 o'clock last night. Efforts to revive Klein were given up shortly after 6 o'clock.

Inspector Dr. J. Maxwell Fraser of Stratford has ordered an inquest. The jury was empanelled early last night, and the hearing into the deaths adjourned until Friday night, when the inquest will be held at Sebringville.

The Bluebird Telephone Company had purchased a number of old poles from the Hydro Commission, and Wightman and Klein were removing them when they met their deaths. They are had a chain about one of the poles, and when a ground wire attached to it came in contact with a Hydro wire, the current passed through the ground wire and into the chain. Klein suffered terwas burned about

FIND BODY OF MAN IN CELLAR

Son With Throat Cut, Razor in Hand Unconscious Upstairs

Alliston, Sept. 9.—Slumped in a heap at the foot of his cellar steps, bone smashed and head badly battered, the dead body of William Campbell, aged 65, wealthy retired farmer, was found Tuesday evening by his sister when she came in from the country to bring him food.

With his throat slashed from ear to ear and a blood-stained razor clutched in one hand, the old man's son, Wesley Campbell, 37, unconscious, aged about 50, was found some time later lying unconscious in a locked bedroom on the second floor of his father's well-furnished mansion.

The bearded old recluse had lain dead in the lonely old house for three or four days, Coroner Dunning has been notified. The son's threat appeared to have been cut late this afternoon. He was taken to Stevenson Memorial Hospital by ambulance when he regained conscious ness late last night. His recovery is expected and he is being kept under heavy guard.

Although a jury viewed the body of the aged man, further inquest proceedings were postponed until Wesley Campbell is able to testify. Police made no attempt to question him, for while he had begun to look about and take an interest in his surroundings, he was weak from loss of blood and showed signs of nervousness when approached.

Charges Likely

It was authoritatively predicted here last night that a charge will be laid today. Although provincial police say they found little or no traces of a struggle, they are working on the theory that father and son had words which led to blows and a tussle which resulted in the death of one man being thrown down the cellar steps. The son, police conjecture, rushed upstairs with the razor in his hand brooding upon the death of his father, until the knock of his aunt on the back door drove him in desperation to his bedroom, where he locked the door and attempted suicide.

AGRICULTURE DAY AT C. N. E.

Grand Champion to Be Named at Toronto Today.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 9.—(By The Canadian Press)—Agriculturists hold sway at the Canadian National Exhibition today which has been named as their honor. Officials have arranged the whole program of the Fair to coincide so that today many competitions of interest to rural folk will be in their final stages. The grand champions in various classes of livestock will be named as will chief prize winners in a number of agricultural exhibits such as seeds and vegetables.

Another attraction is the auction sales of farm produce and livestock.

The feature event of the day however, from the farmers' viewpoint, is the Junior Farmers' and Farmerettes' Judging Competitions. The young folk will be competing in these contests during most of the day but will take time off to stage their annual parade through the grounds. It is expected more than 900 will take part, the largest number in the history of the Fair.

In keeping with the atmosphere of the day leaders of agriculture will be guests at the directors' luncheon at which Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, will deliver the principal address.

SEA FLEAS PERFORM AT DESERONTO

Large Crowd Enjoy Labor Day Programme There

CLEANED CARD

Boulter Bros. of Belleville Won All Outboard Races in Class

The sea flea regatta and swimming meet held on Monday by the residents of Deseronto was a complete success made possible through the action of K. C. Metcalfe in donating the prizes for the many events. A large number watched the swims and the motor boat races from the improvised grandstand and the bay shore. The water was warm for the swimmers and that for the boats, while the weather was ideal from a spectators' point of view. Mayor George A. Reid of Belleville, Dr. R. A. Boyce, mayor of Deseronto and James Howell, mayor of Napanee acted as judges.

Gordon Thompson a fourteen old youth of Belleville had the honor of winning the mile event, swim from twenty one starters although Robert Schroeder of this city finished a close second. Thompson swam a heady race and used an over head trudgen stroke with a flutter kick so popular with high speed swimmers of today. The boy has a bright prospect in the natatorium world. The Boulter brothers from Belleville practically cleaned up card in the outboard motor boat racing with the two boats they had entered. The races were keen fought affairs and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent. The holiday programme was closed by a dance in Summerside Pavilion in the evening, the Circle Six orchestra supplying the music. The results were as follows:

Girls under 12 years and under—Jean Whitton, Deseronto, 1st; Moses Deseronto, 2nd; Elma Woodcock, Belleville, third.

Boys 12 years and under, (11 starter)—Robert Schroeder, Belleville, Gordon Thompson, Belleville, Francis Bateman, Deseronto.

Mile swim, (21 starters)—Gordon Thompson, Belleville, Robert Schroeder, Belleville, Arthur Schroeder, Belleville.

Class 2 Inboard—C. W. Mally, Frank Mantle, Napanee, No; Dawson, Deseronto.

Class 1, Inboard—Jayward, Mi Stears Telegraph Light; Miss Hester, Percy Baldly, Napanee.

Class A, outboard—Morris Detlor Deseronto, Clayton Metcalfe Deseronto.

Class B—Don Boulter, Belleville, Fred VanDusen Picton.

Class C—Charles Boulter (Bubbles) Belleville, Metcalfe Trophy; Harry Moore Deseronto, Fred VanDusen.

LAYMEN MEET IN BELLEVILLE

Noted Divines Will Speak In the District Churches

Belleville, Sept. 9 (Special)—Meeting two Presbyteries daily all this week, the Moderator of the United Church of Canada, Dr. Edmund H. Oliver, comes to Belleville for the Bay of Quinte Laymen's Week-end gathering at Albert College on September 11th and 12th. Programme being completed for the two days and registrations are coming in rapidly from all parts of the Conference area.

Dr. Steed Will Speak

It is now assured that Rev. J. Arthur Steed of Africa will be one of the four missionaries in attendance. With Rev. R. C. Scott of the Maritime Mission, he will address a public meeting on Saturday evening, in connection with the week-end gathering. Steed of Angoni is the man who trained the great choir of native converts for the jubilee of the West Central Africa Mission.

On the Sunday the message of the Laymen's gathering will be taken to sixteen churches in the district by such speakers as the Moderator, Dr. Robert Laird, Dr. A. E. Armstrong, Rev. G. Ross of Brandon, Rev. W. E. McWilliams of Japan, Dr. A. E. Best of China, Rev. J. Arthur Steed of Africa, and Rev. R. C. Scott of British Columbia.

The visitors will occupy pulpits in Napanee, Tweed, Madoc, Campbellford, Stirling, Trenton, Wellington, Bloomfield and Picton, besides taking part in the Albert College Gathering.

New Film Company Headed By Capitol Proprietors

A new film company, of almost unlimited dimensions, and one which will alter the whole of the film exhibiting situation of past prevalence in Canada, has been formed. Facts of the company and its vital bearing on the independent theatre owners in the country were revealed in an interview with Chris. G. Holmes, manager of the Capitol theatre to-day.

Arising from the recent Film Investigation, under the Combines Act, and one which had already cost $100,000, Mr. T. H. Moorehead, (whom you see here), president of the firm of Moorehead and Fliman Ltd., owners of an independent chain of theatres in Ontario, including the Capitol theatre, Belleville, instigated an organization comprehensively known as the Independent Theatre Owners Association.

T. H. MOOREHEAD, Vice President of Community Theatres of Canada Ltd.

Independent Theatre Owners Association

This organization with Mr Moorehead as president, presented a long fell want by the independent theatre owners in protecting their interest from outside forces, the pressure of which deterred them from dealing fairly with the public through the reception of first run pictures. By this it is meant, that theatres in Ontario. Applications for affiliation have been received from the general manager, Oscar Hanson, from other provinces. "It is predicted that before a year elapses, this company will be the leading power of theatres from coast to coast, and will have first-run theatres in every principal city throughout Canada."

From this it can readily be seen that this company will be one of terrific magnitude and power in Canada. It will also be realized that the merits of this company are unquestionable in view of their worthy efforts as set forth in the object of the company.

The object is as follows:—

To embrace all Independent theatres throughout Canada in one Buying Power, thus enabling each and every theatre irrespective of location, to give to the public new and exclusive pictures. In booking these pictures for all collatory theatres, this company, will be in the position to quell any activities from outside forces, which, in any way, should be determined to the mutual benefit of theatre and public. British films shall be encouraged, and their merits given the most publicity. British films shall not, as in the past, receive unfair treatment by being shown in other than first-run houses.

The personel of the Community Theatres of Canada, Ltd., is:—President E. Mack of Oshawa; Vice-president, T. H. Moorehead of Brampton and General Manager, Oscar Hanson, of Toronto. In the various committees, chairmen include Mr. G. J. Fliman of Moorehead and Fliman Ltd:

An able and clever champion of the independant theatre owners, and prime mover in the British Film production in Canada is Ray Lewis, (Mrs. Joshua Smith), editress of the Canadian Moving Picture Digest in Toronto. Ray Lewis is to make a personal visit to Belleville this month, when she will address the Belleville Rotary Club. This address will prove very important and the report of her speech will be found of great interest to readers of the The Ontario Intelligencer.

Capitol Is First Run Theatre

To avoid confusion, it should be thoroughly understood that the Capitol theatre as is the case with the other theatres in the Moorehead and Flinlan Ltd. chain, is a first-run house, showing, at all times, new and exclusive pictures.

G. J. FILMAN, Chairman of an important committee of Community Theatres of Canada Ltd.

the independent theatre owner, in many cases, was unable to procure new pictures because his competitor, a theatre of the combine, monopolized the product. Consequently he was forced to wait, and when he was able to show the pictures they were stale, and his patrons suffered.

Mr. Holmes states, "In the cast of Moorehead and Fliman Ltd., in the operation of their chain of theatres, no part was taken by them in the recent investigation. Although unaffected by these outside forces it says a great deal for the fairmindness of Mr. Moorehead in so earnestly and industriously working to create an organization to protect the interest of the independant theatre owner."

Stating thus united a large number of theatre owners in a common endeavour to right a very great wrong in the film field, this organization thought it advisable, to create buying power, with the result that a limited company was formed, and is now in operation. This company,

Community Theatres of Canada Ltd. is making rapid strides, evidenced by a report received by Mr. Holmes on Saturday morning.

"The Community Theatres of Canada Ltd. now heads fifty-seven

Plane Is Catapulted Off Deck 600 Miles At Sea

Chatham, Ont., Sept. 9—Roland Chappell of Detroit, pilot and three companions Claire Brichold and Roland Thomas also of Detroit, and another unknown man were victims of a plane crash near Morpeth this morning. They had attended the Cleveland Air Show, and were returning to Detroit last night, when the plane had difficulty securing altitude. In swerving to escape striking a barn, when only a few feet in the air, one of the wings of the plane struck a tree and the machine nose-dived to the ground. Two of the fliers were injured but the other two escaped. It is not thought the injuries are serious.

BRITISH DEFICIT $850,000,000 INDICATED

Taxes On Income, Beer, Gasoline And Leaf Tobacco Are Increased Under British Emergency Budget

Direct Taxation Basis of Emergency Budget

HUGE DEFICIT

Personal Allowances Are Cut, Surtax Yields Increased

London, Sept. 10.—(AP)—A deficit of £170,000,000 (approximately $850,000,000) in Great Britain's budget for the next year—$250,000,000 more than was predicted in the May committee report—was indicated by Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in introducing his emergency budget in the House of Commons this afternoon.

Attempting measures to meet the deficit, the Chancellor said:

Income Tax Rate Up

"I propose to increase the income tax standard rate by six pence . . .

This brings the standard rate of income tax up to five shillings on a pound (about $1.25 on £1) or 25 per cent.

The Chancellor said that total savings this year would be about £110,000,000. Great savings next year he said, would amount to about £203,000,000.

The sinking fund provision, he said, would be increased from £40,000,000 instead of £250,000,000 and thus this year would be met Britain's obligations.

Pointing out that an unbalanced budget was a very serious thing for the country, he said the situation could be remedied only by drastic cutting expenditures or increasing taxation or by a combination of both.

Borrowing Must Cease

Turning to that controversial subject, which recently led from the table the then Labor member and ex-Chancellor has decided that borrowing for current expenditure must cease."

The Chancellor explained that additional taxation required this additional taxation would yield next year amounted to $100,000,000 and next year about $200,000,000.

"The great part of this has to be borne by direct taxation," he said.

Besides increasing the income tax, the Chancellor said that personal allowances would be reduced for both married and single persons.

Subsidy Compensation

He would compensate industry, he said, for the income tax increase. He would do this by granting relief of roughly two shillings in the pound increased tax by means of a special increase of the existing allowance for depreciation of plant.

Surtax yields, he said, would be increased ten percent.

For the rest of this year the total yield of the increase in the income tax and surtax will be $145,000,000 and for 1932, $287,500,000. There will be no more new direct taxation.

Regarding indirect taxation, the Chancellor stated in the course that the excise duty on beer would be increased four pence per pint, effective tomorrow. The customs duty on imported tobacco will be increased 2 pence a pound, also beginning tomorrow and the duty on other dutiable goods will be increased in proportion.

Tariff Cost "Nil"

The cost of the beer increase is estimated at six o'clock tonight, the duty on a barrel will be boosted two pence a gallon.

The cost of the beer will give an estimated revenue of £23,500,000 this year and £40,000,000 next year.

The yield from the increased tobacco duty is estimated at £12,000,000 for the rest of this year and £30,000,000 next year. The increased gasoline duty will yield £9,000,000 this year and £27,500,000 in a full year.

Disagreeable Task

His was received with cheers from the Conservative and Liberal benches and challenging cries from the opposition Labor benches as he mobbed forward to his place at the treasury table. He was somber his drawn, white face seemed to lighten into a smile when he began heavily.

"I rise to discharge one of the most disagreeable tasks that ever has fallen to me."

In crisp sentences Chancellor Snowden outlined Great Britain's financial position.

Living Beyond Our Means

"It is undoubtedly a fact that nationally we have for some time past been living beyond our means and living to a considerable extent on our capital," he declared.

CHIEF C. H. NEWTON NAMED

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 10.—Chief of Police Chris H. Newton of Winnipeg's Police Force has been appointed vice-president of the International police Conference which is to be held in Paris, France, Sept. 29. Word of his appointment has been received from New York and he will leave for the meeting within a few days.

England Will be True Says Snowden in Ringing Tones

Example of British Fortitude Will Be Given World

WILDLY CHEERED

(By George Hambleton)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 10 (C P Cable).—Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, a slim figure, arm painfully in a sling, faced House of Commons this afternoon, standing on two cases, in a speech of an hour and a half, to explain the British budget. And as the Chancellor resumed his seat he was cheered to the echo—cheered as is given to few Chancellors. Throughout his speech, almost to the very end, the Labor opposition listened in respectful silence to the minister who announced his party to play his part in the National Government.

Only when Mr. Snowden declared his firm belief the nation would accept the proposals, did the Labor Rise interrupt, with cries of "No, no."

Scathe Labor

Mr. Snowden stopped and defiant by faced the Socialists with whom he was associated for so many years.

"And in so doing," he continued, "the nation will give the whole world an example of indomitable British spirit in the face of difficulties."

His peroration was again broken by Labor interruptions, but the applause which met it, then in a break his voice could be heard quoting the words, "Come the end and not us."

About him Conservatives and Liberals rose to their feet, cheering. They waved order papers and cowed the aisles about the front bench shouting congratulations. There were a few sympathetic cheers from the opposition too, but mostly the Laborites sat silent.

Mr. Snowden made no response to the cheering. He sat as though tired out with his effort.

Should Fly Ocean Every Day in Week

Toronto, Sept. 10.—The Atlantic is still just as tough as it was ten years ago; it still has storms and dangerous fogs, but there is no reason, why it can't be flown every day of the week," says Capt. Lewis Yancey of the New-York-Rome and New-York-Bermuda flights who flew the auto-gyro machine of the United Canada National Air Tour in Toronto yesterday, from Cleveland.

The flight has flown 20,000 miles without as much as a scratch.

246,400,000 Bu. Wheat in Crop is Ottawa Figure

Ottawa, Sept. 10. — The wheat crop in the three prairie provinces is estimated at 246,400,000 bushels in a crop report issued yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This is substantially below the crop of 24,500,000 bushels in 1930.

ACCLAIM DON AT TORONTO

Famous British Racer Sorry Boat Cannot Be Raced

Toronto, Sept. 10.—Sir Kaye Don arrived in Toronto today to attend the Canadian National Exhibition.

Citizens by the thousands gathered at the city hall where Don was received by Mayor Stewart.

"It was a great sport loving city," said the Mayor in greeting the famous visitor. "And in the name of its citizens I bid you hearty welcome. You have forged by your achievements another link which binds us more. You are an Empire hero and a great example to sports."

The tall sportsman answered the welcoming speech in typical manner.

"I can hardly find words to express my gratitude for your cordial reception. It gives me great pleasure to be in Toronto. I have looked forward to it for months and my only regret is that I will not be able to drive my boat or perhaps I should say Lord Wakefield's boat here. I regret too, that I have not brought the Harmsworth trophy with me, but I hope Lord Wakefield will allow me to drive his boat in the future and then I hope I may be more fortunate."

Hon. Wm. Price, Attorney General greeted the hero on behalf of Ontario.

May Suspend British Municipal Election Nov. 1

(By Thomas T. Champion)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 10 (C P Cable).—A proposal is under discussion that owing to the uncertain national political situation, and as a result of action towards general economy, the municipal elections shall not be scheduled throughout the country with the exception of London, the City, which should be suspended. This course was followed during the war and part but it is considered unlikely to commend itself at the present time.

One-third of the councillors in every city or borough retire annually. The elections are usually conducted through the local divisions of the parliamentary electioneering machinery. In many places Labor ites have secured such dominance in municipal government that Liberals and Conservatives have formed local coalitions. Such a coalition recently resulted in a fairly general setback for Labor, but in view of electors being shut up to some extent from their traditional apathy towards municipal politics.

The cost of the municipal elections is roughly $600 in each contested ward of a city. Even if the local leaders of the recognized parties agreed to general truce at this time, it is believed such action would merely serve as an opportunity for the freak candidates to interfere.

DRONE MAY BE HUM OF PLANE FROM JAPAN

Dutch Harbor, Alaska, Heard Mysterious Sounds

SOME DOUBT

Seattle Speculates on Possibility of Ocean Passage

Dutch Harbor, Alaska, Sept. 10.—The drone of what sounded like an airplane engine was heard by two passengers on board the vessel, Arthur J. Baldwin, in this vicinity between 9 and 10.30 last night. The sound was heard coming from the southwest, drone away gradually to the northeast.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 10.—North Pacific coast aviation circles believed its possible the plane, the Dutch Harbor report might have been the missing plane which Don Moyle and C. A. Allen took off from Northern Japan on the Siberian flight. It was pointed out, however, that if the sound was really the Don Moyle plane, it is indicated Moyle and Allen had made a forced landing and succeeded in getting the ship into the air again, as their fuel supply was sufficient to keep them in the air not later than 3 p.m. (E.S.T.) Wednesday with continuous flying.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND DRINKING

Scientific Temperance Should Be Taught Says Padre

Guelph, Sept. 10.—Discussion of church publicity featured the morning session of the annual meet of the council for social service of the Church of England in Canada which is meeting today in Memorial Hall at the Ontario Agricultural College.

Canon George Scott, famous wayside Padre and author of "Padre Problems," spoke of the growing social habit of drinking among the young people. An explanation of the plan now in force in Saskatchewan where the scientific study of temperance is compulsory in the public schools was given by W. S. Adcock of Regina. A motion which asked the other provinces to follow suit was referred to the executive committee.

"Gas" Flames Shoot Up Forty Feet in Air

Toronto, Sept. 1.—Blazing gasoline that shot flames forty feet in the air today menaced the hall area of Yorkdale where some of a local transport company's trucks and merchandise valued at over $100,000, by some accounts, were saved firemen beat down the burning gasoline and prevented the flames from the curb gasoline pump that w the centre of the fire.

GRAIN EXPORTS

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 10.—Grain exports up to today total 7,241,277 bushels for the present season, compared with 2,961,819 this time last year. There are ships in port to load 692,322 bushels, and the booking for the balance of September are given as 1,194,800 bushels.

TEN PER CENT CUT IN DOLE IS ANNOUNCED

"Painful Task" of Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden is Performed

CUTS ON OCT. 1

M. P.'s Salaries Are Cut Ten Per Cent. By Budget

London, Sept. 10 (CP)—Major savings for the next full budget year announced by Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, as he slid his painful task of budget balancing in the House of Commons this afternoon.

Reductions in salaries of civil servants, from cabinet ministers down, total $23,670,000.

Savings in defence services, in addition to pay and pensions cuts of $18,070,000, total $25,500,000.

Education savings, $11,000,000 including cuts in teachers salaries. Unemployment

Unemployment insurance (1) Reduction of expenditure by cutting benefits $189,000,000; (2) Increase of contributions from workers and employers, $50,000,000.

Road fund savings, $9,325,000.

These and additional cuts bring the total for the year to a little over $250,000,000. The other directions the total increase in revenue is brought to $200,000,000 against an estimated deficit of $850,000,000.

All pay cuts begin on Oct. 1st. Salaries of cabinet ministers receiving $25,000 or more a year will be reduced by 20 per cent. Those receiving between $10,000 and $25,000 will be cut 15 per cent. Salaries under $10,000 will be cut 10 per cent. Salaries of ordinary members of the House of Commons will be cut by 10 per cent, which means a reduction from $1,000 a year.

Doctors' Fees

Doctors' fees under National Health Insurance will be cut by a shilling for each deficiency early in the year.

The bonus of two to four shillings a week paid to recipients and ordinance factories will be revised.

The estimated total increased expenditure of $373,395,000 his new measures; savings on debt redemption of $60; savings on debt redemption of $68,500,000; new taxation and increased yields of $200,000,000; reductions and excise duty increases of $37,000,000, total increased revenue of $381,000,000. Against next year's estimated deficit of $250,000,000 he set economies of $350,000,000; debt savings of $100,000,000; new taxation and increased revenue $287,500,000; customs and excise $162,500,000—A total of $837,500,000.

Tax Reduction

The measure Mr. Snowden announced today will be a great reduction in the dole payments; an increase in the income tax which will virtually bring it to a 25 per cent top post; an increase of two cents a pound on leaf tobacco; an increase of 18 cents a pound on imported leaf tobacco; an increase of four cents a gallon in the gasoline tax; increase in the entertainment tax to 12 2-3 per cent.

Besides cuts in the dole, the economies include reductions in policemen's wages on a sliding scale upwards from a shilling; and reductions in school teachers salaries.

YACHTSMAN IS MISSING

Daughter Found Alone on Cruiser, Wife on Another Yacht

Stamford, Conn., Sept. 10.—Benjamin P. Collings, 38, wealthy yachtsman and amateur aviator, is a missing man, was reported missing to local police station this afternoon by today of his five year old daughter, Barbara Collings, on his private yacht, which was drifting listlessly in Long Island Sound.

Mrs. Collings, wife of the yachtsman, was four later aboard an uninhabited yacht in Oyster Bay, where she claims she had been left by two men who came to her yacht in a motor boat and set him adrift in a small skiff after scuttling her on the yacht. T. gunmen then left with the Penguin and their daughter, Barbara, she told police.

Henderson Ready to Test Value of Revenue Tariff

Tells Labor Congress He Would Experiment With Impost

IS FREE-TRADER

Bristol, England, Sept. 10.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, new Parliamentary leader of the Labor Party, told the Trades Union Congress here today that although he remained a strong free trader, he would be willing to experiment with a 10 per cent. tariff on revenue purposes as an emergency measure to aid the unemployed.

Speaking in his capacity of leader of the Labor Party in the House of Commons, Mr. Henderson declared: "I am going to make it quite confidential to you. I claim to be as strong a free trader as any of our friends. But if I were faced with a large cut-off in payments given to unemployment, and a 10 per cent. revenue tariff as an emrgency expedient, the revenue therefrom to be assigned to unemployment purposes —if that would meet the situation I would take the value of that expedient."

Mr. Henderson, visiting the Congress as a fraternal delegate from the Labor Party gospel, was given a reception lasting several minutes. He was introduced by Ar'ur Hayday, chairman, as "our Uncle Arthur."

Mr. Henderson called attention to the fact that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald originally was slated to represent Labor at the meeting. Recent events, he said, have taken place on this platform to one of the most striking indications of the tremendous change wrought in the last three weeks," he said.

Prefer Title of King George I of South Africa

Capetown, South Africa, Sept. 10.—"That is King's title be known in the Union of South Africa as George I. of South Africa, and not George y. of Great Britain," is the resolution to be submitted to the Nationalist Party Congress by its Reitz branch. The branch maintains that this innovation is justified on the ground that South Africa "obtained its independence in 1926."

WILL PURCHASE FROM FARMER

Sudbury, Ont., Sept. 10.—Crawley and McCracken Limited, the commissary contractors in charge of all Government work camps in the north during the coming winter, announced today, that all supplies, such as vegetables, meats, butter, eggs, etc. will be purchased from farmers and local merchants in closest contact to where the work is in progress, and also that all help required will also be drafted locally in the same manner. There will be a staff of ten men to each camp to take care of the commissary. The company will have complete charge of every camp including commissary and sleeping quarters.

Melon Grower Wants 2 Boys Who Left Bicycles

"A little watermelon sprowing on the vine—a little nigger boy swatching it all the time," sang Uncle Remus in the days when two boys were doing the watching. It was only natural that a farmer who had grave suspicions that the many large and juicy watermelons in his garden might prove too strong a temptation to daring and adventurous youths, feeling the "urge" to bury their faces "up to their ears" in a huge slice of his prize melons. Wednesday night his suspicions were justified—for as he watched, two figures were seen stealthily moving in a snooped position among the melon vines. Skilfully manoeuvering, he advanced upon these the raiders—surprised them, but sad to relate, the intruders were young and fleet of foot and evaded capture. Their means of conveyance, they were unable to learn behind as in their hurried retreat, and the young farmer has two bicycles which he will be happy to turn over to the owners if they will come forward and prove the property to be theirs.

It was a long walk back to town but then why say anything about that. There is a possibility that the Ontario Provincial Police may find the owners of the bicycles for the young farmer who has no desire to hold them as trophies won in the fight with the highly prized melons.

50 OFFICERS MEN WITH 11 PLANES HERE

No. 3 Squadron Now Located Permanently at Aviation Area

WILL BILLET MEN

Barracks Room and Officers' Quarters Not Ready to Occupy

The aviation area on the Trent Road, which has been in the course of construction for the past three years, was permanently occupied by Squadron No. 3 of the Royal Flying Corps of Canada today when eleven planes of all types and 50 officers and airmen took up their residence at the training base. The planes with the personnel of the squadron were flown from Camp Borden to the training base today, the squadron arriving shortly before twelve o'clock. A few air mechanics, in charge of equipment of the squadron were on the field to greet the arrivals, and soon the planes were housed in the modern and up-to-date hangar. The officers and men for the time being will be billeted in Trenton and Belleville in the armories room and officers' quarters at the air base have not been completed as yet.

A large Ford tri-motor travel plane was also flown down from Camp Borden and will be used to transport some of the officers in crew in charge of the eleven planes brought here, back to Camp Borden

The squadron, composed of two flights, at the present time is under the command of Flight Lieutenant O'Brien Saint, but it is understood this is not a permanent arrangement. The No. 3 Squadron as now composed will be slightly altered, some of the pilots now at Camp Borden will be transferred to this base, while a few new ones here will be sent back, to the original base.

The squadron experienced no difficulties and the trip today from Camp Borden was concluded without incident. The weather was nearly perfect for flying.

Apparently word and the sight of the planes sweeping down from the north attracted many to the training base to see at first hand these new machines of the air but it was a hard task to break through the cordon which has been drawn up against intruders. This aviation area is maintained by the government and the officers and men are under strict military discipline.

A guard was stationed at the entrance and except one had credentials, no one was allowed into the machines at first hand or enter the area. The Canadian Intelligencer repster was stopped at the entrance but was given this reason for visiting, he was at once taken to the officer commanding who in a short time stated that the training base had been permanently established with the arrival of No. 3 Squadron.

Officers as they left their machines were dressed in the blue uniform of the Air Force, many of them wearing numerous decorations won in the Great War.

BULLETIN BOARD

OLD FOLKS GRATEFUL

The thoughtful action of the officers and directors of the Belleville Fair in inviting the boards of the County of Hastings Home to attend the Fair last Thursday and Friday as guests was very much appreciated by the old people and by the Superintendent of the Home, Mr. R. Sandercock. A Rawson bus was generously placed at the service of the Home and about twenty men attended the Fair on Thursday, and twenty-five women on Friday. The outing was a very happy break in the daily life of the Home people. They enjoyed free rides on the merry-go-round and other fun creating attractions and Messrs. Losee and Evans most generously treated all in a very liberal manner to hot dogs, ice cream and soft drinks.

FOUR IN FRONT SEAT

Leonard Ford, a colored gentleman from Niagara Falls, N.Y., passed through Belleville Wednesday afternoon travelling by motor car. Traffic Officer Taylor noticed that four persons occupied the front seat and, as this comes under the head of reckless driving, Ford was requested to report to the city police station. This Thursday morning he paid a fine of $10.00.

OVERCOME BY HEAT

Mr. Edward Turner who is employed as an assistant in the making of the new lawn bowling court at the agricultural park was this morning overcome by the heat and had to be taken to his home. No serious results are anticipated.

FEW PRICE CHANGES

Today's mid-week market was fairly well attended by both vendors and customers. Prices ruled about the same a earlier in the week. Plenty of melons were offered at very low prices. As were all kinds of green vegetables. Home grown grapes were seen on the local market for the first time this season. They were offered to the citizens at 45c per small basket and 80 cents for large basket. The fruit market was also well represented.

LITTLE FINGER BROKEN

While playing soft ball at the Shannonville Fair, with the Prouteance yesterday afternoon Cleta Simmons had the misfortune of breaking the little finger on her right hand. The little lady played from the second innings until the final out with the finger broken.

It seems that she was fielding a ground ball when the ball took a bad hop and hit the end of the finger causing the break. Dr. J. J. Robertson reduced the fracture this morning while the young lady looked on at perfect ease. Dr. J. J. Robertson stated this morning that the break was one of the cleanest that he had ever seen.

IRON FENCE PAINTED

Work has been completed at the Belleville cemetery where men have been engaged for the past week painting the iron fence that runs along the north and south boundries of the school property. The newly white painted fence presents a very clean and picturesque scene.

CARS IN COLLISION

S. Kerr, 21 Turnbull street, Belleville, was backing his car from the curb on Front street near Bridge Street, Wednesday evening about eight forty five when he came into collision with a car driven by M. Sharp, 227 West Moira street, Belleville, who was driving south on Front Street. The damage, which was slight, was adjusted between the drivers. Constable Evans investigated the accident.

JUDGES AT TUXEDO, N.Y.

Walter H. Reeves, noted breeder and judge of dogs, returned to the city today after judging practically half of the dogs entered at the Toronto Exhibition also conducting the judging for the best dog in the show. Mr. Reeves stated the showing of dogs at the Exhibition this year was the best in some time and the quality was considerable better than in former years. Mr. Reeves will leave for Tuxedo, N.Y., next week, to judge at the Tuxedo Kennel Show, one of the best on the American continent. He will be the presiding judge at this show, judging all specials to all classes and also best dog in show.

LARGEST ATTENDANCE

The Ontario School for the Deaf opened today for the season of 1931-1932 with the largest attendance in its history. The pupils have been arriving since late Tuesday and the registration up till the present time is 304, including nearly 40 new students. The buildings were in readiness to receive the pupils under the principalship of Dr. H. B. Priestly and it is expected a profitable year will be spent.

POPULATION

Britain's density of population has just been placed at 625 persons to the square mile.

Citizens Swelter in Hot September Sun

Residents sweltered in a hot September sun and if the mercury continues to rise toward noon, this month will be the hottest on record. Yesterday the temperature rose to 85 degrees and the low for the day was 64 degrees. Today the temperature went one better and raised one degree on yesterday's high mark. While it was a little cooler, the mercury registering 81 degrees, it was a "long time since" that a warm as it was yesterday and today in September. There was a combination humidity that caused residents to languish about and to visit the cold drink fountains at every opportunity. The farmers were worried, the lives the oppressive heat and the horses were well nigh overcome as they went about their daily work. The rain, which fell last week, did a tremendous amount of good to late crops and to ground that is to be fall plowed but this sudden warm spell has again baked the ground and speculation in certain sections is more labor than ever.

LUXURY TAX IS EXPECTED IN G. BRITAIN

Announcement Will Be Made at Five o'Clock Today

NO TIME LOST

London, Sept. 10 (AP)—The British government will know this evening what sacrifices they must make and what burdens they must assume in order to rescue the nation from financial troubles.

Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, after the closing of the markets at five o'clock will reveal in the House of Commons the national government's emergency proposals for averting a threatened half billion dollar deficit in next year's budget.

The man who walks the street in search of a job is already resigned to the expectation that he must suffer a ten per cent cut in his wages dole. He who rides in a limousine realizes that his surtaxes and inheritaries will be boosted to produce $30,000,000 in additional revenue.

Tobacco, beer, wines, spirits, tea, sugar and gasoline are almost certain to be increased. Nothing is overlooked, it is believed. The cost of an annual radio license, now $15.00 a year, may go up and such amusements as the theatre and professional racing may be called on to contribute a share to the national emergency.

Speeded by orders in council, the measures will be rushed through with a minimum of debate and a maximum of speed. Parliament has been summoned tonight and plans to meet in effect before the end of the week. The budget itself, however, may be debated next week.

Meanwhile, the trades union congress at Bristol is discussing four alternative proposals to deal with the crisis. These are replacement of Duke contributions by a graduated tax on profits, incomes and earnings; suspension of the sinking fund; increased taxation of the interest securities and other unearned incomes; suspension of the sinking fund and re-organization of the tariff revenue question.

REPORTER PRAISED FOR AID IN WRECK

Windsor, Sept. 10 (CP)—Major credit for organizing the rapid rescue of injured persons trapped in a wrecked street car on Howard Avenue and in taking swift action to prevent the fire truck taking fire, was assigned by Mayor Croll to-day to Dudley Witt, a reporter for the Border Cities Star and formerly of Belleville, Ont., employed by North Bay papers.

Mr. Keeley is certainly entitled to the credit declared the mayor. "He sounded the first alarm, dashed across the run to a phone and call the police and ambulances, and practically took charge, ordered a passing car to rush him to Detention Hospital, reported the Fire Chief Defields, and thus had firemen with a pump speeding to the scene of the fire in a few minutes.

Witt said his head at a time when hundreds of others were pandemonium and fear, he recommend him publicly in the warmest terms for the courage he showed in being one of the first of those who jumped from the burning car to pull out the trapped passengers and for the coolness he demonstrated when realizing the danger from fire and sizing up the lack of order prevailing, he jumped into the car to summon organized assistance."

Six Lear Boy Lands Three-Pound Pickerel

How is a line three pound pickerel in show him if any one was casting a line?

Ask Armstrong Boy, he can.

When he came to the top of the water the watery eye saw enough to shock a pickerel, it was a six year old boy and had him fast.

Armstrong Boys, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Boyle, proved himself the champion fisherman of the Trent River on Wednesday. The youngster with his father was casting near the rapids near Stirling Village at once he became heavy. The fish has already been in the boat.

No one in that party equalled the boy's catch.

Armstrong never before had any notion he was so active a disciple of Izaak Walton.

Steamer Soreldoc is Released By Tugs

Kingston, Sept. 10 (Special) — The Soreldoc, which went aground by the Patterson Steamship Company, which went aground at Sparrow Hawk Island, near the Cardinal, has been released by the tugs Salvage Prince and Sea Queen, of the Provincial wrecking and salvage company, Kingston. The steamer was floated Tuesday night, after part of the cargo of 3,000 tons had been lightened into the barge Davie. Work is now proceeding reloading the grain.

$3,500,000 WHEAT BONUS

Calgary, Alta., Sept. 10. — Payment of the five-cents a bushel bonus on wheat, by the Federal Government, will place about $3,500,000 in the pockets of Alberta farmers, it was estimated here today on prospects of a wheat yield between 112,000,000 and 112,000,000 bushels. Grain men considered the estimate conservative.

Letters to the Editor

"HAS CHRISTIANITY FAILED?"

Editor Ontario Intelligencer:

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 4, 1931.

May I once again crave your kind indulgence to trespass upon your valuable space to say that I was pleased to read Mr Cunningham's article in reference to my previous letter to you. Your correspondent, sir, has to my mind the right spirit and I believe there are many more like him. In these strenuous days of industrial and financial depression, when so many men are out of work, and have to face the bitter, stern realities of life, many are apt to get discouraged with religion, church, and everything else. If our religion consists merely in so much hymn and Psalm singing, and going mechanically through a certain number of prayers, I don't blame men for not going to church, for there would be little real use in going. But, and here is the kernel of the whole matter, our religion does not consist in so much Psalm and hymn singing, it consists rather, metaphorically speaking, in going out into the highways and byways, all thy troubles, trust Him to the end, etc.' Let us get away from pessimistic doubts and fears, and like the Psalmist (in Psalms 46, and 86) as well as in Revelation (215 and 216), and other passages, let us joyfully believe, "All things shall fall down before Him all nations shall Him serve," and in passages such as 2 Matthew (24, 14 and 28, 19) and many others, we refer to the same thing, viz the downfall of Jerusalem, the Jews as independant violence, cruelty and misery, and Christ's reign down upon our Divine Leader and head of the church, knowing that, "from great to very unle victory, His army 'He shall lead till every foe is vanquished and Christ, Lord of Lords and "Hallelujah, for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth."

Missing Fliers' Plight is Still Mystery

Sioux Lookout, Ont., Sept. 10.—(By The Canadian Press)—The whereabouts of Charles W. Gordon, missing flyer, remained a mystery as another day's search for the aeroplanes was concluded. Gordon set out from Sioux Lookout to Lake Trout Lake on August 25, and nothing has been seen or heard of him since. Trout Lake is more than 300 miles north of Winnipeg and the planes have combed several thousand square miles of lake and forest in an effort to find the missing man. Gordon is a nephew and namesake of Charles Gordon (Ralph Connor) the Canadian novelist.

LOCAL GOLFERS MEET DEFEAT

Napanee Won From Belleville Golf Club 24 1-2 to 23 1-2

Members of the Belleville Golf Club motored to Napanee on Wednesday afternoon to enjoy a friendly game with the Napanee Golf Club but were unsuccessful in their efforts, losing a match for the first time this year by the close score of 24 1-2 to 23 1-2. The course was in excellent condition and some good cards were turned in. BENNETT PLAN HAS RESULTS

Invasion by U. S. Industries Probably Induced

Washington, Sept. 10.—The extent to which American industrialists have reached with their dollars into every part of the world is revealed in a Commerce Department report published last night estimating a grand total of between $14,900,000,000 and $15,600,000,000 invested in all kinds of foreign enterprises in 1930.

The establishment of many American branch factories in other countries, particularly in Canada, to escape tariff walls is shown by the report, and the Commerce Department goes so far as to say that the Canadian tariff increases in 1930 "may have been a factor, possibly the deciding one," in some cases

American investments in Canada are the largest in any single country, totalling $4,941,593,000, and exceed those in every continent except Europe. Investments in the whole of Europe aggregate $4,028,-977,000.

Next to Canada and Europe the third largest United States investment is in South America, with a total of $3,041,226,000. Next in order are West Indies, 1,233,484,000; Asia, $1,023,940,000; Mexico and Central America, $965,378,000, Africa, $419,294,000, and Africa, $419,24,000.

WRITING

One would think that as everyone writes, writing in general ought to be of a very high standard. But a look over the manuscripts of adults as well as of children would show that in this accomplishment the populace is far away from the goal, indeed, the writing of many is but a step better than that of primitive peoples.

So when a graphologist rises to tell the best way to learn to write, all ears should be open to hear Dr. Thelma G. Vocchis of olumbia University the other day announced the results of the cursive system of writing of manuscripting writing. It was found that the majority of children wrote more perfectly under the teaching of prone teaching and they showed ability to read faster.

It was also shown that growth in reading ability was more dependent upon choice of form of handwriting than upon kindergarten experience and it was pointed out that the average difference between the kindergarten and the non-kindergarten trained groups was approximately one and one half words while the difference between the cursive and the manuscript groups was nine and one half. It was shown that the manuscript method excelled with retarded and slow teachers of the group. Dr. Voorhis concludes:

"Whenever manuscript writing has been tried it has met with enthusiastic endorsement. Data from experimental studies indicate that manuscript writing is distinctly superior to cursive writing for its facilitation of beginning reading and for its superior legibility and speed in the primary grades."

Although manuscript writing is superior. Dr. Voorhis admits that "commercialized systems of cursive writing are so firmly established in the school throughout the United States that manuscript writing withstands find it difficult to effect changes in educational practice even in the primary grades."

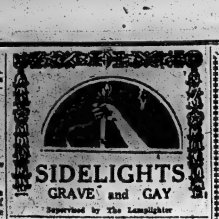
Yet, "in spite of the opposition to be overcome, manuscript writing is becoming the accepted form for written work in progressive schools of primary grades, according to Dr. Voorhis, who adds that "many pupils acquire considerable skill in the use of both cursive and manuscript writing and when whichever form is more appropriate to the work at hand."

A SIGN OF PROGRESS

Though depression has hit hard at agriculture the fall fair is at hand in every part of the country. Yesterday Shannonville Society held its annual event and the next few weeks will see a series of like exhibitions. The fair is a sign of progress —not of depression.

THANKSGIVING AND ARMISTICE DAY

Announcement of the dating of Thanksgiving for October 12th recalls the old style thanksgiving before the sacrifice of the war led to the setting aside of November 11th as a necessary date as a joint thanksgiving and Armistice Day observance. Armistice Day will yet be observed as a day of memory. For some years it was felt that the spirit of Armistice Day overshadowed the spirit of thanksgiving because of its great solemnity and many thought feeling it stirred and hoped the reversion to thanksgiving as it was once observed.



Those who suffered most deeply through the war found it hard to reconcile the old time thanksgiving with the emotions aroused with the war and its sacrifice of men and women.

The new arrangement will restore to both occasions their particular characteristics and fuller expression will be given to the spirit of both observances.

In harmony with the shiftings against war, Armistice Day observance has lost to a large degree the spirit of victory with arms and has revolved itself upon the human toll in life and limb which the war entailed. The loss in war has been stressed much of late years with the ravages of war still felt, so that the spirit of thanksgiving has been changed. The first Armistice Day spirit of rejoicing could not continue to be the spirit of future anniversaries of that day.

EATING APPLES

The gay Parisians are going in to eat more than a million Canadian apples, purchased from the automatic vending machines in the parks of the French capital. French people realize the superiority of the Canadian product. Each machine is expected to sell sixty apples daily. This enterprise is the result of the initiative of the Canadian Trades Commissioner's office which has prevailed upon the French Ministry of Agriculture to grant a concession to Canadian apple exporters allowing them to store their apples at Havre without paying the customs duties until the apples are sold.

PRAYER

By Beth Walker

For me, no quest of this or that,
No wild demand, no cry nor moan,
If God be Commissariat—
What I have missed, what I have known,
Was mine to keep or lose, alone.

Yet for the things I hold most dear,
For silvered night or gold-barred day,
For singing birds when dawn is near,
For rest at eventide, I pray—
May these things never pass away.

And I would make a still, soft prayer
For small white houses in the sun,
For slumbering fields and pastures where
The shadows pass when day is done,
And sky and meadow meet as one.

For sea fog and a lifting mist,
For ships that seek the harbor bar,
For mountain tops, and hills, sun-kissed
Or moon-drenched at the evening star—
For these my thanks, all things that are,
—Good Housekeeping, New York

DALIGHT SAVING TIME has ceased in Belleville, but the memory lingers on, pleasant in most cases, we hope, but without a doubt in many cases a nuisance—before another summer comes round a vote of the people will be held to determine whether the majority prefer "fast time" to "slow time" as it is called. Swinging back to Standard Time was a bit confusing to some, and one man in this town turned his alarm clock an hour ahead instead of back with the result that he was up betimes—two hours early in fact.

WITH A SCORE of seven to five the police settled the game, says a Cobalt despatch relating to a baseball game there between the mines of Cobalt and Noranda. The score was seven fights and six runs, 7-6, which proves that the sports of the silver and gold belts take their baseball seriously—where they sing, "Oh, you town of Cobalt, if you don't live there it's your fault, where all the silver comes from, where he-men live, and then some," and a whole lot more to the same effect.

MOOSE HARBOR, Ontario's only seaport, will have a fine new hydro modern fireproof, and all that, ready to accommodate guests next spring when the formal opening of Ontario's road to the sea will likely be made. Premier Henry has approved plans presented by George W. Ross, Chairman of the T. & N. O. Ry Commission, for the new hotel and general arrangement of the townsite on the Moose River where at this moment the majority of the inhabitants are Indians, half breeds and Eskimos. Three hundred acres of town site will be cleared and the railway will retain control so that there will be no repetition of real estate speculation. The entire townsite comprises eight hundred and thirty acres, of which three hundred acres will be cleared, and the town laid out in parks, streets and reservation for public utilities. Situated on gently sloping ground up from the river every home will have a view of the historic Moose River, and a water supply will be obtained from another river which flows into the Moose river, near the town.

"I suppose," she declared, sarcastically, "it was very difficult work for you?"

"Oh, no, dear," he told her. "Simply a matter of form."

A LABOR DAY PARADOX

This day set apart for thinking of labor, lightening its load, lessening its perils, finds by a strange paradox that it is the laborers who are inviting the world's concern and sympathy. During all the centuries of the Christian era it has been repeating the line of Vergil that labor overcomes all things. But it now discovers that labor has not accomplished in actual victories with all who wish to labor. The president of a great line running through the West has bethought himself of the mythical figure of Tantalus, who though burning with thirst was denied the cool waters, and ravening with hunger was denied the delicious fruit in sight. Our sympathies have gone out to Tantalus, who was tied to a wheel—as if to a machine—which never moved so much except when Orpheus, by his enchanting music, gave to Inspiration's pale. Our sympathy for labor is of the Tantalian unemployment.—New York Times.

A KINDLY ACT

It is by action such as these that the British Royal Family binds more tightly the bonds that unite it to the British heart. The people know that the King takes a very personal and kindly interest in their welfare, that he feels with them in their joys and sorrows, that he rejoices with them in their days of joy. They know that he will do and to solve a great national problem—the balancing of the Budget. It can only be done if they have been told, by universal economy—by sacrifice on the part of every class according to its ability to endure the sacrifice. Parliament has been called for Parliament's decision, but has made a voluntary gift to the nation, the effect of which will we believe, be out of all proportion to its actual sum. Surely it is a very substantial reduction in his income, particularly when the habit of various demands upon that income are borne in mind. This is kingly truth a Kindly act, and its repercussion will be felt around the whole Empire today.—Montreal Star.

BRITISH MAGAZINES

Sir Frederick Maurice, speaking at the annual conference of the British Empire Service League in Toronto, said on Friday that the non-appearance of British magazines from Canadian news-stands had shocked some of the British public.

We do not wonder. There are five hundred publications which are played on the news-stands of Canada. Of less than a dozen of these are Canadian. Less than a score are British. That means that the remainder are from the United States, except an odd sprinkling of periodical literature from Europe and in Ottawa, Montreal and other Eastern Canada cities.

But it is worse than that. First of all Sir Frederick and his friends should remember, that the United States is more than a postage stamp to the latter and that it has a population of 3,000 miles away. American magazines drop on Canadian readers two days after they have left the press. British periodicals of the week-end. That element of timeliness is an important factor.

Another factor is that Canadians do not consciously recognize the "nearness" of British magazines. The latter have been coming over here regularly for many years. They have become as much a part of our lives as "London Opinion" and the Strand Magazine" have to Britishers. We have been reared on American periodicals. Nothing and it's second nature to us.—Ottawa Citizen.

THE TRIOLOGISTS

A new body of citizen effort has arisen in the ancient City of Oxford. It is known as The Triologists. Its founders have banded together to help keep the city environs free from litter. Each triologist is of the Tantalian unemployment. —New York Times.

CANADA'S BLACK DEFENDERS

It will be news to many readers of Canadian history that the old province of Upper Canada had, for many years, military units recruited entirely of negroes and that black corps rendered notable service in resisting the invasion of United States forces in 1813-14 and the attacks of filibusters in 1837-38. This little known phase of our military history has been dealt with quite exhaustively by an Ottawa writer, Ernest Green, F.R.H.S., in an article "Upper Can ada's Black Defenders," included in a volume of Papers and Records of the Ontario Historical Society, just off the press. Mr. Green deals first with the story of loyalty and many free negroes, who fought in British regiments during the American Revolution. Many of them received grants of land in Canada, settling in St. Catharines, others in the Niagara region and Toronto.

"For a century and a half," says Mr. Green, "the negro race has taken part, side by side with their white fellows, in the many military operations that have characterized the history of this province. Whether in peace or war it is the loyalty and many free negroes, who fought in British regiments during the American Revolution. Many of them received grants of land in Canada, settling in St. Catharines, others in the Niagara region and Toronto.

Their record is one characterized throughout by loyalty, courage and the highest soldierly qualities as good soldiers. The Canadian negro's record as a soldier entitles him to the honorable title of true military records."—Ottawa Citizen.

9 COMMUNISTS NOW ARRESTED

Kirkland Lake Has Outbreak But Police Cope with Situation

Kirkland Lake, Ont., Sept. 10—Three more arrests were made in connection with the communist demonstrators now in Kirkland Lake cells to nine as the result of investigations made by the police when Reds paired them selves off in groups of two at various intersections of the town where they were attempting to hold a meeting contrary to police orders. Reporting one of the chiefs, one of the men of the local organization, and Joe Milina, an organizer were two of the latest arrests.

Despite six of the local police being injured this morning, none of the officers were more seriously injured than Constable Ed. Hall, who, although Constable S. V. Mockler-ridge, was severely injured and knocked unconscious, when struck twice on the head by flying missiles, but recovered and was able to continue his duties. One administration car belonging to Premier G. Stevens, a local citizen taken there by Dr. J. Russell suffering from loss of blood from several deep leg wounds.

Five down town stores on Duncan Avenue and Government Road had show windows smashed but the damage was confined to so few it is considered negligible in view of the barrage of rock aimed at the police, automobile mowing the cars and crashing through one of the windows during the morning gave rise to a cry of more Bolshevists and hundreds of citizens flocked to the scene, some armed to the teeth in readiness for trouble. No injuries were reported the smash but the car finished the day with its back legs resting smashing in the whole store front.

Poet's Corner

THE MISER HEART

Why do I think to bring again the past
Into the present's unrepented hour?
I would not have life otherwise than the now
Is turned to sweetness—yet my miser heart
Saves of time, we have to pick and choose,
And, gaining one thing, must lose another best.
Yet, I have held all loveliness to the last.
My Heart is miserly of happiness
And so a little shadow dims with me
Along the sunny years. Gladly I say,
"The best is mine," and yet a vague distress
Is with me in evermore that there should be
No resurrection of dead yesterday.
—Ernest Pollock, in The Glasgow Herald.

AMUSEMENTS

DESERT SPOONS AND COMEDY FARE AT THE CAPITOL

Tonight is Silverware Night at the Capitol when E.P.C. Desert Spoons will be presented to each lady patron with the management's compliments.

"Oh! Sailor Behave!" is the featured attraction, and here we have the goods! Fast-moving, farcical, comic, good situations, that describes "Oh! Sailor Behave!" and when Olsen and Johnson are seen at the two boards of fun we know then the fun begins. These two, the greatest clowns on the screen cause more trouble in Venice in two minutes than a dozen Mack Sennett slore would in as many seconds! By the time they have got through with Delroy and Charles King give them relief in their touch of romance.

Charles King, a pioneer of talkies, is a singer with a voice reminiscent of the calmly songs in this production are excellent. Lola Lane, who has been remembered from "A Soldier's Plaything," becomes a lot of trouble in the susceptible hearts of Olsen and Johnson.

Comedy, cartoon and vaudeville make up the programme, which will start at 2.30 continuously all day).

JOE E. BROWN AT CAPITOL, Special Midnight Frolic

Burdened with laughs like the funniest furore of fast-moving frivolity, that half-man, half-mouth Joe E. Brown arrives at the Capitol 11.15 p.m. Friday night in "Broadminded" with Ruth Selwyn, Eliza's Toronto, where Exhibition crowds almost mobbed the screen to see this mirthquake, "Broadminded" will be seen at 2.30 daily at the Capitol over the week-end, when it plays on Saturday and Sunday in addition to the Midnight Frolic on Friday.

Supporting the big picture run, "Goofy for Gals," "Dizzy for Dames" and "Oh, Mabel!" are the astounding of the trend of the story. Toronto critics are unanimous in claiming "Broadminded" to be one of Brown's funniest yet, and if any reader has ever been in a theatre where he or her life before, "Broadminded" will be the first time in all their record. It is just too funny for words.

Midnight Frolic commences at 11.15 p.m., the full programme will start at 12 o'clock and the usual rates of admission will be charged.

CLIVE BROOK AT ELECTRIC IN THRILLING AND FAITHFUL ROLE

Heart-gripping, emotion-filled human drama comes to the screen of the Electric Theatre tomorrow in Max Marcin's great play, "Silence," given an added thrill by one of Broadway's "things to see", Portrayed by a talented cast, headed by Clive Brook, Peter Lorre, Evelyn Brent and Charles Starrett.

The opening scenes of "Silence," in which the big crime attraction at the Belle, today and Saturday, matinee daily, are tense and nerve-tingling. It begins where most pictures leave off, when its dramatic climax has but one hour to live. The story is fast-moving, flashing from drama to comedy, from suspense to dismay to suspense, lifting it to the heights of hope and exultation, with each unsuspecting twist of its strange plot.

"Silence" is the life drama of a hero, Jack Blaine—and Clive Brook makes the character glow. Of interest to the multitudes of Mary Pegay Shannon fans, built up overnight since her appearance of importance in "The Secret Call," is the unusual opportunity she has to display her talents in "Silence." That she manages to make two entirely distinct personalities of these dove-tailing characters evidences her superb talents.

Marjorie Rambeau, the popular stage and screen actress, is cast in a daring, colorful role that motivates these early action. Charles Starrett, young dark, handsome, whose great woman-appeal was proved in "Chat and Lone," comes forward again as the fiance of Peggy Shannon.

The action of "Silence" covers a period of twenty-years. The early scenes turn back to the pre-war "good old" days in an interesting re-incarnation of the colorful life of the period. The latter half of the picture brings the action up to date.

"Silence" was prepared for the screen by its author, Max Marcin, who, with Louis Gasnier, also directed the picture. Gasnier and Marcin recently collaborated on the direction of "The Lawyer's Secret."

"MERELY MARY ANN" BEST OATHOR-PARRELL FILM

The accolade of Four stars is the least that can be awarded "Merely, Mary Ann", the latest Janet Gaynor-Charles Farrell starring vehicle which opened to an enthusiastic audience at the Belle Theatre, last night. With a story perfectly fitted to its players and a thoroughly realistic settings, an excellently-balanced cast, fine direction and the admirable direction of Henry King, a splendid background is afforded the human film which—and they respond to the opportunity with scene of the finest dramatic and emotional work it has ever been this reviewer's privilege to witness. They exceed their splendid work in "The Seventh."

Miss Gaynor is more wistful and charming than ever as the persecuted little maid-of-all-work in the dingy London rooming house, who defy fails in love with the clever but impecunious composer, played by Charles Farrell—the best talking picture performance. Their delightful romance, with its vivid moments of sheer pathos, is one of the most appealing stories ever to be told on the screen and Director King has handled it to perfection, touching just the right note throughout.

Beryl Mercer as the shrewish, suspicious tyrant of of a landlady, Arnold Lucy as the dignified Mr. G. P. Stanley, etc., as Farrell's oldtime friend, head the supporting cast with their splendid performance. Jules Furthman has done a noteworthy piece of work in adapting the Israel Zangwill play to the screen, and Henry King is to be highly respect. By all means put it on your list of films that must be seen before long, when it will receive its final exhibition, as it has to be followed tomorrow, by Clive Brook in Max Marcin's sensational hit, "Silence."

Nearly a ton and a half of sugar was donated to a Ramsgate, England, hospital from a recent Pound day.

Mrs. M. Morris, who recently celebrated her 100th birthday in Aberdeen, Scotland, began work as a weaver at 13 and continued at the loom until 70.

Women's Interests in the Home

PRESENTATION AT IVANHOE

On Wednesday evening the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Reid gathered at their home to present them with a miscellaneous shower in honour of their marriage.

About ten o'clock Mr. C. A. Mills called the gathering to order and Marie Brown read the following address:

Ivanhoe, Ont. Aug. 36, 1931

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Reid:—

We, your friends and neighbors of Ivanhoe have gathered here tonight to spend a social evening with you, and extended an invitation to all to visit them in their new home. The gifts were unwrapped after which lunch was served and everyone returned to their homes assuring they had spend a pleasant evening.

Miss Lela Clements and Mr. Sid. man Reid were married last Wednesday morning, Aug. 26, at the Rectory, Stirling by Rev. Bryce. They left immediately amid showers of confetti and rice for Ottawa fair and Montreal.

On Friday evening, August 21, the friends and neighbors of Miss Lela Clements and Mr. Sidney Reid gathered at the hall to spend a social evening with them prior to their marriage on Wednesday, also presented them with a miscellaneous shower.

Mr. Henry Wallace called the gathering to order about ten o'clock and Marie Benson read the following address:

Ivanhoe, Ont. Aug. 21, 1931

Dear Lela:—

We, your friends of Ivanhoe and vicinity have gathered here tonight for a social evening together with you before you start on the sea of matrimony.

Your presence at our social gatherings has always added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Many of us here tonight remember back to the school days such a short time ago when you were always found a jolly playmate.

With pleasure we have learned that you will still be with us in our community and Church life where your help has always been appreciated.

As a token of the high esteem in which you are held in this community we ask you to accept these gifts as well as many good wishes for a long and happy married life.

Signed on behalf of the community.—Mrs. Will Shaw, Mrs. Tom Fleming, Mrs. Ray Mahaffy, Marie Benson.

Miss Clements and Mr. Reid unwrapped the gifts and thanked their friends and expected a welcome to all to visit them in their new home, which will be at Ivanhoe Lunch that served a delicious meal was indulged in, until one o'clock. Misses Arvilla Leonard and Booth of Marmora furnished the music.

The young couple received many useful and lovely gifts including silver, Kenwood blankets, china and several pieces of enamelware.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beckman
Elevator Etiquette

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

1. Is it necessary for a young man to take off his hat in an elevator when a young lady he knows enters?

2. If so, just what does an act signify?

G. Q.

1. If the elevator is in a hotel, or in an apartment house, or in a department store (unless the elevator have is very crowded), a man takes off his hat if there is a woman in the elevator, whether or not he knows her. This is not required nowadays in office buildings, since usually in these there isn't any room for a man's hat except on his head! But if he is in a business elevator and there is no one in the elevator and a woman whom he knows enters, he would naturally take off his hat.

2. Deference to the "fair sex," sir! Just as you show deference and respect and gallantry when you take off your hat as you bow to a woman on the street.

Words of Appreciation

1. Is correct to thank a friend after each entertainment he gives you?

The other day a friend, whom I have known for only a short time, took me to a show, dinner, and later in the evening, refreshments. Is it correct to thank him following each one, or should I wait until I call me good night and thank him for an enjoyable evening?

F. D.

It would be very natural to make some gracious comment of pleasure and enjoyment after each of these entertainments. "I thoroughly enjoyed that play, Bob, and it was a real happy choice that you made." "I enjoyed dining with you very much; what a charming restaurant that is"—and then, as you say good night, make a general thankful expression. "I have had such a happy time this evening, Bob. You are a prince to take me out so delightful to be with you. Thank you so much for your hospitality." Or, if this is the case, it realize, like a great deal of thanking. But as a matter of fact it would be quite obvious, since it would be scattered through the evening; from incamental point is that a well bred person says things of appreciation, of gratitude for another's thought and plan of hospitality.

Presentation Made Upon Departure

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Tice, 64 Murray St., Friday night, when the friends of Miss Enid Viola Tice gathered together to spend the evening with her prior to her departure to New Toronto, where she is entering a business school for nurses.

Dancing and card playing were the amusements of the evening. During the supper hour Miss Enid Geratrix read the following address and Mrs. Parnell presented Miss Tice with a sum of money.

Dear Enid:—

We your many friends and neighbors are gathered here this evening to enjoy with you a few pleasant hours before you take your departure from among us to take up your new duties. We have enjoyed many pleasant times together and we will certainly miss your cheerful face from among our group. As friends of yours we send with you our heartiest wishes for your success and happiness. We are proud to think you have chosen such a worthy calling and we dearly hope you succeed in finishing your training.

Miss Tice responded in a few well chosen words and the guests heartily sang "For she's a jolly good fellow."

Fashionably Speaking

By Lucille

Dear Readers:

While you are waiting for the fall styles in frocks to become definitely decided upon and that period in the early fall comes upon you when summer frocks are out of date, you turn to your wardrobe to look over its contents in the hope that it will produce a solution to the problem. There are always several frocks from yesterdays that might with a little clever manipulation be made over as new and do until you care to purchase a new dress.

There is the dress that is too short but otherwise good. To rescue it you will need nothing less than a yoke that joins in the dress in an unusual outline. You can have the dress coming up to the point in front, or you can have it coming down to the point, or you can have it coming down to the point, or you can have it coming down to the point

ROCHESTER IS YET HOPEFUL

Tuern in Events Gives Redwings Chance at Crown

(By the Associated Press)

A combination of unexpected toughness on the parts of the theoretically "soft" Jersey City and Reading clubs and some equally unexpected pet'ness on the part of the Montreal Royals, Rochester's hopes of capturing another International League pennant have brightened up considerably in the past few days while Baltimore's stock has taken a decided drop.

Today's standing showed Newark only one point ahead of Rochester after Jersey City had handed the Bears a setback and Baltimore's third place Orioles 3 1-2 games in the rear. Winding up their rivalry for the season with home and homers series, Rochester took six straight from Montreal to register a big gain while Newark was having trouble with the Skeeters five games to three and Reading was setting Baltimore back three times in seven clashes.

Walloping to Leaders

The lower ranking clubs handed the pennant hopes of Newark and Baltimore a couple of the most serious wallops. With the aid of brilliant relief pitching from Ed Wells and Rufus Smith, Jersey City went in 10 innings to down Newark 4 to 3. This pair followed Walter Brown, who failed to last two innings, but between them yielded only three hits in 13 2-3 innings. Bud Stewart was right with the bases loaded won the game. Reading outslugged Baltimore by 13 runs to seven tonight, 9 to 7, scoring ten runs in the third and fourth innings. Baltimore employed a homer and Kracovich, who drove in six runs, led the attack.

Doubles in Montreal

Rochester completed its triumph over Montreal by taking both games of yesterday's double header by slim scores, 2-1 and 4-3. Bill Hall and Bell turned in a pair of great pitching exhibitions, Hall allowing the Royals to two hits to beat Walter Shreve and Roy Wheat, who allowed only nine hits in two games. The only run of the second game was a homer by George Sisler.

Toronto tightened its hold on the fourth place berth with a ninth inning rally that won a night game at Buffalo 8 to 6. Joe Rabbitt was almost a team in himself as he drove in five runs including the winner in the ninth with one lusty single.

LARET'S CHANCE COMING

Larry Gaina, colored Canadian, who holds not only the Dominion but the British Empire heavyweight championship and whose treatment coolly successful Ruppert campaign of the last days or so was climaxed by his slaughtering Phil Scott, the British lad, in exactly 64 seconds after the fight at Leicester started, may appear in the ring for big things if the two matches for which he has signed with the Canadian Queensbury Club at Toronto promise anything. Gaina has always been one big question mark in the minds of flatic followers. He is tremendously clever and a hard hitter, though he can take little credit for pulling an end to Phil Scott's career and a mark even blacker than his skin in the bargain not be suffered at the hands of Georgs Godfrey, the colored Chicagoan. Gaina declared that Schmeling has always dodged him. Even admitting his qualified superiority over the present world champion, though many there are those who contend that Godfrey can beat any man in the world today) it is a long step from the white-black fight at the present at any rate. However, there is still a lot of interest in Gaina' two appearances and if he makes any kind of a showing at all the experts can gauge how far Godfrey can go part with the present crop of white heavyweights or how these two colored giants will fare against the great colored man of the past, Jack Johnson or the terrible Peter Jackson. (S.N.S.)

LARRY GAINS ARRIVES HOME

Will Prepare for Bout With Jack Renault on Sept. 21st

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 10 (By The Canadian Press)—After more than two years campaigning in Europe, Larry Gaina, colored Canadian holder of the heavyweight championship of the British Empire, who flattened Max Schmeling in Germany in 1925, returned to his native city today for a bout Sept. 21 with Jack Renault. During his stay in Europe, Gaina had whipped the best of European heavyweights and made quick work of Phil Scott, British Empire Champion, in a recent fight, knocking the Britisher out in the second round.

HUNTS FOR MISSING MAN

Wiarton, Ont., Sept. 10 (CP)—A search party of fifty is hunting for the body of George W. Ames, feared drowned, while fishing yesterday near Cloudmaker. His boat was found adrift, and with it his hat and coat. He is thought to have fallen into the water or else to have gone ashore. Ames was a private banker, selling out to the Canadian Marvel Commerce in 1923. He was in the real estate and insurance business for some years.

Found Shot After He Digs Grave of Neighbor

Thornhill, Sept. 10.—Shot through the head, police believe, by his own hands, Walter Lucsby, 40, Thornhill, was found dead in the left corner his garage by his wife and daughter Wednesday afternoon. Lucsby's son was advanced for the man's action Coroner C. J. Devins of Aurora decided to hold an inquest.

Lucsby, a well digger by profession, had been digging a grave for Thornhill Cemetery in which his next-door-neighbor, Murdoch Macdonald, was to have been buried today afternoon.

He was found with a sawed-off 35 rifle by his side. The bullet had entered his head and caused instant death. The man had always acted normally, according to his friends.

Small Boat Makes Voyage to Honolulu

Honolulu, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Sailing alone around the world in a 37-foot boat, Edward Miller, 55-year-old Memphis, Tenn., contractor, arrived here safely yesterday from Yokohama, which port he left July 14.

The vessel is equipped with a 30-horsepower auxiliary oil engine which, however, is seldom used.

By The Observer

Belleville is being visited by more sport celebrities each day. Yesterday, besides Stanley Stanley, we had Jack Fullerton, secretary for the O.B.A.A. in town. Mark was secretary of the "Forest-Body" when Belleville won the championship in 1919. He's now city editor of the Owen Sound Sun-Times. Mark says that the Owen Sound Greys, may not win the Junior O.H.A. title this season but they expect a winning team in 1932. Their motto is "wrap the youngsters along."

"Gordie" Howard, the ex-Central League umpire, was also in town yesterday. "Gordie" has given up the "indicator" for the driver and lives in Baltimore. In other words he says he would much rather pilot a golf car and proved that by playing 18 holes with "Bob" Wray.

In the Capitals-Chats set-to at Belleville on Monday evening, a record was established by Pearl Bridges, second-base for the Capitals, when she made her 198th safe hop. Pearl is the "hot" sack-ster who has been hitting the ball at a terrific clip in every game.

Tommy Fedder, Belleville's entry in the C.N.E. swim last August 31st, is back in town. Tommy is entered in the Canadian Race Unit is to take place tomorrow at the C. N. E. Tommy finished 43rd and with money the first race are eligible. "Vic" Harris, Fedder's manager, claims that Tommy had a good chance this time as the water is somewhat warmer, he claims. Fedder was forced out of the race last week when he was well up with the leaders. He was in seventeenth place on the day's run. Results from the water before Tommy sank under the affects of the icy water.

Joe Miller, who entered in the 100 yard dash on Labor Day, finished 8th in a field of 36 starters. Not bad for a beginner, Joe.

Word has been received from the O. B. A. A. that the Gibbard Park club in the first series of the intermediate semi-finals on Saturday. The game is scheduled to be played in Napanee.

The winners of this series will go directly into the intermediate finals against Milton, last year's champs, who recently won their section from Barrie.

Coach Walt Grewe put the Gibbard boys through a stiff practice last night. Grewe knows that he is up against the toughest team that Gibbards have faced this year, but Gibbards, for their first year in the O.A.S.A., have done remarkably well and they are to be complimented on their showing to date.

Baseball is all over in Belleville for the season of 1931. After nine months of hectic baseball the Kingston Capitols eliminated Belleville C.I.A.C.U. team by the score of 15 to 13. Harold "Twig" Woodley was at the helm of the Capitols' girls last night and the new manager sure knows how to steer into the Capitols camp. He used his batting order to good effect the first seven innings the locals held their own.

The C.I.A.C.U. team after finishing third in the local league battled as well in the play-offs, that they put on like champs leading National Maids. They are to be complimented on their showing this year.

Yesterday at Shannonville Fair, the Maple Leafs won an exhibition game against the Frontenacs by the score of 19 to 15.

THE BIG THREE OF THE A'S

With the official opening of the American League pennant a mere formality, the Philadelphia Athletics have turned out some sterling team and individual records. And when one talks about records records Moses Grove, George Earnshaw and Roy Mahaffey furnish something to discuss. They can scarcely fail to amass seventy or more victories for the season at the rate they are going while Lefty Grove is well on his way to being the first pitcher to win over win 30 games in the big leagues and the first pitcher to win 30 games since Jim Barry ran up 31 for Cleveland in 1921. His string of sixteen straight tied "Smoky Joe" Wood's record of consecutive victories for the American League though it is three under the National League record of 19 held by Tom Keefe, 1891, and Rube Marquard, 1912. Lefty Grove, Earnshaw is a former Baltimoream, and so, incidentally, is Vince Barton, the Canadian, who is slugging for the Cubs. Mahaffey is a coast product. He has a wonderful future.

PIRATES ACT BRILLIANTLY WIN 8 GAMES

Out of Pennant Race Yet Hopeful of Good Berth

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.)
(Associated Press Sports Writer

Completely out of the pennant race but hopeful of gaining a first division berth in the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates have begun a brilliant spurt just in time to do some serious damage to the chances of the teams they meet.

Triumphing over Brooklyn 5 to 1 yesterday on a fine pitching performance by Henry Meine, Pittsburgh had given St. Louis a setback by winning three games and had taken four from Cincinnati, in continuing the attack, Pittsburgh held the Robins to five hits while the Waner Brothers accounted for three Pittsburgh tallies.

Washington carried off the honors of the American League's only game downing the Philadelphia Athletics 2 to 1 in a ten inning battle between "General" Al Crowder and Rube Walberg without doing any serious damage to the A's pennant prospects. The victory still left the Senators 13 games behind with only 18 to go. Crowder was the hero of the game after Jimmy Fox's fifth homerun of the year had tied the score in the fourth inning. He held the champions to six hits and drove in the winning run himself with a single in the tenth after Bluege had walked and scored.

As 80,548 fans saw the New York Yankees beat the Giants 6 to 5, only three of the ten counters were scored with the American League ball in the first five innings while the rest, including a homer by Babe Ruth, came in the last three frames.

The results of the comparison were much the same in Chicago, where a crowd of 34,865 saw the Cubs and Chicago Root Sox tie White Sox 3 to 0. Not a run was scored with the American League ball and all three in the last half of the game. Root proved himself equally proficient with either, holding the Sox to six hits.

THREE SUSPECTS HELD

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 10.—With the arrest of three persons late last night, police believe they have rounded up the gang which held up and robbed a grocery store here last Saturday night of more than $100. Evelyn White, Georgs McIntosh and Leo Hallett were charged with robbery while armed. Two others, Margaret Hommedieu and John White are held as material witnesses.

DUCK HUNTER KILLED

SEIZED HOME-BREW MUST BE RETURNED

Brantford, Sept. 10—Possession of beer under a Federal home brew license is legal even if a liquor permit has been refused. The case of Joseph Howell, Scotland, charged with having liquor unlawfully in his possession, came before Magistrate Blake for judgment. The case was dismissed. It arose out of the finding of home brew belonging to Howell after his L. C.A. permit had been cancelled. The defense brought out that he still had a Dominion permit for the making of beer. Magistrate Blake stated that a conviction could not be made when the accused had no permit, J. O. Trenchard, for the Crown, argued that the beer be returned to Howell. Magistrate Blake ruling that such a course would be followed. Crown Attorney Ireton asked that the accused's permit be cancelled. Mr. Trenchard remarking that this was under the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government not Provincial. Provincial Officer Rowell's permit had been referred to the department. He had recommended for cancellation. In the meantime, the Provincial Officers have thirty days in which to return the seized beer.

Will Tell Story of Marine Mission to U. C. Laymen

Rev. R. C. Scott Will Address Conference Group

GRAPHIC STORY.

Fifteen years of arduous sailing on the Labrador Coast have qualified Rev. R. C. Scott of the United Church Mission to speak in behalf of those hardy and interesting people and isolated bits of British Columbia. Captain Scott is coming to Belleville on Saturday, September 19th, to attend the Layman's Weekend gathering in Albert College and to address the evening mass meeting in the College Assembly Hall. Pictures, settlers, Indians, fishermen and lighthouses will all appear in the vivid story. In his time Captain Scott has served practically all of the region now divided into the five fields in which the United Church of Canada conducts its humane work. He has become a skilful navigator and has his captain's papers. An ordained minister of the church, he has the Christian sentiments wherever his boat docks among the outpost people.

Captain Scott for a series of meetings at this time, he makes his first appearance in Eastern Ontario at the Belleville Conference where his illustrated story will be the feature of a public meeting at 8.30 p.m. Saturday. His International Film illustrate the magnificent scenery and dangerous life with interesting incidents and afloat.

His first address given at the Conference of Ontario leaders at Whitby last week aroused great enthusiasm and by the Saturday evening Day of Quinte Laymen, that he would again tell his story to a larger audience.

REV. R. C. SCOTT, Captain of the "Thomas Crosbie" of the United Church Marine Mission, who visits Belleville on Saturday and will address a public meeting in the assembly hall of Albert College at 8.30 p.m., on adventures in deep water off the Pacific coast.

WAR VETERAN HAS DOUBT

Premier Bennett Not Like His Pictures He Finds

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—"Are you trying to kid me?" demanded a war veteran selling sweepstake tickets here yesterday when a man he stopped on the street declared he was Premier Bennett.

Bill Gabrial the ex-service man was introduced to the Premier's home companions: Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canadian Minister to Washington (F. E. Kenning, millionaire pulp manufacturer, and Kenneth A. Green, Ottawa book broker.

The four exploded with laughter as the ex-soldier, a P. Bill, who served in France with a Forestry Battalion, again ventured. "I've seen Mr. Bennett's pictures in the paper," he said, looking more closely at the Premier.

"I'm Mr. Bennett," the latter repeated between laughs. Bill's doubts were swept away as Mr. Bennett and his companions all bought tickets. The Premier took a 50-cent one, the highest priced of the lot. "Keep it," he told the veteran as he smilingly handed it back.

INBOARD MOTOR BOAT IS TAKEN

Allegedly Stolen From Boat House in Deseronto This Week

Breaking into the boat house owned by B. L. Detlor of Deseronto, some person or persons unknown on Provincial and town police, took a seem less pleasure boat and motor from the boat house and Mr. Detlor is now offering a reward for information leading to the theft was allegedly committed either Tuesday or Wednesday of this week. Entrance to the boat is the regatta on Monday, when the boat was used by Mr. Detlor afternoon, and did not go to the boat house again. Mr. Detlor reported only to find that his boat had disappeared. Police in the town of Deseronto, J. W. Thomlinson, was notified and investigation of the theft and immediately commenced.

The boat, that was taken, was one of the thousand motor launches on the Bay of Quinte, capable of considerable speed and equipped with all modern equipment. The hull is 16 feet long, Mahogany, with a V foot, 4 inch beam. The hull is of the round bilge type, with a keel on the cock pit in the centre of the boat, the motor being placed there. The boat is completely planned inside and is equipped with a Sierra four-cylinder inboard motor ignition. Two new six volt batteries are included in the equipment. The motor itself, keenly the loss of his splendid boat and the motor will be grateful as to its whereabouts will be substantially rewarded.

CARS COLLIDE ON BRIDGE ST.

City Traffic Officer and Provincial Officer Investigate Accident

John Hartemsine, Jr., 4 East Fourth Street, Tottstown, Penn., was driving north on Church Street Wednesday afternoon at about 4 o'clock and, it is said, neglected to stop before crossing Bridge Street, with the result that he collided with the car driven by Clifford Ketcheson, who was driving west on Bridge Street. The driving gear and fender of the Hartemsine car were damaged, Mr. Ketcheson car also received minor injury. After the accident, Constable Byles of the Ontario Provincial Police tested the brakes of the Ketcheson car and, it is alleged, found them defective. It is also claimed that only one large headlight was burning on the Ketcheson car and that the tail-light was out. City officer Taylor investigated the accident. This Thursday morning Mr. Ketcheson was fined $10.00 for driving a car of defective brakes, and Mr. Hartemsine was fined $10.00 for failing to stop at a stop sign.

FATAL FALL FROM WAGON

Crowland, Sept. 10.—Joseph Brown, aged about 66, was instantly killed last night when he fell from his wagon while driving up a lane in Crowland Township. CHAPTER V.

Before Radcliffe could answer Don Bob had stopped before the ranch-house and hailed him up the steps.

A Mexican servant dozed in a corner, and with a nod from Don Bob dismissed him, then piled wood in the fireplace, threw sticks of fragrant mesquite on embers, lit pipes and lay back to a deep leather chair.

"Still down, Ted. There are cigarettes and pipe tobacco."

For a time he busied himself with the glowing logs while Radcliffe watched him closely. "It's about my father?" the young man asked at last.

Bob slowly filled his pipe, then set before the fire.

"Yes, part of it's about your father. But most of it is about you. Up until the time your father died, just how much did you know about his affairs?"

"Nothing except that they were perfectly sound. He always had the strongest kind of backing."

"He was a great gambler, remember. It means in the big, adventurous sense."

"He loved to experiment and try what others never dared. He was always willing to back his judgment with his last penny. If that's what you mean, yes, he was a gambler. And why not? There was a reason for his own fortune of a good many millions behind him."

The man opposite was silent for a time, then at last said quietly: "I had a letter from your father just before he died, five years ago. Things had broken badly. He had put everything into a number of new ventures. Most of it was in those big Mexican plans of his. Then, without warning, the Mexican government cancelled its agreement for that power project and withdrew its permits for the irrigation work. As a result all those hundreds of square miles he had leased became overnight just so much valueless land. Ten cents quick pants of early spring. It caught him. It wiped him out."

"Ruined?" The whispered word seemed to linger in the quiet room.

"Utterly. I think it broke his heart. Not that the money's not that, but the death of all his plans, the crashing of twenty years of work and hope. Boby long before had drummed on the chair and his eyes followed the rising sparks as they swarmed up the chimney place. "His first thought was to keep it all from you," he added softly.

"But didn't he know—he must have known—that I'd rather a thousand times have faced the music with him?"

"I don't believe he could have endured your seeing him beaten. I think he wanted always to remain the big, generous, dashing figure of childhood—until the end. And the end came in six months. But before he died he wrote me that he had off every cent. It left him with a few scant thousand dollars, and these he turned over to his bankers. They were to pay you through school and give you those two years abroad."

Radcliffe's grim face looked up. "And I thought it was just an allowance."

"It took every penny your father owned. Well, it was his wish that you should have those years uncrowded. And now you've had them."

A silence, broken only by the crackling logs, while slowly the dawn realization of it crept in upon the listener.

The world was tumbling about him. That great stalwart father of his, with all his power, the very symbol of power and success—the idol of his childhood, had ceased to exist.

Radcliffe shook his head, as if to rid himself of this nightmare. It couldn't be true. He wasn't like that.

Suddenly he found himself walking the length of the room. "It's not real," he said once. "I suppose, somewhere, I'll wake up and laugh. But now it's as if it all were happening to someone else—while I stand by and watch." He whirled back toward the quietly seated figure. "But why did he send me out here to learn all this?"

"For two reasons. First, he wanted me rather than a stranger to tell you. And, second, he wanted me to give you this." Don Bob waited to let the sound die to a long crescendo. "Its last word to you."

Radcliffe's fingers closed gently, almost reluctantly, on the envelope, but his eyes remained on the speaker's face. Not

INVESTIGATION IS UNDER WAY

Mayor, Supt. and Police All at Work on Windsor Crash

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 10 (By The Canadian Press)—A triple barreled investigation of last night's Detroit-Windsor crash in which 78 were hurt, took form this morning.

Mayor David A. Croll announced he would demand a full inquiry and won solid council endorsation of his stand. A. P. McGill, local superintendent of the Hydro-Electric Railways announced the inquiry, he had already launched would be pressed when the condition of the injured motorman, W. T. Craig, makes it possible to question him. Provincial Police, directed by Mr. McGill, confirmed his understanding that they were making a complete investigation of the crash.

"I am attaching no blame to anyone," the mayor said before a Windsor City Council meeting today. "But the citizens want to know all the facts. Seventy-six people were hurt. We want to know how and why."

"There will be an inquiry," Mr. McGill promised in a statement given today. The superintendent left a sick-bed to rush to the scene of the accident last night.

"I will be ready as soon as we can talk to the operator of the car," I phoned Metropolitan General Hospital this morning and was advised he is not yet in condition to be interviewed.

Stomach Troubles That Are Dangerous

(CUT THIS OUT)

Some forms of stomach trouble, if neglected, often lead to dangerous conditions—ulcers or cancer. For them, a surgical operation is about the only hope.

For this reason, even the most simple stomach ailments should be given prompt and careful attention. So, don't neglect acid and stomach, sourness, gas or bloating! And don't wrestle them with unreliable or unreliable treatments. At the very first signs of distress, go to any good drug store and get some pure Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets). This special Magnesia Compound is safe and pleasant to take, quickly, almost instantly, effective and does not act as a laxative. Be sure and ask for BISURATED Magnesia for stomach troubles only.

China's population now stands at 478,787,000, although the figure is more or less approximate as international disorders interfered with the completion of the census.

Willard Robertson, Clive Brook and Peggy Shannon in a tense scene in Max Marcin's melodrama "Silence", a smashing human drama worth earnest describe, coming to the Belle tomorrow for two days, after two weeks at the Tivoli Theatre, Toronto.

"How do you get him to chew his food?"

"I give him Shredded Wheat and it's so crisp he has to chew it—the more he chews it the better he likes it and the more nutriment he gets out of it. Many children bolt down their food without chewing—that means imperfect digestion, poor teeth and unhealthy gums. Shredded Wheat with milk makes a perfect food for growing children, and it's perfectly delicious with bananas or stewed fruit."

National Cabinet Is Urged For Canada By C. L. Burton

More Population, New Development and Production Suggested

Regina, Sept. 10.—A reversal of Canada's policy of self-containment for the purpose of facilitating trade approaches to the nations of the world; a program of increasing the Dominion's population by three times the man-power lost in war years, and to add to the population by 25 millions in 25 years; new development and new production of natural resources and the marketing of the same; the development of Canada as a mecca for winter tourists; and the creation of a national non-partisan government for a limited period of years to carry out such a program; these are among the recommendations contained in an address here Wednesday before the Canadian Chamber of Commerce by C. L. Burton, of Toronto, president of Simpsons Limited.

Urges Population Increase

"We have arrived at the place where it is quite doubtful if we can go on and greatly increase our production from natural resources unless we revise our plans and methods and make it possible to sustain and provide for a very important and progressively increasing number of people," declared Mr. Burton.

"May I presume to say that one of the reasons why we have not increased our population in proportion to our material development is that we have disregarded the most important of all natural resources, namely, our man-power.

"The situation at this present time is that approximately ten millions of people are possessed of $28,940,000,000 of wealth.

"The annual production of new wealth as reported by the Dominion bureau of statistics for 1929, is in the neighborhood of $6,942,171,600.

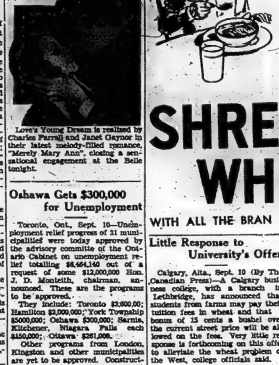
"Some time ago I suggested that if the Dominion government would pledge its credit, based upon the great annual production of new wealth of Canada, there is no reason why we should not add 25 millions of people to Canada's population in the next 25 years.

"It is probable that the present world economic situation is greatly intensified in its severity by the absence from our daily activities of those millions of young men who lost their lives in the war. It is further intensified because other millions who were in their youth while in that great fight were deprived of their early opportunities and training for the ordinary affairs of life. We shall never be able to appreciate the extent and importance of this loss. It has fallen very heavily upon Canada, because we are a young country with a small population, and the enterprise and imaginative power of those who passed from our midst are not here to help us in this age and operate the political and industrial affairs which we have to handle.

The New Generation

"It will be but a few years now, however, until a new generation will be in their best producing years.

"We shall emerge from the handicap of the war area with its destruction of capital, with its destruction of human life and the burdens which followed in its wake, and we shall be free to go on with this new job.



"The first requisite is that our Federal parliament should recognize the opportunity and should adopt policies to encourage the work and progress.

"The question here, as well as in the provinces, is whether or not our extreme party divisions will permit us to take a proper and business-like view of the situation.

"It is quite manifest that it would be stupid for us to plan for the development of resources and new production unless we gave immediate attention to exports and world markets in a way that present policies do not seem to afford.

"Canada has followed pretty much along the lines of most of the countries of Europe who participated in the Great War, namely in following a policy of self-containment and the exclusion of external influences of trade, and, like these other countries, has endeavored to become as nearly as possible self-sustaining.

"It would not be proper for me to enter upon partisan political ground in this matter, but it seems to be obvious that we cannot hope to go on with a development program that does not contemplate a radical change of mentality in respect to small Canadianism which tends along the line of building a wall about our country and making it as difficult as possible for us to develop active trade relations with the other nations of the world."

Oshawa Gets $300,000 for Unemployment

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 10—Unemployment relief progress of 31 municipalities were today approved by the advisory committee of the Ontario Catholic on unemployment relief totalling $6,464,140 out of a request of some $12,000,000 Hon. J. D. Monteith, chairman, announced. These are the programs to be approved.

They include: Toronto $3,600,00; Hamilton $2,000,000; York Township $500,000; Oshawa $300,000; Sarnia, Kitchener, Niagara Falls each $150,000; Ottawa $261,000.

Other programs from London, Kingston and other municipalities are yet to be approved. Construction of buildings was not approved.

Toronto requests $3,236,194 while Hamilton asked for $2,762,000.

Little Response to University's Offer

Calgary, Alta., Sept. 10 (By The Canadian Press)—A Calgary business college, with a branch in Lethbridge, has announced that students from farms may pay their tuition fees in wheat and that a bonus of 12 cents a bushel over the current street price will be allowed on the fees. Very little response is forthcoming on this offer to alleviate the wheat problem of the West, college officials said.

Weighing Trophy is Given to Kaye Don

Detroit, Mich., Sept 10—Kaye Don British speedboat pilot, today was presented the Weyhing trophy, annually awarded the winner of the fastest lap in the Harmsworth Trophy race. Don, who rounded the course once on Sunday at an average of 93.017 miles an hour, only to be disqualified in the race on Monday when he and Gar Wood both were ahead of the starter's gun, received the trophy from Commodore J. A. Schmidt representing the Yachtsmen's Association of America.

Make Systematic Search For Missing Airman

Sioux Lookout, Ont., Sept. 10 (By The Canadian Press)—Efforts to find trace of Charles A. MOIRA W. M. S.

The September meeting of the Moira W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Jos Williams on Wednesday evening Sept. 2, with a splendid attendance. The meeting was led by Mrs. Henry Emerson, who chose for the opening hymn, No. 93, "We have heard the Joyful Sound", followed by prayer by Mrs. Emerson and Lord's prayer in unison. Another hymn, No. 83 was sung.

Roll call was responded to by keyword "Wisdom". The financial report given by the Treasurer Mrs. Frank Emerson, was very encouraging. The scripture lesson was given by Mrs. D. Thompson. Miss Norma Ketcheson favored with a solo. A reading "Over Against His House" was given by Mrs. Geo. Foster, followed by a piano solo "Flapperette" by Miss Lily Ketcheson. Rev. Mr. Truscott spoke a few words of encouragement.

The business part of the meeting was taken charge of by the president, Mrs. T. Elliott. It was decided to hold a quilting in the vestry on Thursday, Sept. 18th.

Mrs. Blake Ketcheson and Mrs. Clayton Hagerman were appointed delegates to the District Meeting to be held at Foxboro next month.

The meeting closed with hymn 82, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess, and a pleasant social hour spent by all.

RED DEVILS

By Charles Sloan Reid

"Whiz, Lizzie!"

A little Shreadsburg flivver came to a stop in the one short street of the mountain town of Chookoff. A quiververon-looking man, with his long legs through the doorway of the car, and presently stood on his feet.

"Theophrastus Marvel at your service," he announced, with a wave of his hand and a sweeping bow. "Admission for the dispensation of the chief article in the observance of the injunction that cleanliness is next to Godliness. Soap, gents! I am selling the world-famous gold-hand soap."

An audience soon lined the sidewalk.

"I'll candy it, one time, gents," continued Marvel, displaying half a dozen cakes of soap.

"Can yuh eat it," queried a by-stander.

"Friend, it ain't recommended to cleanse the inner man."

"Melt it an' pour it on, or just spread it with a paddle?"

At this moment a commotion a block away attracted the attention of the crowd. Another flivver had driven down a good match for the first one, except for the picture of a red devil which ornamented the body. The driver, who had arum bled from the car was short and podgy. He had come out with a handful of packages, all labeled with red devils.

"Soap, friends; I said soap!" screamed the fat little man, waving his arms alert. "Red-Devil soap. Works better and cleans from a tiny little tuft of bones. Ten cents, only nine cents! Leander Long, friends. Not as long as my name might indicate, but long enough to drive that skinny tin pedlar yonder out of the soap market, with the best lathering agent that ever came out of a soap wrapper."

Marvel's audience began to break up.

"Red-Devil will do for a slungshot, gents; but it won't do to wash with!" shouted Marvel. "Three bars of Gold Hand for a quarter, gents!"

"If I was as big a liar as that antiquated boneyard, I'd quit selling soap and read law!" shouted Long. "Four cakes of Red-Devil for one silver quarter!"

The crowd moved toward Long's outfit. Marvel crawled into his car, and backed up to within a few yards of the car of his competitor. "Gold Hand at five cents a cake, gents," he yelled.

"Six cakes of Red-Devil for twenty-five cents," came from the little fat man who now was very red in the face.

"Seven cakes of Gold-Hand for two bits!" shouted Marvel in turn; and I don't care what yuh use it for."

Following this, a take of Gold-Hand soap struck the fat competitor in the stomach. A pistol leaped from the defendant's hip at the bruisers of Long, and a shot rang out. A cake of soap which Marvel was holding aloft was neatly drilled by the bullet. A wild cheer went up from the mountaineers.

"Fellers, hit's my treat!" shouted Ike Minter who was standing near with a jug of fresh apple cider between his feet. "That ish of grease hats got sand an' marksmanship, of I do say it as should n't a marster."

On the mountaineer's invitation both Marvel and Long dropped the soap from their hands, and sprang forward with the rest of the crowd for the treat. By the time the way into Joe Sikes's store where numbers were obtained, and the cider was poured out.

"Can't sell the dinged stuff now," complained Ike — "just as well treat."

Chookoff was a one-man town; and Joe Sikes was the man. He tried and in everything that the outlanders produced from ginseng to bear skins. But business never was brisk, so Joe had a checker-board over which most of his time and that of his customers was whiled away. Theophrastus Marvel copied the checker-board.

"Hurray, gents! he shouted; "I got money to bet I can beat any chap that ever walked ties earth a playin' checkers!"

"I got money that says you can't!" "I was the little fat man who answered the challenge.

Interest immediately was excited; and the crowd gathered about the checkerboard, at one of which Marvel already had seated himself.

"Come on, old soap textile!" he growled, throwing a ten dollar bill upon the table. "Cover this, Tubby!"

Long dropped upon a stool opposite, and laid down a bill.

"Hold the stakes!" Marvel thrust the bills into Joe Sikes's hands.

The game began. Two or three times during its progress the contestants almost came to blows, to the added amusement of the onlookers. At one end of ten minutes Long was retreating with two kings before the advance of Marvel with three. Presently the thin man seemed to have gone to sleep. There was an unguarded moment — and Marvel yielded a king. The crowd now began to take sides. About evenly divided the mountaineers cheered their favourite, and jeered the other. The two players were leaning forward, with every nerve apparently taut. But the fat man was doomed. Presently Marvel won by a bold move; and his cheer leaders sent forth a rousing shout. Long leaped to his feet, with his face beaming scarlet.

"Twenty bucks that says you can't do it again!" he shrieked.

"Cover with your own money, you little toad!" Marvel took the bills from Sikes's hand and laid them on the table.

Once more Sikes became stakeholder. This time the game moved more slowly. Each of the players measured his every move with a studied care. For a time it appeared that Long had the advantage, and the crowd became more excited than ever. That the lanky antagonist was the better player showed up in the final moves. By a series of sharp manoevres he ran his opponent into a hold from which he was unable to extricate himself without a loss of men from whilp he could not recover. Long arose from his stool, and charged up and down the floor like a caged lyena for some moments.

"Hey!" He turned about suddenly. "I'm not satisfied by a jug full; and I ain't busted by a pocketful. I'll bet you twenty-five I can beat you this game!"

Marvel produced his money.

"And now, you hobo-ez," yelled Long, that have been slouchin' for this skinny giraffe. Let yuhr money talk if you think he can do it again." Long flourished a roll of bills. "I'm betting two to one on my blooming self!"

Friday night at 11:15 P. M. JOE R. BROWN will appear in "Broadminded" at the Capitol's midnight Frolic.

OLSEN AND JOHNSON in "OH! SAILOR, BEHAVE" opens at the CAPITOL THEATRE TONIGHT (Silverware Gift Night) for two days —Matinee Daily.

Joe Sikes went down into his trousers pocket. His hand came out with a five-dollar bill."Come on, Minter," he called; "don't yuh want some easy money?"

Minter hesitated, then drew a dollar from his pocket.

"You gents are just too hefty," sneered Long. "Busted? or what?"

"Oh, we can make bit on cristin', I opine. I'll go another dolla' an' a half on it."

The fat checker player plainly was disgusted. After some further canvasing among the mountaineers, Sikes dumped a handful of coins and bills of low denomination into a hat which served as a stake holder and the third game began. This, like the preceding game was played with the closest attention. A very exciting balance was maintained throught the movement, until once more the fat man was retreating with two kings. Those who had money pooled against Long showed Long showed signs of joy.

"Any o'-you jays want to put up more money?" Long demanded wrathfully, pausing to wait developments.

No one appeared to be further interested to that extent; and the game was continued. Suddenly some thing happened. Marvel made a bad move; and with eager vindictiveness Long moved rapidly to his opponent's defeat.

Raking in his stakes Long stalked out of the store and climbed into his car. Marvel followed with a crest fallen look; and immediately drove out of town in an opposite direction from that taken by his competitor.

An hour later two soap peddlers were camped together in a little cove twelve miles south. A little enchantment had just been concluded between them. The fat man got to his feet.

"Louie," he said to his lank partner; "I'll say that eight-dirty-five is some swag. No more mahhahenrin' for me. Dees hookers is rackist proof." Mr. Long buried a cake of Red-Devil soap at a chipmunk which stuck its head out of a hole a few feet away.

PROFITEER TO PAY HIS TOLL

British Government Will Check Budget Profiteer

(By George Hambleton)
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Sept. 10—The National Government will place a check on the budget profiteer. New taxation proposals in the supplementary budget which Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, submits to the Commons today, will operate from Friday next. The new taxes will not be revealed until after the markets close at five o'clock. Until that time, they will remain a state secret. And the profiteers will have no opportunity to make last minute clean-ups in commodities affected by the new taxation.

Yesterday the House cleared its decks. Without dividing it adopted a government motion providing that with one exception the budget resolutions shall pass the committee stage before the House rises tonight. This was done to permit them to operate immediately.

The one exception—a resolution which does not cover new taxation—was made to permit further discussion of the budget provisions later and under the subsequent financial bill next there will be additional opportunity for debate.

And while awaiting today's momentous announcements, the House witnessed preliminaries of speeding up the work of national economy yesterday. Premier Ramsay MacDonald gave notice of a bill to authorize orders in council for the purpose of "effecting economies in expenditure" and "improvements in arrangements for meeting such expenditure."

Cabinet Secures Control

The effect of the bill would be to empower the cabinet to govern by order-in-council issued by the King without sanction of parliament. By majorities of 93 and 94 as against the 59 of yesterday the government secured full control of parliamentary time.

The saving of time, it is intimated, is the essence of the order in council procedure proposed under the economy bill. There is every indication too that the guillotine will clang over protracted opposition.

ACTION NEEDED TO SAVE WORLD

Lord Cecil Points Out Need For International Investments

Geneva, Sept. 10 (AP)—Lord Cecil of Great Britain, in addressing the League Assembly today urged the necessity of "reviving international investments" if the world is to be saved from impending financial disaster.

The British delegate read with apparent approval a portion of the Wiggin Bankers' Committee report and emphasized his conviction that the system of international credits must be reconstructed to escape a collapse in the world's economic system.

He echoed the Wiggin recommendation that the governments were faced with "imperative need of action—not within a period of years but of months, perhaps weeks."

The prevailing political customs may lead, to serious international consequences, Lord Cecil added.

He deplored the inflammatory speeches of a demagogic nature saying "one inflammatory speech cannot be cured by ten moderate speeches from the same source."

He sharply criticized the policy of holding air manoeuvres, mentioning that they had been staged recently in Great Britain, the United States, France and Italy. He said these manoeuvres proved that the possession of aircraft by one country is not a defense against attack by another and that their execution is an aid to international suspicion and anxiety.

TOTAL ECLIPSE NEXT AUGUST

Will Pass Over Hudson's Bay and New England

Delaware, Ohio, Sept. 10.—The total eclipse of the sun visible in Eastern Canada and New England on the afternoon of August 31, 1932, will be comparatively brief, Dr. Frederick Slocum of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., told the American Astronomical Society at Perkins' Observatory, Ohio Wesleyan University.

He said the sun would be obscured a total of 99 seconds at the point most favorable for observation.

The shadow of the eclipse, Dr. Slocum said, will travel from North Polar regions down over Hudson Bay, Quebec, New England and then across the Atlantic. The shadow will be 102.6 miles wide and will travel 2,967 feet per second.

He fixed the starting time at 2.19 p.m. (E.S.T.) and the conclusion at 4.35 p.m.

The population of the seas changes in cycles.

BOY CANOEIST INJURED

Brockville, Sept. 10—Attempting a canoe trip from Brockville to Montreal, Fred Scott, aged 16, giving Westmount as his address, went over a 15 foot weir at Massena, N.Y., which he failed to notice in a thick fog, and was rescued from drowning by fishermen. Scott's canoe was demolished and he suffered cuts and bruises, in addition to losing his paraphernalia, including clothing, camera and some money. After having received medical treatment, he was able to return here.

HINDUS WILL GREET GANDHI

Mahatma Will Not Ride in Express Unless Third Class

Marseilles, France, Sept. 10 (AP)—The arrival of Mahatma Gandhi tomorrow on the way to London from Bombay is expected to give police a busy day and they are making arrangements to handle large crowds.

Delegations of Hindu students are coming from London, Berlin, Geneva and Paris to join Marseilles students in tendering their leader a reception before he goes to the round table conference.

Gandhi is understood to have refused to ride in the Paris-Bombay express because it has no third class compartments and will take another train that evening. He has reserved a servant's bedroom on the sixth floor of a small hotel where he will rest before meeting his welcomers.

Hailstorms are sometimes destructive in India, when stones of large size fall with great force.

13,000 Men Battle to Get 2,500 Positions

Cleveland, Sept. 10. — More than 13,000 unemployed men, seeking 2,500 jobs offered by the county as a means of relieving distress, engaged in a wild riot Wednesday at two county store yards where applications for the work were being taken.

Fighting started after late comers tried to wedge themselves into front positions in the long lines of applicants. Special police squads, regular riot squads and deputy sheriffs were called out before order was restored.

Several thousand applicants stood in line all night in order to be near the front when registration started.

The county has offered the 2,500 highway ditch digging jobs in an effort to aid in solving the unemployment problem, and the first applications were taken yesterday.

Fred C. Wilkins, supervisor, said that 4,000 applications were received yesterday before the books were closed. Those who did not get their names in yesterday, therefore, waited all night, and at dawn today, more job-seekers began appearing.

The crowd continued to swell until late in the morning, when at least 12,000 men were in the lines. The job-seekers, impatient from their long wait, became unruly after the late-comers started trying to get front places in the lines.

When the fighting started windows were broken, several men were injured and a large number fainted from weakness, superinduced by hunger and lack of sleep. Many raided a nearby apple orchard, stripping the trees of fruit.

The special squads of police carried tear gas bombs and riot clubs but were not forced to use them in quieting the rioters.

Planes Stand Ready To Search for Fliers

Victoria, B.C. Sept. 10— Three planes of the Canadian Airways, engaged in governmental survey work on Vancouver Island were ready to aid in the search for Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, United States fliers.

Fliers and navigators here doubted if there was any basis for the reports saying it was improbable Moyle and Allen could have passed south of Graham Island of the Queen Charlotte group without having been sighted or heard by ships in the passage or radio stations along the shore.

Sunshine, Large Exhibits, And Happy Crowds at Shannonville

Annual Fair Draws Large Crowds From District and Town

TRACK EVENTS

High Standard Reached By Exhibits in All Classes

Shannonville fair to which the people of these parts have been going for generations on a September every year, was this year held, on Wednesday. The depression seemed strange to those who were used to substantial had known of only Saturday fairs at the village, but the results were such as to justify the change.

The ample ground set on the green banks of the Salmon River and under the shadow of the village never looked more festive than they did on Wednesday during the annual exhibition. Weather was no asset to the board this year for the heavy rains poured down on the grounds, a thunderous break in the wet weather spell which started a week over a week ago. The warmth kept the crowds happy, they could move about with pleasure, the program of sports could be followed with confidence. In the meantime, the mood where two Belleville ladies' softball teams battled, on the race track which had been made ready for the course for the greater part of the afternoon with their speed events, on the midway where the lemonade and refreshment stands and women plied a very successful trade with the thirsty folk. Under the bright sky the stock was judged within the enclosure and in the hall many competitors had their excellent in examination and inspection of the exhibits in flowers grains vegetables, fruits, ladies' work, samples of carpentry, dairy products, and domestic exhibits.

High Standard Attained

Directors were uniformly pleased with the exhibits. In this age it needs a very good to operate a fair and the prize list is no mean job to keep up to the standard so that the exhibition may attract the finest quality of entries which can be brought together. Their efforts to build up the list were rewarded by the keenness, even sharp competitive exhibits, in the fine competition among the carriage horses, and in the exhibits which filled the hall.

All in all it did not look like the most depressing year that the world has had, indeed the deputy fair gave every evidence of the aptitude and determination of the people adapted in agriculture to carry on to the finish, and not turning pass through the "peculiar times". Motorcars are taken as a fair indicator of wealth and a look over the rows upon rows of automobiles showed that this form of wealth remained with the wealth in agriculture. The motorcars ranged among those exhibiting horses were Dan Whalen, Cecil Ketchenson, Morris Reid, Stillman Haight, George Badgley, J. H. Yeloman, S. F. Hagerman, Fred Taylor, Ben Morton and James Hoskins.

There were a number of fine herds of Holsteins and Ayrshires and a large number of fine beef cows.

The contest in hogs was limited to R. J. Garbutt, of Thurlow and Patrick Finnegan of Sharpe's Corners and in sheep to Messrs. Finnegan, Garbutt as well as James McFarlane of Napanee.

During the afternoon the Belleville Municipal Band played and were praised by the directors and officers of the society for their work.

A conservative estimate placed the crowd at about twenty-five hundred people.

Track Events

The horse races were a big attraction. Although the track is of the sod-grass nature the time of the mile heats were very fast considering the difficulties that the horses encountered. There were three classes entered at the meet, Free-for-all. Classes were with the 2.30 class, 2.24 class and the represented and exciting heats were the result. The free-for-all required four heats. No mishaps occurred.

"Down With" Dog Howl Barkless Dogs Wanted

Peterboro, Sept. 10. — The city council which some time ago passed a bylaw against unnecessary noises has now added a clause chapter saying "the continued howling or barking of dogs is a nuisance within the list of objectionable sounds."

The amendment makes no distinction between day and night. It being set down as an offence to keep a dog that barks regardless of the hours he chooses.

FUNDS SPENT ON LUXURIES

Evidence in Foshay Case To Effect Thousands Spent

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 10. — Testimony that thousands of dollars of his company funds were spent for theatre tickets, safet service, gratuities and personal expenses was given by W. B. Foshay, Minneapolis, whose utility empire went into spectacular receivership in 1929, was given in Federal court yesterday.

The jury hearing his trial with six associates on charges of using the mails to defraud, was told that $46,988 was paid in 1927 by the companies for such expenses.

In 1928 when the stock selling activities of the companies were near their peak, their treasurers were called upon for $60,973 to defray his personal expenses, the witness, E. J. Bouchard, former assistant treasurer of the W. B. Foshay Company, parent concern, testified. In 1929 outlays for like purposes totalled $3,006. A New York and a San Francisco hotel were named as receiving large sums.

Six Men Being Held Gang Murder Hinted

Ottawa, Sept. 10. — Investigating alleged confession of an unmarried resident of Hawkesbury, that he was one of a gang of his fellow-lumbermen who murdered a young lumberjack on the shores of the Ottawa River near Grenville, Que., in the spring of 1930, Ontario and Quebec provincial police are holding six Hawkesbury men and are seeking a seventh, while they search for the body of the supposed victim.

No charges arising out of the investigation have been laid as yet, but one is a prisoner in Hull jail awaiting sentence for theft, another is detained at L'Orignal, and two others are in custody as "material witnesses" at Montreal.

Obituary

LATE MARY ETHEL KETCHESON

The funeral of the late Mary Ethel Ketcheson took place Wednesday afternoon from her late residence on the ninth concession of Thurlow to Bethel United Church. Service was conducted at 2.30 p.m. by the Rev. E. W. Coffey of Plainfield. The largely attended funeral and the many beautiful floral tributes only went to show the high esteem in which the deceased was held in the community in which she resided. The bearers were, R. Robinson, H. Ketcheson, E. Sayers, I. Noble, R. Ketcheson and W. Carter. Interment was made in Moira Cemetery.

PAULA JANE FURDY

Paula Jane Furdy, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Furdy, 182 William street, Belleville, passed away at her parents' home early Wednesday afternoon. Little Paula was born in Belleville two months and twenty-two days ago. She has been ill for some little time. Her parents are members of St. Thomas' Church.

Valuable Horse Dies on Thurlow Farm

A valuable horse belonging to Mr. Charles Davis of the second concession of Thurlow, dropped dead on Wednesday morning shortly after it was let out of the stable into the yard. The animal was in apparent good health up to the time of its collapse.

Approximately $30,000,000 was contributed by Americans during 1930 for charitable, missionary and scientific projects abroad.

You're Not Car Wood Motorist is Told

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 10— An impatient motorist at a Bay street intersection yesterday shot his car out from the line of stopped traffic on the order of "caution" signal, before the green "go" light flashed.

The traffic officer on duty stepped toward him, hand upraised. "Get back there," he warned. "You're not Car Wood."

Will Not Involve Monroe Doctrine

Mexico City, Sept. 10 (AP) — Mexico will not permit her League of Nations membership to involve her in any way with the Monroe doctrine, Foreign Minister Genaro Estrara said today.

A warning of her stand in regard to the doctrine was sent to the League yesterday and the Senate unanimously ratified the acceptance of the initiation last night.

Big Cuts Made In Relief Plans

Toronto, Sept. 10.—Thirty-one municipal unemployment relief programs, entailing an expenditure approximating $6,500,000, were approved by the special Unemployments Committee of the Ontario Government, yesterday, and were forwarded to Ottawa last night for final endorsation by the Dominion authorities.

In all these, and in others to follow, the municipality affected will bear 50 per cent. of the expenditure and the Dominion and Provincial Governments will each assume a 25 per cent. share.

The cig cuts imposed yesterday by the committee, it is understood, to the fact that many of the municipalities—Toronto in particular—provided in their applications for extensive building construction. Incorporation of buildings in the Government's relief policy is still being debated. Hon. Dr. Joseph D. Monteith, Chairman of the committee, could not say last night what decision would be reached in this regard.

The elimination of buildings from the city's unemployment relief program will be the subject of a further discussion between Mayor Stewart and other members of the civic administration and Premier Henry and members of the Provincial Government.

"The cut in the city's $5,000,000 program to $2,600,000 was due to the decision of the Government to eliminate all buildings," said Mayor Stewart after a conference with Works Commissioner Harris. "The elimination of buildings will be a matter of further discussion. In the meantime, civic heads will proceed with their plans on what the Government is willing to assist us with. I am informed it will provide substantial relief.

Death Penalty Likely For Chilean Mutineers

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 10 (AP).—The ringleaders of the naval mutiny were being ferreted out today by a mixed army and navy court with instructions to mete out the death penalty.

Communists and other radicals particularly were sought by a special board that was empowered to extend its activities abroad for traps of foreign influence. It was expected some Chilean embassies would be called on to aid in this work.

At the same time the government is moving to reorganize the navy and the system of naval defense in order to avoid a repetition of last week's outbreak. Truces will ask tion the creation of a Ministry of National Defense which would control the army, navy and air corps, now in separate departments.

Acting President Truces will ask Congress to sanction the creation of a Ministry of National Defense which would control the army, navy and air corps, now in separate departments.

200 DEAD, 150 INJURED AS HURRICANES "CRASH"

Belize, British Honduras, Victim Of Storms Which Sweep Out Of Carribean Sea In Opposite Directions; Santo Domingo Waits Hurricane

Storm Approaches Yucatan in Southern Part of Gulf
HAITI IN PATH

Two Hundred Houses Unroofed at Porto Rico By Wind

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—Several hundred dead and unestimated property damage were reported today in the wake of two tropical hurricanes that were sweeping in almost opposite directions out of the Caribbean.

The first after lashing Belize, British Honduras, where 200 were reported killed, was described as moving into the southern part of the Gulf of Mexico, near Yucatan, with somewhat diminished intensity.

The second had killed one person in San Juan, Porto Rico, caused considerable damage and had cut off communication with the rest of the island. It was sweeping toward Haiti with Santo Domingo, the capital of that country, almost directly in its path. The weather bureau expected it to pass near that city late today.

From brief messages to Red Cross, the storm struck Belize with the weather bureau and through private sources came the news of damage.

The Pan American Airways office in Miami were informed that 200 were dead in Belize. Reports to the Trujillo Radio Company at Boston fixed the number of dead at Belize at 150 with several hundred injured.

The Red Cross here was informed that person was killed at Porto Rico two hundred houses were unroofed and an undetermined amount of other property damage done.

Belize, The Stricken City

(By The Canadian Press)

British Honduras is one of the oldest of overseas colonies of the Empire, but its development has always been retarded, mainly by geographical factors and partly by climate. Almost half the entire population is located in Belize, the capital, which has 21,000 inhabitants. The site of the present capital was first occupied by a shipwrecked English crew in 1638, but settlers, mainly from Jamaica, were soon attracted by the logwood trade. With primeval forest still covering about 87 per cent of the colony's 8000 square miles, forest products remain the principal exports of British Honduras. In its later stages of growth Belize has made use of foundations that are only partly natural. The site of the town has been described as little better than an ancient, sandy mud-bank, "made up with ships' ballast, mahogany chips, bottles and whisky bottles." To a depth of 60 feet, it has been shown by borings, there is a stratum of bottles and mahogany chips. Belize stands on both sides of one of the mouths of the river of the same name, the two parts being connected by a swinging bridge. Its position on the edge of a delta is unusual for a seaport. Despite its origin and its somewhat disreputable foundations British Honduras is today one of the cleanest and brightest cities in any of Britain's tropical American possessions. Along the river fronts lie the stores and private residences, while the river is always a busy scene of shipping craft. The houses are often surrounded by small gardens with fruit and shade trees, the cocoa-nut palm predominating.

The principal buildings in the town are, or were, the court house in the centre, the government house at the southern end, Fort George towards the north, the British Bank of Honduras, the hospital and the Roman Catholic Convent, and the Anglican Church, handsomest of all.

Mangrove swamps surround the town and Belize has been frequently ravaged by epidemics of cholera, yellow fever and other tropical diseases.

Armitage Bailed at Noon, and is at Once Rearrested

Taken to Kingston to Stand Charge on Another Charge

TRIAL HERE 16th

F. H. Armitage, Belleville broker, against whom charges of alleged theft have been laid at the instigation of the Security Frauds Prevention Board of Ontario and who has been held in custody at the county jail pending trial on September sixteenth, was admitted to bail of $15,000, furnished by five bondsmen, before noon today. Friday and was immediately rearrested.

Armitage when liberated by the jail authorities was met in the corridor of the jail by Provincial Constable Grer and placed under arrest on the alleged charge of theft of $1000 from a resident of Sydenham, Ont. He was held awaiting removal to Kingston police court this afternoon, where he will appear before the police magistrate to answer to his new charge.

Mother Still Absent As Her Child Buried

Kitchener, Sept. 11—Helen Dombrow, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Dombrow, Albert street south, was buried on Thursday afternoon and her mother, who has been in Toronto since last week, was not present. Her whereabouts are unknown. She left the funeral of the child, who died Sunday and two days later, in the first possible moment as the mother could not know of its death. The police are trying to locate her. The father broke down during the funeral service, and sobbed hysterically as Rev. Mr. Schneider said the last rites.

Disciple Puzzles French Customs

Marseilles, France, Sept. 11. (AP) —The following conversation ensued today at the Mine Madeleine Slade, daughter of a British admiral, was questioned by French customs inspectors:

Q.—Are you Miss Slade?

A.—Yes. Miss Slade died six years ago. I am Mirabehn, disciple of Mahatma Gandhi.

Q.—Are you a British subject?

A.—No, I am nobody's subject except Mahatma Gandhi's, whom I regard as my father.

The inspectors looked puzzled but after eyeing her white non-like garb, shaved head and sandaled feet, passed her through the gates.

Ball Lightning Strikes Garage, Bread-Wagon

London, Ont., Sept. 11—The freak lightning phenomenon known as "ball lightning" is believed to have visited London Thursday, floating through the apartment of Harold Hill, 923 Dundas Street, passing through the Superior Dairy, and ending up in Marshall Brothers' bakery, where it was reported bowled over.

People in the street claim that the lightning made a relatively leisurely passage, and surprise was felt that not all the people imperilled so few were affected. The lightning on its horizontal passage swept from back to front of the Hill apartment and entering the Superior Dairy, passed out to a stranger who had taken refuge in the doorway. His arm was temporarily paralyzed but some time later he was able to leave unassisted.

Approaching the metal work of a car it sent a similar shock through a mechanic, but he also suffered no permanent injury.

The most resounding crash occurred in Marshall Brothers' bake shop at the garage, where the heavy outfit of the bread wagon was kept. The horse was affected either by electric or nervous shock, and his plunges and the overturning of the wagon ended the exciting episode. The driver was knocked sprawling but uninjured; but the horse was stunned.

The United States weather bureau in Washington has a standing appeal for information and especially photographs of this queer form of lightning.

British Honduras Gov't Sends Message to Washington

(By The Associated Press)

Two hurricanes were sweeping the Caribbean today, one was reported to have killed 150 to 200 at Belize, British Honduras, last night and today menaced the southern part of the Gulf of Mexico. The other, which left one dead in San Juan, Porto Rico, and today was sweeping toward Haiti.

Shortly before noon various weather bureaus on the Atlantic coast issued warnings locating the San Juan hurricane over Mona Passage and predicting it would pass near Santo Domingo late this afternoon or early tonight.

Government radio stations at Belize which is the capital of British Honduras, were put out of order by the storm.

A flash from Tela, Honduras, said the city was destroyed by wind and half the population homeless. Another message to the Pan-American Airways from its Belize field manager, Reed Chambers, said:

A second message received from the Belize Airport read:

"Winds reached 120 miles several hundred injured. Half of houses in town demolished. All radio aerials down. Need supplies badly to rebuild our radio equipment. Worked all night to get it hooked up to gas power unit."

He also said he was advised the Government of British Honduras was sending a message to Washington via the Mexican radio, which apparently is the only available method of communication now. Contents of the message were not privileged for publication, he said.

Two planes of the Aeromarine Company of Cuba, Curtiss seaplane and a Sikorsky amphibian were ordered to Belize and crews were ordered to stand by for immediate departure as Pan-American Airways prepared to use the services of their facilities to any relief agencies that might send succor from the United States to British Honduras.

Ships Are Sent

Washington, D.C., Sept. 11 (AP). The navy department at the request of President Hoover, moved today to co-operate with the Red Cross in providing medical stores and other aid for hurricane sufferers at Belize, British Honduras.

Secretary Adams immediately for dispatching planes carrying med ical supplies from the canal zone and sending ships to the stricken city.

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, Sept. 11 (AP).—A tropical storm of moderate intensity centered widespread damage to the crops in the Dominican Republic today. Some buildings also were damaged and a heavy rain was falling this morning continued this afternoon.

FINGER PRINTS PROVIDE CLUE

Prints Left on Broken Glass Used to Capture Perpetrator

Finger prints left on a broken pane of glass and the description of two men—given by a girl—were the clues which led to the arrest of Thomas Ruddy, West Street, near the C.P.R. station, was broken into and a number of articles stolen. Entrance was made from the rear of the store by means of breaking the glass. Three pipes, two of which were broken, a pair of shades, a cigarette case and a clock were later found in a bag which the two men, it is alleged, dropped in their expeditious retreat from the scene of the robbery. A neighbour lady heard the crash of glass and hurrying out saw a man and a girl running native and suspecting something wrong cried "Stop! Police!" This roused the neighbourhood and an intelligent person phoned the Police Station, the custodians of public safety arriving quickly on the scene.

Sergeant White and Constable Miller investigated and found the bag and from it gathered the clues and picking up the broken pieces of glass found that finger prints were on them. A girl who saw the escaping men gave a description of them and this description led to Ruddy being taken into custody at eleven o'clock.

Dryside, who has been living in Trenton for the last eighteen months and who formerly lived in Stirling and had worked for a time in Chicago, was told that he answered the description given by the girl and that they intended to make a comparison of his finger prints with those left on the glass. Dryside later admitted that he was one of the two who had entered the pilfered store, but he refused to divulge the name of the other man.

On Tuesday afternoon he appeared before Magistrate T. A. O'Rourke and elected to be tried by the magistrate and pleading guilty to a charge of breaking and entering a private dwelling, he was remanded for a week for sentence.

Four Castaways in Baffin Land Are Rescued

Ottawa, Sept. 11. — The rescue of four Scottish castaways, marooned for many months on the shores of Bowman Bay, on the deep inlet which cuts into the southeastern portion of Baffin Land has been effected by the S. S. Scotbie, the steamer chartered annually by the Canadian Government to carry supplies to the far-northern outposts of the Arctic Circle.

HON. R. COOKE TALKS HYDRO AT TRENTON

Rate Payers Are Asked to Approve Purchase of Local System

MAYOR PRESIDES

Hydro Chairman States There is Abundance of Power for E. Ont.

Hon. J. R. Cooke, Chairman of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, was in Trenton yesterday evening and addressed a meeting of ratepayers called to further discussed matters relating to the purchase by the town of Trenton of the local municipal electric system. A by-law authorizing the purchase of the system will be submitted to the ratepayers on Monday, and in order that the conditions and agreement of purchase being the same as approved by the ratepayers in March of 1929.

The meeting, which was very well attended, was presided over by Mayor Chester Lott, who spoke in favor of the purchase. Hon. Mr. Cooke confined his remarks principally to the power situation, the Hydro Commission in Ontario; the methods of financing and purchase that has been made to supply power in future as required in the Eastern Ontario area and in 1929, Mr. Cooke said, the Eastern Ontario system was completed by the purchase of the Ottawa, Rideau, St. Lawrence and Central Ontario systems. The combined organization now served the territory west as far as Whitby, north to Lindsay and east to the Quebec line. He pointed out that the Central Ontario system had been served by development on the Madawaska River and that 40,000 of power became exhausted in 1929 and the agreement made by him included a further option by which 60,000 more could be called for by the commission, an additional 40,000 horse power to be developed by the commission, within a period of ten years. The agreement calls for the delivery of the 40,000 horse power in annual increments of 6000 horse power over a period of ten years. When the source of power on the Madawaska River was developed the situation appeared to be very serious for many municipalities. The making of the agreement with the Quebec company, however, removed all cause of anxiety. The costs to many municipalities, everything considered, will be 30,000 less substantially reduced.

Hon. Mr. Cooke also addressed by Mr. Fred Drewry of the Hydro Engineering Staff and by Mr. D. J. Conant of Oshawa, Vice-President of the Central Ontario Power Association.

Tree Blown on Top Of Lumber Merchant

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 11 (CP)—One man was seriously injured and hundreds of acres of property damage caused by a severe wind, which swept through the valley of the Gatineau district last evening. Many trees were uprooted in the area between Chelsea and Wakefield.

H. Merton Sully, prominent lumber merchant of Wakefield, was badly hurt when a tree fell over on top of his automobile.

While swimming at the Outlet, Bass Lake, Muskoka, Lorne Jones, dived into shallow water, injuring his spine. He is recovering satisfactorily. The water is very low at present.

Kaye Don Recovers His Famous Cigarette Case

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 11—(CP)—Kaye Don has found his cigarette case. The loss of which in Detroit had caused him so much concern that he had asked newspapers to send a general distress notice for its recovery, Mrs. Sturm Wills of Long Island, discovered the valise who accompanies the motor boat champion had placed it under some of Don's linen, in case some of his admirers took a liking to it. So that is was never lost after all.

The case was a gift of Gabriel D'Annunzio, Italian poet and patriot, as a friendship token to the British sportsman, after he had set a power boat record of 110 23 miles an hour on the Lake Garda course on July last.

MacDonald Announces Decision Over Air Service

NUMEROUS CUTS

Government's Reduced Plans to Cost Only $100,000

London, Sept. 11 — Great Britain's active airship programme will be abandoned in the interest of national economy, Premier Ramsay MacDonald told the House of Commons today.

The Graf Zeppelin R-100, sister ship of the tragic R-101, will be disposed of, or help effect a saving of £250,000 in the national defence programme.

The Washington airship station will be placed on a basis of "care and maintenance," Mists and other paraphernalia which have been selected Miss May Meehan (above) as a typical Irish-American beauty to represent the United States in the Killarney Lakes Festival to be held next year.

$200,000,000 in Naval Building Soon Under Way

Washington, D.C., Sept. 11. (AP.)—Naval ship construction costing in excess of $200,000,000 will be under way shortly after the navy department awards contracts for the building of eleven destroyers to cost a total of $50,000,000.

Bids are to be opened next Wednesday on these craft, the first designed by the navy under the terms of the London Naval Treaty.

The navy department hopes the successful bidders will be able to begin work on the vessels in early October.

WILL MAINTAIN CAMP BORDEN

Superiority of Sidney Base In Water and Air Operations

Ottawa, Sept. 11 (CP).—Transfer of a squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force from Camp Borden to the new air force camp at Trenton, Ont., as announced in a despatch from Belleville yesterday, does not mean the abandonment by the government of Camp Borden, it was stated by officials of the Department of National Defence. The complete transfer of aerial operations to Trenton may be a matter of a hurried affair. It will require possibly two or three years.

It is pointed out the new air base in Hidney possesses many benefits not found at Camp Borden. Chief of these is the fact that being on the bay shore Sidney can be used as a training centre for both land and sea planes. Camp Borden was at a disadvantage in this respect for establishing sea bases.

The Royal Canadian Corps of Signals has a large staff at Camp Borden and this will continue. Borden was purchased as a military concentration centre during the war and proved its usefulness during the four years of conflict. The department has no intention of dispensing with it.

WALL BLOWN OUT 2 KILLED

Six Others May Die in Disaster Endangering 800 Lives

Rochester, N.Y., Sept. 11.—A terrific explosion today ripped out the west wall of the four storey Rollins building in the centre of the vast Kodak Park plant of the Eastman Kodak Company, killing two workmen and injuring four others, six of them perhaps fatally.

Eight hundred workers in the building were saved from panic by coal-headed leadership and marching out as one.

Four city ambulances made several trips to the plant on the outskirts of the city.

The injured were reported in a critical condition and burns and falling stonework.

The explosion was believed to have occurred in a machine shed on the north side of Turtle Creek which was applied in the building to roll film.

It was said the worst accident in the long history of the plant.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 11.—Premier John Bracken of Manitoba became interested today in a new coal deposit on the north side of Turtle Mountain, in Southeast Manitoba.

MERCURY YET ON THE CLIMB

High For 34 Years Recorded Today, Mercury Touching 89

Steadily rising until it reached 89 in the shade, the mercury touched a new high mark for the month today at 3 p.m. This new high point is one degree above the month's high mark previously reached at Although the air is not quite as humid as it was yesterday as the slight breeze from the west saved the citizens from sweltering. The present heat wave is a bit unseasonable and therefore the people notice the warmer weather to a greater degree than usually they notice the middle of the summer. Records are being broken that have stood for 34 years.

Washington, N.C., has the distinction of being the first town named after George Washington.

WRESTLER HAS ARM TROUBLE

Has Had Two Operations In Hospital For Infection

The injury that Stanley Stasiak, known as the Polish Lion in the wrestling game, sustained in the bout with Ed "Don" George a week ago at the Arena gardens in Toronto, is more serious than at first supposed as the wrestler's arm has developed blood poisoning. Dr. Stobie, who was consulting Dr. Stasiak, when the latter went through the city a week ago on Saturday on route to the coast, evidently worried which developed, has been in consultation with Dr. Armstrong and it is understood, a slight operation was necessary to relieve the pain. A specialist was called from Toronto and with Dr. Stobie went into consultation, the result being another operation last night, more serious than the first.

In his bout with George, the arm was injured but Stasiak continued till the end and two days later left with his wife for Montreal. The arm near Belleville the arm was paining, the right-hand muscles adhesion was sought. It is understood that besides the fracture, the ligaments on the upper arm were torn and an infection has set in. It is likely that the wrestler will be confined to the hospital for some time, the result of this fracture.

Mrs. Stasiak is in the city and is a constant visitor at the bedside.

PAVING BAY BRIDGE ROAD

Operations Start As Roller is Taken Across

Paving operations on the Bay Bridge road by the Department of Public Highways has commenced and the work will be rushed to completion. In order to facilitate the work and to expedite the paving the City Council has allowed the department to use the steam roller and it was taken into the job today. The work required of this roller will be completed in a few days, when the roller will be moved back to the job near the filtration plant, a new road being laid from No. 2 highway to the plant by the city and under the supervision of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Public Works, Asf J. D. MacMillan. There are two pieces of road to be paved near the Bay Bridge, one leading into the first span and also the connecting link between the spans. The city road which joins the Bay Bridge road at the city limits will be widened back a few feet to meet the traffic safety. This work will be under the supervision of the contractor for the Department of Highways.

O.S.D. IS ORAL INSTITUTION

Supt. Fetterly Stresses Fact at Opening of School

Thursday was a busy and exciting day at the Ontario School for the Deaf, when the halls and residence, silent for the last three months, were once more resounding with activity. All day Wednesday pupils from all parts of the Province, in charge of officers of the school, were arriving from Belleville, and much as they love their homes the pleasure depicted on the happy countenance, and the delight manifested in their reunions with schoolmates and the officers and teachers, was ample evidence that their hearts make it for holds a warm place in their affections. Many parents, with natural feelings almost of envy, stated that their children were eager to return to school.

The session of 1931.32 opens under happy auspices. As stated in yesterday's Ontario Intelligencer the number present on Wednesday morning was 304, which was greatly in excess of that of any previous session, and some twenty-five or more are yet to come. There are 30 on the waiting list. This record attendance will tax the capacity of the school rooms and dormitories to the utmost and emphasize the necessity for increased accommodation.

Record of Attendance

In his opening remarks Superintendent Fetterly expressed his gratification that so many of the old pupils had returned and were on hand at the beginning of the session, thus establishing a record never equalled in the history of the school. "I may say," he continued, "that every member of the staff knows every pupil by name and face and known to him and he could greet them personally on their arrival. This has welcomed them all back and hoped the session would be a happy one. The environments are pleasant associations as well as in the classroom.

During the last session some material improvements and additions had been made. "One of these was a fine new play room for the younger pupils and the pupils had derived much enjoyment and physical benefit with the organization of all the classes into Junior Red Cross Societies. The efforts made by the teachers to inculcate and the pupils to practice the rules of the organization had also done much to promote the welfare of the school, so that there was very little sickness, and he trusted that this would continue throughout this session. And of course good bodily vigor and health is a necessary condition of satisfactory progress in the class-rooms and shops.

Radio Ear

The Radio Ear which was installed last session, had proven to be so greatly beneficial that he had asked the Government to provide two more of them, and was pretty confident that the request would be granted in the very near future. Additional radio-grand pianos had also been procured, and it is to be mentioned that the pupils of all grades should have the advantage of rhythm work which had formerly been necessarily confined to the lower classes.

He welcomed the new pupils to the school and trusted all of them would be happy and contented here and would be apt and satisfactory pupils. The old and older pupils he is in the past, would try to make the newcomers, some of whom are very young, feel as much at home as possible, and to be helpful to them in every way.

An Oral School

He also urged the pupils to remember that this is an oral school and not a sign school, and the necessity among themselves as well as in the class-rooms and shops; and all members of the staff are of course, expected to use this method of communicating with the pupils. Only by constant use and practice can proficiency be acquired.

Softly played gramophone music is said to speed up the working out of arithmetical sums.

Obituary

S. H. BROWN

While walking to the railway station in Picton, S. H. Brown, aged 74, was stricken with a heart attack and died suddenly. He was carrying a heavy suitcase, and it is thought that the strain of this brought on the attack. He had left the home of his sister, Mrs. Georgina Tweddle, after breakfast and had appeared in fairly good health, although he had complained of slight illness. Rev. Thomas S. Waring, while passing on the street, saw Mr. Brown leaning against a post, and rushed over to him but the latter found he had died. Coroner Dr. G. A. Whiteman was called and found death due to a heart condition. No inquest will be held.

LA RUE BURLEY

After a lengthy illness La Rue Burley passed away at his late residence 74 Pine Street this afternoon. Mr. Burley has been a resident of Belleville for the past few years. He was born in Keene Ontario, sixty one years ago. His parents live at Keene, Municipal.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Newman and Mrs. Clarence Arnold, of Belleville and three sons, Garfield, Cecil and William of Belleville, besides his widow. There are also a sister in Calgary and a brother in Syracuse, N.Y. The funeral will be held Sunday and member of the United Church and of the I.O.F. of Keene.

Riggs Motor Salesroom Crowded to See Pictures of New Car

Following the announcement that Riggs Motors had taken over the agency for the sale of the Plymouth and Dodge motor cars in this district, a demonstration of the new Plymouth by sound and motion pictures was given by members of the publicity department of the Chrysler Motor Car Company last night at Riggs' Motors Sales. Particular attention was paid in the moving pictures to the manufacture of the new Plymouth car in a Four-cylinder, that may revolutionize the motor car industry. The Chrysler Motor Car Company have departed from a rigid to a floating motor type, the engine being set on rubber ratchets in the frame and allowed to swing with the contour of the road thus doing away to a pronounced degree with vibration. The pictures were clear and interesting, while the road test given the car was of the severest type, the last shots showing the car being coasted down a steep hill without breaking down the top. Figures for gasoline were shown an address by sound was given by W. Graham Brown, president of the company, hoping that the public would appreciate the effort of the company to put a low priced car with all the power and comfort usually found in the higher priced field. A large number were present to witness the pictures.

"HEROES OF THE FLAMES" STARTS AT BELLE TOMORROW

Screaming fire trucks—dizzy chases in speeding race-cars—gallant battles with the raging flames—hair-raising situations galore—and a delightful romance!

That's "Heroes of the Flames," one of the most thrilling adventure-some, and thrilling chapter plays ever produced, which will be established at the Belle every Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, commencing tomorrow. The star is the virile, daredevil player of a score of old-school photoplays—Tim McCoy. The serial, a story of the heroic fire fighters, is a real-life feature of Belle programs.

Marian Shockley, beautiful and talented young actress, enacts the role of June Madison opposite McCoy, and William Gould, Grace Cunard, Bobby Nelson, Dayne Whitman, Beulah Hutton, Charles LeMoyne, Joe Bonomo, and "Pal" the famous dog, round out the cast, were useless.

Cooke and Miss Grace Shannon.

FAREWELL GIFT

Mr. Sam McGuire, for many years a member of the staff of the Ritchie Company, left yesterday to take up duties in the dry goods department of the Robert Simpson Company, manager of a similar department in the C. D. S. branch at Picton. Mr. McGuire has been with the firm in his duties in that town.

Previous to his departure, his fellow employees gathered in his honor and presented him with a gift as a token of the esteem in which he was held. Mr. McGuire has been very popular with his associates and is sincerely regretted at departure." On behalf of the staff he was presented with a handsome club bag and a suitable address by Mr. McGuire made a fitting reply thanking his friends for their kindness.

Well known and admired through out the city, Mr. McGuire's many friends will be pleased to learn of his promotion although regretful of his departure from the city. Fraternally, Mr. McGuire is a member of Bureka Lodge, A.F. and A.M. of Belleville and Mizpah Chapter. He was associated with the Eastern Star, and Mrs. McGuire is a Past Worthy Matron of Minerva Chapter. Mrs. McGuire and little son are remaining in the city for awhile.

HONOURED AT TEA

Honouring Miss Madeline Young who is leaving next week to take up her duties in the English Department of Toronto Normal School, the staff of Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School entertained at an informal tea yesterday. The interesting affair was held in the living room of the Vocational apartment which made a gay setting for the event.

Miss U. K. Brown gave a short address voicing the sentiments of fellow teachers in this occasion.

"On behalf of your fellow teachers" in this school, she said, "I have been commissioned to extend to you, Miss Young, our heartiest congratulations on your appointment to the Normal School staff. We glory in your success in this recognition by the Educational Department of your worth as a teacher and on the realization that you won your spurs among us. We only regret the severing of our long and pleasant connections as members of this staff, with the withdrawal of your same counsel from our social channels and your never-failing support in times of stress.

We remember that when there were holidays to be sought, work to be done, or speeches to be made, you always faltered or resisted the personal call. Outside of school we have all happy memories of your cooperative friendliness and many-sidedness. We like to dwell on the golf links, hikes and picnics together, of hours on the tennis courts of the old school, the badminton courts of our present building, or Picton-like on ice and countless other interests and activities in which we have shared. We have met many times over the era come and we hope that your new duties will permit you to visit us many times in the future and thus preserve and strengthen the bond between us.

As a slight token of our appreciation and expression of our good wishes we present to you this lamp to brighten a corner in your new world and remind you when you burn the midnight oil of the kind feelings you have kindled in the hearts and the places you hold in the esteem of the staff of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School."

The presentation of a handsome table lamp was made by the principal, Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, who pointed out the great affection in which Miss Young was held by teachers and pupils. Speaking of the extensive interest Miss Young always took in the success and careers of her scholars, an interest extending beyond the school room, He joined with the staff in wishing Miss Young happiness and success in her new position.

Miss Young made a charming reply thanking her associates for their remembrance and their good wishes. She prepared by pupils of the Vocational Department, was served the guests.

CARDINALS ATHLETICS ARE LIKELY

(By Hugh B. Fullerton, Jr.)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

It seems to be only a matter of time before the Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the two major leagues reach the point where they can play on the 1931 "pennants are unbeatable" theme. The mortality among the erstwhile contenders has been heavy this year, with two or so and today the Cards have only one serious rival left and the A's two.

The New York Giants kept following the Cards and Athletics as long as League leaders yesterday, even though they had to put an end to Pittsburgh's winning streak to do it, but Brooklyn received its traditional crack on the chin to the last place Cincinnati Reds. With all other rivals out of the race, it is the Washington Senators and New York Yankees who have the only distant chance that they will overtake the Philadelphia's Athletics although that chance is very slimmer day by day.

Cards' Great Day

Seven games behind, the Giants started to climb the world's greatest heights as they opened their final series of the year with a 7-2 triumph over Pittsburgh. The Pirates' defeat was the only ground gained on record eight straight leader the Cards' ended all that in one inning, hitting Burleigh Grimes for seven scoring five runs in the first frame of the contest. Pepper Martin and Hubbell held Pittsburgh to four hits.

There was no gain registered by the Giants, however, for the St. Louis Cardinals won their fifth in a row on their fifth successive day of baseball's performances. Bill Hallahan, downing the Boston Braves, 6-3, gave only one hit up to the seventh inning. He let up in the fifth and Boston scored all its runs in the ninth, getting seven blows altogether.

The only team left in the O.B.A.A. race east of Oshawa, is the Gibbard Athletics of Napanee. Tomorrow all baseball fans in Eastern Ontario will gather at the Napanee ball park to see the Gibbards play the first game of the Intermediate semi-finals against the fast travelling North Bay club.

The Delora baseball club were the last club in Eastern Ontario to win the title. That was away back about 1927. Since that date there has not been an intermediate title in the east. Although the Raybestos club of Peterboro went as far as the intermediate finals last year, but were defeated by the fast Ingersoll club, in two games. On the shoulders of the Gibbard "Athletics" now falls the burden of bringing at least championship to Eastern Ontario this season. All other and minor league towns in the east have been eliminated so we all are now pulling mentally for the "Athletics".

It is expected that "Doug" Fraser, Gibbard's ace pitcher, will be the choice of coach Curnew tomorrow. Fraser has rose to great heights at times in step some of the best batters in the east and he has been backed by almost errorless fielding on the part of his team-mates. Freddie Bentley, their second pitcher, has also proven his worth and coupled with Fraser gives the Gibbards a great deal of intermediate twirlers. They seem to have the edge on the west serie will be the crucial games that they must win in order to make a bid for the intermediate championship.

The Gibbard's team have hit well in the play-offs to date, as might add, that their success so far has really been their ability to hit in the pinches. In their series against Odessa, Edmeston C.L.B. and Selphide they slugged their way to victory. Some games they were hopelessly faced with defeat but at the proper time they started one of their slugging rallies that always spelt defeat for their rivals.

The town of Napanee are very fortunate in having a man like caliber of "Ernie" Gibbard sponsoring assistance sport. Although Mr. Gibbard is very much of one of the largest furniture factories in Ontario, he is keenly interested in the welfare of his employees, going as far as to provide them with every line of entertainment that they wish. In the winter he sees that they have a hockey team while last summer he installed the present baseball club. "Ernie" has spurred neither time nor expense in order to give the employees a real team. Last but he engaged Curnew for now, of the Belleville Nationals, to coach the "Athletics" and they have developed with leaps and bounds since he took over the coaching duties. "Ernie" Gibbard is also a pretty fair ballplayer himself, playing first fielder of the team. "Ernie's" big asset on the ball field is his ability to hit when there are men on bases. (Which, by the way, is no mean ability.)

Tomorrow is the day and 2.30 p.m. is the hour. The location is at the Fair Grounds in Napanee.

The Kingston Whig-Standard stated after the first game, King ston Canada vs. the local CIACO team, that the unsporting of umpire Woodley was anything but befitting work to the Kingston team. Well, after the exhibition given by umpire Art Twigg at Kingston the second game, the Kingston paper should have a little to say about their own officials. (?) Umpire Twigg always was always the best "player" that Kingston could produce on any ball field.

We heard a local man remark that he couldn't have any more trouble with his car if he was married to the blame thing.

SMITH SHUTS OUT TORONTO

Barnes of Leafs Gave Fine Early Performance

(By the Associated Press)

A third pitching masterpiece in as many games has kept the Rochester Red Wings in a virtual tie with the fervent fears for the International league lead.

On the backs of a pair of two-hit games by Hy Bell and Carmen Hill on Wednesday, Ira Smith pitched the Red Wings to an 8-0 triumph over the Toronto Maple Leafs yesterday, allowing only five hits.

For a while Smith's fine performance was matched by Frank Barnes of the Leafs. In the fifth innings the Red Wings bunched three hits for a run and two from Barnes held them hitless from then on until the eighth. In that frame he permitted two more runs and was driven to cover in the ninth as the champions rallied for five more counters. The shutout permitted the Red Wings to run their string of consecutive scoreless innings to 26, and their winning streak to seven straight.

Newark Determined

Newark clung grimly to its one point lead over the Red Wings, rallying in the late innings to beat Baltimore 8 to 5 in an eight game set. Members of the Orioles held a 5-3 lead as late as the sixth inning but Newark smashed through for four runs in the seventh and clinched the victory with two more in the ninth. The Bears collected 14 hits of which Andy Cohen had four. Ike Boone clouted a homer with one on and John Gill duplicated this feat for the Orioles.

Up at Buffalo, in a night game, Fred Fussell turned in one of his best efforts o. the season as he pitched the Bisons to a 10-0 verdict over the Montreal Royals. Fussell allowed only three hits and struck out ten men. Only 1 Royal got as far as second base and in seven of the nine innings the visitors went down in order.

While all this was going on, the Bisons clubbed Thornhilber and Knickle for 16 hits. Tucker and Mueller getting three each. The game was held up for 1 hour and ten fifth inning when Manager Bailey and Umpire Reardon failed to leave the field when ejected from the game by Umpire Reardon's decision. The athlete were pulled out from on until the eighth. In that frame he permitted two more runs and was driven to cover in the ninth as the champions rallied for five more counters. The shutout permitted the Red Wings to run their string of consecutive scoreless innings to 26, and their winning streak to seven straight.

A MIGHTY ARMY OF YOUTH

A little old woman, dressed in black, stepped slowly from a train in San Francisco, and a 5,000 "flaming youth" paid her tribute, says Literary Digest.

Fifty years before she and her husband had gathered a few young people in their home and pledged them to a program of principles and discipline. In four years that group had expanded until it embraced membership in every country where the Church of Christ is established.

Today the International Christian Endeavor Society numbers 4,000,000 members in more than 80,000 local units in 126 nations, dominions, States, and provinces—an army of righteousness too often overlooked by the critics of the younger generation.

So it was that 4,000 representatives of a thousand times that number did honor to Mrs. Harriet A. Clark—Mother Clark—whose husband, the Rev. Francis E. Clark, founded the society in his unpretentious parsonage at Portland, Maine.

How well he builded is testified by President Hoover. The society, said President Hoover in a greeting broadcast from the White House, is "a mighty force for sobriety, righteousness, and respect for law and order, patriotism, and spiritual development in every nation." The best index to its purposes and values, he went on, "are the principles it stands for. Its loyalties and ideals make for good citizenship, for character, and religious faith. It recognizes that national independence and international understanding are not incompatible. It stands for international goodwill and world peace." The President concluded: "A better world is the mission of youth, and it is your mission."

Kaye Don in Detroit and in Toronto and anywhere else in the world is much better as a tricked racer than another man feels as trickster. The sportsmanship is the thing wherewith the British captures the acclaim of the world.

No doubt in many councils even in Canada there would be approval of carrying on without elections on account of depression. But in England this step would be made trebly easier than it would be here for the councils there retire one-third the membership each year.

It must have pleased the modest Kaye Don to find that he occupies so warm a place in the hearts of the people of Canada as he saw indicated in the welcome extended to him in the provincial capital.

Sir Hall Caine was one of the thousands of writers. But in many respects there the resemblance ends. He died rich, others die quite poor for all the things of beauty they give the world. Caine was a writer of many years' standing and his work was in spots powerful. His bank account and his holding of over a million dollars in securities are proof that he knew how to write and satisfy without selling himself.

The outbreak in A U. S. prison the other day was one of the kind that tends to discourage the "brave" fellows within who when they were at large misbehaved so monstrously as to merit their detention within walls. There is of course the possibility that in some institutions there are put in force methods of treatment which do not inspire the prisoner. But order must be preserved and when a warden singlehanded quells a riot, the men have to look up to him and to the law he represents.

THE BRITISH SPIRIT

Britain is taking heroic measures to balance the budget. When a man buckles down to an unpleasant task, "the unpleasantest of my life" as the Right Hon. Philip Snowden did on Thursday, facing his erstwhile comrades, now in opposition to the national government, it means he and the nation are making a sacrifice for the general good.

Snowden evidently knows his people well—he has the story of British history back of them in which the indomitable spirit of the Anglo-Saxon is shown to have fought its way through countless difficulties to a happy settlement.

Snowden has faith that his people will not revolt—history shows they are not of that breed—he knows that they will willingly set out to make ends meet—the first step towards the rehabilitation of the world from the condition of heavy chaos.

As long as Snowden can win the favor of a man like Henderson who is willing to accept a ten per cent. tariff for experimental purposes, the old British indomitable spirit will carry on.

So though taxes mount and much of the cream of life in the way of money is being skimmed off to save the situation, the sacrifices will be accepted.

IN HOURS OF NEED

By Aline Michaelis

I would have wearied long ago of this,
The game which seems without a rule or prize,
Where good as well as evil goes amiss,
In spite of all Hope's valor can devise.

I would have opened one of many doors
And through that exit stepped to starry space,
Had I paid heed alone to life's strange scores
Where Just goes last and Unjust wins first place.

But always, in my most abysmal mood,
At hand, restraining, on my shoulder fell,
A Voice rebuked me: "Though not understand
The plan you doubt is perfect; all is well!"

My heart and mind would have rebelled, indeed,
But for my soul's decree in hours of need.

GAR WOOD is not boasting now of his trick which made a fiasco of the Harmsworth Cup speed boat race on Detroit River. His talk at first appeared boastful in that if he couldn't win himself he wasn't going to let the Englisher win. Now he is sure certain that he had no chance to win, after the first heat in which Kaye Don had him over a mile. Now this speed boat artist who beat the gun to beat his opponent intimates that he was wrongly reported, a device which sometimes takes the sting out of mistakes at the expense of the newspaper profession, if anyone believed that trained newspaper men ever misquoted anybody. Throughout the hullabaloo and controversy, Kaye Don, like a true British sportsman, has not said one word against his opponent. What the public would like to know is was there a betting angle to this fiasco?

VISIT ESTONIA stares out at me from a pamphlet on my desk, over a picture of a walled city and great mideaval gate protected by loop holes in the massive masonry. Carries the mind back to Anthony Hope days and the flood of novels and plays about tiny kingdoms hidden in the Balkans where all sorts of romance fermented and effervesced. Remember "The Prisoner of Zenda?"

APPLES BOUND FOR EUROPE

Consider, as the Port Authority bids us do today, the apple in the New York export trade. More than ten million bushels were shipped abroad through the port in the season just closed. That figure includes four million bushels of Pacific Coast apples. What has become of the Panama Canal? asks the New York Times.

Well, for one thing, the transcontinental railroads now provide a fast service from Western fruit districts, making shipside delivery on the tenth day. They maintain a fleet of refrigerated and heated barges to keep the apples in just the right fettle at all seasons. Fast ships sail frequently to all important foreign ports, making it possible for apples shipped from Spokane, Wash., to be landed at Liverpool or even Hamburg in considerably less than three weeks, as compared with, say, six weeks for the slower journey through the canal.

That means quicker collections, a saving in interest and less chance for the fruit to rot. Besides, a shipper does not have to make up his mind finally so long in advance. If the overseas market drops while his apples are on their way overland to New York, he can divert them to the Eastern markets. Last year 15,000 carloads of apples were unloaded for domestic consumption in the metropolitan area.

FORGETTING GAS

We can safely leave Mr. Gar Wood to be dealt with by his fellow-millionaires. For the moment he is a rather pitiful figure, the focus of thousand angry eyes turned upon him by his indignant and disgusted countrymen. One can wish him only a quick and kindly oblivion. And, having done that, let us forget the whole contemptible business.—Montreal Star

SAVING SURPLUS PRODUCTS

It was announced by the mayor of St. Catharines last night that the secretary of the Garden City would make an organized effort to save the surplus fruit and vegetables which would otherwise rot on the trees and ground, for the benefit of the poor of the neighborhood. Seldom has Mother Nature been more bountiful in her gifts than this year, and seldom has the need for the nourishing edibles been more urgent. To have want in the midst of abundance is an anomaly which for the sake of humanity ought to be removed. To allow this precious harvest to go to waste, when a little well-planned effort would put it to the best of uses, is a reflection upon the resourcefulness of the community. The Garden Queen of St. Catharines propose to do could be done by the various relief organizations in Hamilton and other centers of the Niagara peninsula. An appeal was made last Sunday from at least one local pulpit to women parishioners to take a practical part in poor relief work by canning a few extra jars of fruit or vegetables, now that prices are so cheap, to be distributed by the church authorities through the relief department or as seemed best to them. If, as reported, there are orchards and fields from which the growers have no intention of garnering the crops, it should not be difficult, at small expense, to provide the pickers from among the unemployed and arrange for the canning of the goods. Surely there certainly done her full part towards helping to relieve the general depression. — Hamilton Spectator.

RAILROADS GO TO THE STORE DOOR

Having seen much of their small lot business diverted to the motor-truck, the southwestern railroads in the United States have finally joined Canada in out-and-out, concert competitive counterattacks ever launched by the railroads.

Dropping precedents overboard, and embarking upon a new and largely uncharted course, more than 100 rail lines, great and small, have filed a joint tariff with the Interstate Commerce Commission, providing for less than carload lots in the United States have finally joined Canada in out-and-out, concert competitive counterattacks ever launched by the railroads.

Dropping precedents overboard, and embarking upon a new and largely uncharted course, more than 100 rail lines, great and small, have filed a joint tariff with the Interstate Commerce Commission, providing for less than carload lots in every of freight at the store doors of merchants throughout a large southwestern area to haul up to 300 miles. In effect, the railroads are offering a store-door delivery service for the same rate at which they formerly provided only the line-haul service.

On hauls of more than 200 miles length, which is believed to be beyond the motortruck's average radius, the same rate is to be established by the railroads, but with the addition of a charge of 10 cents per 100 pounds for the collection and delivery of the freight.—C. S. Monitor.

WEALTH AND WORKER

Wealth in America has at last thrown overboard the old devil-take-the-hindmost economics. Even our great financiers and industrialists will be found busily still clinging to the obsolete theory that hard times, the will of God, will never anybody's fault. Few hold to-day that hard times are not largely manufactured by the workers whom they starve and crush, while the captains and leaders of industry weather, in relative comfort, the crisis their mismanagement has helped to bring about—and go on exactly as before. New willingness of wealth to shoulder burdens will go further than anything else to save democracy. For this willingness means more than money. It means a lessening of old divisions. It means less of those age-old, sullen class antagonisms based upon glaring inequalities of wealth and the power of money to carry their fair and proportional part of the common load.

..ECONOMY OF TIME.

Among the many forms of waste it is doubtful if any exceeds waste of time. It is true that one of the great achievements of modern science is the tremendous saving of time made possible by the inventive genius of man, but the fact remains that the element of wasted time by individuals is an outstanding disgrace and splendid acting makes this attraction exceptionally appreciable.

The supporting programme is excellent. Venice is shown in "Vagabond Travelogue, "Sat's Nightmare," in "Silly Symphony" is funny, and Slim Summerville is up to his usual tricks over the Sergeant in "Here's Luck," a comedy of the Army of occupation in Germany.

Ladies received the F.P.M.I. concert spoons with pleasure, and next Friday night the last of the scheduled artistes, Thursday night, in future, will be the only Silverware Gift Night.

"Oh Sailor Behave!" will be shown for the last time tonight at 7.15 and 9.15.

CAPITOL BOOTH AT KIWANIS KARNIVAL

A neat display of the Capitol's attractions for the remainder of September will be on view at the Kiwanis Karnival next week. These attractions, including two of the outstanding pictures of the month, "The Smiling Lieutenant" (Adolphe Menjou) and "Rebound" (Ina Claire) will receive great ovations when they arrive at the Capitol this month.

AMUSEMENTS

MIDNIGHT FROLIC TO-NIGHT AT THE CAPITOL

To-night at 11-15 p.m. Joe E. Brown in his latest and greatest comedy, "Broadminded," will commence his Midnight Frolic at the Capitol.

"Broadminded," a story of two women-crazy fellows, who beat it West in a Baby Austin, and stir up a lot of trouble with the fair sex, took Toronto by storm at Shea's last week, and voted the comedy of the year.

Joe E. Brown, half-man, half-mouth, bulging out of the side of a Baby Austin-getting away from girls he doesn't want to get away from—evading and rescuing two fair damsels. If one can imagine this, then a faint idea of "Broadminded", the funniest thing up-to-date, can be gained.

It is Joe E. Brown who makes the wheels of the funny wagon go round—love? and havin'-marry-ing and hoping to be marrying—a tornado of sidesplitting, slambang comedy is the keynote of the piece.

Ona Munson and William Collier, Jr., assist Joe in the broadminded."

"Broadminded will be shown at the Capitol on Saturday and Monday in addition to the Midnight Frolic tonight.

BROOK PLAYS MASTERFUL ROLE IN EXCITING MELODRAMA

Deep, elemental emotions underlay the plot of "Silence," the new Clive Brook-Peggy Hopkins Hamberger Shannon melodrama, which comes to the Belle Theatre, tomorrow for two days, matinee daily. It is a gripping story of a man's conquest of the woman he loves, and his final awakening to a greater love for his daughter when she is imperilled by the misdeeds of his own past.

Clive Brook plays the leading role in this story which, as a stage play, thrilled Broadway a few years ago. Brook is seen as the strong, silent, weak willed man, whose love brings heart-break to the woman who loves him. Years later the scene between the early and final action of the story. Brook realizes his own worthlessness, sacrifices himself to save her.

"Silence" brings Peggy Shannon, the flaming-haired beauty recently seen in "The Secret Call", in the role of Nora Regan, wife and daughter of Brook. The two characters which she portrays never meet during the action of the story but the opportunity to play two contrasting roles gives this brilliant young new-comer to screen fame an extraordinary opportunity. Marjorie Rambeau, wellknown and popular stage and screen actress has the other leading feminine role.

LARGE CROWDS SEE "OH SAILOR BEHAVE!" AT THE CAPITOL

Last night an exceptionally large crowd roared at Olsen and Johnson littered with glasses and in the singing of Charles King, Vivian Oakland, carvelled at the ease of the performance of Lowell Sherman, and thoroughly enjoyed the whole picture, "Oh Sailor Behave!" Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman
Informal Wedding Attire

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister is going to be married soon and I would appreciate it if you will please tell me how she should dress for a ceremony at the minister's house about six-thirty p.m.

She isn't sure whether she wants to dress in the bridal gown of white, so would appreciate it if you will give us an answer as soon as possible.

Brother.

For a wedding of this informal kind, it is best for the couple to dress informally. The bride-to-be should wear a simple day attire, or often she very appropriately wears her going away costume.

Engrossed Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper for a girl to have an engagement part at her home for her relatives and friends and the following week for the groom-to-be to have a party at his home for his relatives and friends. A says yes, but B says it is not. D. M.

It would be better form and more interesting, I should think, if the girl gave a more general party. That is, she might give an announce party, and include in her invitations those relatives and friends of the groom. Then the groom-to-be might, if he wished, give a stag party, for his men friends. But it would seem best for him to give a party for only his relatives and friends.

JURY REPORT REFUSED

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 11.—A Federal Grand Jury report on its investigation of the prohibition charges against "Scarface" Al Capone was refused by U. S. District Judge James H. Wilkerson today.

"I'm not interested in reported, only in indictions," Judge Wilkerson informed the jury.

Recently in Indianapolis business went on as usual while an eight-storey building was moved from one corner to another.

Such a clean, fresh, lovable fragrance—

No wonder dainty women all over the world treasure its refreshing charm — no wonder our Canadian leaders of taste and fashion find it indispensable for those informal occasions when heavier scents are out of place.

Fashionably Speaking
By Lucille

Dear Readers:

The autumn forecast for 1931 predicts a silhouette so clear-cut and well defined that it takes on the neatness of a uniform. The new costume must present a trim line from head to foot.

To begin with to wear the new small tilted hats the coiffure must be smoothly folded back from the cheeks, no loosely lying hair should mar that well groomed look which the new mode demands. Here is where milagy of the long (or semi-long) hair comes into her own in preference to her bobbed hatred sister. Her hat is worn tipped to the front and tilted well over one eye.

The waist line is accentuated more than ever this season in fact every detail is prepared with this in view. The squared shouldered suits and jackets necessary, the wide collars and sleeves emphasize the small pinched waist. All the intricacies of the new coats set above the waist while below, the line is a long sweeping one. No longer is it smart to hold the coat carelessly in place, but it is buttoned in tightly at the waist.

Sleeves and collars are wide. The crval collar and the dolman sleeve being outstanding features. Black velvet strikes a new note in coat trimmings and is used for wide revers again doll toned. Cheaks Sealskin returns to a favored place as a trimming with astrakhan a close second.

Skirts begin to be sensible, neither too long nor too short, varying the width of the height, figure and the type of dress that is worn. With the new coats, shoes and hosiery are dark in tone, blending subtly with the particular costume. Stockings turn darker to bring out the sharp line of the silhouette; they may even be black. The pale shades of summer, the sun tans and light beiges will be in the discard as milady selects darker and darker hose as the days of fall change into winter.

The changes have seemed rather abrupt, but really the evolution has been slow from the herpidalish days of fly-away styles and abbreviated skirts. The complete return to femininity and charm, however, is somewhat of a surprise.

The tilted hat, the full sleeves, the narrow waist, the long sweeping lines, the dark shoes and hosiery forms the new silhouette for the young lady of fashion of September 1931.

Fashionably yours.
LUCILLE.

A MEMORY

I wish that I could find my gown
With printed roses up and down

And rosy ribbons made to tie
In wide bows like a butterfly

It had a kerchief of white lace
With ribbons at the crossing-place

And ruffles very crisp and wide
With lace upon the under-side

I could put out my hand by night
And find it in its place aright

Between my Leghorn on the wall
And Mother's heirloom China shawl

Behind the cherry closet door
In the big room on the third floor

"Orpheus With His Lute"

The blare of motor horns, the screeching of brakes and suddenly light on the air the throbbing of a violin, pouring out the golden notes of master's composition. Either wonder that for the past few days, residents in favoured parts of the city, have left their household cares to have paused in the duties of business and industry as they were caught by the charm of violin music. The musician, Thomas A. Baker, whose birthplace is Portsmouth, England, and whose musical career has been arrested by the depression to play on the city streets and Belleville people have had the pleasure of hearing snatches of the world's finest music at their doors.

The young player, he is only in his thirties, has the touch of the real musician and his hearers are carried away by their enthusiasm. His programmes are varied, he passes from aria to aria, from movement to movement. The lilting notes of a carefree waltz, the brilliant passages of a world famous composition and the measured beat of a popular march come from his instrument. On some streets, the radio suffered neglect as the housewife gave a few minutes to listen to the man on the corner. Little children stopped to listen and chat with the player.

In other cities, too, he has been welcomed. In Toronto's business section work ceased when the violinist paused on the street. From the windows of every story, bundles popped out as stenographers and book keepers, business managers and office boys came to listen. Requests typed or scribbled on a scrap of paper fluttered down, asking the player for some favorite piece. Through business and residential streets the musician made his way and apparently ever had of a moment's enchantment - in motoryland.

Birthplace of Beatrice Lillie is Now Disputed

Toronto Annoyed When Belleville Given Title

Toronto, Sept. 10—Belleville now disputes with Toronto ownership of the cradle that rocked Beatrice Lillie, now Lady Peel, famous Charlot's Revue in Paris, later with Noel Coward in This Year of Grace, and starring with Ernest Truex, formerly of "Many Waters" here in Third Little Show. Belleville is set down by the New York evening Post as Beatrice's birthplace. For the writer says:

Beatrice Lillie was born in the town of Belleville, Ont. Miss Lillie's mother was a concert soprano and it was evident quite early that her daughter, Beatrice and Muriel, had inherited her talents for music and mimicry. Beatrice was given vocal lessons and Muriel was taught to play the piano. When she was twelve, Beatrice had a wardrobe of "costumes" and a program of songs with which she entertained the parishioners of Belleville, while her sister, Muriel accompanied her at the piano.

Then mother and the girls crossed the Atlantic. It hardly appear to have been so much for the benefit of Beatrice as her sister, Muriel who was to study the piano with the professor at Berlin. But the war interfered and the family didn't get farther than London, so Beatrice decided to go to work. That is if she could find work.

The future Lady Peel received auditions before several concert managers, but none of them were eager to offer her a contract. Then one day she sang for Andre Charlot, brilliant young French producer of musical revues. Influential men were often behind the scenes in the theatre, but in this instance that was not necessary.

STARTING AS STORE-BOY IN 1889 TODAY HE OWNS SAME BUSINESS

R. A. Backus Has Been Member of Firm For Some Years

HIS CAREER

Like a Horatio Alger story the dream of one of Belleville's most prominent citizens has at last been realized. The gentleman in question is R. A. Backus, better know to the citizens of Belleville as "Bert."

Starting in the employ of the S. A. Hyman Company in 1889, at the age of 11 years, Mr. Backus has continued to rise until he is at present proprietor of the business known as the Hyman Fur Company.

"Bert" started as store-boy and his duties were carrying water, delivering parcels and sweeping out the store. Later he was taken into the fur manufacturing end of the business where he continued for a number of years. About 13 years later Mr. Backus was placed in charge of the retail end of the business, which he carried on in a very capable manner. As a matter of fact he carried the business on in such a capable manner that he was taken into the firm as a partner and has had been in their employ about 28 years. He continued on as a partner until the recent passing of the late R. L. Hyman when he completed negotiations to purchase the business.

Now that Mr. Backus has purchased the business he intends to make extensive alterations and add to the present business as soon as completed Mr. Backus expects to have one of the most up to date fur businesses in this district also catering to re-dyeing and repairing worn furs. The stock carried by Mr. Backus is of the best and most select kind which is sold to suit.

"Bert" besides spending his life in the fur business has found time to become a member of the curling club of Belleville. He is also a keen sportsman taking interest in all kinds of seasonable sport that is played in Belleville. Mr. Backus is one of the best curlers ever graced a rink in Belleville, as his hobby is curling.

His many friends will be glad to know that he has acquired the business with which he has so long been connected. Mr. Backus has learned the business from every angle and understands not only the manufacturing of furs but also the retail end of the business. All lines of furs are to be manufactured on the premises which will be extended by Mr. Backus.

RADIO TRADE WILL BE SAVED

Order Effective Immediately Hits Hard at U. S. Trade

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 11 (CP) The government's action constitutes a "partial remedy" for the "serious conditions" with which the radio business has been faced. This was the comment of D. H. McDougall, President of Rogers-Majestic Corporation regarding the order-in-council passed by the Dominion government which allows a discount rate of 98 percent on importations of radio receiving sets into Canada.

Mr. McDougall declared United States manufacturers have been keenly contested the Canadian and British markets to dispose of large quantities of sets flooding the Canadian markets on account of overproduction.

"Competition consequently has been killing" he said. "In order to meet it, Canadian dealers have cut prices about half of what they were last year. It began to look like a complete shutdown in this country."

James K. Hahn, President of Detroit-Croskey and other local manufacturers, agreed the government's action would stabilize the industry, and would not have the effect of increasing prices.

Plan to Unite France-Germany

Geneva, Sept. 11.—Plans for establishment of a "Committee on Franco-German Co-operation" will be concluded during the forthcoming visit of Premier Statesman to Berlin as a means of improving economic relations between the two nations.

Agreement in principle on the project was understood to have been reached tonight. Premie Pierre Laval and Premier Minister Aristide Briand of France will complete the arrangements when they visit Chancellor Heinrich Bruening in Berlin, Sept. 26.

It was understood the Franco-German committee plan had been proposed by Andre Francois-Poncet ney, French ambassador to Berlin, who has long been an advocate of raprochement between the two countries under the policies of Briand. Laval was said to have supported the plan, and it was undigned to be desired to announce it at the termination of his visit to Berlin.

The Indians of prehistoric America had no beasts of burden except the llama, which carried light loads, and the dog, which could be used to drag sledgelike conveyances.

Obituary

GERALD R. McCANN

Another veteran of the Great War, a former resident of the city in the person of Gerald R. McCann has passed on at Chilliwack, B., according to information received by his relatives here today. His death took place after suffering from a severe stroke. The deceased was born in Belleville 52 years ago being the son of the late Daniel McCann and Margot Boyle, both residents of this city for many years. His mother died when he was a young man and he lived practically all his life with his grandfather and grandmother the late Mr. and Mrs. John H. McCann, first at Stirling and later at Brighton. When war was declared he enlisted with the 39th Battalion in this city and went to England with that unit later transferring to the 13th Royal Montreal Regiment, a Rifle battalion and served for 42 months in France, later being in the army of occupation.

Returning from overseas duty he took up his post war activities and then joined the United States. Of late years the exposure, which he suffered in the trenches took toll and he has been in ailing health for some time. He was a member of the Presbyterian church and leaves to mourn his loss a widow and one daughter, also aunts and uncles including Mrs. George O. Tice of this city and Rufus, James and Charles Boyle also of this city, James McCann, John McCann and Mrs. James Snider of Brighton so, also relatives. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

MRS. KILEN HAYES—O'CONNOR

Toronto, Sept. 11.—The death occurred last night at her home, 60 Castle Frank Road, Rosedale, of Mrs. Kilen O'Connor, wife of Frank F. O'Connor, president of the Record, Ltd., at the age of 46 years.

Mrs. O'Connor was a daughter of Patrick and the late Mrs. Hayes of Belleville, Ont. She was educated at Loretto Convent in that city, was a member of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, the Women's Catholic League and the I.O.D.E. She was widely known as a popular hostess in social and Catholic church circles.

Besides her husband, one son, William J. O'Connor; a daughter, Mary, at home; her father, Patrick Hayes; three sisters, May, Nora and Margaret Hayes of Belleville, and a brother, J. P. Hayes, Toronto, survive.

LATE MARTHA JANE QUILTER.

The funeral of the late Martha Jane Quilter took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of her daughter Mrs. H. O. Huffman, 5th Concession of Thurlow. The Rev. W. Lawson had charge and the Rev. E. Farnsworth conducted the services at the house and at the grave. The funeral was very largely attended by the many friends of the deceased and the many beautiful floral tributes only went to show the high esteem in which the deceased was held in the community in which she lived. The bearers were, F. Yorke, C. Huffman, P. Yorke, E. Huffman, W. Clarke and W. Trevorton.

Peggy Shannon featured with Marjorie Rambeau in Clive Brook's first talkie, "SILENCE" commencing at the Belle Today after two weeks at Tivoli Theatre, Toronto.

James Dunn is well armed in Sally Eilers in Von Delmar's novel, "Bad Girl", a story with a four-star rating, commencing at the Belle, Monday.

MERCURY UP IN NINETIES

St. Thomas is Hottest at 98, Toronto Hits 95 Degrees

Toronto, Sept. 11—Old man mercury is trying to set a new September record. Yesterday he almost did. The maximum temperature yesterday was 95—the hottest since September 7, 1926 when a maximum of 97.1 was recorded.

In St. Thomas, however, the mercury became more enthusiastic and walloped to 98 degrees in the shade; exposed to the sun he gathered momentum and jumped still higher.

In Hamilton citizens toiled in a temperature of 90 degrees in the shade and a few notches higher in the sun. In Peterboro 88 September records were shattered. It was 86—the highest in 35 years. Schools closed down early in the afternoon.

But yesterday is past and the weather today is all-important. The weather man—as human as anyone else—mops his brow and states: "Mostly fair and very warm; probably a few scattered thunderstorms."

The reason for the heat wave, he points out, is that the distribution of atmospheric pressure is such as to cause a flow of air from the Middle Western States and the Mississippi Valley north to the Great Lakes.

At 8 o'clock in Toronto yesterday morning it was down 71 degrees Fahrenheit. At two in the afternoon the temperature was 94. Between two and four o'clock it jumped to 95 and at four o'clock was down to 92. At eight o'clock last evening, the last hour of recording for the day, the mercury was down to 83.

Wresting cigarets so that they will extinguish themselves in a "reasonable time" after having been thrown away is a development now under consideration.

Chased By Police Drops Stolen Till

New Toronto, Sept. 11.—Caught after a short chase during which he dropped a till belonging to the Empire State Ice Company, Eighth Street, police say, Gilbert Stinson, 23, Cobalt, was arrested by Constable W. R. Wealherup and P. Hardy of the New Toronto police force yesterday afternoon on a charge of attempted theft. The till contained about $80.

The man was seen taking away the till by the engineer and superintendent of the ice company. When the constables arrived he was and, dropping the till as police began to overtake him, jumped in an empty freight car where he was found crouching in a corner a few minutes later.

Jewish New Year

Wishing a "Happy New Year" at being 5692.

this season of the year is unquestionably seems premature; and yet it would be, were it not that reference is to Rosh Hashonah or the Jewish New Year, which commences on Friday evening at sundown this year. Friday evening, next, so it is to the Jewish residents of Belleville and district that the "Happy New Year" greeting is extended.

The observance of this event in the Jewish calendar is marked with service this evening at 8 o'clock (Daylight Saving Time). Saturday and Sunday will also be devoted to the New Year festivities. Many Jews and their families will journey to Toronto from nearby towns and cities to be with their brethren in observance of the festival.

There are about eighteen Jewish families, numbering close to one hundred persons, residing in Belleville, under the religious care of Rabbi Israel Rosenberg, who arrived here for about six years. In addition to the Jewish New Year's service, Rabbi Gerstel instructs the children in Jewish traditions and in the Hebrew language.

Belleville Jews are orthodox—they do not countenance the use of musical instruments in their services and the full use of worship is expressed set in Hebrew. They sing Jewish chants under the direction of Rabbi Gerstel, who acts as cantor. Unorthodox or reformed Jews have adopted of musical instruments in their worship and pipe organs are used in their synagogues. Belleville Jews, too, is different from the orthodox form in that it is not a synagogue as strictly in Hebrew; English being used to some extent.

During the New Year services in the Belleville synagogue, the ram's horn will be sounded as was the custom in the temple of old.

Mr. Leonard Rosenfeld, president, and Mr. Benjamin Sack is secretary-treasurer of the Belleville synagogue.

Service commences tonight (Friday) at sunset. Morning and evening services will be held at the Belleville synagogue on Saturday and Sunday.

Friday evening at sundown ushers in one of the most sacred days in Israel's calendar, The New Year.

She Found the Real Cause of "Spotty" Skin

And soon righted things with Carter's Little Liver Pills

It is impossible to repair a bad complexion by exterior treatment. Miss E. C. of Clapham found this out. Her letter is full of common sense:

"I find (she writes) that Carter's Little Liver Pills will do more to keep the complexion clear and free from blemishes than all the face creams I have used. I found the real cause of face blemishes was sluggishness to liver and stomach troubles. My daughter recommended Carter's as specific for stimulating the liver and supplied a complexion purifier. Vegetable, as everyone knows, produces healthy skin. Carter's Little Liver Pills are entirely vegetable and should not be confused with certain laxatives. These wonderful little pills tone up your liver, invigorate your digestive tract and keep you in the best of health. Sold by druggists over 60 years. 25c & 75c red pkgs.

or fades, all flesh is as grass, but, there is the permanence, undying, everlasting, eternal element at the ground of things. The phenomenon is transitory; the essence is pasturing, the principle is eternal. This world is the burden of yesterday, on New Years day, for example. The grass that now flourishes on man's face will wither when the biting breath of the frost will nip it but the principle of growth works eternally; that particular growth of grass will pass away but there is the permanent element that passes not with it, but will cause the new growth to appear in the coming spring-time. The flower fades, the beauteous rose withers and does, but that which made the flower grow lives.

The sculptor, by power of his genius conjures up within his own soul a dream of beauty; before that day is to be molded in touched, the statue is complete in the sculptors brain, with the mallet and chisel it is to be given the appearance but that statue by and by, progress to the onlooker a title of the beauty and grace and loveliness that the artist demands that particular statute may be destroyed, but the eternal laws of form and beauty that gave it birth exist forever and ever and from the other brains will take concrete shape and produce other statutes.

The harmonies that the great composers hear and shape into musical compositions are not confined to the physical sense of hearing. Mozart, Handel and Haydn harmonies sublime that neither you nor I ever shall hear the assemble of. His soul was vibrant with the music of eternity, the real music wherein his symphonies and oratorios are but echoes. Beethoven thought every masterpiece of musical composition he swept away, though every statute of his soul can be destroyed, the real thing, God's eternal law is working out and in many existing on, would come to light again in the souls of other inspired genius somewhere and somehow on this planet.

Does not the same thing hold true of the great principles on which rest life and society? Do not the notions of righteousness, justice, love, pass with the same quality of eternal principle and transitory appearance? Justice is one of the eternal laws of the universe, but no one has ever seen this principle of justice; all that we see are the institutions, courts of justice and tribunals, laws and codes; who Justice, who has ever grasped this law making being? Who can define infallible thing righteousness? Human, human, only in our courts houses, these are the temporary appearances of things that in reality are not it. They have passed away and others will pass away, but the grass withers, the flower fades but the word of God, the real and principle, exists on forever. The building on the forum of Rome, where justice was meted out, crumbled into ruins, but justice did not pass away, but in the hearts of men wherein gathered Israel's great law making body in Sanhedrin, fell a prey to the flames, but justice lived on. Righteousness and justice are the prose of God's everlasting life. Whatever, or in other words, the support of the universe Thus the invisible principle is the permanent element, the visible appearance but transitory. And this is the basis on which mankind hold true of kindness and good deeds and love is not the particular feeling of love eternal, in its various appearances in the life of men with one another but transitory, but beautiful indeed are the forms it takes on—the mother's love for her child, the mutual love of husband and wife, the unselfish affection of friend for friend, but these things pass away five dies not.

No man can tell what the next one hundred years will bring forth but this we do know, that the eternal principles will live and forever, while the human growths and institutions, developments and customs will pass away and give way to others proper for their day and time.

What a glorious faith this is to take with them from their worship on this day that preaches the reality of permanent and not right despite the transitory and temporal character of appearances. Unto him oppressed by injustice its voice rings out its cheer, despair not, the cause of injustice by justice, the right triumphs ever; unto him from whose life the light of love seems to have vanished, its voice says by soothing tones, look up, love dies not, love is eternal, ruling now and forever, unto us all it sounds the good tidings, though grass wither and flower fade, though things pass and are gone now, life is laid on the everlasting foundations of right and love, and justice, the eternal organization for all things. God's word is tried, standing power. God's justice is sure, righteousness reigns in His world, God's grace abounds, His love overshadows all.

Dempsey Boxes 4 Fails to Knock Out

Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 11.—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, boxed five rounds against four of the present heavyweight here last night, failing to score a knockout in the opinion of as he toyed with his opponents.

Martin Kastert, Tacoma heavyweight lasted the opening round.

George Rickard, city boss of Tacoma, boxed two rounds but managed to survive.

"Cyclone" Thompson, Yakima, and Wayne Pitla, Tacoma, boxed one round each and were aggressive but ineffective. Thompson opened a light cut under Dempsey's left eye.

BRINGING UP FATHER, By George McManus

THE GAY BANDIT OF THE BORDER

by TOM GILL

CHAPTER VI.

For The Bandit nightly always retained a memory of racing, waking thoughts, a nightmare of fleeting dreams. His life, the life that had been forever taken away, passed before him in confusion: the days of poverty on the streets of Denver, the better days of college, the days of wealth, like bright, brief pictures in the darkness the pageant of his yesterdays passed.

He turned the hot pillow. At last, throwing back the covers, he went to the window and lighted a cigarette. So his father had trusted too much—trusted life, and people, and himself. Then life had let him down. Life—and Morales. Yet strangely, the word evoked not the austere face of the Spaniard, but the ivory pale features of the girl. Illusive and haunting, she seemed to smile—but with a smile not wholly scornful. Adela Morales. That, too, was past. Past before he had begun.

He may have slept. Suddenly he found himself sitting cold, staring, looking out on the first red shafts of light that crept over the desert. That ache of loneliness had gone, and the long fight of the night had left him with a new sense of mastery. The path ahead lay clear. He was to carry on his face whatever the future might bring.

A breeze from the window fanned his cheeks, bringing the promise of spring and the faint fragrance of jasmine. He breathed deeply, knowing the black night had forever passed. And with the blackness of his pain. All life lay before him, blinding his bold again. He would look a hostile world in the face and carve a place for himself. And then —his life tightened—he would come to grips with the forces that had meant his father's ruin. And in some measure, may he tell that this too was part of his father's plans.

A servant brought fruit and coffee and a half-hour later Ted found Bob on the porch, listening in amused silence to a very wrathful major. The old soldier was embellishing his talk with the language, of profanity of ten army generations.

As Radcliffe approached Bob smiled up at him. "The major has news for us. Tell him, Hector."

"It's about that damned Mexican gangster. He got away!"

"But the fellow was wounded," protested Radcliffe. "He couldn't have got away!"

"Of course he couldn't. Not alone. He had help. Someone was keeping watch. All night someone must have kept watch—even while he was out there he may have had his eyes on us. Sweet piece of business, eh? The guard looked in at midnight and saw the prisoner's head sticking out beneath the blanket. He flashed on the light and the fellow hadn't moved all quiet, with his eyes closed. Every two hours after that the guard looked in and the prisoner was there. And this morning those damned boobs were still there, but, by the Lord, that Mexican wasn't. He had taken, there with them really—just outside the blanket, and vanished. Somebody crawled under him, unplugged the lock, and carried him away! Again the old soldier called down eternal malediction on his fortune. "He was our best bet, that person—our only bet. And now he's gone!"

Vanished. And my wife is already spreading the report that I've let it gleefully as if she just had a set of twins."

A sudden recollection turned the major's normally florid face quite purple. "On the way out I met Dr. Price and told him about it. Do you know what he said?"

Both men shook their heads.

"He said, 'I thought someone would call for your captive.' Then why in hell haven't you say so last night?' I asked. 'Oh, I never believe in interfering with military matters,' he grinned back. That was the only answer I could get."

"It's uncanny," Blount burst out afresh. "That bandit has friends everywhere. We all know that the border people are in secret league with him. But here in Verde—I never realized."

"My guess," Don Rob said solemnly, "you had better realize it if you ever expect to capture El Coyote. Because the secret service is going to be known to him, your movements, your every step. He probably knows where you are at this moment. So, Ted, major, I'm in perfect an interesting chase, but I hardly promise success."

As if stung to instant action, the major rose and, muttering under his steps to his horse. He climbed into the saddle and called back: "I'll lay you a dollar to a dime before I'm dead I capture or kill this all-seeing bandit of yours."

"Taken," laughed Don Rob. "For a time at least." But watching the stiff figure of the old soldier. "You know, —he turned toward Ted—"I sometimes envy that man. Never once in his long past has he been assailed by doubts. Sure of himself—sure of his destiny. How simple all that must make him."

Ted nodded. "I wonder if life ever can be simple. Only now I was wondering how one begins to build it up again. Where—and the words—does the very beginning."

"It's not so hard. Your father did it twice. I've done it. When I was just about your age my whole world was knocked from beneath my feet. And I got over it, although,—he smiled his quiet smile—"some scars do remain."

"I'm willing to face it—and the scars too. Only, where do we begin? You know I'll never be willing just to live on you."

"Who wants you to? Perhaps I need you more than you need me. Yes, don't smile. Right now, Ted, I need a foreman, the kind of man I can make a partner of, that I can trust and bank on everlastingly. If you are your father's son, that man is you."

Radcliffe was looking out over the desert. For a moment his steady eyes softened. "I'm not going to try to thank you, Bob," he said at last. "But I swear I'll be a safe kind of foreman for anyone to take on just now. I'll see to me this morning that dad sent me out here as a test. I think he wants me to carry on the fight. I remember once he said, 'The greatest inheritance I could leave you would be a good scrap on your hands.' No, Bob, your new foreman sooner or later may clash with Morales."

"A fight with the power of Paco Morales should be big enough to suit anyone, but I think we could stand it. So let's call it settled. Work for me and I will give you your best chance to get around and dig things out. For above all things you've got to avoid capture. Remember, there's no sacred regard for this evil hero—especially across the border. You'll be a great deal safer as one of my cowpunchers, earning his day's wages."

Ted nodded. "There's one thing I want to learn. I remember dad talked once of a piece of land over in Mexico that he either owned or controlled. It had a name, that land. Last night I tried to remember it and all this morning, but I can't. Do you know about it?"

Bob shook his head. "I don't believe your father owned a foot of land in Mexico. Once he held thousands of acres in one form of governmental concession, but these were later taken from him. If he owned any—which I doubt—it would be hard to find. There's no complete record kept of land ownership across the border, and it would do no good to question Morales, for that would be to ask for trouble. I'll be better for you to take the job of head rider for Don Bob? Now I'll ask you to ride with me. We'll start with the magnificent salary of one hundred a month and keep. You've handle a horse and a gun. I'll teach you to handle men. In six months, Ted, and Morales years you, I'll have the best foreman on the border."

As he spoke, Don Rob hunched on his spurs. "I'm off to the upper ranch. And remember, at noon today—no more drive over to Morales's for the big feasts. I'm turned down at the steps. "One thing more," Bob's eyes again had grown earnest. "Do nothing that will make an enemy of Morales yet. I have certain plans of my own. And in the meantime, remember the wise old Mexican proverb, 'Smiles make even the cactus bloom.' Adios."

Magistrates Agree That Juvenile Crimes Too Frequent

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 9.—(CP)—Wider use of corporal punishment as a deterrent of and punishment for crime was advised by Magistrate Alfred Jones of Brantford, addressing the eighth annual convention of the Ontario Magistrates' Association today.

"The appalling increase in juvenile delinquency is due to the fact that there is no power in court to direct even the mildest form of chastisement of a child, Judge Jones said.

Magistrate H. A. Burbridge of Hamilton, said that 50 youths had been given spankings for theft of automobiles and breaking into premises during the last two years in his district and that of these only two had been brought back to court.

GOING FISHING?

The Things that Memory Guards.

SHELL

STOP AT THE SIGN OF THE SHELL

LOOKING into his past a man sees many beautiful places and pleasant occurrences. If he is a fisherman the vista of his life holds many lakes and streams, many happy hours spent in the quiet cool of their shores, many an encounter with the finny warriors they harbor. The trout rising to the fly, the bass breaking water, the lunge, that fresh water tiger, still fighting for his life even when impaled on a gaff.

The tarnish of the years may dull many things, but not these. On long winter evenings by the fireside these battles are refought, the fisherman lives again the happiness of such places and events, memories of favorite haunts that add measurably to the reasonres of life.

One of the handsome trophies offered in the Shell Angling Contest will enhance those memories with tangible evidence. Go to any Shell station for entry blanks and details.

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 11—(By The Canadian Press)—Two of the persons injured in the street car accident here on Tuesday evening are still in a serious condition in Metropolitan General Hospital.

DEATH OCCURS OF YOUNG BOY

Passing of Clair Elmo Badgley Regretted By Village

Frankford, Sept. 11—One of the saddest events of the younger community of Frankford and vicinity, occurred in the early hours on Friday evening last, of Clair Elmo Badgley, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Badgley.

One of the most promising and popular young men of the village, his lasting away is felt by young and old alike, a very popular member of the Scout Troop and United School Class Jog Young Men, always of a bright and cheery disposition, he is keenly missed by his chums and comrades.

The young man, who had been in poor state of health for some few days was suddenly stricken with pleural pneumonia on Saturday of the week previous to his death. All ordinary treatment not giving relief, he was removed to Belleville General Hospital for treatment, but all efforts proved unavailing, and he passed away on Friday evening at 8.30 p.m.

The funeral, one of the largest held in the village for some time, was held from his late home, on Sunday afternoon, service being held in the Frankford United Church, and the beauty and variety of the floral offerings made mute testimony to the esteem in which the departed young man was held. The bearers were all boys of his immediate acquaintance, members of the Scout Troop and Sunday School Class, Messrs. Miles McClifferay, Jack Windover, Thomas Conley, Marvin Dafoe, William Simmons and Robert Pringle.

Mr. and Mrs. Badgley and family have the most sympathetic sympathy of the entire community in their loss of a beloved son and brother.

The floral offerings were as follows:

Pillow—The Family.

Wreath—First Frankford Troop of Boy Scouts.

Basket—Mr. and Mrs. Leland Bryant, Everett and Arthur; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Badgley; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Seward; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Badgley and sisters Helena George and Chas. Simmons.

Spray—The Sunday School Class Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Bryant; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sine; Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Mouck and family; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bryant; Mr. and Mrs. F. Hauer; Mr. R. W. Powell and family; Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Powell; Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Loder and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Powell and family; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Price; Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Sherrick and family; Miss Beatrice Sherrer; Mr. and Mrs. J. Mc-Millay and family; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Johnston; Miss Doreen Losey and Frank; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bennett; Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot Rose.

PRESENTATION

A large number of friends and acquaintances gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith, on Victoria Street, Wednesday evening to take farewell of them on the eve of their removing in the very near future to Bloomfield, where Mr. Smith has been for some time past engaged in blacksmithing and general repair work.

The evening was spent in dancing and other household amusements, and lunch was served, during the which an address of farewell was read to the departing couple, and they were presented with a set of fruit dishes and other tableware. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have been residents of Frankford for some years past, Mr. Smith being employed as a member of the repair staff at the Canada Rockwool Mills but as the Mills are now shut down, he was forced to seek employment elsewhere. The best wishes of the community are extended to them in their new home, with continued success and prosperity.

The following address was read to them:

Dear Friends:

We have gathered here this evening, on the eve of your leave-taking to spend one last night together with you, and to express to you our sorrow at your going, but we know that under the present conditions, our loss will surely be your gain, and we wish to convey to you our most sincere wishes for long continued success and prosperity in your new home and field of labour.

The years you have spent among us have been enjoyable to us, and we hope, to you also, and we trust that in your new home, you will find friends and neighbors just as pleasant as you have found them here. We wish you to accept these small gifts, not for their value, but as a pleasant memento of the happy social times we have spent together, and to remind you that you will be ever in our thought. We hope that in the future, you will visit us often, and assure you of a happy welcome whenever you can return to our midst, until that time shall come when there will be no more parting, and we all join together in that one happy home above.

Signed on behalf of friends and neighbors.

EXPLOSIONS INJURE TWO

Women Hurled By Blast in Oven in Bakery Plant

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 11—Two women were injured by separate explosions in the city today, one in her home, the other at an uptown bakery.

Mrs. K. Grossman, 70, is lying at the Western Hospital, suffering from terrible burns caused by an explosion which occurred while she was cleaning her stove with gasoline.

At the Uptown Bakeshop, a series of explosions in a large gas oven, threw Mrs. Mary Dean, an employee against the opposite wall of the kitchen inflicting serious injuries and pitched another woman, ten feet into the next room where she lay stunned. The building was partially wrecked.

HAD NOT TIME TO WARN DON

Commissioner Edenburn Says Have "Lost Sight of Best Things"

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 11—Although he knew Gar Wood, fastest speed boat racer, was going to try to cross the starting line ahead of the stating gun, hoping to lure his opponents Miss Dee, into the same error, W. D. Edenburn, chairman of the race committee for the Harmsworth trophy contest, was unable to warn Don of Wood's intention before the heat of the race began Monday.

Interviewing here, Mr. Edenburn the sole American representative on the commission, explained he and the members of the committee had not opportunity to warn the British racer.

Wood was angry, said Mr. Edenburn, at the refusal to allow him a postponement. He had discovered a six-inch hole in one of his gas tanks. On the other hand, he pointed out Don would have to repeat the oil for Miss Britain II causing further delay. As a result, the race-night not have been completed before dark.

DRIVERS!

be everlastingly on the Alert..

Strangely enough, most accidents occur in broad daylight, and on smooth highways. And, in a great majority of cases, the cars involved are in good mechanical condition.

The explanation can be given in one word . . . CARELESSNESS.

Hands on the wheel. Eyes on the road. The price of safety on crowded summer highways is eternal watchfulness. And you are in danger the moment you relax your vigilance.

Watch the road. Watch other cars. Watch signals. Watch pedestrians. Watch railway crossings. Watch the speedometer! Watch yourself!

Drive carefully with consideration for the convenience as well as the safety of others.

HE MEANS MINARD'S LINIMENT

It isn't only in New Brunswick that you find people who praise Minard's Liniment. Mr. George Dowd, Glenboro, Man., writes: "I have found your Minard's Liniment especially good for barbed wire cuts on horses."

And from Larde, B.C., Mrs. Thos. Bichoner, wrote: "Last winter I had a cow get a very large lump in her udder. I rubbed it with Minard's Liniment and it soon got better."

Minard's "King of Pain" Liniment is just as good for man and women as for animals . . . the "pet" remedy of a family during 70 years in use. As reliable for Coughs, Colds and Stomach Upset as for Rheumatism or Sore Muscles. As fine for Burns as Cuts, Bruises, Insect-bites. You should always have a bottle of Minard's around the place.

Has Brain Operation To Cure Criminality

Massillon, O., Sept. 11.—A cheque forger who urged a defective brain operation in the hope it would eradicate his criminal tendencies is recovering in the Massillon State Hospital for the Insane.

Dr. Arthur G. Hyde, superintendent, revealed today that Howard Buck, 30, of Akron, underwent the operation last Thursday upon his own insistence he would be cured of criminal traits.

Twice arrested for passing bogus cheques, Buck suffered frequent lapses of memory. He was unable to ascribe a motive for his criminal actions declaring that out-of-work receiving an injury on a football playing field in 1931, he had never suffered from the temptations of breaking laws.

Buck was a student at the University of Chicago when he sustained a fractured skull. The break was believed to have indicated a pressure against the brain, causing the victim uncontrollable impulses to break laws. Each time he was arrested, he claimed irresponsibility, according to County Prosecutor Don Jahan. Jahan first suggested an operation and Buck readily insisted that it be performed.

The operation was performed by a staff surgeon who removed a fragment of bone to relieve the pressure. The patient said that the head pain which had troubled him constantly had disappeared. Doctors were hopeful the operation was a success.

Stumps of trees 100,000 years old were recently exposed to view in Philadelphia, Pa., by workmen.

ABANDONMENT OF FREE TRADE PREDICTED

Free Trade Policy May be Given Up by Emergency Gov't in Britain

Protectionists See Change Ahead

Prediction of New Policy Within Three Months

TARIFF TO LIVE

Chamberlain Says Britain Cannot Live Without Protection

London, Sept. 12.—The possibility that the emergency government would abandon the free trade policy in favor of a protective tariff as a further means of dealing with the financial problems, is discussed in political circles today.

Encouraged by the developments of the last few days, protectionists were of the opinion that the ball already was in motion and some went so far as to say that a tariff policy would be adopted within the next three months.

The Daily Mail said it was able to announce that the government was certain to make such a move before the end of the year. Premier Ramsay MacDonald and Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, secretary of state for the Dominions, were credited with expressing similar opinions and even Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden was said to have realized that he must modify his free trade views.

Inflammable Beer

"The political developments in recent days have all been pointing in this direction," the paper said, "and decisions which have been taken in the last 24 hours make a tariff policy inevitable."

Mr. Chamberlain, Health Minister in the Government, in a speech at Dunbridge last night warmly advocated such a change and said unless the people had a tariff duty they would not be able to live. He pointed the idea at a ten per cent tariff advocated by some, and said it must be higher to prevent foreign goods entering the country.

RELIEF SHIPS REACH CITY

Second Hurricane Hits Mexico From Pacific

Flash—Miami Pan-American Airways reports 700 dead at Belize.

Washington, D.C., Sept. 12.—The first United States relief ship arrived at Belize, British Honduras, today, to aid in caring for the hundreds of persons who were injured in the hurricane-swept city.

The gunboat Sacramento is also on its way to the stricken city with additional supplies from Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua.

The Red Cross also was arranging for the purchase and transportation by plane of other supplies from the army and navy stores in Panama and other Central American countries.

Mexico City, Sept. 12 (AP)—Hurricane damage done by the Pacific Coast from Colima northward was caused yesterday by a hurricane which swept in from the sea, according to meagre reports received here today.

The blow had nothing like the force of that which swept Belize, British Honduras, yesterday, but the weather bureau said the disturbance had not yet been blown out.

The Honduras storm swept across the Yucatan Peninsula through the region known as Pais De Los Bosques to the north of Belize, but it is not known what damage was done.

The weather bureau thought it would strike out across the Gulf of Mexico today or tonight in the vicinity of Campeche.

Fatal Crash in Brazil of Condor Line Airship

Natal, Brazil, Sept. 12 (AP) — Three men were killed and a fourth was badly hurt last night when a Condor line aeroplane, taxiing off from the Potengy River struck a dredge and was wrecked.

M. Caurt, a director of the Condor syndicate; the pilot, whose name was Levart and the radio operator were killed. A mechanic was injured. The plane caught fire and the bodies were burned.

Schneider Cup Races Off Rain and Wind Interfere

Rough Sea Kicked Up a Solent Channel By Gale

RACE SUNDAY

Fliers and Crowd Intensely Disappointed Over Delay

Calshot, Eng., Sept. 12 (AP)—The Schneider Cup races were postponed today because of heavy rain and a driving wind which kicked up high seas in the Solent Channel between the Isle of Wight and the British mainland.

If the weather is favorable the races will be held tomorrow. A notice otherwise it will be postponed from day to day until conditions permit. The seaplanes were brought back to the Calshot Marine Flying Boat Station, taking places near the pontoons. Members of the team and the crowd were intensely disappointed at the postponement.

Tow Rough

Squadron Leader A. H. Orlebar went up in a small plane just before noon and flew over the course to see if conditions had clipped his wings from side to side indicating he thought the situation was hopeless.

This was confirmed later by stewards of the Royal Aero Club who announced the cancellation until tomorrow. Under the rules the race may be cancelled from day to day until prelim permits or until Oct. 1.

Before Protest

As soon as it became known that the race would be held on Sunday if the weather permitted, the Lord's Day Observance Society of Great Britain telegraphed a protest to the Aero Club and the Mayor of Portsmouth.

"The contemplated desecration of the Sabbath by your committee is an outrage against the religious sentiments of multitudes of our countrymen," the telegram said, "and will wonder at the prevailing national distress when God's commandments are wantonly flouted in this way?"

Harry Goldstein Suffers Fraction of Hip

Spiritual Advisor Tells of Seeing Strange Sights

Toronto, Sept. 12.—When sleep became impossible indoors last night for Harry Goldstein, he decided to try the roof and, bringing his five-year-old little daughter with him he fixed the child in a comfortable position, lying himself between her and the edge of the roof. Then he went to sleep.

But he awoke to find himself on the concrete pavement forty feet below where he had fallen when he rolled over in his sleep, toppling right over the edge of the roof. In his fall he passed between two fences only four feet apart, thereby Spiritual advocated by some, and said it must be higher to prevent foreign goods entering the country.

"Police, after taking him to the hospital, found his daughter on the roof, still asleep.

But he awoke to find himself on the concrete pavement forty feet below where he had fallen when he rolled over in his sleep, toppling right over the edge of the roof. In his fall he passed between two fences only four feet apart, thereby escaping serious physical injury. But it is, he has a fractured hip and internal injuries.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept.—Reluctant to talk because he is the Spiritual Adviser of Harry F. Powers, a Clarksburg Minister today nevertheless told police officials a story that sent them away on a new line of inquiry into the death of five persons Powers has confessed slaying.

The Rev. T. E. Gainer, Baptist Minister, who has talked with Powers frequently since the 41-year-old matrimonial agent's five victims, two women and three children, were found buried in a ditch, also told of seeing the form of a woman carried through the streets here in a truck.

Britain Seeks Close Tie with Canada Ferguson Says

Canada is Destined to Play Increasing Role

NEW BUSINESS

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 12.—(By The Canadian Press)—In her endeavour to recover from financial troubles Britain is looking to Canada, declared Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in London, at a luncheon tendered him by members of the Provincial Legislature here yesterday.

Formation of a National Government placed England on the road to recovery, he declared. "It is the first real step in advancing to re-establish their business and credit. As soon as that takes place and they are able to balance their budget and they are in a sound financial position, they will look out for new business and new sources of revenue and wealth.

"Here in the whole wide world are they going to look for greater confidence and greater resources in themselves than to the Dominion of Canada?"

British people are seeking closer co-operation with Canada, said the former Conservative Premier of Ontario. He regarded Canada as destined to play an increasingly important part in the recovery of the world from present conditions.

"Once the opportunity comes," he declared, "the British people will reach out beyond their own confines and seek co-operation from their dominions. You will find not entirely British people but British capital coming to Canada seeking opportunity that has never existed before."

Hon. W. H. Ireland, President of the Ontario Liberal-Conservative Association and chief whip for the Tory Party presided.

New Listing Duties Upon U. S. Magazines

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—According to the latest listing of magazine duties under the new tariff made public here yesterday, "Screen Play" and "Hollywood," three peppy publications of wide circulation among the more rabid movie fans, are on the same listing with "The Sunday School Instructor," "Youths' Temperance Banner" and "The Christian Guardian." Along with "The Sunday School Instructor," "Youths' Temperance Banner" and "The Christian Guardian." Along with a copy in duty must be paid, however, by reason of a "trade publication." A similar import is levied on "Judge" and a number of medical magazines, such as "The American Journal of Psychiatry and Psychopathology." Another Hollywood publication, "The New Movie Magazine," also comes in the two-cent duty.

The five-cent duty is imposed on "Field and Stream", "The American Boy" and on several hundred trade magazines, all of limited circulation.

Besides three of the movie magazines, the free list contains another batch of trade and professional papers, many religious magazines high-brow publications as "Current History" and "New Republic."

Hyphen II Crashes In Russia In Flight To Tokyo

CANADIANS GREET KAYE DON WITH GREAT ACCLAIM

These pictures were taken when Kaye Don, famous British speedboat driver, reached Toronto after losing the Harmsworth Trophy Series against Gar Wood in the United States. The main photograph shows a small part of the vast crowd who viewed the damaged "Miss England II" at the Canadian National Exhibition, while inset, left to right, are: Sam Hart is, President of the Canadian National Exhibition; Kaye Don; and C. D. Browne of Toronto, representing Lord Wakefield.

Hyphen II. on Non-Stop Flight to Tokyo is Lost

CAUSE NOT KNOWN

Identity of Men Not Learned Say Early Despatches

Moscow, Sept. 12.—Two of the three men in the French airplane Hyphen II. which set out yesterday on a non-stop flight from Paris to Tokyo were killed today when their plane crashed. Their identities could not be learned immediately, nor was the cause of the accident determined.

Aboard the machine were Joseph Lotrin, one of the best of the French pilots, Marcel Doret and Rene Mesmin.

The crash occurred early this morning near the mouth of the River Selenga.

The chief of the Soviet air forces ordered that a party be sent from the Ufa airport to extend aid and to determine the cause of the disaster. First reports did not indicate whether the third member of the crew was hurt.

French Plane Crashes Carries Two Fliers To Their Deaths, 1 Escapes

Motorcyclist's Leg Torn Off in Sideswipe

Toronto, Sept. 12.—When his motorcycle was sideswiped by a motorcar on the highway near Bronte today, Alfred Morley, 30, of Toronto, had one of his legs completely torn off from above the knee and died later at the hospital where he was removed, after two blood transfusions proved themselves useless.

F. Collins, Hamilton, driver of motorcar, was arrested and remanded in Oakville police court today, under bail of $3,000.

Strange Story of Wife is Credited

New York, Sept. 12—Her story of a piratical attack on a yacht believed by officials Mrs. Benjamin F. Collins was back at her home in Stamford, Conn., today, after she had been questioned two days about the disappearance of her husband from the cabin cruiser, Penguin, off Long Island Sound.

Police today pursued a search for his body and for two men who, Mrs. Collins said, threw him over board and later attacked her.

Judge Edwards of Nassau county in ordering Mrs. Collins's release, said, "I believe her story of what transpired on the little boat, fantastic as it may seem. She is not under suspicion."

THE WEATHER

Meteorological Office, Toronto, Sept.—Showers have occurred in most districts of the west and thunderstorms have occurred in Southern Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. It has been fair in Ontario with very high temperatures in southern districts.

Northern Ontario: Moderate to fresh southwest winds; mostly fair and warmer today and Sunday, probably a few scattered thunderstorms.

Western Provinces: Mostly fair today and Sunday with not much change in temperatures; Probably a few scattered showers.

THROWN THROUGH SHIELD

Arnprior, Ont., Sept. 12—Thrown through the open window of a car in which she was riding with several companions, Miss Clare Beattie 19, was killed last night. The car driven by Howard Cunningham, crashed from a narrow roadway into a ditch, catapaulting the girl through the window. Cunningham escaped injury.

Gar Wood Says He Will Gladly Race Against Kaye Don on Other Side of Sea

Tentative "Feeler" is Given Wood By British Editor

WOOD'S DENTAL

New York, N. Y., Sept. 12.—A tentative "feeler" from a London paper as to whether Gar Wood's speed boat pilot, would be willing to race Kaye Don, British speedster, on the other side of the Atlantic brought an emphatic affirmative from Wood today.

"Gladly," he wired the Editor of the Sunday Chronicle, who had sent him this message.

"Are you prepared to race Kaye Don a suitable course this side of the Atlantic if satisfactory arrangements can be made?"

Wood told newspapermen today that by making certain improvements in his speed boat he hoped to "have the fastest boat in the world when I get over there." He also declared he is building a new boat.

Wood reiterated previous denials that there was an snickery on his part in the second heat of the Harmsworth Trophy race September 5, on the Detroit River.

"What I did say and what I meant was that I would lead the Canadian over the starting line," he said. "But by 'lead' I didn't mean 'swim'."

Not In Wash

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 12.—Motion pictures of the second Harmsworth race, in which Kaye Don's Miss England II. sank, displayed here today that Gar Wood's first lines show Miss England in the straightaway and not in Gar Wood's wash when the accident occurred. Motion pictures were taken from a tall building almost directly over the course by the Detroit News.

Wood preceded Don by a wide margin as the Belle Isle bridge turn, running very close to the buoy marking the turn, then to the straightaway and then swinging back. Don made a turn nearer the bridge and then cut across the Wood wash, almost at the buoy to start into the straightaway.

He had gone almost two hundred feet and was in quiet water when the big white speed boat seemed to leap upward, turned halfway over in the air with the nose beginning to dip and then crashed into the detonated cut. It's surge out of the water resembled that of a big fish just getting a line.

The film stops at the moment of impact but when the picture clears, one of the mechanics is seen far to the left, another further down the river but a little near the boat while Don himself is just at the rear of the motionless hull. All three are swimming as they appear in view from the spray.

Time After Time

Don, in describing the accident, said he veered he was in wash when Miss England II. overturned.

Officers Find Boarding House For Mother, Family

Being a young mother with two small babies to care for and no home within which to find shelter, Mrs. Cook was left in a bad way in life. Friday night about 10.30 when the city police received a call from a resident of North Front Street, stating that a young woman and two babies were at his home; they had merely come to the house and he could not accommodate them. The police car was immediately sent for them and they were brought to the station. Sergeant Arthur Harman conferred with Inspector Russell, and Mrs. Cook and her children could not be housed by the family with which they had been staying. The difficult position of the mother and babies was solved by the city authorities and some way found out for their benefit.

Magistrates Favor Salary Instead Of Fee System

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 12.—(By The Canadian Press)—Abolition of the fee system and the payment of all magistrates of the Province on a salary basis was approved by unanimous vote of the Ontario Magistrates' Association meeting here.

The first duty of magistrates was to administer the law and not to make their office and the administration of justice a money-making proposition, said Deputy Registrar of the Crown Attorney's Department.

"BUMP" READER ENDS HIS LIFE

Prof. Cavanagh Commits Suicide Off Bridge in Toronto

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 12.—After suffering from mental illness for some time Professor F. J. Cavanagh well-known phrenologist of this city, ended his life today by jumping over the railing in the centre of the North Sherbourne Bridge and plunging to the ground 90 feet below. He was about 75 years of age, and was well known physician in Toronto and had practised his profession for 50 years.

Passers-by were horrified to see the man climb over the railing and leap from the bridge. Identification of the body was revealed by a note in the pocket reading: "No one is to blame for this. Cavanagh, Sherbourne St." Coroner G. R. Philip declared an inquest was unnecessary.

Three years ago it was estimated Professor Cavanagh had "read the bumps" of 50,000 heads in the course of his career as a phrenologist. For many years his advertisements, illustrated by charts, were featured in the Toronto papers. He was an earnest believer in the theories on which he based his life work.

Professor Cavanagh was born in Ireland and came to Canada at an early age.

KICKS A CAT TO DEATH

TO SAVE LIFE OF BIRD

Hamilton, Sept. 12—Because he didn't like a cat's feet intruding on causing its death, to save a young bird's life, William Bowden of Herkimer Street, appeared in police court on a charge of cruelty to animals. Magistrate Brickenden accepted the opinion that Bowden's act was justified and dismissed the charge. C. J. Byrne of Herkimer Street, owner of the cat, who, through Inspector Russell of the S. P.C.A., laid the charge, admitted that the cat was "playing with a bird" on his front lawn. He said his children were grief-stricken at the cat's death. Even though the blow saved the bird's life, the accused was guilty of ill-treating the cat, Inspector Russell argued.

LARGE MARKET IN EVIDENCE

Plenty of Produce Offered and Prices Slightly Lower

Today's local market was about the largest that has been seen in Belleville this season. Plenty of farm produce was offered and the low prices that were in evidence, gave the citizens a chance to buy cheaply. The price of eggs remain about the same, as last week all at 26c, while butter brought 27c to 28c per pound. Chickens were a little cheaper as the public could purchase very fine fowl for $1.20 per pair while larger chickens sold as high as 60c each. Plenty of peaches were offered at 60c a basket while home grown plums brought 75c a peck. All kinds of potatoes were offered ranging from 35c up and depending on the size.

The green vegetable market was well represented by the vendors with plenty of garden products for the citizens to choose from. The sizes of green vegetable remaining unchanged. New Ivergreen corn was sold at two dozen ears for 25c while nice fresh cauliflower could be purchased for from 10c up according to the size.

Obituary

R. S. TIVY

The Township of Wellesley, North Hastings, has lost one of its best known and esteemed residents in the person of Mr. R. S. Tivy, aged 56 years. Deceased was a former reeve of the municipality and a member of Hastings County Council. For a number of years Mr. Tivy was postmaster at Bancroft and prominent in business circles. He was a member of the Anglican Church. Of late he had made his home with Mr. Charles Rollins, at Coe Hill.

LATE C. KEATING

The funeral of the late Chrysostom Keating of Springbrook took place on Friday morning to St. Michael's Church at Marmora, where the Rev. Father Moxley celebrated solemn requiem mass. Interment was made at Marmora Catholic cemetery. The pallbearers were largely attended. The bearers were John Boyle, Jos. McCombe, Jos. Moore, Alex. Moore, R. Brennan and Geo. Forestall.

MARKET ENDS WEAK

...ew York, Sept. 12.—The stock market ended the week feebly today, showing no disposition to extend the rally which developed toward the close of yesterday's session.

Ready to Give Up Episcopal Palace

St. Thomas, Ont., Sept. 12 (CP)—In the name of National economy Rt. Rev. Arthur F. Winnington-Ingram, Bishop of London, would be quite willing to give up his residence, Fulham Palace, and live in a more modest home, he said in here.

The new budget amendments, brought down by Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, impose new financial burdens upon the bishop, who at present pays nearly two-thirds of his income in taxes. "My official income is $50,000, and my taxes have been $34,000," he said.

The bishop played 18 holes of golf today on the St. Thomas Golf and Country Club course.

Septic Sore Throat Epidemic Discussed

Montreal, Sept. 12 (CP). — The sore throat epidemic which broke out at Kirkland Lake, Ont., in December, 1930, causing four deaths and involving 647 cases, was the subject of a paper read yesterday before the Provincial Association of Dairy and Milk Inspectors by Dr. A. L. McNabb of the Ontario Department of Health, Toronto. Dr. McNabb's paper was one of many read before the Association's annual convention.

The epidemic, the paper read, was finally traced by public health to the sale of unpasteurized milk, samples of which from 27 cows yielded 17 Strain beta Haemolytic streptococci, two of these proving of human origin.

FINE WAS IMPOSED

George Keilar of Enterprise, Ont., was fined $10.00 and costs of $3.50 in police court this Saturday morning on the charge of driving in a manner dangerous to the public safety. On Monday, September 7th, Keilar collided with a car near Point Anne, said to be driven by Mr. Harry Hughes of Toronto, causing considerable damage. It is understood that Keilar settled with Wallace for the damage to his car.

ATTENDED BANQUET

Mayor George A. Reid attended the banquet tendered to Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, High Commissioner for Canada in England at the Royal York, Toronto, on Friday. There were over 400 present to do honor to the distinguished statesman, which represented all parties. The speakers were Lt. Col. W. H. Rose, Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of Canada, Hon. George S. Henry, Premier of Ontario, Hon. W. K. George, Leader of the Opposition, Hon. Harry Nixon and Hon. J. H. Rowe. Hon. Mr. Ferguson spoke highly of the conversion loan recently oversubscribed in Canada, saying that had a fine effect on the British people.

NOT SERIOUSLY INJURED

Hunter Rollins, Trenton, employed at the Fuller gravel pit at Ivanhoe was injured Friday afternoon and later taken to the Belleville hospital. Dr. H. Wells, medical officer, was one of the accident and also accompanied the patient to the hospital. An X-ray was taken today and no fractures were found. Mr. Rollins was working under a large piece of timber. When it broke, one piece striking the man across the back. Excepting bruises Mr. Rollins' injury is not serious and he will be able to leave the institution, although he will be confined to his home for some time.

MOTORIST FINED

A motorist was fined $10.00 and $2.50 costs this Saturday morning for having, it is understood, failed to stop at the intersection when passing in his car from the Canniff road onto the Parkdale road by way a short time ago. A slight collision with a car on the highway was the result.

LEAGUE SEASON CLOSES

Last evening at the Y.W.C.A. Bowling League Ladies softball league met for the purpose of closing out the season. An enjoyable time was spent by all. All business was completed and the date for the annual meeting was set for the first Monday in November. The following executive reported that the league had been a very successful one and they feel it was expected that next year would see bigger and better league. At annual meeting the election of officers, the constitution and by-laws will be read with.

TWO ARRESTS MADE

Friday evening about six o'clock Constables Gray and Caw arrested Wm. Duminie, of Belleville, and Thomas C. Irwin, a farmer from near Frankford, on the charge of intoxication on McAnnany Street. In police court Saturday morning the case against Duminie was enlarged for a week. An additional charge of being intoxicated while in charge of a car was laid against Irwin and he was remanded in custody until Monday.

MR. MIKEL HONORED

Mr. Frederick W. G. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville, was named a member of the Board of the Salvation Army Association.

Y DIRECTORS MEET.

Last evening the executive committee and the board of directors of the Belleville Y.M.C.A. met in their rooms and brought forth their plans for the coming season. All members were present and considerable work was accomplished. They brought forward plans for fall and winter membership, finance, unemployment service and many other items of service to the community. Every effort will be made to operate the institution with the least amount of expense but programme as in former possible and still carry on the serv years. Their idea is to help the unfortunate and unemployed by giving all of the co-operation that is possible to other agencies in this work. A larger membership is expected this season and plans which will involve a more extended and varied programme for the public.

There will be a larger piece of community service in operation to all also to the directors, staff and voluntary leaders! It will be a season of increased activity, heavier loads to carry and longer hours to serve. The work of the Y.M.C.A. is increasing every year and their never-tiring efforts are to be commended.

WOOLER FAIR SETS RECORD

Many Exhibits in Each Class. Horse Racing Was Feature

A large number attended the Wooler Fair held yesterday. The weather was ravishing but the residents of the district came early and stayed late. The exhibits were above the normal in nearly every class and the quality was much better than in previous years. The effect of heavy drought and agricultural type of horses when judged were watched by a large number and interest was keen. The horse racing naturally attract ed the largest gathering and the two classes were hotly contested. The free-for-all was won by Fury Mildred but only after five heats had been raced. Alderman George O. Vine handled the bell and successfully performed his duties. The results were:

BEAT HAWKS BY OVER AN HOUR

Major James H. Doolittle was a cheery greeting to welcoming throngs at Newark, N.J., as he landed after setting a new trans-continental record of 11 hours, 13 minutes, 10 seconds, between California and New York, beats the mark set by Capt. Frank M. Hawks by an hour and 10 minutes.

Weddings

HAMMECKER—JACKSON

The marriage was solemnized in the Presbyterian parsonage, Wooler, of Grace Elizabeth Jackson, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Jackson, Ann St., and Mr. Horton Hammecker, New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Hammecker, Parish, N.Y. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. Crossley Slater of the United Church Parsonage, Carleton St.

The bride wore a dainty frock of Lucerne blue georgette with hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Anna Lorraine Jackson, who wore a smart gown of eggshell georgette and matching hat. Her bouquet was of ophelia roses.

Mr. J. Earle Jackaef was groomsman.*

After the ceremony the bride and groom left on a motor trip to New York City.

The bride was formerly children's librarian at Corby Public Library. She was keenly interested in the Girl Guide Organization and was senior-lieutenant of Company Three for a number of years.

Poet's Corner

AN AUGUST GARDEN

Flowers of the Maytide, flowers of June,
Delicate-hued, the flowers of spring
Are vanished like the cuckoo-tune.
The months go speeding on swift wing.

The middle glories of the year
In bed and border bask like fire—
Brave hollyhock's sky-pointing spear
Love-in-a-mist and foxglove spire.

Lupins, on spurs like the sky,
And sunflowers like a song to sing,
O bloom and bird, O butterfly,
My heart forgets the flowers of spring.

O. S. D. NOTES

All of the members of the Ascendo teaching staff of the Ontario School for the Deaf have returned to continue their good work except Miss James and Mr. Bennett, who have been placed on the supernumerary list, and Miss Beverly, who was married in August. Their places have been taken by three extremely successful public school teachers, Miss A. Sweetman of Belleville, Miss B. Keeler of Trenton, and Mr. C. Ellis, of South Mountain, who, have all been accorded a hearty welcome.

Mr. Morrell, instructor of shoemaking, has also been retired, his successor being Mr. Thos. Tymann of Toronto, who has had nearly a year's experience as an instructor in the Toronto Junior Vocational School. He will report for duty on Monday.

Mr. Geo. F. Stewart, for 11 years a member of the teaching staff and editor of The Canadian, has been retained by special appointment as editor of the paper, and will also carry on general publicity work. Incredible as it seems, Stewy says, he has discovered that there is good reason to believe that there is a considerable number of deaf children in the province whose parents do not know of this school or have a wrong conception of its character and purpose.

* * *

The Department of Education has practically decided to make the O.S.D. teacher training course equal in status to the second year Normal School course, so that teachers undertaking the course here will be granted a permanent certificate. Such teachers will be qualified for positions in other Canadian residential or day schools for the deaf. Miss Ford has been appointed by the Department Director of Professional Training, and will choose assistants from the staff as required. Miss Ford will have charge of all professional work under the superintendent, also work throughout the whole school in correlating the subjects on the curriculum so that the work carried on in every class will dovetail with that of the class above and below, thus assuring the continuity that is essential to the attainment of the best possible results.

* * *

The Department wishes the school to stress physical training, so it is the superintendent's purpose to carry on a regular and systematic course of physical culture and development, in charge of teachers who have taken this course of whom there are several on the staff. The campus, always of no rough and uneven has been levelled and seeded, but will not be ready for use until next spring or possibly the fall, when it will equal or surpass any other playground in the vicinity. An excellent and enthusiastic Athletic Committee has charge of the school sports.

* * *

It is the wish of the superintendent and staff that all of the pupils of the school should wear standard uniforms, and that session the following were decided upon: For girls, middy and blouse; for senior boys, sox and sweater coats; for junior boys, sox and pull over sweaters. The school colors are to be blue and gold. The uniforms must be made except by cooperation of the parents, which is hoped will be done. The uniforms can be procured through the school at a reasonable cost price and will be the most durable and economical school suits that can be purchased. Quite a number of parents have already responded to the superintendent's request and it is hoped that all will do so. The wearing of these uniforms will add greatly to the attractiveness of the school. Of course the uniforms will not be worn only on the school grounds.

* * *

Mr. Fetterly announces that the Dundas County Teachers' Association will hold their convention at the Ontario School for the Deaf on October 9th and 10th.

Late Mrs. Temple Related Here

Word was received by relatives in the city of the death in Windsor on Thursday of Mrs. Beatrice Tennyson, who was one of the victims of the street car accident on Tuesday. It will be remembered that seventy-one passengers en route to a picnic were injured when the street car, through some open switch, turned over and caught fire.

Mrs. Temple, wife of Mr. Albert Temple, was listed among the injured and removed to Belleville very not aware of the extent of her injuries until word arrived that she had passed away. Born in Napanee, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Sweet, the late Mrs. Temple was about twenty-seven years of age. She was a member of the United Church and leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, two children, her parents, two brothers, Percy Sweet of Port Perry, Earl of Napanee and 1 sister, Miss Lottie Sweet of Napanee. The late Mrs. Temple was a niece of Mrs. John Coulden of Belleville.

Investigation of Car Accident is Begun

Constable Frink of the Ontario Provincial Police is investigating an accident which occurred very early this Saturday morning at Rossmore corners about one mile and a half south of Foxboro.

A car is said to have left the road on the east side and to have collided with the guard rail on the north side. As far as is known no one was injured seriously. The car which bears a Toronto license number is thought to have been driven by a Toronto man, who is listed as Hopkins' garage, Foxboro. Mrs. A. Burgoyne while in this city, the accident to the police and Constable Frink of the Ontario Provincial Police is investigating. Charges it is understood will be laid.

Car From Sideroad. In Fatal Crash

Mattawa, Sept. 12.—One person was killed and three injured when two automobiles collided on the North Bay highway east of here yesterday.

Mrs. H. Meredith, Mattawa, died shortly after entering hospital here. Her son, Bill, 9, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mededith, and their two-year-old son, were injured, none of them seriously.

The accident occurred, it is reported, when a car driven by a man named Reginalis turned into the highway from a side road near Paris Lake. The cars collided, Mrs. Meredith, Sr., receiving the full impact.

Primate Will Not Be Appointed at Session

Guelph, Ont., Sept. 12 (CP). — Steps towards establishment of a memorial to Archbishop S. Matheson, by the executive council of the General Synod meeting here today.

The committee was appointed to report to the General Synod in Toronto next week as to whether an endowment should be raised for lectureships or scholarships in Anglican theological colleges throughout Canada in connection with the memorial.

The House of Bishops meets here today but it is not expected the appointment of a Primate to succeed Archbishop Matheson would not be made at this session. The matter is being left until the General Synod gathers in Toronto.

PERCE T. COLE CRASHES PAGE OF MAGAZINE

Interesting Article on Canada's First Airmen Written

IN McLEANS

Was Former Member of Ontario Intelligencer Editorial Staff

Percy T. Cole, former valued member of The Ontario Intelligencer editorial staff, and now night Editor on the Toronto Evening Telegram, has crashed the pages of McLean's Magazine. An article written by this former Belleville boy on "Canada's First Airmen", is published in the September 15th issue of this magazine and reflects considerable credit both on the author and also the Editor, who arranged the article with photographs of early flying, in profusion.

Takes Keen Interest

The writer has always been a keen student of aeronautics and at every opportunity went into the air and this knowledge has permitted him to write entertainingly on a subject in which he is well versed. Here is a summary of the article by the editor of McLean's Magazine and appropriately states the feeling that is uppermost in the minds of citizens of Belleville. He says in part: "In our opinion we sum up is such a chronicle as that of Percy T. Cole. Here is the story of Canada's First Airmen, the story of F. W. Baldwin, still hale and hearty, who made the first public flight of an airplane in North America, the story of Bishop and the seventh in the world to fly; the story of J. A. McCurdy who made the first flight in Canada, and the first flight over open sea in America. All we ask you to do is to look at the photographs of the amazingly flimsy machines in which they cheerfully risked their necks. Mr. Cole, the author, gets a hearty slap on the back for being the first man able to extract the information from these men. And McCurdy, who, like most men of the skies, are not talkative."

Perce as he is familiarly known to his many friends in the city has started on a career that no doubt will lead to bigger and better things in his chosen profession and all will watch this career with interest. Since leaving the city for Toronto he has made many friends and has taken an active part, especially in sporting activities in his adopted city.

INFECTION IN ARM SERIOUS

Stanley Stasiak's Condition Causes Anxiety

The condition of Stanley Stasiak wrestler on the Big Three Type is lying in Belle Ewart General Hospital suffering from infection in his left arm, which developed after the arm had sustained a green fracture while wrestling with Don George at the Arena Gardens two weeks ago, is unchanged according to Dr. George H. Stobie today. An emergency operation was performed by Dr. Rush, specialist from Toronto, and Dr. Stobie on Wednesday night, which temporarily checked the infection but Dr. Stobie stated today the patient is in a critical condition. Asked by the Ontario Intelligencer if there was a danger of the wrestler losing his arm in order to check the infection, the physician replied that infection such as Stasiak was suffering from is virulent and spreads rapidly and there is the possibility it might get beyond control. Of course his physical condition is in his favor and the infection may be controlled before serious results may ensue.

Mrs. Stasiak has been with her husband since his admittance to the hospital and is a constant attendant at his bedside.

LAND OF PRODUCE

Surely this is a wonderful land—a land with a "goodly heritage"—a land through the fertility of which on a beautiful morning like this, will convinced you of its fruits, Quantities and quantities of "the fruits of the earth" are now high and running over. Delicious fruits, whole some vegetables, nourishing eggs, butter, meats, delicious cakes and numerous other choice forms of food. The market is certainly an interesting and busy place on Saturday. Curbs line with cars and trucks and here and there an odd buggy or sleigh, from which the vendors display and sell their produce to the hundreds of city people who "shop" around, comparing quality and prices before they finally fill their baskets. The inside market, too, is an interesting spectacle, the hum and clatter of voices is astonishing. Meeting friends and having a "chat" or a short hurried "chat" is an established custom with both the city and country people.

GOLF NOTES

George Faulkner is the winner of the Club championship at the Bay of Quinte Country Club after a spirited final with Dr. Stobie. The winner was two up and one to go.

The handicap championship semi-finals will be played this week-end and the finals this month.

Next Wednesday, the annual Dobs and Duffers' match will be held at the Country Club, the lowest or any score not necessarily accepted. Prizes for everybody! If enough presents ed; first nine holes with club, putter, second nine with club, mashie. Dinner will be served at 6.45 p.m. sharp. All members of the club are expected to be present.

GOLFERS DEFEATED

Fourteen women players from the Belleville Golf Club motored to Peterboro on Thursday for a series of matches, with Peterboro winning the round. The guests were entertained at a luncheon at the clubhouse at which the hostesses were Mrs. J. A. Aylmer, Mrs. B. D. Hall and Miss Dalby Davidson. After the games tea was served.

Arrangements for tea were in charge of Mrs. H. A. Morrow and Madam Bitney Soulet. Mrs. Theodore McWilliams poured tea, assisted by Madam Goulet, Mrs. H. Birgies, Mrs. J. W. Graveslock, Mrs. C. G. Graham and Miss Elizabeth Scott.

Calls On Public To Help Karnival

Mayor George A. Reid received from the Kiwanis Karnival through the president, George F. Cole, an invitation to visit the Karnival all next week and His Worship was more than pleased to receive this gesture of goodwill. His Worship spoke to a reporter of The Ontario a few minutes today and asked that a message be sent out to all citizens and residents of the city and in part the reply to the invitation was as follows:

"To the Citizens of Belleville—

"In connection with the Kiwanis Karnival which opens on Monday night, I am heartily in favor of it and respectfully ask all citizens loyally and generously to support the same. I am in close touch with the Kiwanis Club and know of the good work they are doing. Many homes are made happy by their generosity. I strongly commend the Club to you.

(Sgd.) Mayor George A. Reid.

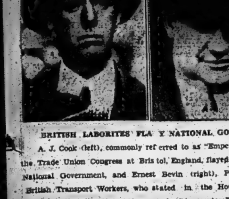
WEDDINGS



JOSLIN—LATCHFORD

A quiet wedding was solemnized by Rev. C. K. Clarke, rector of Christ Church, Bellleville, on Saturday, September 5th, at three o'clock, in the presence of a number of friends and relatives, when Hilda Mabel, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Latchford, Massassaga, became the bride of James Hoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Joslin, 96 South George Street, Belleville.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Jordan Latchford, looked lovely in a dress of sapphire blue georgette and lace with bridal wreath of orange blossoms and bouquet of white asters and fern. Her bridesmaid, Miss Marcella Juby, Picton, wore a pale blue crepe and carried pink and white asters with fern.

Mr. Delbert Latchford, brother of the bride, was groomsman.

After the ceremony the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for Toronto and Niagara and other western points. On their return they will reside in Belleville.

CORPORAL PUNISHMENT FROM THE COURTS

Ridicule is an effective method against man. No boy wants to be subjected to the degradation of spanking, which has been practised in some sections against lads who steal motorcars. Records prove the oldtime method of punishment very effective.

Ontario magistrates seem to believe that punishment in the form of the lash and spanking is an effective deterrent of crime. Men do not seem so much to shun a prison term as the lash for heinous offences, though those who have never known imprisonment have a horror of the shame associated with jailing.

RETURN OF VAUDEVILLE

audeville is coming back. This is the word from Europe where the drama and the skit are very much alive. In the United States the talkies almost killed the stage with their first rush but there are signs that a recovery of the living drama is at hand. Evidence would incline to the belief that mechanical entertainment does not completely satisfy.

If the stage comes back and there seems no reason why it should not even if most of the houses are now turned over to sound and screen, the legitimate stage ought to be more potent than ever. Today it is influencing thought in spite of the dominion of sound and light and shadow.

From London comes the word that the English people, so steady as they are in everything of human interest, are not satisfied with the sound films entirely and that there are not enough good films to go around so that vaudeville stunts have to be brought in to eke out the entertainment. A glance at the London papers shows how potent the theatre is in the Old Land and the number of British companies which plan visiting Canada and the United States this season would prove to the dullest that there is much life in the old stage which has stood from time immemorial as an interpreter of morals and life, and on which have appeared the greatest of world actors responding to the intelligence of the audence. Germany is putting on more classical drama than any other country in the world and sound has not swayed there as it has in the United States.

One newspaper hints that the time has come for the old vaudeville artist to freshen up his bag of old tricks and start on the road again.

The supremacy of the stage is in part this—its actors have to act day in and day out. They do not make a few big hits and then disappear. Their growth in their art is continuous. How the movie star becomes a star not only in the mechanics of acting but in mental development and in the use of the voice seems a miracle with so little opportunity to train. The stage actor has a different story to tell of long experience. He also brings the human contact.

THIS LAST HOT SPELL

More hot weather has come this way in the past summer than in the memory of most folk. This last spell is about enough to have them cry "That is enough", or say "when".

Unusually warm this season the weather will probably make a record for many years. The summer camper is loath to leave his place beside the lake and the stream because he still fears that the warm weather is not at all over.

Weather of such sustained character has played havoc with certain lines of business and if all summers were like this one there would be perhaps a return to the Edenlike ideas within a few years as folk discarded the superfluous garb, handed down from time immemorial by the tailor craftsmen.

But there is probably a day of retribution coming when these warm days which bring the flies to life with all the power of the early summer, will be longingly thought of as the winter winds howl and the snow piles deep upon roadway and lawn.

However, it has been the most gloriously warm summer for many years from many angles.

OUR SAFETY HERE

Canadians who sometimes think of the blessings which surround them in this country of temperate climatic conditions have opportunity once again to thank providence that their lines are cast in such pleasant places. Yesterday's story of desolation in the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico when anywhere from two hundred to four hundred persons lost their lives in a clash of tempests and hurricanes which swept British Honduras, inevitably made people hereabouts think they ought to be grateful.

END OF A WAR

Wars are not ended when treaties are signed and the bugles blow the cessation of hostilities.

The world knows it from experience today. Veterans meet to solve the problems created by the war and the world is all the while thinking of the upset condition in which it is found.

VACATION'S END

The last bright path is turned. The hills that rose
Like purple blooms in Summer's hovering dream
Fade, with the speeding wheels, to dark repose,
The roads we spun like ribbons and the stream
That flashed with lances of the August sun
Sink in the dusk of this our journey's end.
The last blue vault of sky, the river's bend
Are memories now, and holidays are done.

Who could have thought such stillness could invade
These muted eaves we left that dim, far June,
Such silence weight these cedars that upbraid
For hours of long desertion, when the moon
Rode like a jilted lover down the night?
The stealthy weeds have gained the roses' bed;
The gate is bronzed with dust, and in our flight
The leaves have turned from green to gold and red.

How can we face the Winter who have known
The idle lapping of a lonely lake,
The scented fields with languid daisies strewn,
The rocky byways and the slumbering brake?
The blade of snow is keen when hearts remember
A glint of sail where sunlit breakers roar;
Oh how can we survive a dark December,
Whose Summer-loving hands now touch this door?

RIDER HAGGARD had a large family of readers when you and I were young Maggie, and how we did revel in SHE, ALLAN QUARTERMAIN and other mystery stories of the great Dark Continent by that master of mystery and romantic writing, Rider Haggard. Now comes news from London that treasure caves such as were described in "She" have been discovered on the frontier of Abyssinia and the Sudan in the vicinity of the Ego and Komo mountains which are high points on the watershed between the White Nile and the Blue Nile. The country is dry, wild and sparsely inhabited, and the discovery was made by Frank Payter, big game hunter, who believes that the rubies, diamonds, platinum and gold which he uncovered constituted one of the treasure chests of the Queen of Sheba, whose display of jewels when she visited King Solomon dazzled even that wealthy monarch of many wives. Payter brought a handful of the gems back to London with him and is organizing an expedition to go back and get the rest. Thus is vindicated that rich and ripe imagination of Rider Haggard and the many dreams of adventure of his youthful readers of the day before yesterday, and then some.

GOSH ALL HEMLOCK, business must be quiet up in Wiarton where, according to the Wiarton Echo, two citizens played pool for two days at ten dollars a game. The first night closed with one a winner of ninety dollars, all the other had. Then he bet a flock of sheep and lost them That night the sheep broke out of their corral and destroyed a neighbor's garden. The new owner paid for the damage but in the play the next night lost the ninety dollars and the sheep, so that all he had out of the two days' play, except a headache, was the receipted bill for damages to the garden made by the sheep while he owned them.

THE SILVER LINING

Depression in the United States and Canada has brought a boom to Bermuda. The people, unable to take an extended trip to Egypt, the Mediterranean, or Southern Europe have sought sunshine in the nearby Island. As a result, the number of tourists this year in Bermuda has increased by 10 per cent.

Canadians will not grudge their good friends and neighbours this stroke of fortune. Bermuda has been pretty hard hit once or twice lately, notably when the increased American tariff cut the Island truck garden exports to the bone. Bermudian growers have only lately recovered from this blow by finding an additional market in Canada.

The depression has brought many changes of fashion with it. This has been a summer in which the question was no longer "where are you going?", but "Are you going away this year?" Steamship companies, which have been so particularly hard hit, have shown great enterprise in suiting their cruises to straitened purses. For example, a record number of great liners from New York have put into Halifax summer after cruises of from a few days to a fortnight's duration, which has proved a windfall for the merchants of Halifax.—Montreal Star.

RECOMMEND A GOOD SPANKING FOR BAD BOYS

The Ontario Magistrates' Association will seek to have the law amended so that they may be given greater latitude to punish offenders by the lash or birch. The members of the association are well qualified to express their views on the subject. Day after day they listen to the complaints brought before them. They are in a position to observe the effects of punishments which may be inflicted under the laws as they are. Their unanimous conclusion that their powers should be broadened is more deserving of attention than are the protests of theorists who have no practical knowledge of the courts. The increase of juvenile delinquency has become a grave social problem. It may be lessened by a good sound spanking as recommended or are several of the magistrates. Many youngsters regard a boy sent to jail as something of a hero. But he is not so much of a hero with his friends after he is spanked. Ridicule is often more effective than investiture with the aureola to fit the psychology of those inclined to set a bad boy on a pedestal.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

SPEED

In a recent automobile speed contest at Louisville, Que., one of the cars left the track and injured a spectator so seriously that he died later. In a similar contest at Hokkuta, N. J. one of the racers leaped from the course and crashed through a fence into the watching crowd, grievously injuring two persons and seriously hurting nine others. In virtually every automobile speed contest such accidents occur, drivers and spectators alike being the victims. The fact may be used in support of the opposition to the petition that cars regularly from automobile associations for abolition of the speed limit on highways. If the fast motorists cannot avoid inflicting injury and death when going on specially-built and guarded courses, they certainly cannot be permitted to speed on highways. The slaughter is too great even with the liberal restrictions.—Montreal Gazette.

HOLLAND AND DISARMAMENT.

The petition of the Netherlands for a scheme to disarmament is obviously free of selfish motive. Holland, with a population less than eight millions, keeps an army at a peace strength of 270,000. The country is not likely to be forced into competition in the race for armaments, however ambitious any of her neighbours may become in this respect. Holland's main concern is her national independence. To safeguard that independence and her frontier, she naturally is anxious for the maintenance of European peace and in avoidance of liability of a renewal of her experience during the war of 1914-18. The time is ripe for disarmament.—Montreal Gazette.

HOW TO REIGN

Many momentous things have occurred in the last twenty years which have afforded singular tests of the difficult art of reigning. By his conduct during all these tribulations, George V has shown himself possessed of exactly the attributes needed in a constitutional monarch. On every occasion he has reflected from what he has conceived to be his duty—the duty of a moral influence, of an example to the people in service to country.

His latest act is also a tribute to George V, the man. Were he not King, and therefore an object and symbol of patriotism, he would be every inch a patriot in the best sense of that much-abused word. Perhaps this is the secret of the sure growth of his popularity, which has added to his influence in state affairs in spite of the march of democracy. Where such a King leads, lesser mortals will be constrained, if not to follow, at least to abide loyally by the measures which the new National Government has under consideration.—C. S. Monitor.

When Will Next Pay Be? is Teachers' Cry

Chicago, Ill., Sept 12—Loyal to his idea that "school must go on," 18,000 pupils, school marms, Janitors and office workers, many of whom have not been paid since April, came to the end of the first week of the new school year today dreading their theme song:

"When, oh, when will our next pay day be."

Sitting amid a din of ringing telephones surrounded by scratch pads, pencils, and beseeching teachers, secretary Charles E. Gilbert of the school board wearily said:

"I don't know. Nobody does. But unless something is done—taxes paid, a special session of the legislature or something—it might be two years."

Near Woodmont, Conn., Sairatore Milano erected a scarecrow to keep the birds away from a raised cherry tree. He found a wren's nest in a pocket of the coat a week later.

Lady M.P.'s Stage Scene In House

London, Sept 12 —(AP)—Nancy Lady Astor and Mrs. Ellen Wilkinson, a Labor member of Parliament, created a minor sensation as the House of Commons adjourned today by engaging in an altercation which grew out of Lady Astor's remarks during the session.

In a spirited debate over economy issues Lady Astor made numerous sallies at the expense of the Labor members and as the House emptied she and the buxom, red haired Labor member from North London found themselves in the middle of the crowd.

Mrs. Manning took Lady Astor to task and the latter came back with all her verbal batteries. The other members cheered and jeered, but when it appeared that there might be a closer encounter the two women were steered out by their friends.

The Sauce of Healthy Appetite

Fashionably Speaking
By Lucille

Dear Readers:

Every once in a while there comes a day that drowns out all thought of the sultry weather and makes one think of autumn again. Visions of smart fall clothes, of new furnishings for the house for the coming season fill across our minds and then a basket wave comes to dissolve such ideas into thin air.

But that doesn't make the approach of autumn any less inevitable and soon due consideration must be given to matters that go in hand with the approach of the cooler days. For instance we will have to live in the house again. Summer cottages, one's last line of defense against summer's heat will have to be abandoned. It is a wrench to close up its shutters again, and leave every its gay furnishings. Think of not stepping out in the breeze for another year! Those whose summer homes were near hills such as Oak Lake can find use for them in the winter however. Make just the younger generation went in for skiing and tobogganing and our roads of sports enthusiasts motored to this ideal spot. The cottages is a few cases will be winterized and where there was a fireplace! And everything points to a renewed interest in these pastimes again this season.

Still we will have to more indoors. We will have to take the deck chairs and luxurious lounging hammocks from the lawn or garden. The colourful tables and the mammoth umbrella will be put away for next year and serious planning for any renovations the house will need will be begun.

Lucky indeed are those who have sun porches where they can gather all winter long. Here afternoon teas becomes a glorified affair and the bright china that make summer afternoon meals so much more attractive will be quite the thing for adding a midsummer touch to fall and winter parties. The odd or distinctive piece will be welcome here, and speaking of the unusual many Belleville's were entertained last year at a charming home that boasted a music box cake but better). The basket was a dear affair of wicker and concealed under it was a tiny music box that played a tinkling tune as the cakes and cookies were passed in the tea. No one could blame guests for fall to decline. Again and again, the hostesses' offering and tiny visitors were quite frank in their demand for the merry little chime.

Fashionably yours,
LUCILLE

Fashion Flashes

By Alice Aiden

Button, Button is the order of the day since ever so many suits and frocks are featuring buttons. For instance, a dark black Lelong cloth with an astrakan yoke and for making the upper half of the sleeves were made of buttons marking the side closing of the jacket and a row of buttons down the opposite side of the skirt.

A good idea for a thin dress and velvet. A white satin gown intended for dress and contrast by a one sided addition of dark red velvet on the bodice. The velvet comes through the satin in front, describes a surplice line and ties with the ends in a bow at the back.

On the square is the newest cut of the neckline for dinner dresses. Sable borders the square neckline of a beautiful dinner gown of claret colored velvet. The full bodice has dropped folds under the short sleeves and there is a belt of brown matching beads.

Sheer simplicity is ever effective. Therefore a simple cut frock of black crepe elizabeth with a collar bordered with brilliants in a leaf design is enormously effective. The self belt is bocking with a similar design in brilliants.

The Leopard jumps into popular material favor. Here is a short sleeved jacket of leopard with wide shoulders and a narrow shawl collar. It is hip length and fitted. There is a matching hat of leopard. It is shown with a cut-away woolen frock.

You mustn't lose sight of the muff in the new fashions. For instance a small hat of forest green velour with a coronet of dull green felt is trimmed with a bridesmaid green egg feathers and is shown with a muff made of similar egg feathers.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman
Announcement of the Second Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you please tell me how a widow's name should appear on announcements of her second marriage.

Mrs. John Brown White or Mrs. Mary Ann White or Mary Ann White.

The marriage is to be announced by the parents.

2. In our country village church there are no ushers. When Mr. and Mrs. Blank, who are visiting us, go to church, how should we be seated in the pew?

I would go up the aisle first and show Mrs. Blank into the pew, then follow her, leaving Mrs. Blank the end of the pew, but it seems awkward to separate man and wife. Or should I go into the rear first and then let them follow?

3. How would it be if my grown son was at home to escort us in?

Mrs. H. N. There has always been a difference of opinion as to whether the form to be used in this case should be Mrs. Mary Allen White or Mary Allen White. And that is whether the name should be the first and last names of the maiden name with the last name of the married name, or this name prefixed by Mrs. . . . the two forms. But you suggest in your question are not used; that is, the given name, the middle name, and the last name of the married person.

The concensus of opinion, however, is that the Mrs. should be used. So the form usually is:

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony James Allen have the honour of announcing the marriage of their daughter Mary Allen

2 I think that your way of having your guests enter the pew is the perfect one.

3. The grown guest would go in first, then you, then Mr. Blank and last, your son.

Dear Mrs. Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. We, my husband and I, have received an invitation to a garden wedding to be held on the lawn of a very wealthy family. As we are not invited to the reception is it necessary to write a note of acceptance?

Will you kindly inform us as to the correct dress for my husband?

Mrs. R.

1. I am sure that your invitation carries with it the invitation not only to the marriage ceremony, but also the invitation to the reception following. An invitation to a garden wedding would take for granted, I am sure, just as the invitation. It is a formal wedding would.

Therefore you should write a note of acceptance, as soon as possible.

2. The very best form of attire for your husband would be formal day clothes, cutaway coats and dark striped trousers. Or a rather more informal attire, dark gray trousers worn with a dark coat cut like a business suit coat. Or, if the weather is very warm, undoubtedly some of the men guests will wear white flannel trousers with a dark blue or gray coat. Or you will undoubtedly find many men attired in dark blue business suits.

I should like cleanness, neatness, form,
A box hedge and a well-kept borders,
Small maids in aprons spotless white,
And fresh chandeliers at night.
But there is something in me calls
For steps mud-tracked and toy-filled hall,
For sticky fingers on the pane
And chubby faces, tanned and plain.
I should like smugness, books and pictures,
High floors and heavy, ornate furniture,
A straightened desk, a quiet room.
An air austere, a cloistral gloom.
But there is something in me needs
A tangled garden, flowers and weeds,
The touch of clinging little hands—
These are the things my soul demands.

6 McFadden Pu?lications To Publish in Canada

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 12—(By The Canadian Press)—Publications of the McFadden chain in Canada has been announced by MacFadden publications, as outlined by Bernarr MacFadden, chairman of our board, to print in Canada for two basic reasons "first, we desire to employ two hundred thousand purchasers of our magazines in Canada from publications at the same price they have previously had.

"Secondly, having found that the Government of the Dominion has handled the tariff situation in such a business-like manner that our confidence in the future growth of Canada justifies us in making the necessary expenditure to publish in Canada, we will become Canadian in our Canadian operations. Therefore, we have incorporated a company under a dominion charter.

TARZAN OF THE APES, No. 29.

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The apes were more than content with Tarzan as their new king. Food was more plentiful. He settled all their disputes wisely. Next he moved the tribe from the place undefiled by the foot of a human being. But he spent more and more time away from the tribe.

He tired of the kingship and longed for his little cabin and the sunkissed sea. As he had grown older, he found his interests were different from those of the tribe. He now preferred the peace and seclusion of the cabin to his leadership duties among the band of wild apes.

He had still one enemy. Before he renounced his kingship of the apes, Tarzan wished to subdue the ugly Terkoz without recourse to knife or arrows. Terkoz one day offended the tribal law by stealing an old female and defying Tarzan's command to stop. So came they to that well-remembered fight!

Never had the ape-man fought so terrible a battle since that day when Bolgani, the king gorilla, had so horribly mangled him. But he won, though he did not kill his enemy. This time he spared after forcing Terkoz to cry, "Ka-goda" meaning, "I surrender!" and all the tribe heard—and marveled.

Tarzan let him up. Before darkness settled he called the old males about him. "Tarzan", he said, "is going back to the lair of his own people. You must choose another ruler. Tarzan will not rivalry."

Thus he started toward the goal, the finding of other white men like himself.

GRELLER WINS 3-MILE SWIM

Chicago Man Wins Consolation Event by Fast Sprint

Toronto, Sept. 12.—Sam Greller of Chicago, thickset swimmer who started with the leaders until cold slowed him out of the chilling men's three-mile swim, won first place in the consolation swim yesterday at the Exhibition in a nip and tuck fast finishing sprint, he just managed to stave off the final challenge of Jiji Radakovich of Philadelphia, completing a day of swimming for which Margaret Naylor, twice winner of the women's world championship, advised, in the three-mile win to Greller and Radakovich provided an exciting race for the full three miles, bunching diligent over the entire route until the last few hundred yards when they broke away in a final sprint.

Both swims were interesting. Leah Riley, Margaret Naylor and Evelyn Armstrong, all three recent finishers in the world's marathon, fighting for the leadership through the three miles. The Toronto girl improved her superiority at the last and Riley was forced to be content a second place to Armstrong. The finish between Miss Riley and Miss Naylor, Armstrong, Riley, Ruth Downing of Toronto, Anna Priller of Detroit, Cheryl Chestwood, Joan Reoch, Muriel Gregory, Joan Foord and Betty Crowley, 2200, 2200, 2100, earned respectively, $200, $200, $100, $70, $50, $40, $30 and $20.

The special swim winners finished as follows: Greller, Radakovich, Benjamin, Dr. Cecil Arnold, Bill Bellew, Gordon Spalding, Milton Potts of Hamilton, Jack Hunt and Ernest Vogel of New York. They received $300, $200, $150, $100, $75, $50, $40 and $25.

Kaye Don Will Soon Sail For England

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 12 (By The Canadian Press) — Kay Don's eventful visit to this continent will be ended Sept. 19 when he sails from New York on S.S. Majestic, it was disclosed yesterday.

The famous Irish driver has been in Toronto since yesterday when he placed his battered little white Miss Supermarine in dock at the Canadian National Exhibition. Tomorrow he will escape into the country for a few days rest, he says, probably golf or fishing, the first relaxation he has had since his foot went to the bottom of the Detroit river on Aug. 8 when he will leave for New York by train late Saturday Night.

Miss England II will probably be shipped to England on S.S. Duchess of Bedford next week. It was announced. She is now the centre of attraction for thousands of visitors at the Canadian National Exhibition. The term unphotographic where Mr. Don is sitting when the ship turned over and "dived" is the chief topic of conversation of those who seen the driver on his visit here.

Current Sport

By The Observer

As Andrew F. Brown, of Lanse 'n Andy, would say! "That's grabbers." In reference to Kingston's present stand in softball circles.

If our memory serves us right it is not more than three months ago that the softball people of Kingston came to Belleville begging to be admitted into the local league. Much against their better judgement the local executive agreed to help the Kingston team out by admitting them into the Bay of Quinte League. They could not form a league of their own.

At the present time the Kingston megaph can say no good of the local league. Perhaps when next year rolls around the Kingston teams will again seek admission into the local league. But the local executive entertains such an idea again, after the treatment they received this season from the eastern boosters and the Kingston Captials, they do not deserve much sympathy from the citizens of Belleville.

Prieriboro was the first town in Eastern Ontario to have girl's soft ball while Belleville followed the same year. There has been girls' soft-ball played in Belleville for about seven years now little or no trouble has been experienced in that time. But three years when they interminghed with the eastern towns. Unless all signs fail Belleville will have a stadium, with flood lights next season for soft ball and maybe bat-baseball. If this takes place undoubtedly the executive in power next year would be well of advised to stay out of the Eastern Association and operate their own little league that has carried on so well in past years.

Had the Bay of Quinte executive not taken the Kingston teams into their arms and helped them out this year the soft-ball situation would have been "nearly" in the Limestone City. After the treatment the local league has received to date, from the east they would be justified in turning down any dealings with the eastern part of the province next season.

The Bay of Quinte League is big enough to settle any differences that arise from time to to time, without the assistance outside help what-so-ever. All teams that played this season locally have signified their intentions of entering in 1932 again next season. So why should Belleville have to protect any other town in the future. The reason for the snoops of soft-ball in Belleville is the fact that one man does not run the whole league as in other places.

"Cliff" Smith, the B.A.A.A. pitcher, who broke his arm in Peterboro some time ago, is progressing as well as can be expected. The guy is very anxious as to whether or not he will be able to pitch again, so he is all wrapped up in the game.

This afternoon the Printers play a double-header in order to finish up the Belleville and District league. The Printers' Canadian team first and then take on the Foxboro nine. Both games will be played at the Cricket Field.

"Jim" Smith, one of the old time bare-knuckled prize fighters and once champion of England, died yesterday at the age of 68.. Smith can time fought 166 rounds on an island in France, but darkness fell and the bout was called a draw. Those were the days of the absence of boxing gloves and fighting was illegal.

All roads lead to Napanee today. The first game of the intermediate semi-finals between Gilnacik of Napanee and North Bay is being played this afternoon. The return game will be played in North Bay next Wednesday afternoon.

Stanley Stasiak, the Pullen Line wrestler, is in much worse condition than was ascertained when he received the local hospital. His arm at present is about twice the size it should be and the fans of Toronto expected on the big wrestler Thursday. His condition was as well as could be expected last evening.

BOONE FALLS OFF SLIGHTLY

He still Leads Fields in Hitting for Season

New York, N.Y., Sept. 13—Kiki Boone's hitting, which has done so much toward keeping Newark in the top of the International League heap, fell off a bit last week but the Bear's ace still is a few points ahead of his nearest rival. The semi-official records which include Wednesday's games show a .357 average for Boone, 13 points lower than his mark of a week before but still three ahead of Dixie Walker of Toronto.

There seems to be no letup, however, in the fast hitting slugging of Ray Pepper of Rochester. Although he holds no better than third place in the averages with .350 mark, Pepper is first in scoring with 114 runs, in total hits with 211, in trip les with 17 and is second to Gill of Baltimore in batting in runs with 135 accounted for. Gill has driven home 134.

The only other first places which Pepper has not captured go to Joe Hauser, who finally has passed Ollie Tucker of Buffalo in the home run race by clouting 36, and Rabbit Wilkinson of Reading who has hit 43 doubles. Tucker still is close behind in homers with 36 to his credit. Gill has a couple of second places in the lists to add to his one first. He is running close to Pete with 201 and in doubles with 43. Jersey City has contributed to the second with 15 triples while Boyle of Baltimore has annexed first honors to trail Pepper in hits.

Joe Hauser could still holds a big margin in base stealing, having copped 22 sacks while Matthews of Reading is second with 11.

Nearly all the slugging leaders have been near the top of the batting lists, where only 30 points separates the leading trio from the tenth man. Strong is fourth at .348 and Gill fifth with .347. Then comes Quellich, Newark, .336; Boone, Newark, .333; Wiseman, Reading, .332; Tucker, Buffalo .330 and Coville, Jersey City .327.

Newark, the league leader, and the sixth place Reading boys are tied for the club batting lead with .288 averages. Montreal still is first in fielding with a mark of .978.

Johnny Allen, who has pitched for both Jersey City and Toronto this season, heads pitching list with 21 victories and seven defeats for a .750 average. Myles Thomas of Newark and Ken Holloway of Baltimore are tied for second place. Each has won 15 games and lost six for .714 marks.

TWO LEADERS BOTH VICTORS

Bears and Redwings Are Only One Point Apart

(By The Associated Press)

One of the oldest International League races in history finds the Newark Bears and Rochester Red Wings separated by the narrow margin of one percentage point and maintaining victory for as they have since yesterday.

Both contenders were victorious yesterday, Newark making certain of its first place lead by whipping Baltimore while Rochester trounced the Toronto Maple Leafs 16-5 for its eighth successive victory.

Newark just managed to stave off defeat at Baltimore. The Bears, scoring one run in the first inning and adding five more in the fifth when Lloyd Brown blasted Weaver from the box apparently had the situation well in hand as Johnny Berman held the Orioles scoreless for six innings. In the seventh, however, Baltimore drove Berman from the box and scored four times on three hits, three walks and a hit batsman. In the ninth the Orioles counted once more and had the tying run on base with Stuart's long fly to centre field ended the contest. De Bonne Stuart ed the only homer of the game.

Rochester had no time in settling the issue with Toronto, scoring eight times in the second inning on seven hits and a few walks by Guy Cantwell and Art Weish. Nick Mamaliga finally was called in to halt the slaughter and pitched creditably the rest of the way although it was a lost cause. Ray Starr held the Leafs to four hits after Cantwell's bat was relieved by Buck Foreman in the eighth but the damage had the first three men to face him. The Red Wings batting list for the game added two more counters in the fifth when Mamaliga singled to make the score a bit more presentable. Seventeen players were handed out, eight of them Starr, George Pipgras and the hitters with a double and three singles.

Home runs by Doljack, Krasovich and Cantwell and the pitching of Keys down Jersey City, 6-3 although it took a nine-run rally in the ninth to turn the trick. Matthews, Reading centrefielder, socked out a double, triple and two singles. Both Misner of Jersey City and Griffin of Reading were hit hard but tightened up in the pinches.

Glasgow, Scotland, is to have air mail collection boxes.

AMUSEMENTS

"BROADMINDED" SCORES AT THE CAPITOL

Last night Joe E. Brown almost raised the Capitol roof when he appeared in "Broadminded" at the Midnight Frolic, at the Capitol.

Today this rapid-fire comedian will again be seen in the funniest film of the year.

Always a favourite with the Belleville movie fans, he has never been so funny as Cash Simpson, a thickly girl-conscious, who by an odd twist of fate, has been put in charge of a wealthy playboy, whose father wants to get him out of reach of a blonde, who is determined to acquire him as a means to getting possession of dad's millions.

The two beat it westward in a Baby Austin—and wrecks—rescues complications with her feminine menaces—a thousand and one mixups go to make this absolute riot.

Joe E. Brown, of course, keeps the laugh ball rolling throughout, and he is ably assisted by Ona Munson and William Collier Jr.

"Broadminded" is delightful nonsense, the sort that is relished by the wisest men. Joe. E. Brown's comedy will be realized by the whole family, so decide now to get a full dose of blue-tonic either today or Monday at the Capitol. The performance commence daily at 2.30, 7.15 and 9.15, and a supporting programme of comedy cartoon and News will-be in evidence at each performance.

"TRAVELLING HUSBANDS" ON TUESDAY

"Evelyn Brent, a girl who has passed through many pictures into talkies with full honours, and a girl who has a distinctive screen character, is the lead in "Travelling Husbands," the new drama due at the Capitol on Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Travelling Husbands" tells 'of what happens when salesman-husbands get on the highroad of overnight hiking. Suffice it with definite, this expose of the life of a travelling salesman is fraught with tension culminating in tragedy, betrayal and an element of gay action which will be appreciated by adult audiences.

Manager Holmes recommends this picture to adults only, and parents are advised to accompany their children when visiting the Capitol on Tuesday or Wednesday, next week, when "Travelling Husbands" will be shown.

BROOK, RAMSEAU, SHANNON COLLECT "SHRIEK" HONORS

Condemned to death, spending his last few hours on earth cooped up in a cell, the audience of 1,000 lawyers, shunned by his fellow men, when all that stands between him and freedom is a jury, all of which he looks scarcely behind his nightly incarceration.

That is the tense, suspenseful opening scene of "Silence" in which Clive Brook, Marjorie Rambeau, Peggy Shannon and Clarence Nasry are seen at the Belle where this super-crook-drama is coming in final exhibition tonight. And from the exciting opening shot, the eventful Mae Marsh play is filled with thrill after thrill, exciting episode through its dramatic climax.

"Silence" is one drama that never slows down. It is filled from start to gripping action from start to finish. Brook, as the super-criminal, reviews his net-to-evil and lawless career, the career which brought ruin and disgrace to the woman who truly loved him; up to the time when his daughter, grown to happy young womanhood is ensnared by the sins of her father's past. The plot is tremendously real; it turns a man's soul inside out, and records the awakening of father love in a heart calloused by a life of crime.

The story of the picture covers a period of about twenty years, and is highly interesting, also as a psychological review of the times through which many of the present generation have lived.

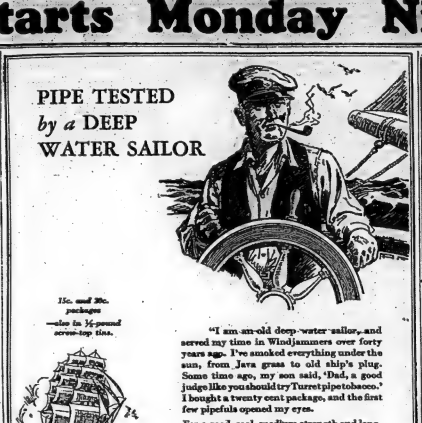
BORZAGE'S "BAD GIRL" BEST SINCE HIS "SEVENTH HEAVEN"

Norbert Lusk, the noted New York photoplay critic, speaks in the following glowing terms of Vina Delmar's story, "Bad Girl," commencing at the Belle Monday, after a sensational three weeks' engagement at the Roxy Theatre, New York:

"Unquestionably the big picture of the week is "Bad Girl." The Roxy Theatre is crowded as it has not been in months and laughter both tender and boisterous is heard in a house which often receives the ex tra of professional comedians in silence. And this from a picture that is humdrum in its circumstances and its characters.

"But what might be defects under other conditions are transformed into extraordinary virtues by realism, humanness and sympathy. Thus a picture that might easily have been dull becomes a box-office attraction of the first order replete with the qualities that lift a film from routine into inspired workmanship.

"It is rarely necessary to add that Frank Borzage is recognized as the dominant force behind the first big hit of the new season and is praised accordingly, although this does not mean that the player or the director is to be credited solely for his contribution to what is considered a perfect whole, with especial emphasis on Edwin Burke's dialogue.



"Human Derrick" Will Perform on Monday

Big time vaudeville acts will be a feature of the Kiwanis Karnival and the grand opening will take place on Monday at noon. Hardman "the Human Derrick" will exhibit feats of strength before those, who will line the main thoroughfares. This man does not know his own strength and some of his feats are almost incredible but he performs them without resource to trickery of any kind. The lighting of cigars, cigarettes and the drawing of a fleet of motor cars with his teeth. How many the Kiwanis Committe have asked to have his draw has not been officially announced but they will ask him to draw plenty. Of course the new will be loaded with human freight. Be on hand Monday at noon on Front Street and see this marvelous performance. Hardman with his stable of high class vaudeville programme, that is to be given on the stage in the evening.

ACCUSED SON RECOVERS

Alliston, Ont., Sept. 12.—Wesley Campbell, 56, who is in hospital here facing a charge of the murder of his father, William Campbell, is making a good recovery. The younger Campbell, who was discovered shortly after his father's battered body was found, will probably be present at the inquest to be held September 18.

A Headliner In Fall Hats

"I am an old deep water sailor, and served my time in Windjammers over forty years ago. I've smoked everything under the sun, from Java grass to old ship's plug. Some time ago, my son said, 'Dad, a good judge like you should try Turret pipe tobacco.' I bought a two-ounce tin package, and the first few pipefuls opened my eyes.

For a good, cool, medium strength and long-burning tobacco, without any burning of the tongue, Turret pipe tobacco is the best that I have smoked in all my experiences, of forty years."

New soft colour tones are noted in men's headwear for this Fall and brims are just a trifle wider. The crown too is an iota deeper but these are the only changes announced for the coming season.

LABORATORY REPORT UPON INSECT TEST

Entomological Bureau Carries on Extensive Work

RESULTS GIVEN

In the annual report by Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, a synopsis of the work done at the Entomological Branch in this city is given. The report in this department reads in part:

Practical operations are being conducted with the following pests in the regions indicated:—

European Corn Borer (Pyrausta nubilalis Hbn.) Ontario and Quebec.

Oriental Peach Moth (Laspeyresia molesta Busck) Ontario.

Lewis Mite (Tyspanotarsus schlechtendali, Nalepa) Manitoba and Ontario.

Meadow Mouse (Microtus pennsylvanicus Ord.) Ontario.

Wheat Stem Sawfly (Cephus cinctus Norton) Manitoba.

Lesser Peach Borer (Synanthedon pictipes Grote & Robinson) Ontario.

Grain Aphis (Toxoptera graminum Rond.) Ontario.

Smith Moth (Scirpophaga nobilella L.) British Columbia.

Cabbage Maggot (Pegomya brassicae Bouche) Ontario.

European Earwig (Forficula auricularia L.) British Columbia.

Woolly Aphis (Eriosoma lanigerum Hausm.) Ontario.

European Pine Shoot Moth (Rhyacionia buoliana Schiff.) Ontario.

Grasshopper White Fly (Trialeurodes vaporariorum Westw.) Ontario.

In the case of all of the above insects, except the European Corn Borer, the parasites have been introduced and colonized, recoveries of the parasites have been made indicating that they are becoming established. It is expected that it will be several years before the practical value of the introduction will be appeared. It should be borne in mind that in the case of insects that are widely distributed in the only cost, and in comparison to the value of the crop, should be spread over a period of years.

The laboratory property at Belleville was acquired by the Department in the fall of 1930. It is located at the eastern entrance to the city on the Kingston highway, and was originally a three storey solid brick residence. The small brick shed adjoining. These have been completely repointed and modified to suit present requirements. The laboratory proper comprises a floor area of 1,200 divided into three large rooms, eight rooms on the ground floor, eight rooms on the second floor and the third floor with three rooms and two tower rooms.

The four front rooms on ground floor, also the rooms at offices and the remaining space is given over to general laboratory work rooms and storage. An electric refrigerator, the gift of the Department, 6' x 8' x 7', provides storage space for a large number of material, and a smaller box capable of maintaining low temperatures is used for various experiments. An electric superheating chamber, 8' x 8' x 6', for the fumigation of insectaries and material as desired, and a fumigation apartment greenhouse immediately adjoining the laboratory. The laboratory will provide facilities for winter and spring rearing and propagations for food of host insects. For-eign insect material is handled in large screen cages in tightly screened rooms provided for this purpose and special provision is made incubation chambers have been built in the basement apartments of the different species studies.

The greenhouse affords space for much experimental work and permits of the extension of facilities required from time to time to cover special problems.

Straw Stack of Hinde & Dauch Burns

Tyrrion, Sept. 13—Lighting the skies for miles around, one of the largest blazes ever seen in the town of Tyrrion broke out about 11 p.m. last night and burnt one of the straw stacks on the property of Hinde and Dauch plant. There were about 100 feet long, 40 feet wide and tower as high as 80 feet in the air. One of these huge piles of straw caught fire last evening on the property of Hinde and Dauch Paper Company, and the firemen of that town, fought the flames until five a.m. this morning before they could get the fire under control.

It is thought that the recent heat wave had caused the outbreak of fire by spontaneous combustion as a distinct explosion was heard just previous to the outbreak of flames. The Tyrrion fire department worked long and hard to keep the fire from spreading to the nearby buildings and other straw stacks. The stack was lowered to the ground by the blaze. It is believed that the loss is covered by insurance.

Young Rifleman Warned By Police

Friday evening about seven o'clock an eleven year old boy was shooting himself discharging an air rifle on Brock Street. Neighbors became alarmed, as there were many children playing in the vicinity, and informed the police. Constable Gow brought the little fellow to the station and Sergeant Harmer reprimanded him. The rifle, it is said, was loaned to the boy by an older person who is being held by the police.

BELIZE BURIES STORM DEAD

Eleven U. S. Priests and 18 Native Students Trapped

Belize, British Honduras, Sept. 13—Belize, home of 13,000 persons, dervished itself today to burying the dead and ministering to the living injured, victims of a hurricane that devastated the city Thursday.

More than 25 persons are feared entombed to have lost their lives in the storm and flooding tidal wave which at one still were being unearth-ed. Many were injured, hundreds left homeless. Seventy percent of the city was levelled with heaps of debris, unscathed were every church in ruins.

Starting at 2.30 p.m., the disturbance raged for about three hours with a calm period of thirty minutes. It was immediately followed by a tidal wave that accounted for most of the dead and left water from five to nine feet high in the streets.

11 U.S. Priests Killed

The dead included eleven United States Catholic Priests and 18 native students, whose vessel trapped when St. John's College, a Jesuit institution, was razed.

Total damage was estimated as well over $3,000,000. Most of the communications were broken and medical supplies were drenched when food and rain, Governor-General Wallace Government House was wrecked, but the home of the Mexican Consul was unscathed.

Governor Sir J. A. Burdon finally got out a radio message to London asking that a British battleship be sent with medical supplies and food for the victims.

A gang of convicts was put to digging trenches to receive the dead and the road to the cemetery was cleared for traffic.

It is estimated that the average havit is worth $30 a year to farmers.

Suggests The Strap For Drunken Driver:

Toronto, Sept. 12—Punishment by the strap for drunken drivers was suggested by Mrs. W. Pugsley, who was the chief speaker at the program arranged by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, in the Women's Building at the Exhibition yesterday afternoon.

Expressing that she did not mean the cat-o'-nine-tails, which was brutal, Mrs. Pugsley recalled the opinions of judges that corporal punishment had been a greater deterrent to repeated offence than had imprisonment or fines.

BRINGING UP FATHER, By George McManus

THE GAY BANDIT OF THE BORDER

by
TOM GILL

CHAPTER VII.

"It must have been late that night when Bob returned, for Ratcliffe saw no more of him until the following morning when, as they sat over a late breakfast, Dr. Price joined them for coffee and a smoke.

"No pants or scandal—" the doctor laughed and threw himself into a chair—"except that the major still believes I had something to do with the escape of that Mexican. Just now he's all overheated about catching El Coyote."

Ted looked up. "No one seems to agree about this bandit. Is he really a killer?"

The doctor nodded over his coffee. "Sure. He has to be. You've got to remember El Coyote is an absolutely logical individual. He is a deadly kind of logic. Whoever endangers his fight against the system dies."

"But just what is the system that El Coyote hates so?"

"Over across the line," Price answered slowly, "the man who owns an acre or twenty acres is little better than a vassal of the big fellow. Your big fellow dictates. Your little man wants to run a few head of cattle; wants to raise a handful of food about his ranch; wants to have a hoe. The big man, with his cowborn, forces the little fellow down from the waterholes, over-rides the best of his crops, tramples his fields. What can the little fellow do? The law—there's no law down here that can take cattle from the range against one of three well-entrenched lords of the land. Look what happened night before last. Morales has finally succeeded in getting the United States government to declare El Coyote an outlaw. It makes two damned tired. What we are really doing is protecting Morales' herd and sheltering it until he owns every head, body and soul."

"How does Morales go about it?"

"In a thousand ways. But there are plenty of ways of bullying a lone man and his family when you have a hundred cowboys at your back. Ways of making his waterholes unfit to drink, and ways of stampeding his steers or driving them across his farm crops. They've all been tried. There have been clashes and a few shooting. And the little fellow always got the worst of it until El Coyote came. Then one day he appeared, no man knows how, no one knows where—gathered a band of followers, and served notice that the border country was meant for men, not cattle."

"But can he carry it through?"

"No one knows. Ben Hilden not long ago some of Morales's outfit set fire to the haystack of a farmer down in the valley and figured if they destroyed his cattle feed the farmer would have no more choice that would mean more range for Morales. Coyote somewhere got the word that unless Morales paid the farmer for his loss fire from Hell would regret it. Morales sat tight and laughed. He didn't believe any one could be so foolish as to tackle him. Well, we all waited, pretty sure something would blow up. The following week two of Morales's barns were burned, and a dozen head of cattle. Morales' paymasters was halted and exactly five hundred pesos taken. Not any too less, just five hundred pesos." Price paused. "It's the thing that keeps the heart beating in the little rancher's breast."

"Where did this does Adela know?" Radcliffe asked after a little pause.

Price shrugged his heavy shoulders. "Well, after all, one doesn't tell a girl that her uncle is a damned scoundrel. Adela herself has done much to help the people, and they adore her. Half of the girl babies around the hacienda are named after her. That may be why she is different from any girl I have ever known. At times she is very Spanish, at times almost American. I've known her since she was a long-legged kid, riding the widest of her uncle's horses and sweating like one of his vaqueros. You've only seen her on her good behavior. Watch her when someone crosses the will of the little tyrant, Adela, Bob."

"Just where does this man Jito fit into the picture?"

Price smiled and looked toward Don Bob. "Border rumor has it he's a kid-brother of Morales," Bob replied. "At any rate, it's certain he's chief help for Morales. Jito is a man of some education, and famous throughout the border for his strength. You'll see him at the cantina soon at the fiesta. A great bulk of a man, but fat. I should say, perhaps heavier, with a thick, bull neck and a pleasant smile and a way of making himself feared by every person he sees until he's feared."

"He lives at Morales's hacienda?" Ted asked.

Don Bob nodded. "Surely. Morales entrusts all his affairs to him. He's a kind of general manager over there. It's a perfect combination in that Jito has the brains and Jito the courage and brawn."

"I'm stunned if it would," Radcliffe burst out.

Both men looked up in mild surprise. "Why not?"

"I should it be fitting for a girl like Adela to marry a hired bully!"

"You do Jito an injustice, old son," Bob answered. "He's much more than that. Jito is a born leader, even if his methods are crude. He is a man absolutely without fear, glorying in his great physical strength. As a matter of fact, it is the utter dread these border people have for Jito that is old Morales's trump card."

For a moment Ted was silent, his eyes fixed on the desert sky. "Then one or two ways to strike at Morales would be through Jito," he answered thoughtfully.

Price and Bob been watching Radcliffe. He saw the long line of Ted's jaw tighten and the eyes grow hard. The doctor rose. "Whoever strikes at Jito, or Morales either, must be prepared for everything from persecution to cold, relentless murder. Those two could turn all hell loose on an enemy."

Then once more he looked at the big, brooding man before him and reached for his hat. "I'm off with him back," the doctor added. "By the Lord, I need it."

CHAPTER VIII.

Unrest like a formless cloud had been spreading throughout the border country. None knew what plans and conspiracies lay behind it. None knew when the storm would break, or where, but throughout the last winter the name of El Coyote had never been far from the minds of the border ranchers. At Mendosa's cantina, that clearing house for all news of the desert, rumors came and went. Lean, silent horsemen rode in from the ranche, talked awhile, drank, and silently mount ed their horses again. Tanned men of the ranges passed each other with a nod of understanding, but only their grim spare, of things their lips found too dangerous to voice. Meanwhile from Verdi to the foothills and west to the little village of Dolor went the whispered word, "Prepare."

For days Morales' vaqueros had been making their way with a swagger of late to kick the dogsied mozo from their paths. In the cantinas and at the cantinas they kept apart, gathering in little groups, and riding the range in threes and fours instead of singly, and it soon became of these persistent rumors that whispered El Coyote was organizing the Mexican ranchers, that armed resistance was coming, and that the power of Morales was drawing to an end.

Wilder rumors still there were, that rose and died. Most of those whispered fantastic tales were baseless, but they all served one purpose. They were making the desert ranchers intolerant of the domination of Morales. Those once patient people—the men who had swept across their hearts, had changed them and left them looking with new eyes out over the far horizon and thoughtfully fingering the knives at their belts.

Already, hard there, in little villages, a few leaders spoke more boldly, men who all but said they were under the protection of El Coyote and were ready to follow him in any act of strength against the power of Morales. Even in Verdi there were those who hinted that this man or that was a leader of El Coyote's band, but none said it openly. Meanwhile those vague clouds of impending conflict deepened, and the vaqueros of Morales continued to ride in threes and fours.

At length, among a few of these leaders and among the ranchers who could be trusted, word went out of a meeting to be held at the Cantina Azul, a little tavern by the crossroads south of Verdi.

Labor M.P.'s Daughter Makes Her Debut

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 11.—By The Canadian Press)—Miss Grace Woodsworth, daughter of J. S. Woodsworth, Labor Member of Parliament for Winnipeg north centre, made her debut last night as a political speaker at a branch meeting of the Independent Labor Party. She has been acting in the capacity of secretary to her father, and attended many sittings of Parliament at the last session.

Speaking briefly and fluently, Miss Woodsworth reviewed the proceedings of the House and Senate her audience laugh uproariously at several prominent Parliamentarians. Her comments on the pre-election statements of Premier R. B. Bennett received particular attention.

Before he talked glibly then about there being no occasion for unemployment," she said, "he did not know what he was saying. He did not know his economics."

Prizes Awarded At School Fair For Township Of Thurlow

SCHOLARS OF THURLOW STAGE EXHIBITION AT CANNIFTON

Scenes of Keenest Interest and Rivalry Are Witnessed

AWARDS MADE

Apparently oblivious to the swelter-ing heat hundreds of students, their parents and friends attended the annual School Fair for Thurlow Township, yesterday, Representing seventeen schools the exhibits assembled in quantity those of previous years although the unfavorable summer weather was responsible for the smaller quantities shown. Production was keen. The adult spectators were as anxious to learn the results of judging as the young exhibitors. The programme for the afternoon was a matter of great enjoyment, participants and onlookers leaving the fair-ground head till the last event was over.

At ten o'clock Friday morning the fair opened with a judging competition in poultry and cooking. Teams of pupils anxiously went over the points of exhibits in these classes, marked those they thought worthy of prizes and waited for their work to be criticized.

The afternoon's programme began with the School Parade. Pupils of each school in the competition lined up with their banner and flag and marched about the grounds. Several had fancy costume touches although this year not necessary to say bandanas, sweat bands, and other unusual bobes made the parade an interesting one. School choruses were then heard, followed by Mcadowtown Marching Accordion Band.

The exhibits in the different classes were on display in one of the agricultural buildings. Here samples and merited high awards. The judges were several hours completing the judging, so close were the competition in several classes.

When the doors were finally opened to the public after judging there was wild excitement as children and parents crowded in to see the prize winning exhibits. Excitement was high as "my first prize" or cackled "Mary got a second for cooking" or "There's mine, I knew it I didn't get any prizes" were heard on all sides.

Exhibits were then taken down, excepting first and second prize winners which are placed in Stirling to be displayed in the championship display.

School trustees from the various sections: Public School Inspector W. J. Clarke, A. O. Wilson, Agricultural Representative, were among the visitors in Canniff yesterday.

..there is only one IRON FIREMAN

Get Iron Fireman results ..

..accept no lesser machine

THERE IS ONLY ONE Iron Fireman. The pre-eminent success of Iron Fireman is the result of a vast and unduplicated background of engineering research and laboratory studies in combustion.

The Iron Fireman record of performance is being demonstrated every day by thousands of satisfied owners. Their fuel cost records, carefully kept, show Iron Fireman savings of 15 to 50 per cent and more, in fuel costs alone. Their enthusiastic and voluntary testimony is convincing proof that Iron Fireman cuts fuel costs, reduces labor costs, eliminates smoke, maintains steady, even room temperature or boiler pressure, and increases plant and home heating efficiency by supplying steady, unvarying temperatures and pressures.

The Iron Fireman Manufacturing Company is a large national and international organization of known financial standing, with a continuous record of successful operation and steady growth—the pioneer in its field.

The Iron Fireman is manufactured in a plant which is the equal in equipment and workmanship skill of any machine-producing plant in America. The large and constantly increasing volume of sales makes possible continuous laboratory tests and research on a scale which maintains Iron Fireman leadership in the industry.

The finest of engineering talent originates, tests, and perfects the many features that have placed Iron Fireman in its unchallenged position of mechanical supremacy.

Hundreds of Iron Fireman dealers in principal cities of the United States and Canada assure nation-wide service to Iron Fireman owners. As dealers for the Iron Fireman for this district, we are proud to know that we can give our customers the machine which, over a dollar of investment, will yield them the greatest and surest net cash return.

When you buy an Iron Fireman you know that you are doing business with a solid and reliable organization whose past, present and future success is bound up in two words—customer Satisfaction.

Better test for less money is the job Iron Fireman guarantees to do for your home, or business or institution. Made in sizes to fire heating and power plants up to 250 boiler h. p. : : : sold on convenient terms.

Let our engineer call and survey your plant and render a report that fairly and accurately contrasts your present results and costs with results and costs you may expect from an Iron Fireman. Ask us for this service. It is free.

KARNIVAL IN SHAPE FOR GRAND OPENING AT THE ARMOURIES

Program of Superior Class Offered Those Who Attend

VAUDEVILLE

On Monday night the doors of the Kiwanis Karnival will swing open on this important annual event. A stroll through the armouries today would convince any one that the Karnival was never in better shape for the grand opening than this year. A beautiful new stage setting has been erected for the Fashion Show and stage program, and when the Belleville mannequins wearing the new fall garments by Wotten's Limited step to the, for at 7:30 on Monday night the public will be assured of a real style treat.

This year the Kiwanis Committee have decided to present more and better vaudeville, with the result that real high class Big Time acts have been booked for one night stands only, and there will be absolutely new acts and complete change of programme every night with an extra good show arranged for opening night.

The merchants and manufacturers have co-operated wonderfully well with the Karnival committee and the entire auditorium is a real picture with the gaily decorated display exhibits.

On Monday noon a novel feature in the advertising part of the Karnival will be the prince in Belleville of "Hardmin the Human Dervish". At the noon hour he will display his wonderful strength on Front Street and one of his feats will be to draw a train of motor cars down the street without assistance. He will also perform great strength feats at the evening performances.

This year there will be two prizes awarded as door prizes each evening. The one prize will be drawn for at 10 o'clock, the other will be a prize guessing contest. The merchants who are staging the style show will show 42 garments each evening and the person who guesses nearest the total selling price of all the garments will be awarded a $5.00 cash prize the following night. Guessing slip will be available at the door and must be placed in box on night of draw. Employees of the stores exhibition will of course be barred.

Start Monday night and put the Karnival over the top—Kiwanis need your help to face up the corners of the charity fund, for a strenuous winters work.

Obituary

MRS. WILLIAM CANNING

Suffering from a malady that human aid could not check, Elizabeth Ramsay, beloved wife of William Canning, 16 Hillside Street, passed away in the Belleville General Hospital shortly after six o'clock Saturday morning. She had been unconscious for the past three days and did not rally. The deceased has been in ailing health for some time and at holiday time four weeks ago went with her husband to visit her parents in Actinolite. Returning home on a Saturday, she suffered from a severe pain in the head and on Monday was removed to the General Hospital. In the early part of her sickness, it was expected that she would recover, but the past week she gradually grew worse and death came peacefully today.

The late Mrs. Canning was born in Actinolite, 36 years ago, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ramsay. After completing her public and high school course in Madoc, she moved to Napanee, where she was a valued member of the T. B. Wallace Drug Company. Upon her marriage to her bereaved husband, she moved to Belleville and for the past eight years has been a highly respected resident of this city. The deceased moved in the younger married set and was deservedly popular with all classes. A member of Christ Church she was actively engaged in all branches of the work. She is survived a husband, her parents, one brother, James Ramsay of Actinolite and one sister, Mrs. James Donahue, of Madoc.

Gandhi's Day of Silence Does Not Prevent His Writing Notes on Paper Colorful Scene as Parley Opens

Curious Mixture of Dress and Customs at Congress

GANDHI "SNAPPED"

Wears Loin Cloth, Shawl and Sandals, and Smiles

(By George Hambleton)

(Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Sept. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable)—In loin cloth, homespun shawl and sandals, Mahatma Gandhi smilingly stepped from a motor car today, crossed the pavements and entered St. James' Palace. Behind him were Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, former president of the Indian National Congress, and a secretary who, after ostentatiously clutched a vacuum flask.

Gandhi thus joined the Federal Structures Committee of the Indian Round Table, on the opening day, but Monday is his day of silence. He will listen, but he will say nothing. Any comments he may have to make on the proceedings will be on slips of paper.

Curious Contrasts

In the fitful sunlight of a London September the gathering of delegates presented curious contrasts. The high, nasty Pundit, whose religion penalizes the touch of the great water, was followed closely by representatives of those depressed classes who may not even draw water at the council village well. Mrs. Subbarayan, the first woman to sit on the Federal Structure Committee, came on foot, dressed in the native Princes.

Sir Samuel Hoare, the new Secretary of State for India, stepped from a "baby" car that seemed very modest among the expensive limousines of the Indian Princes.

The press photographers were there in force to record the scene for film men. They had a wild dash at the last moment. As it arrived at the usual time at the entrance to St. James', Gandhi's car was suddenly diverted by the police. It was switched around rapidly to the other side of the Palace by prearrange entrances. Rushing through the Courtyard, the photographers got there just in time.

Rousseau Parley

The Federal Structures Committee has before it the long and difficult task of drafting a constitution for a federated India. It resumes where the committee left off last January. The presence of Gandhi at the meeting means, however, rounds out a representative gathering of Indians.

Inside, Gandhi sat to the left of Lord Sankey, Lord Chancellor, who is Chairman of the Committee. Pundit Malaviya was at Gandhi's left.

Who Are Who on Indian Round Table Parley

London, Sept. 14 (Canadian Press Cable)—Including eight representatives of the three British political parties, there are 36 members in the Federal Structures Committee, the joint important committee of the enlarged Indian round table conference. The conference opens today but will not meet for some time, although the Federal Structures Committee commenced its discussions today, seeking to draft a constitution for a federated India. The draft will be submitted for the consideration of the conference for approval and subsequently to the British Parliament.

With the inclusion of Mahatma Gandhi and other newcomers, the committee is completely representative. The members are as follows:

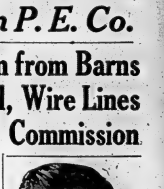
Indian States—Maharajah Gaekwar of Baroda; Maharajah of Bikaner; the Nawab of Bhopal; the Maharajah of Nawa; the Chief Sahib of Sangli; Nawab Sir Muhammad Akbar Hydari; Sir Mirza Muhammad Ismail and Col. K. N. Haksar.

Hindus—Mahatma Mandhek Gandhi; Rangaswami Iyengar, editor "The Hindu"; M. R. Jayakar, Hindu Mahasabha; Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya, leader Hindu Nationalists.

Moslems—M. A. Jinnh; Dr. Shafaat Ahmed Khan; Sir Muhammed Shafi; Sir Sayed Sultan Ahmed.

Devastation Left In Wake Of Storm In P. E. Co.

FAMOUS AIR GIANT TO BE SCRAPPED FOR ECONOMY'S SAKE



To the millions of Canadians who had the good fortune to witness the British air monarch, R-100, in flight over Eastern Canada following her Atlantic trip a year ago, the news that she is to be scrapped as part of the MacDonald's "drastic economy" plan, will be received with great regret. It seems a pity after spending more than $2,000,000 in her construction, that the British Air Ministry have to make such a drastic move. Above are two familiar pictures taken in Montreal, showing the giant dirigible anchored to the airship mast at St. Hubert, and a close-up of the cat-walk by which passengers and crew board the airship.

Roofs Blown from Barns Trees Felled, Wire Lines Put Out of Commission

Wind of Almost Cyclonic Fury Strikes Prince Edward County

RAIN POURS DOWN

Cars Magnetized on High way and Traffic is Held Up

BLIND JUSTICE

Jean Lacas, of Mount Carmel, Ill., served 23 years in the Chester prison for a murder which it is now claimed another man committed. George Pond, 64, confessed on his death-bed that he killed the man for whose violent death Lacas served his long stretch. His apparent victim of blind justice is shown as he looks today.

The heavy rainfall Sunday night and Monday morning relief to the sweltering populace but in some districts adjacent to Belleville the rain was accompanied by a fierce electrical disturbances which in some cases caused damage. Such was the visitation of Mountain View, Prince Edward Co., and Shannonville, east of Belleville, the storm was the heaviest and longest many have known. Rain came down, while some roofs were blown off barns.

Roofs Lifted

The storm centred in the southwest and levelled over three miles of Hastings County, then swung east over Shannonville and buried itself out Mountain View. At the northern part of the district near Belleville but little rain fell. The air was cleared by the rainfall and residents for the first time in a week were able to enjoy a night's sleep, due to moderation in the temperature.

Near Mountain View on the farm run by Percy Jones and owned by J. D. Longwell of Toronto, the roof of the barn was torn off by the high winds at the height of the cyclonic proportions. The roof of the west barn on the James Anderson farm was also blown off, while trees were blown and strewn across the telephone lines of the Bell-Ontario-Sprague line. The long distance lines in some places were put out of commission but according to officials of the Bell Telephone Company today the trouble was cleared early today and the lines are in good working condition.

Trees Blown Down

A tree also fell over the long distance line three miles east of Shannonville and was reported with the result the trouble was soon cleaned up. Cars on the highway between Belleville and Shannonville had a hard time navigating that district on the height of the storm. The rain came down in sheets and it was impossible to drive a car with safety. One car was magnetized by the lightning, the juice between the timers and battery and stopped on the road. The electrical energy soon returned to the car and it was able to proceed under its own power.

Weather Moderates

The storm abated somewhat considerably after the rain storm and it is believed the worst part of the storm is broken. The thermometer has soared during the past week. Past records that have stood for years were broken. In places on Front Street on Sunday afternoon, pedestrians showed as high as 110 in the sun. The official reading at the pump house for Sunday was 96 and high and 65 for low. On Saturday the high was 86 and the low 64. Today the highest recorded was 81 and the lowest 60. A nice shower fell early today to further help moderate the temperature.

Brockville Water Supply Condemned

BOTTLE BOOZE UPON PULPIT

Peppery Preacher Almost Starts Another Riot

Jonesboro, Ark., Sept. 14.—This little northeast Arkansas city apparently resumed normal routine today following withdrawal of National Guard troops brought here to quell disorders developing from factional strife in the First Baptist Church.

Generally the town was quiet under the protection of civil authorities and the office of Rev. Joe Hiers, peppery Baptist evangelist whose preachings have stirred the community, smiled serenely. Last night when he produced several bottles of purported-liquor at his services and announced he would burn over to police this "evidence" and the names of 25 Jonesboro bootleggers.

The town, thrown into a turmoil through the efforts of Rev. Hiers and the Rev. D. H. Heard, pastor of the First Baptist Church, awaited with interest but with less bitter feeling latest developments in Jeffers' attacks from his tent tabernacle on Jonesboro vice and Jonesboro citizens.

PREDICTS 500 MILES AN HOUR

British Aeronauts Are Disappointed With Ruling

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 14.—Capt. Frank Hawks, speed flyer, predicted today that the new speed record set in the Schneider Cup races in England yesterday would be surpassed next year, if the competition were continued, and that 500 miles-an-hour velocity would come within the next three or four years.

"But I believe," he added, "that there is a limit to how much wing surface can be cut down to advance decreased and motor power stepped up to attain such speeds. Unless man devises some radical changes in the aeroplane, velocities higher than 500 miles must come in some lighter medium above the earth, like the stratosphere."

Calshot, Eng., Sept. 14 (AP)—British aeronauts were surprised and somewhat disappointed today when it was announced that the race to be submitted for official approval on account of the failure of Lieut. Stainforth's attack on the world's speed record yesterday will be 379.05 miles an hour instead of 281.1 as unofficially given out yesterday.

The reckoned figures still constitute a new world record, however. The error in yesterday's figures was in the failure of the watches by the timekeeper. To correct this, the regulations for speed of a Schneider cup plane must be established by an automatic timing device.

Sir John Will Advocate Protective Tariff Policy

May Not Champion Cause in Whole But in Part

CRISIS MEASURE

London, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Sir John Simon, long time Liberal free trader was credited in political circles today with the belief that the British economic situation demands a protective tariff policy.

He is expected to speak in favor of such a change during the debate on Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden's budget proposals Thursday. It was considered doubtful that he would champion the protectionist policy as a whole but it was believed that he would advocate temporary tariff imposts to restore the trade balance.

Canadian Favors Tariff

Manchester, Eng., Sept. 14 (AP)—The Manchester Chamber of Commerce, traditional centre of the British free trade movement, today issued a statement demanding immediate adoption of tariffs.

The Board of this Chamber," the statement said "is of the opinion that restriction of imports is at present necessary. It believes that the only immediate practicable effective method of achieving this end is by the imposition of a system of tariffs and it earnestly hopes that such a system will be introduced as soon as possible."

The statement was issued not long after the Daily Mail had appeared with a statement by Lord Inchcape, merchant and shipowner, who wrote that "in the present condition to admit the expedience of a tariff to protect industry and agriculture."

Sir John Simon, Liberal free trader, also is believed, to have swung over to the protective tariff policy and it is understood that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has appointed a cabinet committee to take up the whole question of Great Britain's adverse trade balance. Such a committee would investigate various suggestions for remedies including possible action to establish a ban on luxury imports.

Jellicoes Thank People of City of Toronto

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 14 (CP) — Thanks for the hospitality extended him by the city of Toronto were expressed in a telegram from Earl Jellicoe, Admiral of the Fleet, received today by Mayor Stewart.

"I am glad to say that my daughter is now out of danger and on the road to recovery," the telegram added, "and my boy has quite got over his slight operation. May I ask if you would be so good as to convey to the people of Toronto my gratitude for the most efficient motorcycle escort which I was honored during my stay in Toronto."

A letter received from Lady Jellicoe reads in part as follows:

"Lord Jellicoe is still very tired, but I am hoping that by the time he gets to Scotland he will be feeling quite fit again. I must take this opportunity of saying how sorry I was my time in Toronto was cut short.

As prussic acid in any concentrated form was not known until comparatively recent times, according to the ancients, only fairly dilute forms were acquainted with which was capable of producing sudden death.

BURY STASIAK AT CAMBRIDGE

Body Will Be Shipped From Belleville Tonight

Numbers have visited the Funeral Home of the Belleville Burial Company to view the body of Stanley Stasiak, who passed away on the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday night from septicaemia. Today night by the Canadian National Railway, the body will be sent to Cambridge, Mass., for interment accompanied by his wife and spectators. Miss K. Evenson, who attended the deceased through his sickness, and a friend of his also attending the large casket had to be secured from Toronto and on arrival in Belleville the body will be transferred to a bronze casket. The funeral service will be held on Thursday. The valuable dogs owned by Mr. Stasiak are being taken to the States today by motor and will be kept at the deceased's home.

Mrs. Stasiak speaking to the Ontario Intelligencer today stated that her husband was always kind and considerate in all his actions, both to friend and foe. "He never enjoyed his home; he loved it," said Mrs. Stasiak. "At the time of a strenuous tour nothing better suited him than a visit to his home in Cambridge and enjoy the beauties that have been kind enough to him of years' standing. I don't think he had an enemy in the whole circumstance, as he was always fair and he possessed color." He was to the wrestling game what Babe Ruth is to baseball. Promoters were always willing to deal with him and he never let them down. He enjoyed the companionship of children and never was more at home, than when surrounded by a group of children with him about. It is a great personal loss to me but everyone in Belleville has been kind and the doctors at the Belleville Hospital and his physician in this city, could not have done more."

Hurricane Moves Westward With Increasing Speed

Situation at Belize May Get Out of Control

CITY DESTROYED

Miami, Fla., Sept. 14 — A second tropical disturbance, reported by weather bureau to be moving toward the Yucatan peninsula south of Belize, disrupted wireless service between the United States and Central America today.

A Pan-American Airways plane, which Sunday flew a party of newspaper correspondents and news pictures from to Belize, scene of last week's devastating hurricane, attempted unsuccessfully to make its return flight to Miami this morning.

The plane was turned back to Belize by bad weather and the situation there today was described as seven-fifteen o'clock and that everything was in good order at that time.

Wreckage Trail After Hurricane in Middle West

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 14.—A trail of wreckage today marked the course of a windstorm of hurricane proportions which caused property damage in excess of $3,000,000 in Milwaukee, Ozaukee, Wau Esha and Washington counties.

The storm burst out of the southwest late yesterday and swept out across Lake Michigan at a velocity of between 60 and 65 miles an hour. Twisted buildings, uprooted trees, broken powerlines, and clogged highways remained in its wake.

Many of the houses in that very section named after your local towns and page by a few who have faced drought for three years and more since 1928 in this very district. It is a time of disaster in which we hope for economic advancement, but God will use this great experience to promote sympathy between the East and West and to build up a better and stronger United Canada," said Dr. E. H. Oliver, Moderator of United Church of Layman's gathering at Albert College on Saturday and Sunday.

5-Year Holiday In Naval Plans Borah's Notion

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 14.—A five-year holiday in naval building by the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy is urged by Senator William E. Borah as a means of easing the heavy burden of taxation.

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee said he would like to see "an effort made to discontinue all naval construction for the Five Powers for the term of five years, or as long as could be secured."

DROWNS AFTER SAVING WOMAN

Heart Failure Given as Cause of Death of Ray Reid

Owen Sound, Ont., Sept. 14 (CP) —Ray Reid, 29, of this city, lost his life in the Georgian Bay at Wasaga Beach on Sunday afternoon, although he had succeeded in saving the life of Roxaine Warrilow, a member of his party, after she had gone in beyond her depth. A doctor from Stayner, who was summoned, attributed Reid's death to heart failure, life to asphyxiation and not to drowning.

Reid's wife sat helplessly on the shore while he went to the bottom. The body was recovered an hour and a half after it sank in shallow water.

Reid is survived by his wife, father, one brother and two sisters. There will be no inquest.

FATAL DASH THRU STORM

Three Men Lose Lives Carrying Pictures From Belize

Vero Beach, Fla., Sept. 14.—Racing northward through storms with news pictures of the damage wrought by the hurricane that devastated Belize, British Honduras, three men were killed last night when their airplane crashed at Cale, Fla., near here, it was learned. Dead: R. A. Edwards, 26, staff photographer for the Miami Daily Herald; Gerald H. Gibson, 30, chief pilot for the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service, Inc., and O. R. (Ros) McGroom, 22, co-pilot, all were from Miami.

In the face of threatening weather the plane left Miami early after dark with a package of pictures that had been transferred from a Pan-American plane from Belize. Heavy rain began falling shortly after its departure.

Some distance south of here the plane ran into a severe rain and electrical storm. Suddenly it fell from the sky. Residents who heard the crash said they believed the plane was struck by lightning.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ridgeombe spent the week end in Napanee.

Mr. James Roy, McDonald Ave., is seriously ill in the Belleville General Hospital.

Miss Stella M. Ford has returned to the city after spending a few days at Grove Lake.

Mr. Cleo Colling has left for Toronto to attend the College of Pharmacy, Toronto University.

Mrs Charles Greatrix, Catherine street, underwent a serious operation in the General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Colling are visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. Parliament and Hon. Nelson Parliament.

The condition of Mrs. Walter Gilson, who is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital is slightly improved.

Mrs. W. Hums, Windsor, is spending a few days in the city with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Jenkins.

Miss Grace Embury leaves today for Kingston to enter the training school for nurses at the General Hospital there.

Provincial Constable Byles accompanied by Mrs. Byles and family left Monday on a four days trip to Ottawa and other points east.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. C. Webster left Monday for Kingston to attend the wedding of Miss Margaret Randell, her room-mate for three years at Wells College, Aurora, at the summer cottage of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Randell at Shore Acres. Miss Findlay and her daughter came here from Ithaca, where they had been the guests of Miss Findlay's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Frank Bloomfield. Mrs. Findlay and her daughter here and return for her later, but not feeling well, decided to remain visiting for a while under the care of a local physician.

Sleeper had the loss covered with insurance, which in companies here were all hurt as they managed to get clear of the car before the flames got beyond control.

CARS IN COLLISION

A slight motor car accident happened at the corner of Front and Bridge street at one p.m. today. Officer Gore investigated the case and found that a Ford coach driven by Geo. Barlow of 262 Dundas street, was proceeding south on Front Street approaching the intersection of Bridge Street. A Plymouth sedan owned and driven by Mr. S. D. Frook of Bloomfield was proceeding north, on Front St., and in order to do the left at the traffic signal striking Mr. Barlow's car. The bumper was dislodged from the Ford and a few minor scratches were seen on the left front fender. Mr. Frook's car faired a little better in the matter of damage as the left front fender was only slightly damaged and the front bumper bent. The damage was settled between the parties and everyone seemed satisfied.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REOPENS

Mr. R. Brooks opened children were Bridge Street Church Sunday School held its opening session Sunday afternoon. The classes were held according to the grades and had the pleasure of hearing two very fine addresses. The first was by Miss Davidson, Missionary to the Inland Seller, while Rev. Geo. Leslie Kerr, China, also delivered a very fine address on the missionary work in China. The school Sunday will be open session in the Sunday School room, while the following Sunday will see their annual Rally Day.

CAR DAMAGED

Carter, a farmer residing near Frankford, who has been in custody since last Friday evening on the alleged charge of intoxication and also with the charge of driving a motor car, while in that condition, appeared in city police court this Monday morning to answer to both these charges. Irwin pleaded not guilty and was remanded in custody until Friday morning. In the meantime he was released from custody.

Obituary

LATE LA RUE BURLEY

The funeral of the late LaRue Burley was held Sunday from his late residence, 74 Pine Street, to Bethel United Church. Rev. Dr. A. E. McCutcheon conducted the service at the house while Rev. McNealy conducted the services at the church and at the grave. The many beautiful floral tributes and the largely attended funeral only partially filled the void existing in which the deceased was held in the communities in which he had lived. The bearers were: R. Larmer, B. Hazlewood, J. R. Bradley and A. Newman. Interment was made in Bethel cemetery.

JOHN EDGAR FINDLEY

Death came suddenly to John Edgar Findley, of New York City, a brother of J. R. Findley, of Foxboro, Belleville, at Jamestown, N.Y., where he was attending a meeting of education. The following account of Mr. Findley's death is taken from the Jamestown Morning Post of August 28:

John Edgar Findley, 59 years old, Mount Vernon, member of the Graduate Publishing Society, 2 West 45th Street, New York, a textbook and school supply house, died suddenly in his room at the Hotel Jamestown early yesterday morning from angina pectoris.

"Mr. Findley comes to Jamestown Monday evening with his daughter, Miss Edgarda Findley, who was visiting Miss Margaret Randell, her room-mate for three years at Wells College, Aurora, at the summer cottage of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Randell at Shore Acres. Miss Findley and her daughter came here from Ithaca, where they had been the guests of Miss Findley's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Frank Bloomfield. Mrs. Findley and her daughter here and return for her later, but not feeling well, decided to remain visiting for a while under the care of a local physician.

HURRICANE

Washington, D.C., Sept. 14.—The weather bureau today issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory No. 11. Tropical disturbance is central this morning about two hundred miles east-northeast of Belize, moving westward with slowly increasing intensity. It is attended by gales and probably winds of hurricane force near its center."

Terrible Feared

Boston, Mass., Sept. 14—The prediction that the population of hurricane-stricken Corpus Christi, Honduras, might get out of control with the arrival of 2,000 refugees reported today in a radio message from Geo. H. Bennett, general superintendent manager of the United Fruit Company Tela, Honduras, to Samuel Barrios, Guatemala, and he arrived in Belize yesterday morning.

Bennett's message to the United Fruit offices here today said:

"Belize is totally destroyed and there is great danger that the population will get out of control within the next two or three days. Authorities are trying to avert this but there is hardly any one left in Belize in order to organize relief action to function normally.

"Over 1,000 dead counted.

"Over 700 dead already have been counted and the official estimates are that the dead will reach 1,000. Authorities are no longer able to provide burial for the dead now being cremated.

"Fire has started in the labor quarters, and it is doubtful if the authorities will be able to control the flames."

In Mexico

Mexico City, Sept. 14 (CP)—Despatches from Guaymas, Sonora, said today that heavy rains accompanied by strong winds had swept the whole Sonora coast on the Gulf of California during the last 36 hours.

Two persons were injured in Guaymas in a gale that uncroofed houses Saturday night. Small craft plying in the harbor was damaged slightly and the Guaymas flight plane was temporarily put out of operation.

The city police department has been requested by the Peterboro police to be on the watch for a Pontiac coach, said to have been stolen in that city Saturday. The car bears license number E2943, is a 1927 model and blue in color.

COLORS IN CORN

John McPherson, of the fourth concession of the township of Sidney exhibited at the office of corn of the "Rainbow Pink" variety, there being ten ears of all colors of the rainbow, the colors being in different proportions. These ears are of great value, as they can be planted at least twelve inches long and the color stripe runs up to the name. Mr. McPherson has one acre of this corn. He also showed a sample of the massive ears of "Bloody Butcher," smilage corn, these being 12 to 14 inches long. One ear for example has eighteen rows and 40 kernels to the row. He has a large field of this corn.

PENSION BOARD SITS

Twenty-five cases will be heard by the Pension Tribunal of the Dominion of Canada, who are now sitting in the city Hall. There are four members of the board sitting and present in the council room. The members on the board are Brigadier General H. P. MacDonald, C.M.G., D.S.O., registrar; Major Leo Wards, Soldiers representative, J. A. McIsaac of Ottawa and Commissioner Counsel A. W. Pennington of Toronto. All meetings are open to the public as they can see exactly the work, that is being carried on by the Board. The members of the board will sit every day this week from Monday to Friday inclusive. All cases of this district will be heard at this sitting it was announced this morning.

FIRE DESTROYS CAR.

An unfortunate accident occurred early Saturday morning, when a car owned by Mr. Ed Sleeper of this city caught fire and was completely destroyed on the Jones' Creek Road, better known as the Forty Foot lane. The fire originated from the engine it is thought and before any help could be procured, the car was a mass of flames, and a complete loss. Mr.

EVANGELIST IS MARRIED

Aimee McPherson Acquires Her Third Husband

Los Angeles, Sailf., Sept. 14 — Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist of the "four-square" Gospel, and David Hutton, voice instructor of the Angelus Temple here, were married at dawn Sunday in a drizzling rain at the Yuma, Ariz., courthouse.

They left Los Angeles at 3 a.m. in a chartered airplane. At Yuma, Mrs. McPherson's followers had made ready for the ceremony.

After the brief service the wedding party re-entered the plane and flew back to Los Angeles in time for Mrs. McPherson to deliver a sermon at the regular Angelus Temple Sunday morning meeting. She was smiling, vigorous self, never once giving a hint to her large congregation that their famous leader had found a new love.

It was the third marriage for Mrs. McPherson. Her first husband, Rubar of Young Mrs. Roberta Semple Smythe, is dead. The second, Father Hoit McPherson, has remarried. Hutton, a jovial 250 pound man, was never wed before.

Mrs. McPherson received newspaper reporters in her beautiful home in the shadow of the temple since seven hours today. No interview is ever given at the McPherson residence without complications setting in.

The evangelist entered the room alone in a flowing white gown with a silver cross on the breast.

"We understand that complications are in order," she was told by the reporters.

"Yes," she smiled. "My Hutton and I were married in Yuma this morning and then hurried back to Los Angeles for the service. I feel quite proud of those who knew of the advance, keeping the secret so long."

She was asked why they went to Arizona instead of being married in Los Angeles.

Prosecute Alleged Film Combine in Ont.

Toronto, Sept. 14—Attorney-General William H. Price stated Sunday night that the Attorney-General of British Columbia had been in touch with him regarding the suggestion that Ontario should be added to the province in which to stage any prosecution that might be advised against the alleged Canadian motion-picture combine.

"Nothing, however, has been decided yet" said Colonel Price.

The report on which Ontario will base any action that may be taken has been under preparation for the past two months by R. H. Greer, K.C., and A. A. Humphries, solicitor to the Attorney-General's Department. It is expected that it will be filed with Colonel Price during the next few days.

AMUSEMENTS

"BAD GIRL" AT BELLE TENSE INSPIRING STORY

"Bad Girl," long-awaited Fox Film version of Vina Delmar's celebrated novel, opens at the Belle Theatre today for a two days engagement, matinee daily.

As the young heroine, James Dunn, recent recruit from the New York stage, makes what movie sojourns have called the screen's most impressive screen debut. Under Sure's adaptation of the story and its play-by-play direction of emphasis on the young husband as on the wife in the climax of adolescent love, marriage and maternity, recent colorful portrayals as "Quick Millions" and "The Black Camel," will be seen as the girl-bride heroine in the title role. Her characterization is the tensely dramatic and deeply emotional role is said easily to eclipse anything she has done before.

Briefly, the story deals with the meeting of a young man and a girl with a radio mechanic. They fall in love, rather too well than wisely and are forced into a hurried marriage. Then they find that an heir is coming.

Their joys, sorrows and emotional vicissitudes during the following months form the basis of the dramatic plot ensued. Minor effects the ever-present friend of the young wife.

Frank Borzage "rected the picture which is claimed ex be the most touching presentation of motherhood ever screened.

"BROADMINDED" IS TERRIFIC

"Broadminded" caused an unending stream of laughter from the immense audiences at the Capitol on Saturday.

No words can describe the antics of Joe E. Brown, and his facial contortions, assisted by the inspired mouth in existence, they are most weird and wonderful. How it is possible that Warner ever left the jungle is a wonder to the writer.

We see the opening scene of a baby party, the participants being the parents of the baby, special guests are missing, and when they arrive, "Broadminded" starts. The scene was William Collier Jr. and his charge, all dressed up in baby clothes with a bottle for companionship. The baby wagon refuses to function properly and E. Brown, calling for his "mama"! The party is raided, and the two escape, with William getting into hot water with a Chinese Charley a Baby Austin, the two fellows, who are cousins, beat it to the city and when they arrive they must certainly be seen to be enjoyed.

"Broadminded" is showing today for the last time.

CABINET REORGANIZATION? Ottawa, Sept. 12.—Some reorganization of the Dominion Cabinet, says the Globe, is expected before Parliament meets in the new year on account of the prospective appointment of Hon. Murray MacLaren, Minister of Pensions and National Health, and the possible retirement from the Cabinet of Hon. Edmund B. Sycamore, the Minister of National Revenue.

It has been estimated that half the cost of building roads and streets and maintaining them in the United States, is paid by taxes on motor vehicle owners.

It is estimated that there are nearly 4,000,000 boys and girls of high school age not in schools in the United States.

VAUDEVILLE IS FEATURE OF KARNIVAL

Three Acts Secured For Each Night of Karnival

BEST IN YEARS

Chairman Geo. Forhan Recommends Vaudeville to Patrons

Vaudeville has always been an interesting feature of previous Kiwanis Karnival's but this year, the committee believes the best programme, that has ever been offered to patrons of the Karnival, has been assured. George Forhan, manager of the Belle Theatre and also chairman of the programme committee with his energetic committee have searched the vaudeville booking centres for the best and they believe something good will be on the boards.

The committee had the advantage of the off year in the theatrical business and secured acts, that in normal times would have cost nearly the price of the whole week's entertainment. There will be three acts of vaudeville given on the stage each night of the Karnival excepting Saturday, when the committee have arranged for some local stunts, that will bring forth gales of laughter.

Mr. Forhan has arranged attractive programmes for each night of the Karnival and will have entertainment, games and joy to please all tastes. Watch this newspaper for daily announcements of Karnival Programmes.

ENTERTAINMENT WHOLESOME FUN CAN BE HAD

Publicity Chairman Says Kiwanis Karnival Will Please

BIGGER AND BETTER

Although Times Are Not Good, Yet Fine Program is Arranged

Kiwanis Karnival time is eagerly looked forward to by an ever increasing number of people each year—for it makes a real week of fun and entertainment that cannot be surpassed by any similar public admission fee that is charged. This year we freely realize, that conditions are different and more acute than at any time in the history of the Kiwanis Karnival, yet it is these very conditions that make it more necessary than ever that success should attend our efforts in even larger measure—for the welfare work our club has planned for the coming season, depends on unlimited support, and it is indeed a large one.

The Kiwanis Club sincerely asks your patronage from this point alone for our slogan "More than your money's worth," holds good this year as never before and we feel that no apologies are necessary when we say come Monday night and come every night in the Karnival this week.

F. R. WOTTEN
Chairman Publicity.

OUR MOTTO AS OUR IDEAL "WE BUILD"

(Written by George Griffin)

Kiwanis is a great organization and will stand only if this organization is true to its original character. A real Kiwanis Club is more than a group of good fellows. It must be even more than an aggregation of several men from each line of business and professional life. A Club without the soul of personal service and idealism cannot live.

Our whole structure is based on the fact that we are organized for the purpose of giving personal service to others who have not the privileges and advantages that we have and that we as Kiwanians have the opportunity of better serving the public and our community either singly or in groups, by reason of the fact that we belong to the Kiwanis organization.

"We Build" is our terse and expressive motto, but the essential meaning of Kiwanis as you know it is not found only in the material results of its building. The Club that devotes itself to material accomplishments only, and that leaves behind a record of work done for the material welfare of its community, serves well its time and place it is true; but Club be it Rotary, Y's Men or Kiwanis whose ideal of service creates in its membership a higher conception of individual responsibility to its community, a conception of neighborliness as expressed in the spirits of service in the ordinary, every day affairs of life. That Kiwanis Club has built the true substitute of its fellowmen.

We not build bodies, minds and ideal. We must build better homes, better schools, better cities and a greater Canada. We must build in strength of limb as well as in morals, and in character as well as in health as well as in strength of masonry, in beauty of thought as well as architecture. This Kiwanis is endeavoring to do, through sports among teen age boys, by way of base-ball, hockey, swimming and other contest sponsored by the Club. Through scholarships awarded through the schools, through the unbiased direction of public opinion in civic matters, which requires careful and fair minded consideration.

No Service Club as yet has reached the point of perfection; but with the ideal ever before us we cannot help but gain ever course in the right direction. No community on earth is perfect but a good Kiwanian will do all in his power to make his City the best possible place in which to live. He will see many things which should be done to make his community better for all in order to do this he will be expected to bear criticism, make sacrifices of time by serving in City Councils or on Board of Education, to help his Church, his Lodge and other organizations by taking office and it is taking office gives the best that he has in wisdom; careful thought and fair minded execution of his responsibilities.

Kiwanis has during the past eight years endeavored to do its duty to the community. Its members as a whole have taken a personal responsibility in the affairs of the community in civic offices, in the Y.M.C.A., the community Boy's Camp, the Victorian Order of Nurses as well as sports of various kind. During the present year Kiwanis has been responsible for the forming of a splendid Sea Cadet Corps in the City, where about forty boys are being trained in Seamanship, rowing, life saving, boat work, etc., giving them a generally useful course but the most important part of the training being given through the officers and the Sea Commandize, is to see that this group of splendid boys is trained to go out into the world, in any occupation, as honest, upright courageous young men, ready to help others along the road of life. The greatest amount of money available spent on uniforms, equipment alone, will not achieve what personal leadership is bound to produce in the future welfare and citizens of this splendid group of boys.

"FRIEND" GROWERS SUPPLY CO.
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO

A Kiwanian who is giving personal service becomes a more enthusiastic Kiwanian because of the knowledge and experience gained thereby and the discovery that he is of real value in the life of the community in which he lives; and thus with every little effort he becomes a useful link in the mighty chain of workers who call themselves Kiwanians, for the goal of Kiwanis and good Citizenship are one and the same thing. To be a good friend and a good neighbor, ready to co-operate but not necessarily to lose the identity of his own personality, position, to be a leader and yet to work with others, that is the true spirit of service and worthwhile citizenship.

If I were asked what I consider the greatest benefit I have received while serving the Kiwanis Club as Secretary since the Club was formed in 1923, I would answer, "The friends I have made and the greater understanding of the viewpoint of our fellowmen and his problems in a manner will the problems of life would be solved. We can change our present life but little; but our great hope is in our ability as Kiwanians to mould the life and outlook of the growing youth of our city by our business experience and our vocational guidance as well as our living example.

Builders are we all—builders of thought and character—builders of institutions, and though we labor with different material and in various ways, the work of each individual is essential to the complete structure we are attempting to complete.

Service Clubs are sometimes apt to measure themselves by the amount of money they raise. To me the greatest achievement is through the members themselves, who by that constant urge, go out into his business life, to their homes their Churches and other Clubs, endeavoring to carry out the ideals which are constantly placed before them through Club programs.

If our ideal is reached, or nearly reached, in the successful operation of our Club, then the material things are bound to follow with greater success than ever before anticipated.

KIWANIS AS A COMMUNITY ENTERPRISE

Written by George P. Cole, President of Belleville Kiwanis Club.

Each year the Kiwanis Club comes before the public seeking co-operation to put across their Kiwanis Karnival which incidentally is staged each year to put into effect a major portion of the money spent by the Kiwanis Club on Public Welfare in this city. Each year the loyalty of the citizens of Belleville, through their splendid co-operation and patronage have spurred the members of Kiwanis on to further achievements.

From all walks of life we hear the kind expressions, from those who help us, some way have seen the benefits of what the Service Clubs of this City are endeavoring to do for those who are less fortunate than we, or through misfortune are temporarily thrown in to the position of needing assistance the Welfare Work of this city through the KIWANIS CLUB.

WHITE SOX WORK HARD FOR RUNS

On Saturday and Sunday Played 46 Innings Won 2 Games

CARDS ADVANCE

St. Louis Win Double Header, While Giants Split Even

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr. Associated Press Sports Writer).

The American League has teams that are better than the Chicago White Sox and a few that are even less successful, but there is none to dispute the Sox claim of working harder than any other team for their victories.

Chicago played four games on Saturday and Sunday, struggling through 46 innings, and the best they could get out of it was two victories. The second game of each doubleheader ended in a tie. After bealing the New York Yankees in 13 innings Saturday, they played a ten inning 13-13.

Yesterday Chicago downed the Boston Red Sox 6 to 5 in the opener behind Red Faber's effective relief pitching, then went 15 frames to a 2-2 draw. The Massachusetts Sunday law finally hauled the struggle. Pat Caraway, who took over the mound job in the ninth, had a narrow escape when he filled the bases in the final inning but managed to retire the side.

Long Distance Battles

The New York Yankees come closer than any other team to threatening Chicago's long distance record. After the two overtime battles with the White Sox, the Yanks played a third extra inning game in the first half of yesterday's double header, going twelve frames to defeat the Detroit Tigers 2 to 1. Homers by Combs and Al Alexander produced the only runs off George Uhle and Vernon Gomez in the regular time. With Elon Hogsett pitching for Detroit in the twelfth Tony Lazzeri reached third on a walk, a steal and an infield out, then made a clean steal of home for the winning run.

Lou Gehrig's 43rd homer of the season made it possible for the Yanks to win the second game in nine innings, 4 to 3. The homer came off four hits off Earl Whitehill, came with one on in the sixth and provided the winning run.

Alvin Crowder gave Washington an easy triumph over th Cleveland Indians in the runaway American league game, Crowder allowed Cleveland only five hits and made three himself to win 7 to 1.

Philadelphia and St. Louis were idle.

National League

Chicago's Cubs provided the big thrill of the National League programme although the St. Louis Cardinals took another long step toward clinching the pennant. The Cubs won the first game from the Boston Braves, 11 to 7, when Manager Rogers Hornsby went in as a pinch hitter in the eleventh inning and clouted a home run. Guy Bush completed the string of five straight victories, that established the Cubs firmly in third place, when he pitched his second one-hit game of the year to win the second clash 9 to 1.

The Cards gained a full game on the second place New York Giants, making their margin nine games as they defeated the Phillies 6 to 3 and 7 to 2 behind the brilliant pitching of Paul Derringer and Bill Hallahan. Each pitcher recorded his 17th victory of the season, Derringer allowing six hits and Hallahan nine. Two home runs two homers featured the second game.

Giants Split

The Giants ran into a severe setback at Cincinnati, when Larry Benton bested Bill Walker in a mound duel, that marked the first game of a double header. The Reds secured the only run of the game in the ninth inning as they made seven hits to five for New York. The Giants hammered out an early lead against Benny Frey in the second game and won 9 to 4 as Fred Fitzsimmons pitched a five hit game.

Fred Heimach of Brooklyn threat ened the National League fielding record for pitchers as he handled ten chances in a game with Pittsburgh. The league record is eleven. He also came out with a 5 to 3 victory as the Robins rallied for three runs off Glenn Spencer in the ninth.

$125,000 LOSS AT CHAPLEAU

Saw Mill at Nicholson's Siding Burned Along With Three Stores

Chapleau, Ont., Sept. 14.—(By The Canadian Press)—Fire early yesterday completely destroyed a sawmill at Nicholson's Siding, on the Canadian Pacific Railway near here, along with four storehouses full of camp equipment and three dwellings. Only the efforts of employees of the Company, Austin and Nicholson, Ltd., and of people of the settlement, prevented further destruction. Loss will be in the neighborhood of $125,000.

Sparks from the planing mill refuse burner of the Company, fanned by a strong southwest wind, are believed by officials to have caused the fire. The sawmill was soon a roaring mass of flame and the adjacent lumber yard and the C.P.R. Station were also menaced.

Fire fighters were handicapped, when the flames consumed a fire pump on the property. Two lines of hose from an auxiliary plant at the planing mill were brought into action. Provincial Fire Rangers lent their aid, and almost every inhabitant in the community turned out to form a bucket brigade in an effort to prevent the conflagration from spreading.

The C.P.R. sent a special train with a water tank car and brought two Government Forest Fire service pumps from Chapleau when the flames threatened their property. With this additional equipment, the blaze was brought under control with the lumber yard and planing mill saved.

The mill was erected in 1916. According to George B. Nicholson, if had been closed for the past season, after operating continuously since completion. Were will probably be resumed at the planing mill shortly. It was only slightly damaged.

Rumanian State Railways have also launched a program of extensions.

6 Month Term For Illegal Liquor Sale

Orrillia, Sept. 14.—Empasizing the fact that the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor was a serious crime, Magistrate McCaughrin, Saturday sentenced George Hill, aged 24, of Orillia, to six months' imprisonment. For one year, the magistrate added, the premises occupied by the Hill family would be classified "A public place" within the meaning of the liquor control act. Commenting on the conflicting testimony, the magistrate concluded that there was ground for perjury charges being laid against Hill and several of his witnesses. Following the magistrate's announcement of decision, Hill's counsel, James G. Harvie, served verbal notice of appeal and requested bail, which the magistrate refused to grant without the approval of Crown Attorney F. G. Evans, who was not in court.

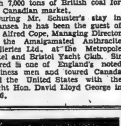
MARVEL BROWN

While sitting in his favorable chair on Sunday evening Marvel Brown of the 3rd Concession of Thurlow died late Sunday afternoon. Mr. Brown was born on the farm, where he died 83 years ago. He has lived there all of his life and his many friends were shocked to hear of his passing. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John A. Brown and his father had operated the farm for years previous. Mr. Brown was a member of the Bethesda United Church and he leaves to mourn three daughters and sons, Mrs. Geo. F. Hamilton, Thurlow Township, Mrs. John Morris, Brampton, and Mrs. Ross Irwin, Belleville. Two grandchildren Elson Morris of Brampton and John Irwin of this city.

PHOEBE JANE BANCOTT

After an illness of some length Phoebe Jane Lovelace, beloved wife of James A. Bancott passed away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Grant Wannamaker, Mountain View, Mrs. Bancott was born in Prince Edward County, 85 years ago being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Lovelace. She has been residing with her daughter at Mountain View for the past five years and those who knew her regret her demise. Mrs. Bancott was a member of the United Church in which she took an active part in her earlier life, she leaves to mourn, besides her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Grant Wannamaker, of Mountain View, two brothers, Rufus Lovelace and Elkron Lovelace both of Bloomfield, Ont.

ROBERT SAMUEL WHALEN



After an illness of some considerable length Robert Samuel Whalen of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Whalen, passed away at the home of his parents, 14 Hillside Street, Saturday evening. Little "Bobby" as he was known to the many friends who had learned to love him, was but six years and three months old. Besides his parents he leaves to mourn his loss one sister, Margaret, at home. The funeral will be held from the home this afternoon.

SAILS ON COAL BOAT WITH BRITISH CARGO

During Mr. Schuster's stay in Swansea he has been the guest of Sir Alfred Cope, Managing Director of the Amalgamated Anthracite Collieries Ltd., at the Metropole Hotel and Bristol Yacht Club. Sir Alfred is one of England's noted business men and toured Canada and the United States with the Hight Hon. David Lloyd George in 1926.

Grapes ARE BOUNTIFUL and CHEAP

NOT in years have grapes been so cheap, so large and luscious. They're plentiful this season. Thrifty housewives are taking full advantage of their opportunity. Those who know Certo make a further week-while saving in time and money by using "that extra something" that's the way to delicious jams and jellies. You'll find several delightful methods of using grapes in the Certo recipe booklet under the label of every Certo bottle.

Use CERTO—Here's Why

—It is fruit pectin.

—The natural jellying substance extracted from fruit.

—Jells the juice that would have boiled away by the old (long-boil) method.

—30% more jam or jelly at less cost per jar.

—Saves ½ the time. Saves the fruit flavour. Saves the fruit colour.

—Makes every kind of jam or jelly any month in the year at a saving of one to three cents per glass from fresh, dried or canned fruit or fruit juice, including varieties that never before would jell.

Look for the Certo recipe booklet under the label of every Certo bottle. Follow directions exactly and success is assured.

Should any problem of jam or jelly making perplex you, or should you desire more information whatsoever, write as the Gravenor Service Department, General Foods Limited, Cobourg, Ont.

KIWANIAN'S MESSAGE

A Message from J. W. "Davey" Davison, General Chairman of Kiwanis Karnival.

Another year has rolled around and again the Kiwanis Club is preparing for a week of entertainment for the residents of the city and district. I heartily recommend this year's Karnival to both young and old, knowing that all will see something worthwhile as well as finding enjoyment in the midway, that will be provided. This Karnival is not a haphazard event but an incident in the life of Belleville, that should be patronized to the fullest. The Kiwanis Club each year undertakes some philanthropic work, especially trying to assist under privileged children but it requires revenue and only from the residents can this revenue come. Kiwanis members with the help of Kiwanian Queens have given of their time and ability to make this year's show a success. Novel features have been arranged but it would be well not to tell the secret. Suffice is to say there will be vaudeville of the highest quality, a fashion show that will be a delight, and a midway that is sure to please. We believe as members of the Kiwanis Club, the annual Karnival is getting bigger and certainly better. The price of admission has not been changed, it is still 15 cents and that money takes in all the way through. So come out on Monday night and also every night of the week and in helping the Karnival you are helping some child in the enjoyment of comforts and pleasures previously denied.

J. W. "Davey" Davison,
General Chairman of Kiwanis Karnival Committee

GAMES SECTION WILL BE A FEATURE OF ANNUAL KARNIVAL

Chairman Geo. A. Lee Has Promised Quality Merchandise

NEW GAMES

Interest Will Not Be Allowed to Fag During Week

Step right up ladies and gentlemen and take home a beautiful cushion, a set of dishes or an award from the Bingo game. These are familiar words and will be heard again in the game section of the Kiwanis Karnival, which opens Monday night for the public's entertainment. George A. Lee past president of the club, and chairman of the games, since the Karnival idea was first conceived by the Kiwanis Club, is again at the helm and promises this year some new and novel in the line of merchandise that can be scanned by all.

I certainly appreciate the support, that has been given the games section in years past but this year the patrons can expect something more elaborate and expensive in the way of awards from the different wheels. The articles have all been purchased by me and my committee, the majority of the merchandise being looked over personally and can recommend its quality. Something new in merchandise will be given this year but come and see for yourself. The Kiwanis Club spends a great deal of money each year in community work and a great deal of that revenue comes from the midway attractions or wheels. It is only slight cost to each customer but the total revenue is what counts. Give the wheels a play as there will be efficient help in the booths and if you are a winner, the award will be worthwhile.

GEORGE A. LEE,
Chairman Games Com.

MAYOR REID WILL OPEN THE KARNIVAL TONIGHT

The great show is away to a start tonight. At 7 on Bridge St. Worship Mayor Reid will push the button that will formally open the much-looked for Kiwanis Karnival of 1931. After these formalities, are over the style parade of Autumn fashions in review will commence. Nineteen (19) Limited Girls, chosen to start the style of show and no doubt this popular style show will, as usual, present a dazzling and exclusive array of parading beauty. They have been busy gathering from the most authentic sources, along with this there will be bats from Woodley and beautiful jewelry adornments by Angus McPee.

The vaudeville tonight is of the very best and most entertaining character, and will be interspersed with the Style Show.

In former years there has been a hustle and bustle around the midway in a vain effort to be ready for the opening performance, but not so this year. The whole show could have been started at noon today as far as being ready is concerned. The midway is beautifully decorated. —The booths were never so splendidly arranged and the games are full to overflowing with wonderful merchandise for awards.

Two prizes of $5.00 each will be awarded each night, the first on the door prize drawn for at 10 o'clock every night. The other will be a prize guessing contest. The person guessing nearest the correct total selling prices of the garments displayed will receive a $5.00 cash prize the following evening.

Explosion in Motor is Cause of Crash

MONDOU, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The crash of the French aeroplane Hyphen II. in which Joseph Le Brix and Rene Mesmin lost their lives was attributed to a flaw discovered from Ufa today to an explosion in the motor, the nature of which was not given.

Marcel Doret, the only one to escape death, was expected to start for Moscow shortly with the bodies of his companions. Authorities of Bashkir Republic have directed local officials to embalm the bodies and preserve the wreckage of the plane.

The accident was said to have occurred in a meadow near the River Tanip in the Laktasin district but complete details still were lacking.

GOOD WORK OF KIWANIS

Belleville Kiwanis Club is an institution which may well be rated among the living assets of the city. It is composed of progressive young business men who seek through the medium of Kiwanis to advance the interests of the city and its citizens. Much good work has been done, quietly and unostentatiously as such work should be done, and not one-tenth of the good which Kiwanis has done or is doing ever reaches the publication stage, for very obvious reasons.

Through the encouragement and financial assistance of the Kiwanis Club the Victorian Order of Nurses work here was made possible. Then there are many other avenues in which the club works, particularly in the helping of what is called "underprivileged childhood" to the best handicaps not of their making. Many good deeds are done and many who have felt the sting of misfortune have been quietly helped over the rough places by the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

The annual Kiwanis Karnival has for its object the raising of funds to carry out the philanthropies of the club and the patronage of the citizens of Belleville and vicinity is certainly appreciated.

Belleville Kiwanis Club is officered this year as follows:

President, Geo. P. Cole; Immediate Past President, Jos. W. Imlah; Vice President, A. Bernard Collins; Secretary-Treasurer, George H. Griffin; Trustees, Jos. W. Imlah; Board of Directors, J. W. Davison, F. S. Deacon, T. H. Dolan, E. S. Fahey, C. J. Forban, Ross Hunter, Rev. E. A. McCutcheon, F. R. Wotten.

Viceroy Deplores Slayings in India

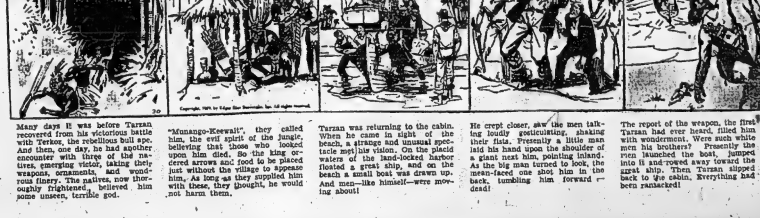
Youths Led Astray

Simla, India, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Viceroy Earl Willingdon, addressing both Houses of the Indian Legislature, said today that the eyes of all India were fixed on the Round Table Conference in London where Mahatma Gandhi is leading the fight for independence.

He deplored recent slayings of Britishers and attempted slayings. "These outrages were mostly committee by immature youths," he said, who at the most impressionable and susceptible part of their lives are being cleverly exploited through the writings of revolutionary men with murderous designs.

"I am confident that my Government can rely on the support of the honorable Members of the Legislature to stamp out these terrorist activities which are destroying the fair name of India," Earl Willingdon said.

Austrian Prince is Accused of Plotting



Vienna, Austria, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Prince Starhemberg was arrested today at Wiener-Neustadt Castle and will be charged with complicity in yesterdays putsch against the Austrian Government. Dr. Pfrimer was reported to be still at large but sought by authorities.

England's smallest colony, Rutland, is growing smaller, the population this year being 17,207, which is nearly 1,000 less than 10 years ago.

TARZAN OF THE APES, No. 30. (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Many days it was before Tarzan recovered from his victorious battle with Terkoz, the rebellious bull ape. And then, one day, he had another encounter with three of the natives, emerging victor, taking their weapons, ornaments, and wondrous finery. The natives, now thoroughly frightened, believed him some unseen, terrible god.

"Munango-Kewwah", they called him, the evil spirit of the jungle, believing that those who looked upon him died. So the king ordered arrows and food to be placed just without the village to appease him, as long as they supplied him with these, they thought, he would not harm them.

Tarzan was returning to the cabin. When he came in sight of the beach, a strange and unusual spectacle met his vision. On the placid waters of the land-locked harbor floated a great ship, and on the beach a small boat was drawn up. And men—like himself—were moving about!

He crept closer, saw the men talking loudly gesticulating, shaking their fists. Presently a little man laid his hand upon the shoulder of a giant next him, pointing inland. As the big man turned to look, the mean-faced one shot him in the back, tumbling him forward—dead!

The report of the weapon, the first Tarzan had ever heard, filled him with wonderment. Were such white men his brothers? Presently the rein launched the boat, jumped into it and rowed away toward the great ship. Then Tarzan slipped back to the cabin. Everything had been ransacked!

GRAPPLER IS DEAD, BLOOD-POISON FATAL

Showman of Ring Stasiak Passes Away in Belleville

HURT SEPT. 3

Sporting World Mourning Giant Polish Wrestler

Stanley Stasiak, arch-villain of the wrestling mat, is dead.

The "Polish-American Giant," whom thousands came to boo and remained to cheer, died in hospital at Belleville last night from septicaemia.

On September 3 Stasiak injured an arm in a wrestling bout in Toronto with Don George. Septic poisoning set in and his condition grew worse. The infection spread from the arm which he used in the mat contest.

Stasiak was on his way to Montreal when the fatal illness developed. He was admitted to the Belleville hospital last Monday and operated upon Thursday in an effort to check the poisoning. But a rumor was circulated that he was dead, but wrestling enthusiasts cheered when the rumor was denied.

Wife at Bedside

Over the week end he weakened. For 48 hours he raved in delirium. Then the end came peacefully. Mrs. Stasiak and Ivan Mickalski were at his side.

Outside the hospital his two police dogs waited for the master who would never return.

With his passing, many a Canadian youngster will feel pangs of real regret. Stanley was a villain of the deepest dye in the wrestling ring. He bolted, gouged and twisted, while at the same time he groaned and agonized in agony as his adversaries reciprocated.

But at heart Stasiak was as tender as the children he loved. Many a time youngsters had entered the ring to watch their idol in action, only to find their friend train. And on each occasion some ground keeper was invited to hop into the ring with Stasiak. Strangely enough, Stasiak's youngster had no difficulty at all in subduing the 240 pound wrestler. A real "went to the mat" under the impetus of perhaps 90 pounds of boy. He groaned and squirmed as the proud youngsters worked on him. He beat the canvas and clutched his hair as the youngsters applied the toe hold and headlocks. And the boys loved "Stasy."

Stasiak began wrestling in Canada. Some years ago, the Polish grappler made his appearance in a Toronto ring. His friend, Ivan Mickalski, promoted the matches. A hard struggle to make ends meet. The public had no interest in wrestling, so to witness the behemoths of the ring.

Booed by Crowds

But with Stasiak's appearance things changed. The marvellous showmanship of the big wrestler attracted them. Stasiak was the popular with those early crowds. For the public appeared to love "trick and step back" of boxing, couldn't fathom the subtleties of wrestling with its pauses and flying tackles. They "booed" Stasiky long and heartily. As he waded through his opposition their antipathy increased. They came to see him beaten. Each victory was received with roars of booing.

Time went on. Stasiak himself loved the booing. He bared his teeth at the crowd, threw his chest out in the manner Stasiak stood, and shook his fists at the spectators. Wrestling drew large crowds. The Arena, where formerly 300 people had sat in silence, overflowed with the cheers of thousands. And Stasiak was responsible for it all. He was the ever-colorful showman.

The boos changed to cheers in time. For behind all the grimaces and clowning of the ring, Stasiak was himself just a big boy at heart. He played always a practical joke on his opponents and many a Toronto sports writer has been the butt of Stasiak's humor.

Born in Warsaw

Born in Warsaw, Poland, July 2, 1895, Stasiak, who was considered one of the veterans of the mat, actually was wrestling only 11 years. He came to this country when he was 22 years of age, and being mechanically inclined, he went to work in an automobile plant in Flint, Mich. At this time he was a giant in stature, nearly 100 pounds heavier than he was at his death. But he wasn't quite as muscular.

On a holiday he visited Detroit, and attended the circus. In those days it was the habit all circus performers to challenge the strongest man in the audience. So when Stasiak was asked to meet all comers, giving a certain amount if they stayed a certain number of minutes, and remaining the money the longer they remained on their shoulders.

Stasiak ventured into the ring. Up to that time he knew little of the art of wrestling, but he loaned the circus man to 35 seconds, and the boss of the show hired Stasiak to take the place of the man he beat. This was in 1919. For three months he travelled with the circus and never was whipped, but he lost 70 pounds, felt better and went into wrestling in earnest, and for what money he could get.

He met Ivan Mickalski who was wrestling and promoting, and they travelled all over the country. In 1921 he went to Cuba and won the championship of Havana, giving up a good sweat, so he claimed.

Started in Auto Factory

Boston, Mass., Sept. 14—Stanley Stasiak, Polish wrestler, who died last night from blood poisoning in a Belleville hospital, was known in this section as a great gladiator and a rugged trial horse for champions. Being six feet two and one-half inches in height and carrying 245 pounds when in his prime, he was considered a very formidable opponent.

Stasiak, whose real name was Ignacy Josef Stasiak, came to the United States from Kalisz, Poland. He first worked in an automobile factory in Detroit, where his tremendous strength was noticed and he was induced to make a bid for mat honors.

After vanquishing Wladek and Stanley Zbyszko in 1923, he claimed the championship of Poland.

In 1926 he was named New England champion and later failed in his attempt to annex world titles, after gaining one fall, he weakened under the headlock of the British champion, Ed "Strangler" Lewis.

In 1927 he announced that he was to be married to Mrs. Isabelle Savoy Mocarski of Boston, but that the nuptials were contingent on his defeating Curt Sarpolis in a coming bout. He won in short order and the next day he was married.

CARBONEAR'S THIRD BLAZE

Newfoundland Town Is Again Visited By Fire

St. John's Nfld., Sept. 14.—Carbonear is counting its third heavy fire loss of the year this morning as a result of a blaze which broke out about 4.15. It destroyed four residences, a warehouse, a studio and two stores, and damaged the telephone exchange of the United Towns Electric Company.

It was the third time this year Carbonear has experienced serious losses through fire. Firemen battled the flames more than three hours before gaining control. The origin of the blaze is unknown.

Following is a list of buildings destroyed: H. A. Cammon's residence, warehouse of W. Tucker & Son, two houses owned by F. P. Coffi and a tailor shop also owned by him, residence and studio of H. Hoote.

The Telephone Exchange of the United Towns Electric Company, which supplies Conception Bay with light and power, was damaged by the flames.

CARD OF THANKS

IN MEMORIAM

SINE—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Matilda Sine, who passed away Sept. 13, 1929.

I cannot say, and I will not say
That he is dead—She is just away.

With a cheery smile, and a wave of her hand
She has wandered into an unknown land
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since she lingers there.

Think of her still as the same, I say,
She is not dead—she is just away.

Daughter Maud.
